About this edition

Text. The Lalitā Sahasranāma of the Brahmāṇḍa Purāṇa (Uttara-khaṇḍa), the dialogue of Hayagrīva and Agastya, divided into 1,000 names as Bhāskararāya divides them in the Saubhāgyabhāskara. The base is the stotra text this site has published since it began (sanskritdocuments.org), corrected name by name. It was checked against an independently published copy of the same recension (the `hindu-devotional-texts` package, Devanagari) and against the metre: every half-śloka of an anuṣṭubh has 16 syllables, and all 366 half-lines here do, so no akṣara is missing or extra.

What was corrected. Misspelt names, names split or joined wrongly, a name whose second half had been moved into its meaning (454), names shown under the wrong śloka on the website (ślokas 41–42, 53–56, 104–105, 117–120, 125–126, 144–145 and 182–183), English meanings that had drifted from their names, and word-by-word tables built by a dictionary rather than by grammar. Every substantive change is listed in Appendix A with its reason. Where two good readings exist, the one this text has always printed is kept unless it is wrong, and the other is recorded in Appendix B.

Numbering. The names fill 182½ ślokas; the second half of śloka 183 (एवं श्रीललितादेव्या नाम्नां साहस्रकं जगुः) closes the hymn. Some names exist only because of Bhāskararāya's division and are kept as he counts them: tat · tvam · ayī (425–427, from तत्त्वमयी), sādhu · ī (711–712, from साध्वी), brahma · jananī (822–823) and dharā · dharasutā (955–956). The nyāsa, dhyāna and colophon are not numbered among the names. No phalaśruti is printed here, because the source does not contain one.

How to read an entry. Each śloka is given in Devanagari and IAST, with its names listed by number. Each name then has: Sandhi viccheda, the sound changes inside the name undone; Samāsa vigraha, the compound type and the traditional analysing sentence (vigraha-vākya), with how its members relate; a word-by-word table with one grammatical unit per row in its underlying form; the complete meaning; and a short note on its traditional significance. These are different things and are kept apart: the table is literal, the meaning follows the grammar, and the significance is interpretation. The hyphens in the IAST are reading aids placed only where the word can be cut without changing a letter. 129 interpretations that are disputed or could not be confirmed are marked UNCERTAIN and listed in Appendix B.

What this is not. It is not a translation of the Saubhāgyabhāskara, and it does not attribute a reading to Bhāskararāya or any other authority unless the attribution is secure. Readers who need the commentary itself should read it; this edition is a careful guide to the words.

śrīmātā śrīmahārājñī śrīmatsiṃhāsaneśvarī |
cidagnikuṇḍasambhūtā devakāryasamudyatā || 1 ||

NAMES IN THIS ŚLOKA

1. श्रीमाता śrī-mātā
2. श्रीमहाराज्ञी śrī-mahā-rājñī
3. श्रीमत्सिंहासनेश्वरी śrīmat-siṃhāsaneśvarī
4. चिदग्निकुण्डसम्भूता cid-agni-kuṇḍa-sambhūtā
5. देवकार्यसमुद्यता deva-kārya-samudyatā

Names 1–3 each open with śrī/śrīmat and are traditionally read together as creation, maintenance and dissolution; names 4–5 begin the Purāṇic account of Her appearance from the fire for the gods' task.

1 श्रीमाता śrī-mātā

SANDHI VICCHEDA

No sound change inside the name; the members stand as written.

SAMĀSA VIGRAHA

karmadhāraya (śrī as qualifying/honorific first member); alternatively ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa

श्रीः माता श्रीमाता (श्रीः च असौ माता च); अथवा श्रियः माता श्रीमाता

śrīḥ mātā śrīmātā (śrīḥ ca asau mātā ca); athavā śriyaḥ mātā śrīmātā

Two analyses are current, and both make mātā 'mother' the head. As a karmadhāraya, śrī stands in apposition to mātā: 'the Mother who is Śrī', i.e. auspicious, glorious, the source of all prosperity. As a ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa, śrī is the goddess Śrī (Lakṣmī): 'the mother of Śrī'. Śrī and mātā are simply juxtaposed; there is no sound change.

SANSKRIT COMPONENT	IAST	LITERAL ENGLISH MEANING
श्री	śrī	auspiciousness, glory, splendor; also the goddess Śrī (Lakṣmī)
माता	mātā	mother — nominative singular of the stem mātṛ

COMPLETE MEANING She who is the auspicious Mother

SPIRITUAL SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally the first three names are read together as the three cosmic functions: as Mother She brings forth the worlds (sṛṣṭi), as Empress She sustains them (sthiti), and as Sovereign of the lion-throne She withdraws them (saṃhāra). She is Mother even of Lakṣmī and Sarasvatī.

> UNCERTAIN Two compound analyses are current: karmadhāraya ('the auspicious Mother') and ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa ('Mother of Śrī/Lakṣmī'). The meaning follows the first; the second is given in the samāsa note.

2 श्रीमहाराज्ञी śrī-mahā-rājñī

SANDHI VICCHEDA

No sound change inside the name; the members stand as written.

SAMĀSA VIGRAHA

karmadhāraya (with an inner karmadhāraya)

महती राज्ञी महाराज्ञी; श्रीः महाराज्ञी श्रीमहाराज्ञी

mahatī rājñī mahārājñī; śrīḥ mahārājñī śrīmahārājñī

Inner layer: mahatī rājñī 'the great queen'. In a karmadhāraya the feminine adjective mahatī takes its masculine stem (puṃvadbhāva, Pāṇini 6.3.42), and mahat then becomes mahā- before a co-referential member (6.3.46 ān mahataḥ samānādhikaraṇa-jātīyayoḥ): mahā-rājñī. Rājñī is the feminine of rājan 'king' and is the head. Outer layer: śrī qualifies mahārājñī as in name 1. These are morphological replacements, not sound-sandhi; the members meet without phonetic change.

श्री	śrī	auspicious, glorious (honorific)
महत्	mahat	great — appears as mahā- in a karmadhāraya (Pāṇini 6.3.46)
राज्ञी	rājñī	queen — feminine of rājan 'king'

COMPLETE MEANING She who is the auspicious great Empress

SPIRITUAL SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally the second of the three opening names: as Empress She sustains and governs all the worlds (sthiti) that She brought forth as Mother.

3 श्रीमत्सिंहासनेश्वरी śrīmat-siṃhāsaneśvarī

SANDHI VICCHEDA

- सिंहासन → सिंह + आसन (siṃha + āsana) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ), inside the lexicalised compound siṃhāsana 'throne'
- सिंहासनेश्वरी → सिंहासन + ईश्वरी (siṃhāsana + īśvarī) — guṇa: a + ī → e (Pāṇini 6.1.87 ād guṇaḥ)

SAMĀSA VIGRAHA

ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa (with an inner karmadhāraya)

श्रीमत् सिंहासनम् श्रीमत्सिंहासनम्; श्रीमत्सिंहासनस्य ईश्वरी श्रीमत्सिंहासनेश्वरी

śrīmat siṃhāsanam śrīmatsiṃhāsanam; śrīmatsiṃhāsanasya īśvarī śrīmatsiṃhāsaneśvarī

Inner layer: the adjective śrīmat 'glorious' qualifies siṃhāsana 'lion-seat, throne' (karmadhāraya). Outer layer: īśvarī 'sovereign, ruling lady' is the head and the throne stands to it in the genitive relation: 'the sovereign of the glorious throne'. Grammatically śrīmat could also qualify the sovereign herself (śrīmatī reduced to śrīmat by puṃvadbhāva), but the usual reading attaches it to the throne.

श्रीमत्	śrīmat	glorious, splendid — śrī + the possessive suffix -mat
सिंहासन	siṃhāsana	throne (lit. 'lion-seat') — siṃha 'lion' + āsana 'seat'
ईश्वरी	īśvarī	sovereign, ruling lady — feminine of īśvara, from √īś 'to rule'

COMPLETE MEANING She who is the queen of the most glorious throne

SPIRITUAL SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally the third of the opening triad, dissolution (saṃhāra): the One enthroned as supreme sovereign, into whom all that She created and sustained is finally withdrawn.

4 चिदग्निकुण्डसम्भूता cid-agni-kuṇḍa-sambhūtā

SANDHI VICCHEDA

- चिदग्नि → चित् + अग्नि (cit + agni) — jaśtva: a final t becomes d before a voiced sound (Pāṇini 8.2.39 jhalāṃ jaśo 'nte)

pañcamī-tatpuruṣa (with an inner ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa and an inner karmadhāraya)

चित् एव अग्निः चिदग्निः; चिदग्नेः कुण्डम् चिदग्निकुण्डम्; चिदग्निकुण्डात् सम्भूता चिदग्निकुण्डसम्भूता

cit eva agniḥ cidagniḥ; cidagneḥ kuṇḍam cidagnikuṇḍam; cidagnikuṇḍāt sambhūtā cidagnikuṇḍasambhūtā

Built in three layers. (1) cit-agni 'the fire that is consciousness': a karmadhāraya of identification (rūpaka) — consciousness itself is the fire. (2) cidagni-kuṇḍa 'the altar-pit of that fire': ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa, kuṇḍa is the head. (3) The participle sambhūtā 'arisen' is the head of the whole and the fire-pit stands to it in the ablative: 'arisen from'. A locative reading (cidagnikuṇḍe sambhūtā, saptamī-tatpuruṣa, 'born in the fire-pit') is also current; the sense hardly changes.

चित्	cit	pure consciousness
अग्नि	agni	fire
कुण्ड	kuṇḍa	fire-pit, sacrificial altar-pit
सम्भूता	sambhūtā	arisen, born — sam + √bhū 'to come into being', past participle, feminine

COMPLETE MEANING She who arose from the fire-altar of pure consciousness

SPIRITUAL SIGNIFICANCE In the Lalitopākhyāna of the Brahmāṇḍa Purāṇa the Goddess appears from the sacrificial fire kindled by the gods for the war against Bhaṇḍa. Inwardly, the fire is consciousness itself, in which ignorance and duality are offered up.

> UNCERTAIN Ablative ('arisen from') and locative ('born in') analyses of the last member are both current.

5 देवकार्यसमुद्यता deva-kārya-samudyatā

SANDHI VICCHEDA

No sound change inside the name; the members stand as written.

SAMĀSA VIGRAHA

saptamī-tatpuruṣa (with an inner ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa)

देवानाम् कार्यम् देवकार्यम्; देवकार्ये समुद्यता देवकार्यसमुद्यता

devānām kāryam devakāryam; devakārye samudyatā devakāryasamudyatā

Inner layer: deva-kārya 'the task of the gods' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa, kārya is the head). Outer layer: the participle samudyatā 'ready, set upon, intent' is the head and governs the locative: 'intent upon the gods' task'. A caturthī reading ('ready for the sake of the gods' task') gives the same sense.

देव	deva	god
कार्य	kārya	task, work, purpose (lit. 'what is to be done') — √kṛ 'to do' + the gerundive suffix -ya
समुद्यता	samudyatā	ready, intent upon, set to work — sam + ud + √yam 'to raise', past participle, feminine: lit. 'with arms raised for the work'

COMPLETE MEANING She who is intent on accomplishing the task of the gods

SPIRITUAL SIGNIFICANCE In the Purāṇa the gods' task is the destruction of the demon Bhaṇḍa, for which She arose (name 4). Traditionally it is also read as Her readiness to protect all who live by dharma.

7. चतुर्बाहुसमन्विता catur-bāhu-samanvitā
8. रागस्वरूपपाशाढ्या rāga-svarūpa-pāśāḍhyā
9. क्रोधाकाराङ्कुशोज्ज्वला krodhākārāṅkuśojjvalā

Names 8–11 (running into śloka 3) name the four emblems held in the four hands of name 7.

6 उद्यद्भानुसहस्राभा udyad-bhānu-sahasrābhā

SANDHI VICCHEDA

- उद्यद्भानु → उद्यत् + भानु (udyat + bhānu) — jaśtva: a final t becomes d before a voiced sound (Pāṇini 8.2.39 jhalāṃ jaśo 'nte)
- सहस्राभा → सहस्र + आभा (sahasra + ābhā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

SAMĀSA VIGRAHA

bahuvrīhi of comparison (over an inner ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa and an inner karmadhāraya)

उद्यन्तः भानवः उद्यद्भानवः; उद्यद्भानूनाम् सहस्रम् उद्यद्भानुसहस्रम्; उद्यद्भानुसहस्रस्य आभा इव आभा यस्याः सा उद्यद्भानुसहस्राभा udyantaḥ bhānavaḥ udyadbhānavaḥ; udyadbhānūnām sahasram udyadbhānusahasram; udyadbhānusahasrasya ābhā iva ābhā yasyāḥ sā udyadbhānusahasrābhā

(1) udyad-bhānu 'rising sun(s)': the present participle udyat qualifies bhānu (karmadhāraya). (2) udyadbhānu-sahasra 'a thousand rising suns' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa, sahasra is the head). (3) The whole is a bahuvrīhi describing Her: 'She whose radiance (ābhā) is like that of a thousand rising suns'. The name could also be taken as a tatpuruṣa in apposition ('She who is the radiance of …'); the image is the same.

उद्यत्	udyat	rising — ud + √i 'to go', present participle: 'going up'
भानु	bhānu	sun
सहस्र	sahasra	a thousand; countless
आभा	ābhā	radiance, splendor, appearance

COMPLETE MEANING She who has the radiance of a thousand rising suns

SPIRITUAL SIGNIFICANCE The crimson of the rising sun is Her own color throughout the hymn; 'a thousand' is traditionally taken to mean beyond counting, a brilliance that is nonetheless gentle like dawn.

7 चतुर्बाहुसमन्विता catur-bāhu-samanvitā

SANDHI VICCHEDA

- अन्विता → अनु + इता (anu + itā) — yaṇ: u becomes v before a dissimilar vowel (Pāṇini 6.1.77 iko yaṇ aci), at the junction of the prefix anu with ita

tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa (with an inner dvigu)

चत्वारः बाहवः चतुर्बाहवः; चतुर्भिः बाहुभिः समन्विता चतुर्बाहुसमन्विता

catvāraḥ bāhavaḥ caturbāhavaḥ; caturbhiḥ bāhubhiḥ samanvitā caturbāhusamanvitā

Inner layer: catur-bāhu 'four arms', a numeral + noun karmadhāraya, i.e. a dvigu, allowed here because another member follows (Pāṇini 2.1.51–52). Outer layer: the participle samanvitā 'endowed with' is the head and the four arms stand to it in the instrumental. The r of catur is original, so it stays r before the voiced b; no visarga arises.

चतुर्	catur	four
बाहु	bāhu	arm
समन्विता	samanvitā	endowed with, accompanied by — sam + anu + √i 'to go', past participle, feminine

COMPLETE MEANING She who is four-armed

SPIRITUAL SIGNIFICANCE The four arms carry the four emblems named next: the noose, the goad, the sugarcane bow and the flower arrows (names 8–11).

8 रागस्वरूपपाशाढ्या rāga-svarūpa-pāśāḍhyā

SANDHI VICCHEDA

- पाशाढ्या → पाश + आढ्या (pāśa + āḍhyā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa (over an inner karmadhāraya and an inner bahuvrīhi)

रागः स्वरूपम् यस्य सः रागस्वरूपः; रागस्वरूपः पाशः रागस्वरूपपाशः; रागस्वरूपपाशेन आढ्या रागस्वरूपपाशाढ्या

rāgaḥ svarūpam yasya saḥ rāgasvarūpaḥ; rāgasvarūpaḥ pāśaḥ rāgasvarūpapāśaḥ; rāgasvarūpapāśena āḍhyā rāgasvarūpapāśāḍhyā

(2) ...mañjarī-kḷpta 'fashioned from those clusters': an instrument compounded with a past participle (tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa, Pāṇini 2.1.32 kartṛkaraṇe kṛtā bahulam). (3) It qualifies karṇapūra 'ear-ornament' (karmadhāraya). (4) manoharā 'captivating' is the head and takes the ornament in the instrumental: 'captivating with ...'.

कदम्ब	kadamba	the kadamba tree (Neolamarckia cadamba) and its ball-shaped blossom
मञ्जरी	mañjarī	cluster of blossoms, flower-spray
क्लृप्त	kḷpta	fashioned, arranged — √kḷp 'to be fit, arrange', past participle
कर्णपूर	karṇapūra	ear-ornament (lit. 'ear-filler'), a flower or jewel worn over the ear
मनोहरा	manoharā	captivating (lit. 'mind-stealing') — manas 'mind' + √hṛ 'to take away', feminine

COMPLETE MEANING She who is captivating with ear-ornaments fashioned from clusters of kadamba blossoms

SPIRITUAL SIGNIFICANCE The kadamba is Her tree: She dwells in the kadamba forest (kadambavana) of Her island-city, and its blossoms adorn Her ears.

VARIANTS Many printed editions spell the participle क्लृप्त (klṛpta); क्लृप्त (kḷpta) is the correct form, as in name 648.

CORRECTED IN THIS EDITION कदम्बमञ्जरीक्लृप्तकर्णपूरमनोहरा → कदम्बमञ्जरीक्लृप्तकर्णपूरमनोहरा. klṛpta → kḷpta: the participle of √kḷp is kḷpta (vocalic ḷ); the verse text already reads क्लृप्त, as does name 648.

COMPLETE MEANING She for whom the discs of the sun and the moon have become a pair of earrings

SPIRITUAL SIGNIFICANCE Sun and moon are mere ornaments of Her cosmic form. The earrings are also the sign of auspicious wedded life: Saundaryalaharī 28 says Śiva survived the poison he swallowed by the power of Her tāṭaṅka.

COMPLETE MEANING She who is resplendent with two rows of teeth shaped like the sprouts of pure knowledge (śuddhavidyā)

SPIRITUAL SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally śuddhavidyā is taken here as the sixteen-syllabled Śrīvidyā mantra (ṣoḍaśī), the two rows of sixteen teeth answering to it; Her very smile shows the white, budding seeds of liberating knowledge.

UNCERTAIN The identification of śuddhavidyā with the sixteen-syllabled mantra (and of the 32 teeth with it) is widely reported from the commentarial tradition; its exact source wording was not confirmed here.

(3) ...āmoda-samākarṣin 'drawing in that fragrance' (upapada-tatpuruṣa; agent noun in -in from sam + ā + √kṛṣ, final n dropped). (5) The whole is a bahuvrīhi: 'She whose quarters of space draw in the fragrance of Her camphor-betel', i.e. the fragrance pervades every direction.

कर्पूर	karpūra	camphor
वीटिका	vīṭikā	betel roll (tāmbūla), folded betel leaf with areca and spices
आमोद	āmoda	fragrance
समाकर्षिन्	samākarṣin	drawing in, attracting — sam + ā + √kṛṣ 'to draw' + -in; appears as samākarṣi- in the compound
दिश्	diś	direction, quarter of space
अन्तरा	antarā	interval, reach, region — antara, with the feminine -ā of the bahuvrīhi

COMPLETE MEANING She whose fragrance of camphor-scented betel draws in all the quarters of space

SPIRITUAL SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally read as the fragrance of Her betel pervading every direction and drawing beings from all quarters to Her. Betel with camphor is among the offerings (upacāra) of Her worship.

> UNCERTAIN The relation of samākarṣin to digantara admits two readings: the quarters draw in (are pervaded by) the fragrance, as analysed here, or the fragrance draws the beings of every quarter to Her, the usual paraphrase, which takes digantara by metonymy for those who dwell there.

(3) The passive participle vinirbhartsitā 'rebuked, put to shame' takes the sweetness as its instrument (tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa). (4) The whole is a bahuvrīhi in the instrumental relation: 'She by whom the Kacchapī has been put to shame by the sweetness of Her own speech'. The participle takes its masculine stem inside the bahuvrīhi (puṃvadbhāva); kacchapī is the last member and keeps its feminine ī.

निज	nija	own
सल्लाप	sallāpa	conversation, talk — sam + √lap 'to speak'; the same word as saṃlāpa
माधुर्य	mādhurya	sweetness — abstract noun from madhura 'sweet'

COMPLETE MEANING She who puts to shame even Sarasvatī's vīṇā, the Kacchapī, by the sweetness of Her own speech

SPIRITUAL SIGNIFICANCE In Saundaryalaharī 66 Sarasvatī, singing Śiva's deeds on her vīṇā, quietly wraps the instrument in its cover when the Goddess answers her, ashamed of its tone beside Her voice. Traditionally Her speech is the source of all speech, of which Sarasvatī's music is a part.

(4) It qualifies kāmeśa-mānasa 'the mind of Kāmeśa' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa inside, karmadhāraya with the participle). A sustained metaphor. (1) nābhi-ālavāla 'the navel as the water-basin at the foot of a plant' (rūpaka karmadhāraya). (2) roma-āli 'the line of fine hair' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa), itself (3) the creeper, latā (rūpaka). (4) The creeper is rooted in the navel-basin (saptamī-tatpuruṣa). (5) …latā-phala 'its fruit' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (6) kuca-dvayī 'the pair of breasts' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (7) The whole is a bahuvrīhi: 'She whose pair of breasts is the fruit of the hair-line creeper that grows from the navel-basin'.

नाभि	nābhi	navel
आलवाल	ālavāla	basin of water at the foot of a tree or plant

द्वयी	dvayī	pair — feminine of dvaya

SPIRITUAL SIGNIFICANCE A classical figure of Sanskrit poetry, carried through every member: the navel is the basin that waters the plant, the fine line of hair the creeper rising from it, and the breasts its fruit.

(1) roma-latā 'the creeper of fine hair' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa, with the creeper metaphor of name 34), qualified by lakṣya 'visible' (karmadhāraya; lakṣyā takes its masculine stem, Pāṇini 6.3.42). (2) …latā-ādhāratā 'the fact of being the support of that creeper' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa; ādhāra + the abstract suffix -tā). (3) samunneya 'to be inferred' takes that fact in the instrumental, as the ground of the inference (tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa). (4) The whole is a bahuvrīhi: 'She whose waist (madhyama) is to be inferred from its being the support of the visible hair-creeper'.

SANSKRIT COMPONENT	IAST	LITERAL ENGLISH MEANING
लक्ष्य	lakṣya	visible, perceptible — √lakṣ 'to mark, perceive', gerundive
रोमन्	roman	fine body hair — appears as roma- in the compound
लता	latā	creeper
आधारता	ādhāratā	the being a support, the fact of bearing — ādhāra 'support, base' + -tā
समुन्नेय	samunneya	to be inferred — sam + ud + √nī 'to lead', gerundive: lit. 'to be brought up (to the mind)'
मध्यमा	madhyamā	waist, middle of the body — madhyama, with the feminine -ā of the bahuvrīhi

COMPLETE MEANING She whose waist can be known only by inference, from its being the support of the visible creeper of fine hair

SPIRITUAL SIGNIFICANCE Her waist is so slender that it is not seen; it is inferred because the visible line of hair must rest on something. Traditionally this is compared to the Supreme, which is not perceived directly but known from the world it upholds.

(2) The present participle dalat 'splitting, cracking' takes that weight in the instrumental (tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa), and (3) qualifies madhya 'waist' (karmadhāraya): 'the waist that seems to crack under the weight'. (4) paṭṭa-bandha 'a binding band' for that waist (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣas). (5) vali-traya 'the three folds' is identified with that band, the word 'in the form of' (rūpa) understood. (6) The whole is a bahuvrīhi: 'She whose three folds are a binding band for Her waist ...'; traya takes the feminine -ā.

स्तन	stana	breast

वलि	vali	fold of skin — also valī
त्रया	trayā	three, a triad — traya, with the feminine -ā of the bahuvrīhi

COMPLETE MEANING She whose three folds of skin form a band that binds Her waist, as though it would break under the weight of Her breasts

SPIRITUAL SIGNIFICANCE The trivalī, three folds across the midriff, is a classical mark of beauty; the poet imagines them as a band tied by nature round a waist too slender for its burden.

SANSKRIT COMPONENT	IAST	LITERAL ENGLISH MEANING
अरुण	aruṇa	Aruṇa, the dawn (the sun's charioteer)
अरुण	aruṇa	red, ruddy

कटी	kaṭī	hip, waist
तटी	taṭī	slope, bank, expanse

COMPLETE MEANING She whose hips shine with a safflower-dyed garment as red as the dawn

SPIRITUAL SIGNIFICANCE Red is Her color throughout the hymn; its dhyāna verses picture Her as aruṇā, red, and in red garlands, ornaments and garments (aruṇa-mālya-bhūṣāmbarām). Traditionally the red is read as compassion and the passion (rāga) of creative power.

UNCERTAIN aruṇāruṇa may be read as 'red as the dawn' (upamāna, as analysed) or as the color word doubled for emphasis, 'deep red, red upon red'.

SANSKRIT COMPONENT	IAST	LITERAL ENGLISH MEANING

द्वय	dvaya	pair
विराजिता	virājitā	shining, made splendid — vi + √rāj, past participle, feminine

COMPLETE MEANING She who shines with two knees shaped like crowns of ruby

SPIRITUAL SIGNIFICANCE The rounded, glowing kneecaps are likened to small domed crowns of ruby; the red of the ruby again answers to Her color.

VARIANTS Many printed editions read माणिक्यमकुटाकार (makuṭa). makuṭa is a recognized by-form of mukuṭa 'crown' in the lexicons, so that reading is a variant spelling rather than a misprint; the sense is the same.

CORRECTED IN THIS EDITION माणिक्यमकुटाकारजानुद्वयविराजिता → माणिक्यमुकुटाकारजानुद्वयविराजिता. Name list read मकुट (makuṭa), the śloka text मुकुट (mukuṭa). Both are recognised spellings of the word for crown; the śloka text's reading is adopted so name and śloka agree.

आभ	ābha	appearance; looking like — ābhā 'light, look', at the end of a compound
जङ्घिका	jaṅghikā	calf, shank — jaṅghā 'calf' with the suffix -ka, feminine

COMPLETE MEANING She whose calves resemble the quiver of Kāma, studded all around with scarlet indragopas

SPIRITUAL SIGNIFICANCE The comparison is to Kāma's quiver, which holds the flower-arrows; in this hymn those arrows are Her own (name 11). The scarlet indragopas, like the ruby knees of name 40, keep the description in Her color, red.

> UNCERTAIN Translators take indragopa here either as the scarlet insects themselves, scattered over the quiver, or as red gems of their color set around it; the comparison of the calves to Kāma's quiver is not in doubt.

SPIRITUAL SIGNIFICANCE With the feet the description of Her form, begun with the hair at name 13, is complete. In Śrīvidyā Her feet (pādukā) are the highest object of worship and the refuge of the devotee.

VARIANTS Some printings spell the participle with dental s: सिञ्जान (siñjāna). √śiñj is the Dhātupāṭha form; siñj is recorded in the lexicons as a by-spelling.

(1) mahā-lāvaṇya 'great beauty' (karmadhāraya; mahat becomes mahā- before a co-referential member, Pāṇini 6.3.46). (2) śevadhi 'treasure, treasury' is the head and the beauty stands to it in the genitive. COMPLETE MEANING She whose every limb is faultless

- अधिष्ठित → अधि + स्थित (adhi + sthita) — after the prefix adhi the s of √sthā becomes ṣ (Pāṇini 8.3.65), and the following t becomes ṭ after ṣ (ṣṭutva, 8.4.41 ṣṭunā ṣṭuḥ)

- अधिष्ठिताश्व → अधिष्ठित + अश्व (adhiṣṭhita + aśva) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)
- कोटिभिरावृता → कोटिभिः + आवृता (koṭibhiḥ + āvṛtā) — visarga becomes r before a vowel (the s of the ending -bhis becomes ru, Pāṇini 8.2.66, pronounced r before a vowel); this joins two separate words

a phrase of two words: a compound in the instrumental plural (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa over a karmadhāraya, a tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa and a dvitīyā-tatpuruṣa), governed by the participle āvṛtā

(1) aśva-ārūḍhā 'she who has mounted a horse', the name of the śakti Aśvārūḍhā (dvitīyā-tatpuruṣa). (2) adhiṣṭhita 'commanded, presided over' takes her as agent in the instrumental (tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa), and (3) qualifies aśva 'horse' (karmadhāraya). (4) koṭi-koṭi 'crores of crores', i.e. countless millions (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa), of those horses. This long compound is declined in the instrumental plural (...koṭibhiḥ) and is a separate word from āvṛtā 'surrounded', which governs it; the visarga becomes r before ā. The name is therefore a two-word phrase, not a single compound.

अश्व	aśva	horse
आरूढा	ārūḍhā	mounted; here the śakti Aśvārūḍhā, 'she who rides a horse' — ā + √ruh, past participle, feminine
अधिष्ठित	adhiṣṭhita	commanded, presided over — adhi + √sthā, past participle
कोटि	koṭi	a crore, ten million
कोटिभिः	koṭibhiḥ	by crores — instrumental plural of koṭi
आवृता	āvṛtā	surrounded — ā + √vṛ 'to cover', past participle, feminine

COMPLETE MEANING She who is surrounded by countless millions of horses commanded by Aśvārūḍhā

SPIRITUAL SIGNIFICANCE Aśvārūḍhā leads Her cavalry; traditionally she arises from Her noose (pāśa). The horses are often read as the senses, as in the Kaṭha Upaniṣad (indriyāṇi hayān āhuḥ), held in check by the power that rides them.

205 सर्वयन्त्रात्मिका sarva-yantrātmikā

SANDHI VICCHEDA

- यन्त्रात्मिका → यन्त्र + आत्मिका (yantra + ātmikā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a/ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

207 मनोन्मनी manonmanī

SANDHI VICCHEDA

- उन्मनी → उत् + मनी (ut + manī) — a stop becomes the nasal of its class before a nasal: t → n (Pāṇini 8.4.45 yaro 'nunāsike 'nunāsiko vā), inside unmanī

- मनोन्मनी → मनस् + उन्मनी (manas + unmanī) — manas appears without its final s and its a coalesces with the u of unmanī by guṇa: a + u → o (Pāṇini 6.1.87 ād guṇaḥ). Regular sandhi of manaḥ + unmanī would leave a hiatus (mana unmanī); the fused form is that of the lexicalised technical term

ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa (traditional analysis), with an inner prādi-bahuvrīhi

उद्गतम् मनः यस्याः सा उन्मनी; मनसः उन्मनी मनोन्मनी

Outer layer: manas-unmanī 'the transcending of the mind', with manas in the genitive. The name is a technical term of Śaiva and Śākta yoga and is not built by ordinary sandhi.

SANSKRIT COMPONENT	IAST	LITERAL ENGLISH MEANING

COMPLETE MEANING She who is Manonmanī, the state in which the mind transcends itself

SPIRITUAL SIGNIFICANCE In Śaiva and Śākta yoga unmanī is the last stage of the subtle ascent of sound beyond the mind, where thought falls silent; Manonmanī is also the name of the highest of Śiva's nine powers in the Śaiva Āgamas.

> UNCERTAIN The junction mano + unmanī is not regular sandhi and the analysis of this technical term varies (some read manas + unmanī as a karmadhāraya, 'the mind that has become unmanī'); the meaning follows the common yogic sense.

208 माहेश्वरी māheśvarī

SANDHI VICCHEDA

- माहेश्वरी → महा + ईश्वर (mahā + īśvara) — guṇa: a/ā + ī → e (Pāṇini 6.1.87 ād guṇaḥ), inside the base maheśvara 'great lord'; the derivative then strengthens its first vowel (ma → mā, vṛddhi), a morphological change, not sandhi

महत्	mahat	great — appears as mahā- in a karmadhāraya or bahuvrīhi (Pāṇini 6.3.46)

> CORRECTED IN THIS EDITION महालक्ष्मी → महालक्ष्मीः. महालक्ष्मी → महालक्ष्मीः: lakṣmī keeps the nominative -ḥ (not a ṅīp stem); the verse shows it as महालक्ष्मीर्मृडप्रिया.

चितिः	citiḥ	consciousness — √cit 'to perceive, be conscious' + the suffix -ti (ktin), nominative

COMPLETE MEANING She who is Consciousness itself

SPIRITUAL SIGNIFICANCE The first sūtra of Kṣemarāja's Pratyabhijñāhṛdaya reads citiḥ svatantrā viśvasiddhihetuḥ, 'Consciousness, free, is the cause of the accomplishment of the universe'. With this name begins a run of names on Her as pure consciousness.

> CORRECTED IN THIS EDITION चित् (चितिः) → चितिः. "चित् (चितिः)" → चितिः: the verse reads चितिस्तत्पदलक्ष्यार्था, so the name is citiḥ; the bracketed alternative was an editorial note left in the name.

पद	pada	word
लक्ष्य	lakṣya	indicated, implied — √lakṣ 'to mark, indicate', gerundive

COMPLETE MEANING She who is the implied meaning (lakṣyārtha) of the word 'tat' (That)

SPIRITUAL SIGNIFICANCE In the great saying tat tvam asi ('You are That', Chāndogya Upaniṣad 6.8.7), Vedānta takes 'tat' not in its literal sense (the omniscient Lord with attributes) but in its implied sense, pure consciousness free of qualities; She is that implied meaning. Names 425–427 return to the same saying.

(1) sva-ātman 'Her own Self' and svātma-ānanda 'the bliss of Her own Self' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣas; ātman loses its n in composition). (2) lavībhūta 'become a mere particle': lava 'particle' takes the suffix cvi, which turns its a into ī (Pāṇini 7.4.32 asya cvau) and expresses 'becoming what it was not', and it is compounded with bhūta as a gati (1.4.61 ūryādicviḍācaś ca); the bliss of Her Self stands to it in the genitive ('a particle of ...'). (3) brahma-ādi 'Brahmā and the others' (bahuvrīhi), brahmādi-ānanda 'their bliss', and ...ānanda-santati 'the whole succession of those blisses' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣas). (4) The whole is a bahuvrīhi describing Her: 'She for whom the whole range of the bliss of Brahmā and the other gods has become a mere particle of the bliss of Her own Self'. santati is feminine, so the name ends in -iḥ.

आदि	ādi	and the others, beginning with
आनन्द	ānanda	bliss
सन्ततिः	santatiḥ	an unbroken series, the whole range — sam + √tan 'to stretch' + -ti, nominative

COMPLETE MEANING She for whom the whole range of bliss of Brahmā and the other gods is but a particle of the bliss of Her own Self SPIRITUAL SIGNIFICANCE The Taittirīya Upaniṣad measures bliss in steps, each a hundredfold the one before, up to the bliss of Brahmā, and all of it is a fraction of the bliss of Brahman; the Bṛhadāraṇyaka says other beings live on a particle of that bliss. Her own bliss is that whole.

निर्वाण	nirvāṇa	extinction (of bondage), final liberation — nis + √vā 'to blow (out)', past participle
सुख	sukha	bliss, happiness
दायिनी	dāyinī	giving, bestower — √dā + -in, feminine

COMPLETE MEANING She who confers the bliss of liberation

manāṃsi ca vācaḥ ca manovācaḥ; na gocarā agocarā; manovācām agocarā manovācāmagocarā

- जडात्मिका → जड + आत्मिका (jaḍa + ātmikā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

जड	jaḍa	insentient, inert
आत्मिका	ātmikā	having as nature, consisting of — ātman + -ka, feminine -ikā

SAMĀSA VIGRAHA

Not a compound.

गायत्री	gāyatrī	the Gāyatrī metre and mantra — from √gai 'to sing'

COMPLETE MEANING She who is the Gāyatrī mantra

SPIRITUAL SIGNIFICANCE The Gāyatrī (tat savitur vareṇyam, Ṛgveda 3.62.10) is the mother of the Vedas; the traditional derivation explains the name as that which protects the one who sings it (gāyantaṃ trāyate). Names 420–423 recall the twilight worship (sandhyā-vandana) of the twice-born.

421 व्याहृतिः vyāhṛtiḥ

SANDHI VICCHEDA

- व्याहृति → वि + आहृति (vi + āhṛti) — yaṇ: i becomes y before a dissimilar vowel (Pāṇini 6.1.77 iko yaṇ aci), at the junction of the prefix vi with āhṛti

SAMĀSA VIGRAHA

Not a compound.

COMPLETE MEANING She who is the Vyāhṛti, the sacred utterance

422 सन्ध्या sandhyā

SANDHI VICCHEDA

- सन्ध्या → सम् + ध्या (sam + dhyā) — m becomes anusvāra before a consonant (Pāṇini 8.3.23 mo 'nusvāraḥ), which takes the place of articulation of the following stop (8.4.58–59 anusvārasya yayi parasavarṇaḥ): written n before a dental

COMPLETE MEANING She who is in the form of twilight

SPIRITUAL SIGNIFICANCE Sandhyā is the junction of night and day and the worship performed at those junctions; She is both the hour and the rite.

> UNCERTAIN The word is derived from sam + √dhyai ('meditation') or from sandhi 'junction' (sam + √dhā); both are traditional.

431. मदशालिनी mada-śālinī

WHERE THE NAMES JOIN IN THE ŚLOKA

- तत्त्वमयी → तत् + त्वम् + अयी (tat + tvam + ayī) — no sound change: three names written together (tvam keeps its m before the vowel of ayī). This is Bhāskararāya's division; read as one word, tattvamayī is name 907

Names 425–427 (tat · tvam · ayī) divide the letters tattvamayī into three names and recall the teaching tat tvam asi, 'That thou art'; the single word tattvamayī comes later as name 907. Names 431–433 (into śloka 92) describe Her mada, the rapture of Her bliss.

424 तत्त्वासना tattvāsanā

SANDHI VICCHEDA

- तत्त्वासना → तत्त्व + आसना (tattva + āsanā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

SAMĀSA VIGRAHA

bahuvrīhi

तत्त्वानि आसनम् यस्याः सा तत्त्वासना

tattvāni āsanam yasyāḥ sā tattvāsanā

The members are tattva 'principle of reality' and āsana 'seat'; the whole is a bahuvrīhi describing Her: 'She whose seat is the tattvas'. The neuter āsana takes the feminine -ā because the compound qualifies the Goddess.

SANSKRIT COMPONENT	IAST	LITERAL ENGLISH MEANING
तत्त्व	tattva	principle of reality, category of existence — tat 'that' + the abstract suffix -tva: lit. 'that-ness', the true nature of a thing
आसना	āsanā	seat — āsana, with the feminine -ā of the bahuvrīhi

COMPLETE MEANING She whose seat is the tattvas, the principles of reality

SPIRITUAL SIGNIFICANCE In Śrīvidyā the tattvas, from earth up to Śiva, are the throne on which She is enthroned and worshipped; She rests on all of manifest reality and is not contained by it.

> UNCERTAIN A second analysis takes āsana as an agent noun from √ās 'to sit': tattveṣu āste 'She who abides in the tattvas'. The bahuvrīhi ('whose seat is the tattvas') is the more natural reading of the compound.

425 तत् tat

SANDHI VICCHEDA

- तत्त्वमयी → तत् + त्वम् + अयी (tat + tvam + ayī) — No sound changes here. tat and tvam are simply juxtaposed (t + tv), and the final m of tvam stays m before the vowel of ayī (it becomes anusvāra only before a consonant, Pāṇini 8.3.23 mo 'nusvāraḥ). The same letters read as one word give tattvamayī 'consisting of the tattvas', which is name 907; here Bhāskararāya divides them into three names, tat (425), tvam (426) and ayī (427), as the 1,000-name count requires.

SAMĀSA VIGRAHA

Not a compound.

तत्	tat	that — neuter nominative singular of the demonstrative pronoun tad

COMPLETE MEANING She who is 'That', the supreme reality (brahman)

SPIRITUAL SIGNIFICANCE In the Upaniṣadic teaching tat tvam asi, 'That thou art' (Chāndogya Upaniṣad 6.8.7), tat denotes brahman; the Bhagavad Gītā (17.23) names brahman as oṃ tat sat. With 426 and 427 this name sets the teaching of identity within the hymn.

426 त्वम् tvam

SANDHI VICCHEDA

- त्वमयी → त्वम् + अयी (tvam + ayī) — No sound change: the final m of tvam stays m before a vowel (it would become anusvāra only before a consonant, Pāṇini 8.3.23 mo 'nusvāraḥ), so tvam and ayī are written together as tvamayī. On the division of tattvamayī into tat, tvam and ayī see name 425.

SAMĀSA VIGRAHA

Not a compound.

SANSKRIT COMPONENT	IAST	LITERAL ENGLISH MEANING
त्वम्	tvam	you, thou — nominative singular of the second-person pronoun yuṣmad

COMPLETE MEANING She who is 'Thou', the self addressed in the teaching 'That thou art'

SPIRITUAL SIGNIFICANCE In tat tvam asi the word tvam denotes the individual self (jīva); its identity with tat (425) is the teaching of Advaita. Name 908, tattvamarthasvarūpiṇī, takes up the same pair: She is the meaning of tat and tvam.

> CORRECTED IN THIS EDITION त्वं → त्वम्. त्वं → त्वम्: a word standing alone ends in m, not anusvāra. (425 tat, 426 tvam, 427 ayī is Bhāskararāya's division of tattvamayī and is kept.)

427 अयी ayī

SANDHI VICCHEDA

- त्वमयी → त्वम् + अयी (tvam + ayī) — No sound change: the m of tvam stays m before the vowel a of ayī (Pāṇini 8.3.23 makes m anusvāra only before a consonant). Bhāskararāya's division of tattvamayī into tat, tvam and ayī: see name 425.

SAMĀSA VIGRAHA

Not a compound.

SANSKRIT COMPONENT	IAST	LITERAL ENGLISH MEANING
अयी	ayī	O! (a loving or earnest call) — an interjection of address; usually written ayi with short i

COMPLETE MEANING She who is called upon with the loving cry 'ayī', 'O Mother!'

SPIRITUAL SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally ayī is the call of a devotee to the Mother, completing the triad tat, tvam, ayī; some read the three names together as echoing tat tvam asi, 'That thou art'.

> UNCERTAIN The sense of ayī is not settled. The common interjection of address is ayi with a short i; the long ī here is read either as that particle lengthened or as a feminine form, and the commentarial derivation could not be confirmed here. The rendering follows the usual reading as a call of address.

428 पञ्चकोशान्तरस्थिता pañca-kośāntara-sthitā

SANDHI VICCHEDA

- कोशान्तर → कोश + अन्तर (kośa + antara) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

SAMĀSA VIGRAHA

saptamī-tatpuruṣa (over an inner ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa and a dvigu)

पञ्च कोशाः पञ्चकोशाः; पञ्चकोशानाम् अन्तरम् पञ्चकोशान्तरम्; पञ्चकोशान्तरे स्थिता पञ्चकोशान्तरस्थिता

pañca kośāḥ pañcakośāḥ; pañcakośānām antaram pañcakośāntaram; pañcakośāntare sthitā pañcakośāntarasthitā

(1) pañca-kośa 'the five sheaths': a numeral compound, which counts as a dvigu because another member follows (Pāṇini 2.1.51 taddhitārthottarapadasamāhāre ca). (2) ...kośa-antara 'the interior of the five sheaths' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa; antara is a noun, 'inside'). (3) The participle sthitā 'abiding' is the head of the whole and takes that interior in the locative. The n of pañcan drops at the end of a compound member; that is morphology, not sandhi.

पञ्चन्	pañcan	five — appears as pañca- in the compound

कोश	kośa	sheath, covering
अन्तर	antara	interior, inside
स्थिता	sthitā	abiding, situated — √sthā 'to stand', past participle, feminine

COMPLETE MEANING She who abides within the five sheaths

SPIRITUAL SIGNIFICANCE The five sheaths of the Taittirīya Upaniṣad — of food, breath, mind, understanding and bliss — enclose the Self; She is that innermost Self, hidden within all five.

429 निःसीममहिमा niḥsīma-mahimā

SANDHI VICCHEDA

- निःसीम → निस् + सीम (nis + sīma) — the s of nis becomes visarga before the sibilant (s → ru, Pāṇini 8.2.66; ru → visarga before a voiceless sound, 8.3.15), and the visarga is kept instead of becoming s (optional, 8.3.36 vā śari): niḥsīma, also written nissīma

bahuvrīhi (over an inner karmadhāraya and a prādi-compound)

निर्गतः सीम्नः निःसीमः; निःसीमः महिमा यस्याः सा निःसीममहिमा

nirgataḥ sīmnaḥ niḥsīmaḥ; niḥsīmaḥ mahimā yasyāḥ sā niḥsīmamahimā

(1) niḥ-sīma 'gone beyond limit, boundless': the prefix nis with the sense of nirgata 'gone out of' compounds with sīman 'boundary' (a prādi-compound; sīman loses its final n). (2) niḥsīma qualifies mahiman 'greatness'. (3) The whole is a bahuvrīhi: 'She whose greatness is boundless'. The an-stem mahiman keeps its form, and its nominative mahimā serves as the feminine.

निस्	nis	out of, without — prefix
सीमन्	sīman	boundary, limit — appears as -sīma in the compound
महिमा	mahimā	greatness, glory — nominative of mahiman (mahat + -iman)

COMPLETE MEANING She whose glory is limitless

SPIRITUAL SIGNIFICANCE Her greatness has no boundary in space, time or form; the Upaniṣads speak of brahman as resting in its own greatness.

bahuvrīhi

नित्यम् यौवनम् यस्याः सा नित्ययौवना

nityam yauvanam yasyāḥ sā nityayauvanā nitya 'everlasting' qualifies yauvana 'youth'; the whole is a bahuvrīhi: 'She whose youth is everlasting'. The neuter yauvana takes the feminine -ā.

SANSKRIT COMPONENT	IAST	LITERAL ENGLISH MEANING
नित्य	nitya	eternal, everlasting
यौवना	yauvanā	youth — yauvana (from yuvan 'young'), with the feminine -ā of the bahuvrīhi

COMPLETE MEANING She who is ever youthful

SPIRITUAL SIGNIFICANCE Untouched by time, She never ages; compare 470, vayo'vasthāvivarjitā, free from the stages of age.

SAMĀSA VIGRAHA

tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa

मदेन शालिनी मदशालिनी

madena śālinī madaśālinī

śālinī 'resplendent, abounding' is the head; mada 'exhilaration, rapture' stands to it in the instrumental: 'resplendent with rapture'.

SANSKRIT COMPONENT	IAST	LITERAL ENGLISH MEANING
मद	mada	exhilaration, rapture, intoxication
शालिनी	śālinī	resplendent, abounding in — feminine of śālin, used at the end of compounds

COMPLETE MEANING She who is resplendent with rapture (mada)

SPIRITUAL SIGNIFICANCE Names 431–433 describe the mada of the Goddess. Traditionally this is the overflowing joy of Her own bliss (ānanda), not ordinary intoxication; in Kaula ritual it is linked with the offering of wine, understood inwardly.

At the end of a bahuvrīhi akṣi takes the suffix ṣac (Pāṇini 5.4.113 bahuvrīhau sakthyakṣṇoḥ svāṅgāt ṣac), giving akṣa, and its feminine is akṣī.

452 तेजोवती tejovatī

SANDHI VICCHEDA

- तेजोवती → तेजस् + वती (tejas + vatī) — the s of tejas, treated as a word-end before the suffix, becomes ru (Pāṇini 8.2.66), which after a and before a voiced consonant becomes u (6.1.114 haśi ca); a + u then gives o (6.1.87), as in tejomaya

COMPLETE MEANING She who is effulgent

> UNCERTAIN The usual Pāṇinian derivation keeps the s of tejas before a possessive suffix (Pāṇini 1.4.19 tasau matvarthe), giving tejasvatī; tejovatī, with the s treated as a word-end, is the attested form of the name.

SAMĀSA VIGRAHA

ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa (over an inner bahuvrīhi), with the possessive suffix -in

लोले अक्षिणी यस्याः सा लोलाक्षी; लोलाक्षीणाम् कामः लोलाक्षीकामः; लोलाक्षीकामः रूपम् अस्याः अस्ति इति लोलाक्षीकामरूपिणी

(2) lolākṣī-kāma 'the desire of women' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa; the first member keeps its feminine form). (3) To lolākṣīkāma + rūpa 'form' is added the possessive suffix -in (Pāṇini 5.2.115 ata iniṭhanau): 'having the desire of women as Her form'. This is one name; the separate name kāmarūpiṇī is 796.

लोल	lola	restless, moving, rolling
अक्षी	akṣī	eye; with lola, a woman ('the restless-eyed') — akṣi + ṣac (5.4.113), feminine -ī

SPIRITUAL SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally She is present as the love and longing in all women; even this desire, through which life continues, is Her form.

UNCERTAIN lolākṣī can also be taken as an epithet of the Goddess herself ('the restless-eyed one, whose form is Kāma'); the rendering follows the reading of lolākṣī as 'women'.

CORRECTED IN THIS EDITION लोलाक्षी → लोलाक्षीकामरूपिणी. The name was cut to लोलाक्षी with "separate name कामरूपिणी" in its meaning. In the 1,000-name count (Bhāskararāya) 454 is the single name lolākṣīkāmarūpiṇī; there is no separate kāmarūpiṇī here (that is name 796). The verse reads लोलाक्षीकामरूपिणी.

VARIANTS The source's name list reads बर्बरालका barbarālakā (barbara 'curly'); the verse text, followed here, reads बन्धुरालका. Both readings are current in printed editions.

CORRECTED IN THIS EDITION बर्बरालका → बन्धुरालका. Name list read बर्बरालका, verse text बन्धुरालका. The verse reading is adopted (bandhura, wavy; barbara, curly — the sense is the same); barbarālakā is recorded as a variant. Flagged for review.

572 पराशक्तिः parā-śaktiḥ

SANDHI VICCHEDA

No sound change inside the name; the members stand as written.

SAMĀSA VIGRAHA

Not a compound.

SANSKRIT COMPONENT	IAST	LITERAL ENGLISH MEANING
परा	parā	supreme, highest, beyond all — feminine of para, agreeing with śaktiḥ. Not a compound but a phrase of two words: the adjective parā agrees with the noun, and the pair is counted as one name. Had they been compounded as a karmadhāraya, the feminine parā would normally return to the masculine stem (puṃvadbhāva, Pāṇini 6.3.42): para-. The verse text accordingly prints them as two words.
शक्तिः	śaktiḥ	power, energy — √śak 'to be able'; feminine i-stem, nominative singular

COMPLETE MEANING She who is the supreme Power (Parā Śakti)

SPIRITUAL SIGNIFICANCE The one power inseparable from Śiva, from which the powers of will, knowledge and action (name 658) and every lesser power proceed.

> UNCERTAIN Phrase or compound: the retained feminine parā and the verse's spacing point to two words in agreement (no samāsa); in later usage Parāśakti is also treated as a fixed compound title.

573 परानिष्ठा parā-niṣṭhā

SAMĀSA VIGRAHA

Not a compound.

SANSKRIT COMPONENT	IAST	LITERAL ENGLISH MEANING
परा	parā	supreme, highest — feminine of para, agreeing with niṣṭhā; as in name 572 the two words stand in agreement and are not compounded (a karmadhāraya would normally give para-).
निष्ठा	niṣṭhā	culmination, final goal; firm ground, steadfast abiding — ni + √sthā 'to stand'

COMPLETE MEANING She who is the supreme end, the supreme abidance

SPIRITUAL SIGNIFICANCE She is the culmination in which every path comes to rest: the Gītā (3.3) speaks of two kinds of niṣṭhā, of knowledge and of action, and both end in Her.

> UNCERTAIN Phrase or compound, as with name 572: the feminine parā is kept, so the name is read as two words in agreement.

रूपिणी	rūpiṇī	having the form of — rūpa + possessive -in, feminine -ī

COMPLETE MEANING She whose form is a solid mass of pure consciousness

SPIRITUAL SIGNIFICANCE The phrase is Upaniṣadic: the Bṛhadāraṇyaka (4.5.13) says that as a lump of salt is salt throughout, so the Self is prajñānaghana, consciousness through and through, with no inside or outside; the Māṇḍūkya (5) uses the same word.

SAMĀSA VIGRAHA

bahuvrīhi

अष्टौ मूर्तयः यस्याः सा अष्टमूर्तिः

aṣṭau mūrtayaḥ yasyāḥ sā aṣṭamūrtiḥ

aṣṭan 'eight' qualifies mūrti 'form, embodiment', and the whole points outside itself to the Goddess: 'She who has eight forms'. The numeral's final n is dropped at the end of a compound member (aṣṭan → aṣṭa-), a morphological change, not sandhi; mūrti keeps its i-stem and the nominative is aṣṭamūrtiḥ.

अजायाः जैत्री अजाजैत्री

ajāyāḥ jaitrī ajājaitrī

jaitrī 'victorious, conqueror' is the head; ajā 'the unborn (she)' stands to it as the one conquered: 'the conqueror of Ajā'. Ajā is the feminine of aja 'unborn' and, after Śvetāśvatara Upaniṣad 4.5 (ajām ekāṃ lohitaśuklakṛṣṇām, 'the one unborn [she] of red, white and black'), names beginningless Māyā or ignorance. The two members meet with no sound change.

SANSKRIT COMPONENT	IAST	LITERAL ENGLISH MEANING
अजा	ajā	the unborn one (feminine); Māyā, beginningless ignorance — a + jā 'born', from √jan
जैत्री	jaitrī	victorious, the conqueress — feminine of jaitra 'victorious', a vṛddhi derivative of jetṛ 'conqueror' (√ji 'to conquer')

COMPLETE MEANING She who conquers Ajā, the unborn Māyā of ignorance

SPIRITUAL SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally Ajā is avidyā, without beginning but not without end: She who is Knowledge overcomes it in the devotee.

VARIANTS The site's earlier text read अजाजेत्री (ajājetrī, feminine of jetṛ 'conqueror'), with the same sense; the verse reads jaitrī (see the correction log).

CORRECTED IN THIS EDITION अजाजेत्री → अजाजैत्री. अजाजेत्री → अजाजैत्री (jaitrī, victorious: vṛddhi ai); the verse reads अजाजैत्री.

(2) mantriṇī-nyasta 'placed on the Mantriṇī' (saptamī-tatpuruṣa with the participle; mantriṇī keeps its ī because this is not a karmadhāraya). न्यस्त	nyasta	placed, entrusted — ni + √as 'to throw, put', past participle

- कौलिनीकेवलाऽनर्घ्य → कौलिनीकेवला + अनर्घ्य... (kaulinīkevalā + anarghya...) — savarṇa-dīrgha: ā + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101); the avagraha marks the absorbed a of anarghya

Name 925 kaulinīkevalā is a single name (some printings write it as two words, which breaks the count); name 926 begins with an-arghya 'priceless', whose initial a is hidden in the long ā (avagraha). In 923 the long ā after the first dakṣiṇa hides the a- of a-dakṣiṇa: right-hand and left-hand worshipers.

tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa (over an inner itaretara-dvandva, whose second member is a nañ-tatpuruṣa)

न दक्षिणाः अदक्षिणाः; दक्षिणाः च अदक्षिणाः च दक्षिणादक्षिणाः; दक्षिणादक्षिणैः आराध्या दक्षिणादक्षिणाराध्या

na dakṣiṇāḥ adakṣiṇāḥ; dakṣiṇāḥ ca adakṣiṇāḥ ca dakṣiṇādakṣiṇāḥ; dakṣiṇādakṣiṇaiḥ ārādhyā dakṣiṇādakṣiṇārādhyā

(1) a-dakṣiṇa 'not of the right' (nañ-tatpuruṣa). (2) dakṣiṇa and adakṣiṇa are joined as a dvandva, 'those of the right and those not of the right'. (3) The gerundive ārādhyā 'to be worshipped' is the head and takes the dvandva in the instrumental of the agent: 'to be worshipped by both'. The long ā after the first dakṣiṇa hides the negative a- of the second member, which is why the name is easily misread as dakṣiṇā + dakṣiṇa.

दक्षिण	dakṣiṇa	right; of the right-hand (dakṣiṇa) way of worship; also skillful, learned
अदक्षिण	adakṣiṇa	not of the right: of the left-hand (vāma) way; also unskilled, simple — nañ (a- 'not') + dakṣiṇa
आराध्या	ārādhyā	to be worshipped, to be propitiated — ā + √rādh 'to propitiate', gerundive (-ya), feminine

COMPLETE MEANING She who is worshipped by those of the right-hand path and those of the left

SPIRITUAL SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally dakṣiṇa and adakṣiṇa are the right-hand (Vedic, samaya) and left-hand (vāma) modes of worship, and She receives both; the pair is also read as the learned and the unlearned, both of whom reach Her.

> UNCERTAIN Besides right-hand / left-hand ways, the pair is also read as the skillful and the unskillful (learned and unlearned); both readings rest on the same dvandva.

924 दरस्मेरमुखाम्बुजा dara-smera-mukhāmbujā

SANDHI VICCHEDA

- मुखाम्बुजा → मुख + अम्बुजा (mukha + ambujā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

SAMĀSA VIGRAHA

bahuvrīhi (over an inner karmadhāraya and an upamita-karmadhāraya)

दरम् स्मेरम् दरस्मेरम्; मुखम् अम्बुजम् इव मुखाम्बुजम्; दरस्मेरम् मुखाम्बुजम् यस्याः सा दरस्मेरमुखाम्बुजा

daram smeram darasmeram; mukham ambujam iva mukhāmbujam; darasmeram mukhāmbujam yasyāḥ sā darasmeramukhāmbujā

(1) dara-smera 'slightly smiling': the indeclinable dara 'a little' qualifies smera 'smiling'. (2) mukha-ambuja 'the face that is like a lotus': an upamita compound, the face compared to the lotus with the comparison word iva understood. (3) (1) qualifies (2), and the whole is a bahuvrīhi describing Her: 'She whose lotus-face is gently smiling'; ambuja takes the feminine -ā.

दर	dara	slightly, a little — an indeclinable used adverbially
स्मेर	smera	smiling — √smi 'to smile' + the suffix -ra
मुख	mukha	face
अम्बुजा	ambujā	lotus (lit. "water-born") — ambu 'water' + ja 'born'; with the feminine -ā of the bahuvrīhi

COMPLETE MEANING She whose lotus-face wears a gentle smile

SPIRITUAL SIGNIFICANCE The slight smile is traditionally read as the outward sign of Her grace: it reassures the devotee and, in the Purāṇic account, is enough to destroy the demons.

925 कौलिनीकेवला kaulinī-kevalā

SANDHI VICCHEDA

No sound change inside the name; the members stand as written.

SAMĀSA VIGRAHA

karmadhāraya (one name made of two co-referential words); a tatpuruṣa reading is also given कौलिनी च असौ केवला च कौलिनीकेवला; अथवा कौलिनीनाम् केवला कौलिनीकेवला

kaulinī ca asau kevalā ca kaulinīkevalā; athavā kaulinīnām kevalā kaulinīkevalā

Read as one name, kaulinī 'She of the Kula (the Kaula tradition)' and kevalā 'the Absolute, unmixed, alone' stand in apposition: 'the Kaula Goddess who is the Absolute'. A genitive reading, 'the Absolute for the Kaulas', underlies the traditional gloss that the followers of the Kaula way worship Her as pure consciousness. The words meet without sound change.

SANSKRIT COMPONENT	IAST	LITERAL ENGLISH MEANING
कौलिनी	kaulinī	She of the Kula; the Goddess of the Kaula tradition — kaula 'pertaining to the kula' + the possessive -in, feminine -ī
केवला	kevalā	alone, absolute, unmixed; pure consciousness without a second

COMPLETE MEANING She who, for the followers of the Kaula way, is the Absolute, pure consciousness

SPIRITUAL SIGNIFICANCE Kula is the whole of manifest reality held together in Śakti; for the Kaula practitioner the Goddess of the Kula is herself kevala, the one consciousness without a second.

> UNCERTAIN The internal relation (apposition, or a genitive 'the Absolute for the Kaulas') is not settled; both are traditional and the meaning combines them.

> VARIANTS Some printings write कौलिनी केवला as two words; the 1,000-name count requires one name here (see the correction log).

> CORRECTED IN THIS EDITION कौलिनी केवला → कौलिनीकेवला. "कौलिनी केवला" → कौलिनीकेवला: counted as one name (925) in the 1,000; written as two words it reads as two names and breaks the count.

999. शिवशक्त्यैक्यरूपिणी śiva-śakty-aikya-rūpiṇī

1000. ललिताम्बिका lalitāmbikā

The second half of this śloka, एवं श्रीललितादेव्या नाम्नां साहस्रकं जगुः, closes the hymn and contains no name. The names therefore fill 182½ ślokas.

The first half holds the last three names, 998–1000, ending on Her own name, Lalitāmbikā. The second half is not a name but the closing line: evaṃ śrīlalitādevyā nāmnāṃ sāhasrakaṃ jaguḥ, 'thus they sang the thousand names of the Goddess Śrī Lalitā'. jaguḥ is the perfect, 3rd plural, of √gai 'to sing'; traditionally the singers are the Vāgdevīs (Vaśinī and the others), who composed the hymn at Her command. Inside the line, devyā is devyāḥ (genitive) with its visarga dropped before the voiced n of nāmnām, and evam, nāmnām and sāhasrakam show m → ṃ before a consonant. text.json prints श्रीललिता देव्या with a space; it is one genitive compound, śrīlalitā-devyāḥ, 'of the Goddess Śrī Lalitā'.

40	माणिक्यमकुटाकारजानुद्वयविराजिता māṇikya-makuṭākāra-jānu-dvaya-virājitā → माणिक्यमुकुटाकारजानुद्वयविराजिता māṇikya-mukuṭākāra-jānu-dvaya-virājitā	Variant adopted. Name list read मकुट (makuṭa), the śloka text मुकुट (mukuṭa). Both are recognised spellings of the word for crown; the śloka text's reading is adopted so name and śloka agree.
44	नखदीधितिसंछन्ननमज्जनतमोगुणा nakha-dīdhiti-saṃchanna-namajjana-tamo-guṇā → नखदीधितिसञ्छन्ननमज्जनतमोगुणा nakha-dīdhiti-sañchanna-namaj-jana-tamo-guṇā	Orthographic. संछन्न → सञ्छन्न: anusvāra written as the homorganic nasal before छ, matching the verse text (both spellings are permitted; one form is used throughout).
46	शिञ्जानमणिमञ्जिरमण्डितश्रीपदाम्बुजा śiñjāna-maṇi-mañjira-maṇḍita-śrī-padāmbujā → शिञ्जानमणिमञ्जीरमण्डितश्रीपदाम्बुजा śiñjāna-maṇi-mañjīra-maṇḍita-śrī-padāmbujā	Typographical. मञ्जिर → मञ्जीर (mañjīra, anklet: long ī). The verse text printed सिञ्जान; the name list's शिञ्जान is kept and now used in the verse too (√śiji, Dhātupāṭha "śiji avyakte śabde"). Flagged for review.
55	सुमेरुमध्यशृङ्गस्था sumeru-madhya-śṛṅga-sthā → सुमेरुमध्यशृङ्गस्था sumeru-madhya-śṛṅga-sthā	Encoding. Removed a zero-width joiner inside शृ (rendering workaround) that also corrupted the IAST.

NAME	ORIGINAL → CORRECTED	KIND AND REASON
137	निराकरा nir-ākarā → निराकारा nir-ākārā	Typographical. निराकरा → निराकारा (nir-ākārā, formless): ākāra "form" has a long ā; the verse text reads निराकारा.
210	महालक्ष्मी mahā-lakṣmī → महालक्ष्मीः mahā-lakṣmīḥ	Grammatical. महालक्ष्मी → महालक्ष्मीः: lakṣmī keeps the nominative -ḥ (not a ṅīp stem); the verse shows it as महालक्ष्मीर्मृडप्रिया.
235	चतुष्षष्ट्युपचाराढ्या catuṣ-ṣaṣṭy-upacārāḍhyā → चतुःषष्ट्युपचाराढ्या catuḥ-ṣaṣṭy-upacārāḍhyā	Orthographic. चतुष्षष्टि → चतुःषष्टि: visarga before ṣ may be kept or assimilated (Pāṇini 8.3.36 vā śari); the verse text keeps it, so the names follow.
236	चतुष्षष्टिकलामयी catuṣ-ṣaṣṭi-kalā-mayī → चतुःषष्टिकलामयी catuḥ-ṣaṣṭi-kalā-mayī	Orthographic. As 235.
237	महाचतुष्षष्टिकोटियोगिनीगणसेविता mahā-catuṣṣaṣṭi-koṭi-yoginī-gaṇa-sevitā → महाचतुःषष्टिकोटियोगिनीगणसेविता mahā-catuḥ-ṣaṣṭi-koṭi-yoginī-gaṇa-sevitā	Orthographic. As 235.
250	पञ्चब्रह्मस्वरुपिणी pañca-brahma-svarupiṇī → पञ्चब्रह्मस्वरूपिणी pañca-brahma-svarūpiṇī	Typographical. स्वरुपिणी → स्वरूपिणी (svarūpa: long ū).
256	विश्वरुपा viśva-rupā → विश्वरूपा viśva-rūpā	Typographical. विश्वरुपा → विश्वरूपा (rūpa: long ū).
286	वर्णाश्रमविधायिनि varṇāśrama-vidhāyini → वर्णाश्रमविधायिनी varṇāśrama-vidhāyinī	Typographical. विधायिनि → विधायिनी: the nominative feminine ends in long ī (-inī).

NAME	ORIGINAL → CORRECTED	KIND AND REASON
333	वारुणी मदविव्हला vāruṇī mada-vivhalā → वारुणीमदविह्वला vāruṇī-mada-vihvalā	Typographical. "वारुणी मदविव्हला" → वारुणीमदविह्वला: one compound name, not two words; विव्हला is a misspelling of vihvalā (ह्व).
362	चित् (चितिः) cit (citiḥ) → चितिः citiḥ	Typographical. "चित् (चितिः)" → चितिः: the verse reads चितिस्तत्पदलक्ष्यार्था, so the name is citiḥ; the bracketed alternative was an editorial note left in the name.
376	शृङ्गाररससम्पूर्णा śaṛṅgāra-rasa-sampūrṇā → शृङ्गाररससम्पूर्णा śṛṅgāra-rasa-sampūrṇā	Encoding. Removed a zero-width joiner inside शृ; the IAST had become "śaṛṅgāra".
390	निर्वाण सुखदायिनी nirvāṇa sukha-dāyinī → निर्वाणसुखदायिनी nirvāṇa-sukha-dāyinī	Typographical. "निर्वाण सुखदायिनी" → निर्वाणसुखदायिनी: one compound name; the space split it into what reads as two words.
391	नित्या-षोडशिकारूपा nityā-ṣoḍaśikā-rūpā → नित्याषोडशिकारूपा nityā-ṣoḍaśikā-rūpā	Typographical. A hyphen had been typed into the Devanagari (नित्या-षोडशिका); Devanagari compounds are written solid.
399	व्यक्ताव्यक्तस्वरूपीणि vyaktāvyakta-svarūpīṇi → व्यक्ताव्यक्तस्वरूपिणी vyaktāvyakta-svarūpiṇī	Typographical. स्वरूपीणि → स्वरूपिणी (-iṇī: short i, long final ī).
426	त्वं tvaṃ → त्वम् tvam	Orthographic. त्वं → त्वम्: a word standing alone ends in m, not anusvāra. (425 tat, 426 tvam, 427 ayī is Bhāskararāya's division of tattvamayī and is kept.)
454	लोलाक्षी lolākṣī → लोलाक्षीकामरूपिणी lolākṣī-kāma-rūpiṇī	Numbering. The name was cut to लोलाक्षी with "separate name कामरूपिणी" in its meaning. In the 1,000-name count (Bhāskararāya) 454 is the single name lolākṣīkāmarūpiṇī; there is no separate kāmarūpiṇī here (that is name 796). The verse reads लोलाक्षीकामरूपिणी.

471	सिद्धेश्वरि siddheśvari → सिद्धेश्वरी siddheśvarī	Typographical. सिद्धेश्वरि → सिद्धेश्वरी (nominative -ī; the short form is the vocative).
547	बर्बरालका barbarālakā → बन्धुरालका bandhurālakā	Variant adopted. Name list read बर्बरालका, verse text बन्धुरालका. The verse reading is adopted (bandhura, wavy; barbara, curly — the sense is the same); barbarālakā is recorded as a variant. Flagged for review.
550	वियदादि जगत्प्रसूः viyadādi jagat-prasūḥ → वियदादिजगत्प्रसूः viyad-ādi-jagat-prasūḥ	Typographical. "वियदादि जगत्प्रसूः" → one compound name, written solid.
574	प्रज्ञानघनरुपिणी prajñāna-ghana-rupiṇī → प्रज्ञानघनरूपिणी prajñāna-ghana-rūpiṇī	Typographical. रुपिणी → रूपिणी.
590	कटाक्षकिङ्करीभुतकमलाकोटिसेविता kaṭākṣa-kiṅkarī-bhūta-kamalā-koṭi-sevitā → कटाक्षकिङ्करीभूतकमलाकोटिसेविता kaṭākṣa-kiṅkarī-bhūta-kamalā-koṭi-sevitā	Typographical. भुत → भूत (bhūta: long ū); the IAST was already right.
630	त्र्यक्षरि tryakṣari → त्र्यक्षरी try-akṣarī	Typographical. त्र्यक्षरि → त्र्यक्षरी (nominative -ī).
660	सुप्रतीष्ठा su-pratīṣṭhā → सुप्रतिष्ठा su-pratiṣṭhā	Typographical. सुप्रतीष्ठा → सुप्रतिष्ठा (prati-ṣṭhā: short i).
663	अजाजेत्री ajā-jetrī → अजाजैत्री ajā-jaitrī	Typographical. अजाजेत्री → अजाजैत्री (jaitrī, victorious: vṛddhi ai); the verse reads अजाजैत्री.

664	लोकयात्रविधायिनी loka-yātra-vidhāyinī → लोकयात्राविधायिनी loka-yātrā-vidhāyinī	Typographical. लोकयात्र → लोकयात्रा (yātrā: long final ā); the verse reads लोकयात्राविधायिनी.
689	राज्यलक्ष्मी rājya-lakṣmī → राज्यलक्ष्मीः rājya-lakṣmīḥ	Grammatical. As 210: nominative lakṣmīḥ; the verse reads राज्यलक्ष्मीः कोशनाथा.
713	गुरूमण्डलरूपिणी gurū-maṇḍala-rūpiṇī → गुरुमण्डलरूपिणी guru-maṇḍala-rūpiṇī	Typographical. गुरूमण्डल → गुरुमण्डल (guru: short u).
834	विशृङ्खला viśaṛṅkhalā → विश्शृङ्खला vi-śṛṅkhalā	Encoding. Removed a zero-width joiner inside श्; the IAST had become "viśaṛṅkhalā".
879	सुधास्रुतिः / सृतिः sudhā-srutiḥ / sṛtiḥ → सुधासृतिः sudhā-sṛtiḥ	Typographical. "सुधास्रुतिः / सृतिः" → सुधासृतिः: the verse reads सुधासृतिः; the slash alternative was an editorial note left in the name (sudhāsrutiḥ is a recorded variant).
925	कौलिनी केवला kaulinī kevalā → कौलिनीकेवला kaulinī-kevalā	Typographical. "कौलिनी केवला" → कौलिनीकेवला: counted as one name (925) in the 1,000; written as two words it reads as two names and breaks the count.
999	शिवशक्तैक्यरूपिणी śiva-śaktaikya-rūpiṇī → शिवशक्त्यैक्यरूपिणी śiva-śakty-aikya-rūpiṇī	Typographical. शिवशक्तैक्य → शिवशक्त्यैक्य: śakti + aikya gives śakty-aikya (yaṇ sandhi); the y was missing.

A.2 Structure, numbering and śloka text

WHERE	ORIGINAL	CORRECTED	KIND	REASON
Ślokas 41–42 (website name cards)	41: 112–116; 42: 117–125	41: 112–117; 42: 118–125	Structural	Name 117 (भक्तसौभाग्यदायिनी) is the last name of śloka 41; it was shown under śloka 42. Found by aligning every name against the śloka text; the śloka-to-name table is now generated from the text instead of typed.
Ślokas 53–56 (website name cards)	53: 205–210; 54: 211–217; 55: 218–223; 56: 224–231	53: 205–211; 54: 212–218; 55: 219–225; 56: 226–231	Structural	Names 211, 218, 224 and 225 were shown one śloka late (211 belongs to 53, 218 to 54, 224 and 225 to 55), so ślokas 53–56 each showed a wrong set of names. Found by aligning every name against the śloka text; the śloka-to-name table is now generated from the text instead of typed.

Found by aligning every name against the śloka text; the śloka-to-name table is now generated from the text instead of typed.
Ślokas 182–183	Śloka 182 listed names 994–1000; there was no śloka 183, and its second half (evaṃ śrīlalitādevyā nāmnāṃ sāhasrakaṃ jaguḥ) was printed only as a closing line.	Śloka 182: names 994–997. Śloka 183: names 998–1000 (श्रीशिवा शिवशक्त्यैक्यरूपिणी ललिताम्बिका) with its closing half.	Structural	The names fill 182½ ślokas; the half-śloka of names 998–1000 is completed by the closing half. Each half-line of an anuṣṭubh has 16 syllables, and śloka 182 already had its 32.

WHERE	ORIGINAL	CORRECTED	KIND	REASON
Śloka 1	oṃ śrī-mātā …	श्रीमाता … (śrīmātā …)	Structural	Oṃ is recited before the hymn but is not part of the first śloka; with it the first half has 17 syllables instead of the anuṣṭubh 16.
Śloka 20 (text)	सिञ्जानमणिमञ्जीर… (siñjāna)	शिञ्जानमणिमञ्जीर… (śiñjāna)	Orthographic	The śloka text and name 46 disagreed. śiñjāna (tinkling) is from √śiji "avyakte śabde"; the name list already read it. siñjāna, common in print, is recorded as a variant.
Half-line translations	64 half-lines whose English did not give one clause per name (e.g. śloka 17, second half: "Has no birth; Heroic", which belongs to no name in that line).	Every half-line translation is now generated from the meanings of exactly the names in that half-line, in order.	Structural	Meanings had drifted between half-lines and ślokas. Generating them removes the drift and keeps them in step with the names.
Word-split cards (website and PDF)	Devanagari for each piece was produced by a script from IAST, which dropped anusvāra (ṃ) and other signs, and the card showed the name broken into separate words (e.g. उद्यद् भानु सहस्राभा).	Each piece now carries its own checked Devanagari; the card shows the name intact, with its split beneath it.	Structural	A name is one word in the sequence (e.g. श्रीमाता), even when explained as श्री + माता.

WHERE	ORIGINAL	CORRECTED	KIND	REASON
Word-by-word tables	713 names had a table built from a generic dictionary (e.g. ābāla-gopa glossed "beetle"; stūyamānātma as one unit); 287 names had none.	All 1,000 names have a table written from the grammar: one unit per row in its underlying form, each with its literal meaning.	Interpretive	The tables must follow sandhi and samāsa, not string matching.
Page header	182 Shlokas	183 Shlokas (182½ of names)	Structural	Counts the half-śloka of names 998–1000.
Śloka 183, second half	एवं श्रीललिता देव्या … (śrīlalitā devyā)	एवं श्रीललितादेव्या … (śrīlalitādevyā)	Orthographic	śrīlalitā-devyāḥ is one compound in the genitive ("of the Goddess Śrī Lalitā"); the space made śrīlalitā read as a separate nominative. devyā is devyāḥ with its visarga dropped before n.
Śloka 87 (text)	विद्याविद्या-स्वरूपिणी	विद्याऽविद्यास्वरूपिणी	Typographical	A hyphen had been typed into the Devanagari of the śloka, and the avagraha that marks vidyā + avidyā (as name 402 is written) was missing.

A.3 English meanings rewritten (45)

Meanings that were wrong, belonged to another name, or did not follow the grammar. Meanings that were only tidied (spelling, IAST for ITRANS) are not listed; 574 were tidied and 381 kept as they were.

NAME	PREVIOUS MEANING	NOW	REASON
16	She who wears a musk mark on Her forehead which shines like the spot in the moon	She whose musk tilaka looks like the dark mark on the moon of Her face	The previous text missed the grammar: mukha-candra is the moon that is Her face (rūpaka), and -ābha means 'resembling'; the mark is dark like the moon's spot, it does not 'shine like' it.

NAME	PREVIOUS MEANING	NOW	REASON
32	She whose neck is resplendent with a gem-studded necklace with a locket made of pearl	She who is adorned with a jewelled necklace, a cintāka and swaying pearls	'neck' is not in the name and lola 'swaying' was not translated; the name lists three ornaments joined by anvitā, rather than a necklace with a locket made of pearl.
50	She whose body is worthy of worship	She whose every limb is faultless	anavadya means 'faultless, blameless', not 'worthy of worship'; the previous meaning did not follow from the word.
56	She who is the Mistress of the most auspicious (or prosperous)	She who is the sovereign of the glorious city (Śrīpura)	The previous meaning broke off ('the Mistress of the most auspicious (or prosperous)') and omitted nagara 'city'.
83	She whose many powers are extolled by brahmA, viShNu, shiva and other gods	She whose glory is extolled by Brahmā, Upendra (Viṣṇu), Mahendra (Indra) and the other gods	Mahendra is Indra, not Śiva; the names of the gods are now given as the compound names them, in IAST.
86	She who from Her neck to Her waist is of the form of the	She whose form from below the throat down to the waist is the middle kūṭa (the kāmarāja-kūṭa) of the Pañcadaśī	The previous meaning broke off ('is of the form of the'); it is completed from the compound: the region is the middle kūṭa.
113	She who is unattainable through imagination or thought	She who is attained through contemplation (bhāvanā)	The previous meaning followed the alternative division bhāvanā + agamyā ('unattainable'); the division bhāvanā-gamyā, already used in the old word-split and parallel to bhakti-gamyā (119), is followed here, and the alternative is recorded as uncertain.
126	She who gives happiness	She who is the consort of Śaṅkara (Śiva)	The long ā (vṛddhi) shows that śāṅkarī is derived from Śaṅkara: 'of Śaṅkara, His consort'. 'She who gives happiness' is the etymology of śaṅkara and is kept in the significance.
133	She who stays unattached, bound to nothing	She who is without stain	'stays unattached, bound to nothing' did not follow the compound; añjana is a dark stain, so nirañjanā is 'stainless'.

NAME	PREVIOUS MEANING	NOW	REASON
203	She who pervades every living and non-living thing	She who is everything	-mayī means 'consisting of'; the name says She is made of everything, not that She 'pervades' it.
207	She who is shiva's shakti	She who is Manonmanī, the state in which the mind transcends itself	'Śiva's śakti' is one traditional identification but not what the name says; the name is the yogic state beyond the mind, and the identification is kept under significance.
209	She who has the immeasurable body	She who is the great Goddess	'immeasurable body' is a commentarial gloss on mahā, not the meaning of the name; it is kept under significance.
225	She who is the object of worship even by the greatest of yogis	She who is the sovereign of the great lords of yoga	The name says She is the sovereign (īśvarī) of the great masters of yoga; 'object of worship' is an inference, not the grammar.
226	She who is worshipped by the great Tantras such as kulArnava and jnAnArnava	She who is the great Tantra	'Worshipped by the great Tantras' is not in the name; it describes Her as the great Tantra, parallel to names 227–228. The examples are kept under significance.
241	She who has a beauty that does not wax or wane	She whose form is beautiful	'A beauty that does not wax or wane' is a commentarial gloss drawn from the moon names; the name itself says 'beautiful form'. The gloss is kept under significance.
271	She who protects and rules everything	She who is the Sovereign, Īśvarī	'Protects' is not in the name; īśvarī is 'sovereign', and in this sequence the consort-power of Īśvara, deity of the fourth act (concealment).
279	She who protects those who worship Her	She who is the Blessed One, possessed of all six excellences	'Protects those who worship Her' is not in the name; bhagavatī means 'possessing bhaga', the six excellences (name 277).
363	She who is the embodiment of truth (which is indicated by the word 'tat')	She who is the implied meaning (lakṣyārtha) of the word 'tat' (That)	'the embodiment of truth' missed the technical term: lakṣyārtha is the meaning reached by implication (lakṣaṇā), as opposed to the literal meaning (vācyārtha).

NAME	PREVIOUS MEANING	NOW	REASON
364	She who is of the nature of the pure intelligence. She who is the cause of knowledge	She whose nature is consciousness alone, one undivided essence	'She who is the cause of knowledge' is not in the name, and ekarasa 'one undivided essence' was not translated.
367	She who is of the nature of unmanifested consciousness or of unmanifested brahman	She whose form is inward-turned consciousness	pratyak means 'inward-turned', not 'unmanifested'; the name speaks of consciousness as the inner Self.
418	She who is the mAyA that has transformed itself as the power of creation	She who is the power that becomes the insentient world	The previous gloss ('the māyā that has transformed itself as the power of creation') gave commentary as translation; the name says 'the power of the insentient'. The māyā reading moves to significance.
448	She who is the ultimate truth	She who is endowed with well-being (svasti)	'the ultimate truth' is interpretation, not the meaning of the word; svasti-matī is 'possessed of svasti, well-being'. The interpretation is kept under significance.
454	She who has rolling eyes. separate name कामरूपिणी - She who is in the form of love in women	She who takes the form of love (kāma) in women, the restless-eyed	The old meaning cut the name in two ('rolling eyes' + a separate kāmarūpiṇī). In the 1,000-name count it is one name, and the meaning now follows the compound.
466	She who creates upheaval in the mind	She who stirs the stillness into creation	'creates upheaval in the mind' is not the traditional sense; kṣobha here is the creative stirring.
471	She who is the goddess worshipped by spiritual adepts	She who is the sovereign of the siddhas, the perfected adepts	'worshipped by spiritual adepts' changed the relation; the compound says She is the sovereign (īśvarī) of the siddhas.
481	She who is the deity of the organ of touch (skin)	She who abides in the skin	The name places Her in the skin as a bodily tissue (dhātu); 'deity of the organ of touch' turned it into the sense of touch.

NAME	PREVIOUS MEANING	NOW	REASON
552	She who guards Her devotees from all	She who wards off every kind of death	The previous text was truncated ('guards Her devotees from all') and omitted death (mṛtyu), the object of the name.
638	She who is the cause of the universe	She whose womb is golden, the source of the world (as Hiraṇyagarbha)	The old meaning ('the cause of the universe') stated only an interpretation; the name says Her womb is golden, recalling Hiraṇyagarbha.
651	She who knows the truth of the physical universe	She who is the knower	The old meaning ('knows the truth of the physical universe') added an object the name does not have; vijñātrī is simply 'the knower'.
666	She who is the aggregate of all existing things	She whose form is the Bhūman, the boundless Plenitude	'the aggregate of all existing things' takes bhūman only as 'multitude'; the name's classic source is the Upaniṣadic Bhūman, the Infinite. The aggregate reading is kept in the significance.
674	She who is predominantly sAttvic	She who is Brāhmaṇī, belonging to Brahman	'predominantly sāttvic' is an interpretation, not what the word says; it is kept in the significance and the meaning now gives the word.
686	She who protects all the dominions	She to whom sovereignty is dear	vallabha means 'dear, beloved', not 'protecting'; the name says the realm is dear to Her (or She is its beloved).
687	She who has a compassion that captivates everyone	She whose compassion shines forth	rājat is 'shining, resplendent', not 'captivating'.
689	She who is the embodiment of the prosperity of the world	She who is the Fortune (Lakṣmī) of the kingdom	rājya is 'kingdom, sovereignty', not 'the world'.
712	She who is the symbol 'Ī' (Other versions show 711/712 as sAdhvI eventhough it is a repetition.)	She who is the syllable ī (kāmakalā)	The old meaning ('the symbol Ī') mixed in an editorial remark; the name is the vowel ī, and the note on other versions moved to variants.

NAME	PREVIOUS MEANING	NOW	REASON
723	She who is free from all limitations	She who is independent, subject to none	'free from all limitations' belongs rather to name 708; svatantrā is 'self-ruled, independent'.
728	She who is the consciousness in brahman	She who is the digit (kalā) of consciousness	'the consciousness in brahman' did not render kalā; the name is the kalā, digit or subtle power, of consciousness.
756	She who killed chaNDa, muNDa and other asuras	She who slew the demons Caṇḍa and Muṇḍa	'and other asuras' is not in the name, which names exactly two demons; ITRANS spelling replaced.
772	She who is difficult to control	She who cannot be assailed or overpowered	ādharṣa is 'assailing, overpowering'; 'difficult to control' is not its sense.
792	She who is immersed in a state of steady wisdom	She who is wholly intent on sāmarasya, the perfect equipoise of Śiva and Śakti	'Steady wisdom' does not translate sāmarasya, the technical term for the union in one flavor of Śiva and Śakti (or of the individual and the Supreme).
796	She who has a desirable form	She who assumes any form at will	'Desirable form' takes kāma as an adjective; the compound means 'form at will' (or 'the form of Kāma').
821	She who is the tail that is brahman; the support for all	She who is Brahmāṇī, the creative power of Brahmā	The older rendering 'the tail that is Brahman' gives only a commentarial interpretation as though it were the translation; the name itself is the feminine of Brahmā/Brahman.
830	She who is manifested in the form of the universe	She whose form is manifest	'In the form of the universe' is not in the name; the bahuvrīhi says only that Her form is manifest.
853	She who transcends the state of peace	She whose very nature is the kalā beyond peace (śāntyatītā)	The name does not say She transcends peace in general: it names the fifth kalā, śāntyatītā, as Her nature.
905	She who is seated in the baindava (spot between the eyebrows) chakra	She whose seat is the bindu, the central point of the Śrīcakra	The baindava place is the central point (bindu) of the Śrīcakra, not 'the spot between the eyebrows', which is the ājñā.

Appendix B — Variants and open questions

B.1 Textual variants

NAME	READING ADOPTED	VARIANT	NOTE
40	मुकुट (mukuṭa)	मकुट (makuṭa)	Both are recognised spellings of "crown". The source's śloka text read mukuṭa, its name list makuṭa.
46	शिञ्जान (śiñjāna)	सिञ्जान (siñjāna)	Both appear in print; the śloka text of the source read siñjāna, its name list śiñjāna. śiñjāna follows the root (√śiji). Flagged for review against a printed Saubhāgyabhāskara.
107	तडिल्लता (taḍillatā)	तटिल्लता (taṭillatā)	taḍit and taṭit both mean lightning. The source reads taḍit in both its śloka text and its name list; the independent copy reads taṭit in its nāmāvalī.
511	बन्धिन्यादि (bandhinyādi)	बन्दिन्यादि (bandinyādi)	The attendant śaktis of Rākiṇī. The source and the independent copy's stotra read bandhinī; that copy's nāmāvalī reads bandinī. Flagged for review.
547	बन्धुरालका (bandhurālakā)	बर्बरालका (barbarālakā)	The source's śloka text read bandhurālakā (as does the independent copy); its name list read barbarālakā, which many numbered lists print. bandhura "wavy", barbara "curly": the sense is the same. Flagged for review against a printed Saubhāgyabhāskara.
879	सुधासृतिः (sudhāsṛtiḥ)	सुधास्रुतिः (sudhāsrutiḥ)	"Stream of nectar"; the source carried both, separated by a slash. sṛti (flow) is the śloka text's reading.
235	चतुःषष्टि (catuḥṣaṣṭi)	चतुष्षष्टि (catuṣṣaṣṭi)	Also 236, 237. Both spellings are correct (Pāṇini 8.3.36); one is used throughout.
Dhyāna 2	mayūkhaiḥ aham	mayūkhair aham	Sandhi across the pāda boundary is optional; the source does not apply it, many editions do.
Dhyāna 4	japavidhau smared ambikām	japavidhau smarāmy ambikām	"Let one remember" / "I remember": both are current.

B.2 Interpretations marked uncertain (129)

Each is flagged at the name itself. Listed here for scholarly review.

- 1 श्रीमाता — Two compound analyses are current: karmadhāraya ('the auspicious Mother') and ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa ('Mother of Śrī/Lakṣmī'). The meaning follows the first; the second is given in the samāsa note.
- 4 चिदग्निकुण्डसम्भूता — Ablative ('arisen from') and locative ('born in') analyses of the last member are both current.
- 25 शुद्धविद्याङ्कुराकारद्विजपङ्क्तिद्वयोज्ज्वला — The identification of śuddhavidyā with the sixteen-syllabled mantra (and of the 32 teeth with it) is widely reported from the commentarial tradition; its exact source wording was not confirmed here.
- 26 कर्पूरवीटिकामोदसमाकर्षिदिगन्तरा — The relation of samākarṣin to digantara admits two readings: the quarters draw in (are pervaded by) the fragrance, as analysed here, or the fragrance draws the beings of every quarter to Her, the usual paraphrase, which takes digantara by metonymy for those who dwell there.
- 32 रत्नग्रैवेयचिन्ताकलोलमुक्ताफलान्विता — The exact form of the cintāka is not certain: it is taken as a gold collar-necklace or as the pendant (locket) of the jewelled necklace. On the second reading the analysis is 'the jewelled necklace with its pendant, and swaying pearls'.
- 37 अरुणारुणकौसुम्भवस्त्रभास्वत्कटीतटी — aruṇāruṇa may be read as 'red as the dawn' (upamāna, as analysed) or as the color word doubled for emphasis, 'deep red, red upon red'.
- 41 इन्द्रगोपपरिक्षिप्तस्मरतूणाभजङ्घिका — Translators take indragopa here either as the scarlet insects themselves, scattered over the quiver, or as red gems of their color set around it; the comparison of the calves to Kāma's quiver is not in doubt.
- 59 महापद्माटवीसंस्था — mahā may qualify the forest ('the great lotus forest') or the lotuses ('the forest of great lotuses'); both readings are current and the sense is the same.
- 62 कामाक्षी — Several analyses are current: kāma as 'lovely' (the meaning given), as 'love, desire' dwelling in Her eyes, and the traditional kā + mā + akṣī (Sarasvatī and Lakṣmī as Her eyes).
- 68 चक्रराजरथारूढसर्वायुधपरिष्कृता — The compound can also be read with ārūḍha qualifying āyudha, 'equipped with all the weapons placed on the Cakrarāja chariot', parallel to names 69–70 where ārūḍha qualifies the following member. The meaning given follows the usual reading.
- 86 कण्ठाधःकटिपर्यन्तमध्यकूटस्वरूपिणी — The first part, kaṇṭhādhaḥ-kaṭiparyanta, can be analysed adverbially or as a bahuvrīhi qualifying an understood 'part of the body'; the relation to the head is therefore stated in sense (locative) rather than as one fixed samāsa type.

- 90 कुलामृतैकरसिका — eka can be taken with kulāmṛta ('the kula-nectar alone') or with rasikā (eka-rasikā 'having one delight'); the sense is the same.
- 93 कुलान्तस्था — The division kula-anta-sthā 'abiding at the end (or the inner part) of kula' is also possible; the reading antar + sthā is followed here.
- 97 समयान्तस्था — As with name 93, the division samaya-anta-sthā ('abiding at the end of samaya') is also possible.
- 106 सुधासाराभिवर्षिणी — sudhā-sāra 'the essence of nectar' is also a possible division; 'downpour' suits abhivarṣiṇī 'raining down' and is followed here.
- 109 महासक्तिः — The division mahā + sakti 'great attachment' is also possible; maha 'festival' + āsakti 'attachment' is followed here because it explains the festive union of the traditional gloss.
- 113 भावनागम्या — Both divisions are traditional: bhāvanā-gamyā 'attainable through contemplation' and bhāvanā-agamyā 'unattainable through (mere) imagination'. The Devanagari is the same either way.
- 207 मनोन्मनी — The junction mano + unmanī is not regular sandhi and the analysis of this technical term varies (some read manas + unmanī as a karmadhāraya, 'the mind that has become unmanī'); the meaning follows the common yogic sense.
- 237 महाचतुःषष्टिकोटियोगिनीगणसेविता — Whether mahā- qualifies the number, the yoginīs or their hosts is not decided by the grammar; the sense hardly changes.
- 258 स्वपन्ती — By Pāṇini (7.1.80–81) the feminine participle of the class-2 root svap (svapiti) would be svapatī; svapantī follows the thematic inflection (svapati) found in epic usage. The text reads svapantī and the metre is the same either way.
- 264 सृष्टिकर्त्री — Pāṇini 2.2.15 restricts compounding a genitive with an agent noun in -tṛ; compounds like sṛṣṭi-kartṛ are nevertheless standard in usage and are usually explained as a general genitive (śeṣa-ṣaṣṭhī).
- 281 उन्मेषनिमिषोत्पन्नविपन्नभुवनावली — A bahuvrīhi ending in an ī-stem like āvalī would by Pāṇini 5.4.153 normally take the suffix -ka (...āvalīkā); the name keeps -āvalī, which is common in such poetic compounds.
- 303 हृद्या — Two derivations are current: 'dear to the heart' (4.4.95) and 'being in the heart'; the meaning gives both.
- 309 रञ्जनी — The root allows two senses, 'one who colors (reddens)' and 'one who delights'; the meaning gives the second, the significance the first.

- 313 रमा — The earlier rendering added Sarasvatī; that rests on a commentarial derivation I could not confirm, so it is left out.
- 316 रतिप्रिया — Bahuvrīhi ('to whom Rati is dear') and ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa ('dear to Rati') are both possible; rati may also be the common noun 'delight'.
- 320 रमणलम्पटा — ramaṇa can be the beloved (Śiva) or the act of love-play itself ('eager for love-play'); the meaning follows the first.
- 322 कामकलारूपा — kāmakalā is analysed both as 'the digit of Kāma' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa) and as 'Kāma and Kalā' (dvandva).
- 328 कलालापा — The fused ā allows kalā 'art' + ālāpa as well: 'She whose talk is of the arts'. The usual reading takes kala 'sweet'.
- 332 वामनयना — vāma means both 'beautiful' and 'left'; the meaning takes the first.
- 342 क्षेत्रेशी — The name may mean 'ruler of the field' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa) or 'wife of Kṣetreśa, Śiva' (puṃyoga feminine); both are current.
- 345 क्षेत्रपालसमर्चिता — The story of the infant Kṣetrapāla is traditionally told on this name; I could not confirm its Purāṇic source, so it is not attributed.
- 351 वामकेशी — Read as a bahuvrīhi ('beautiful-haired') or as the consort of Vāmakeśa, Śiva; the meaning takes the first.
- 367 प्रत्यक्चितीरूपा — The long ī of citī is not the regular form of citi; it is analysed here as a lengthening of citi (some take it as metrical).
- 368 पश्यन्ती — The bodily seat of each level of speech is placed differently in different texts (paśyantī at the svādhiṣṭhāna in some, at the navel in others); the sequence parā–paśyantī–madhyamā–vaikharī itself is undisputed.
- 370 मध्यमा — The bodily seat of each level of speech is placed differently in different texts (paśyantī at the svādhiṣṭhāna in some, at the navel in others); the sequence parā–paśyantī–madhyamā–vaikharī itself is undisputed.
- 374 कृतज्ञा — kṛtajñā means both 'knowing what is done' and 'grateful'; both are given.
- 375 कामपूजिता — The allusion to the Kāmagiri pīṭha (reading 'worshipped at Kāma[giri]') is traditional but not in the grammar of the name.
- 392 श्रीकण्ठार्धशरीरिणी — For an exact half Pāṇini's rule (2.2.2 ardhaṃ napuṃsakam) puts ardha first; here, as often in later usage, it follows in a genitive compound.
- 405 शिवदूती — The bahuvrīhi ('whose messenger is Śiva', as in the Devī Māhātmya story) and the ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa ('messenger of Śiva') are both current.
- 407 शिवमूर्तिः — 'whose form is Śiva' (bahuvrīhi) and 'auspicious form' (karmadhāraya) are both possible.

- 410 शिवपरा — 'devoted to Śiva' (bahuvrīhi) and 'beyond Śiva' (pañcamī-tatpuruṣa) are both current; the meaning follows the first.
- 411 शिष्टेष्टा — iṣṭā may be from √iṣ ('dear to the righteous') or √yaj ('worshipped by the righteous'); a bahuvrīhi 'to whom the righteous are dear' is also given by some.
- 415 मनोवाचामगोचरा — Whether manovācām agocarā is one compound with the genitive retained or two words read as a single name is not settled; the meaning is the same.
- 422 सन्ध्या — The word is derived from sam + √dhyai ('meditation') or from sandhi 'junction' (sam + √dhā); both are traditional.
- 424 तत्त्वासना — A second analysis takes āsana as an agent noun from √ās 'to sit': tattveṣu āste 'She who abides in the tattvas'. The bahuvrīhi ('whose seat is the tattvas') is the more natural reading of the compound.
- 427 अयी — The sense of ayī is not settled. The common interjection of address is ayi with a short i; the long ī here is read either as that particle lengthened or as a feminine form, and the commentarial derivation could not be confirmed here. The rendering follows the usual reading as a call of address.
- 438 कुरुकुल्ला — The derivation of the name is obscure, and the place Kurukullā holds in Śrīnagara is described differently in the sources; the old note that she resides in the kuruvinda ruby could not be confirmed.
- 448 स्वस्तिमती — The reading of svasti as 'imperishable being' is traditional; the exact source in the commentaries could not be confirmed here.
- 452 तेजोवती — The usual Pāṇinian derivation keeps the s of tejas before a possessive suffix (Pāṇini 1.4.19 tasau matvarthe), giving tejasvatī; tejovatī, with the s treated as a word-end, is the attested form of the name.
- 454 लोलाक्षीकामरूपिणी — lolākṣī can also be taken as an epithet of the Goddess herself ('the restless-eyed one, whose form is Kāma'); the rendering follows the reading of lolākṣī as 'women'.
- 456 हंसिनी — The possessive suffix allows several senses — 'having the haṃsas (great yogins) as Her own', 'having the haṃsa (swan or breath-mantra)' — and the tradition gives more than one.
- 460 नलिनी — nalinī also means a lotus pond, and is the name of one of the streams of the Gaṅgā; which sense is primary is a matter of interpretation.
- 464 कालकण्ठी — The name can also be read directly as a bahuvrīhi of Her own ('She whose throat is dark'), or with kālakaṇṭha in the sense 'whose throat is sweet-voiced'; the reading as Śiva's consort is the usual one.

- 466 क्षोभिणी — What She stirs is not named; the creative agitation of prakṛti is the usual reading, and agitation of the mind of Śiva or of devotees is also given.
- 469 वामदेवी — Two analyses are current: the consort of Vāmadeva, followed here, and 'the lovely goddess' (vāmā devī).
- 472 सिद्धविद्या — The reason the pañcadaśī is called siddha is given traditionally as above; the exact commentarial source could not be confirmed here.
- 476 आरक्तवर्णा — ā- can also intensify ('deep red'); the rendering 'rosy, reddish' is the usual one.
- 479 वदनैकसमन्विता — The order face-one is unusual. It is read here as a karmadhāraya with the numeral placed second (compare 487 and 496, where dvaya and traya are nouns, 'a pair', 'a triad'); the sense is not in doubt.
- 484 डाकिनीश्वरी — Karmadhāraya ('She who is Ḍākinī, the sovereign') and ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa ('sovereign of the ḍākinīs') are both possible; the parallel names 494, 503, 520 and 534 (... ambāsvarūpiṇī) favor the first.
- 491 कालरात्र्यादिशक्त्यौघवृता — śaktyaugha requires the member augha, a by-form of ogha 'flood, host' (śakti + ogha would give śaktyogha); the sense is not affected.
- 526 हरिद्रान्नैकरसिका — eka-rasikā may also be read as 'having a single taste, absorbed in one relish'; the sense is the same.
- 545 पुलोमजार्चिता — That Śacī's worship secures Indra's rule is a traditional reading; no single source for it was confirmed here.
- 547 बन्धुरालका — The reading itself: this edition follows the verse text (bandhurālakā) where the old name list read barbarālakā; which of the two Bhāskararāya's text adopts could not be confirmed here. The sense is the same either way.
- 556 कात्यायनी — Purāṇic accounts differ on whether She was born in Kātyāyana's hermitage or first worshipped by him; the derivation from Kata is standard grammar.
- 572 पराशक्तिः — Phrase or compound: the retained feminine parā and the verse's spacing point to two words in agreement (no samāsa); in later usage Parāśakti is also treated as a fixed compound title.
- 573 परानिष्ठा — Phrase or compound, as with name 572: the feminine parā is kept, so the name is read as two words in agreement.
- 587 श्रीषोडशाक्षरीविद्या — The composition of the Ṣoḍaśī (which syllable completes the Pañcadaśī, and where it is placed) differs between lineages; the significance gives the commonest account.
- 589 कामकोटिका — koṭi has several senses (portion, extremity, ten million), and the name is also read as 'She who dwells at Kāmakoṭi', the pīṭha at Kāñcī. The meaning follows the reading of Kāma as a part of Her.

- 590 कटाक्षकिङ्करीभूतकमलाकोटिसेविता — kaṭākṣa may be taken in the genitive ('handmaids of Her glance') or the instrumental ('made handmaids by Her glance'); the image is the same.
- 603 गुरुमूर्तिः — Two compound analyses: bahuvrīhi ('whose form is the guru') and karmadhāraya ('the weighty, awesome form'). The meaning follows the first.
- 610 प्रतिपन्मुख्यराकान्ततिथिमण्डलपूजिता — tithimaṇḍala may be taken as the agent (instrumental, 'by the circle of days', i.e. their deities) or as the time (locative, 'on each of the days'); both readings are current.
- 612 कलानाथा — Read as a ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa ('mistress of the kalās'); the sense 'She who is the moon' (kalānātha) is also current.
- 622 क्लीङ्कारी — Two analyses: 'maker of klīṃ' (upapada-tatpuruṣa) and 'She who is the syllable klīṃ' (klīṁkāra + feminine -ī); traditionally She is both its source and its form.
- 624 गुह्या — Derived from √guh 'to hide' (gerundive) or from guhā 'cave' ('dwelling in the cave of the heart'); both are traditional.
- 626 त्रिपुरा — Two derivations: tri + pura 'three cities' (bahuvrīhi) and tri + purā 'before the three' (the traditional reading). The meaning gives both.
- 630 त्र्यक्षरी — Which three syllables are meant is explained in more than one way (Oṃ, the Bālā mantra, the three kūṭas).
- 638 स्वर्णगर्भा — The old meaning gave an interpretation ('the cause of the universe'); the literal bahuvrīhi and its echo of Hiraṇyagarbha are given here. Bhāskararāya's own gloss of this name was not confirmed.
- 639 अवरदा — The derivation from √do 'to cut' is the traditional one; -dā could also be read from √dā 'to give' ('She who gives even to the lowly'). The name is avaradā, not varadā: the avagraha in the verse marks the elided a.
- 655 योग्या — yogya means both 'fit, worthy' and 'to be attained by yoga'; the meaning follows the second, the significance mentions the first.
- 666 भूमरूपा — bhūman can mean 'the Infinite' (Chāndogya 7.23–24) or 'manyness, the aggregate'; both are current for this name.
- 674 ब्राह्मणी — Several readings are current: 'of the nature of Brahman', 'predominantly sāttvic' (the brāhmaṇa as sattva), and the Śakti of Brahmā; the source of the sāttvic gloss could not be confirmed.
- 677 बलिप्रिया — bali may also be read from balin 'the strong': 'She who loves the strong' (those strong in devotion and self-mastery).

- 683 शोभनासुलभागतिः — Not a compound: the adjectives keep their feminine -ā, which they would lose inside a karmadhāraya (śobhana-sulabha-gati); the name is three nominatives in apposition, counted as one name. gati can be 'goal' or 'path'.
- 684 राजराजेश्वरी — rājarāja may be 'kings of kings' (emperors) or Kubera, the king of the yakṣas; both readings are current.
- 686 राज्यवल्लभा — vallabha also means 'lord, overseer' in some lexicons, which would support 'protector of kingdoms'; the bahuvrīhi 'to whom sovereignty is dear' and the tatpuruṣa 'beloved of the realm' are the plain readings.
- 695 दीक्षिता — The participle is passive ('consecrated'), but the name is commonly explained as 'She who initiates', taking dīkṣitā as 'possessed of dīkṣā'; both are current.
- 706 गुहाम्बा — The fused ā allows guha 'Skanda' or guhā 'cave'; both readings are traditional.
- 711 साधु — Bhāskararāya's own gloss of sādhu could not be checked against a printed Saubhāgyabhāskara; 'equanimity' (the earlier meaning) may reflect it.
- 712 ई — The kāmakalā reading is the Śrīvidyā one; single-syllable lexicons also give ī as a name of Lakṣmī. Bhāskararāya's exact gloss could not be checked against a printed text.
- 714 कुलोत्तीर्णा — kula has several traditional senses here — the senses, the Kaula path, the family of the knower–knowing–known; the reading as 'the senses' follows the earlier meaning.
- 715 भगाराध्या — bhaga can be taken as the sun's disc or as the trikoṇa of Śrīcakra; the meaning follows the first.
- 725 दक्षिणामूर्तिरूपिणी — The sense of dakṣiṇā in the proper name is explained variously ('facing south', 'gracious', 'skilled'); 'facing south' is the usual one.
- 728 चित्कला — ṣaṣṭhī ('a digit of consciousness') and karmadhāraya ('consciousness as subtle power') readings are both possible.
- 733 नन्दिविद्या — Which form of the mantra is meant by Nandividyā, and its place among the worshippers' vidyās, could not be confirmed against a printed commentary.
- 754 अपर्णा — The name has two analyses: apa + ṛṇa 'free of debt' (the meaning given) and a + parṇa 'without (even) a leaf', the classical name of Pārvatī.
- 785 मार्ताण्डभैरवाराध्या — The place of Mārtāṇḍa Bhairava in Her city follows the usual account; the exact enclosure could not be confirmed against a printed text.
- 786 मन्त्रिणीन्यस्तराज्यधूः — Pāṇini 5.4.74 adds the compound-final -a to a compound ending in dhur (...-dhura); the name keeps the bare dhūḥ, a usage also found in epic and Purāṇic Sanskrit. Noted, not a text concern: the verse and the metre support dhūḥ.

- 790 परापरा — Read as 'both supreme and non-supreme' (karmadhāraya) or as 'the intermediate, Parāparā' (the middle of the Tantric triad).
- 793 कपर्दिनी — The feminine of kapardin can mean 'wife of Kapardin' (the usual reading) or 'She who herself wears the kaparda braid'.
- 794 कलामाला — Ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa ('the garland of the arts') and bahuvrīhi ('whose garland is the arts') readings are both current.
- 796 कामरूपिणी — Three readings are current: 'taking form at will', 'having the form of Kāma/Kāmeśvara', and 'Goddess of Kāmarūpa'.
- 804 पुष्करा — puṣkara has many senses (lotus, water, sky, the tīrtha Puṣkara); the gloss 'nourishing' rests on a traditional etymology from √puṣ rather than on regular grammar.
- 809 परात्परा — Whether parātparā is an aluk compound or a two-word phrase written together is a matter of analysis; the meaning is the same.
- 815 अनित्यतृप्ता — The śloka's continuous text mūrtāmūrtānitya... could also be divided amūrtā + nityatṛptā 'ever satisfied'; the edited text marks the a of anitya with an avagraha, following the traditional division.
- 821 ब्रह्माणी — The traditional interpretation through 'brahma pucchaṃ pratiṣṭhā' rests on a derivation that could not be confirmed; the plain grammatical sense is given as the meaning.
- 838 मुकुन्दा — The derivation muku 'liberation' + dā 'giving' is a traditional etymology (nirukti), not regular grammar.
- 839 मुक्तिनिलया — The feminine ending admits two analyses: an adjectival ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa ('the abode of liberation') and a bahuvrīhi ('whose abode is liberation').
- 847 तलोदरी — Two readings are current: 'whose waist is flat (slender)' and 'in whose belly are the talas, the lower worlds'.
- 855 गगनान्तस्था — anta can be read as 'limit' (beyond the sky) or 'interior' (within space); both readings are current.
- 860 अकान्ता — aka 'pain, sin' is a rare word and the analysis aka + antā is the traditional one; the śloka's sandhi kāṣṭhā'kāntā fixes the initial a, so a reading kāntā 'beloved' is not available here.
- 875 त्रिपुरमालिनी — As a proper name its internal analysis is not fixed; the vigraha given is grammatical, not a traditional gloss.
- 895 योनिनिलया — Read as 'the abode of all sources' or as 'She who dwells in the yoni (the central triangle)'.

- 903 कल्या — kalya has several senses (able, healthy, auspicious; also 'dawn'), and traditional glosses differ; the rendering combines the main ones.
- 912 सव्यापसव्यमार्गस्था — savya is mostly 'left' but is occasionally used for 'right' in ritual contexts; the name covers both paths either way.
- 916 धीरा — The sense 'giver of wisdom' depends on the traditional analysis dhī + √rā; the ordinary meanings are 'wise' and 'steadfast'.
- 923 दक्षिणादक्षिणाराध्या — Besides right-hand / left-hand ways, the pair is also read as the skillful and the unskillful (learned and unlearned); both readings rest on the same dvandva.
- 925 कौलिनीकेवला — The internal relation (apposition, or a genitive 'the Absolute for the Kaulas') is not settled; both are traditional and the meaning combines them.
- 940 परामोदा — The usual division is para + āmodā; parā + modā is also possible, with the same sense.
- 945 वामकेश्वरी — The sense of vāmaka (the left-hand way, or 'beauty') is variously explained.

- 971 सुवासिन्यर्चनप्रीता — suvāsinī-arcana may mean worship OF suvāsinīs (the Śrīvidyā rite of suvāsinī-pūjā) or worship BY them; the first is followed.
- 972 आशोभना — The verse string can be cut prītā + āśobhanā or prītā + śobhanā with identical sound; Bhāskararāya's division (āśobhanā) is followed.
- 976 त्रिपुराम्बिका — Genitive ('Mother of the three cities') and appositional ('Tripurā the Mother') analyses are both current.
- 978 त्रिपुराश्रीवशङ्करी — Tripurāśrī as the fifth-enclosure deity and as 'the fortune of the three worlds' are both traditional readings.
- 983 त्रिखण्डेशी — Trikhaṇḍā as the tenth mudrā, or the three kūṭas of the Pañcadaśī mantra: both are traditional.
- 985 अम्बा — triguṇāmbā can also be read as one word, 'the Mother of the three guṇas'; the 1,000-name count follows Bhāskararāya's two names.
- 994 आबालगोपविदिता — The outer link of the avyayībhāva to the participle viditā is loose; it may also be read as an instrumental, 'known by (all) down to children and cowherds'.
- 996 श्रीचक्रराजनिलया — The compound can also be read śrī + cakrarāja, 'the glorious king of cakras'; both name the Śrīcakra.

Appendix C — Batch consistency reports

The analysis was done in batches of ten ślokas. After each, a check proved that the batch lists exactly the names of its ślokas in order, that every IAST string is the exact transliteration of its Devanagari, and that every name has its sandhi, samāsa, word table, meaning and significance.

BATCH	ŚLOKAS	NAMES	REPORT
1	1–10	1–26	Checked all 26 names of ślokas 1–10 against text.json: sandhi at every member junction (and at visible prefix junctions such as ud + jvalā), a layered samāsa analysis with vigraha-vākyas written word by word in pausa form, and the meanings against that analysis. One word boundary was wrong in the old reading form and split (15: vibhrājad-alika, not vibhrāja-dalika) and one member was misidentified (26: āmoda 'fragrance', not moda); name 16's meaning missed the face-as-moon compound and was replaced. No problem was found in the Sanskrit text; no external sandhi joins names in these ślokas.
2	11–20	27–48	Checked all 22 names of ślokas 11–20 against text.json: sandhi at every member junction (including prefix junctions sam + lāpa, ud + neya, sam + channa), a layered samāsa analysis with pausa-form vigraha-vākyas, and the meanings against that analysis. Two members were misidentified in the old split (35: ādhāratā 'being the support', not dhāratā 'stream'; 41: indragopa is one word, a scarlet insect, not Indra + 'beetle') and one member boundary was wrong (32: phala belongs to muktāphala 'pearl'); name 32's meaning was replaced. No error was found in the Sanskrit; name 40's recent correction to mukuṭa is sound, but the earlier makuṭa is a recognized by-form and is recorded as a variant, not a typo. No external sandhi joins names in these ślokas.
3	21–30	49–77	Checked all 29 names of ślokas 21–30 against text.json: sandhi at every member junction (and the prefix junctions sam + sthā, adhi + sthita, puras + kṛtā), a layered samāsa analysis with pausa-form vigraha-vākyas, and the meanings against that analysis. Name 50's meaning was wrong (anavadya is 'faultless', not 'worthy of worship') and 56's was truncated; both were replaced. Several old splits misplaced boundaries (64: stūyamāna | ātma-vaibhava; 71: the goddess-name Jvālāmālinikā cut in two; 67: koṭibhiḥ + āvṛtā is two words, so the name is a phrase, not one compound). No error was found in the Sanskrit; the only external sandhi is sarvāruṇā + anavadyāṅgī in śloka 21.

BATCH	ŚLOKAS	NAMES	REPORT
4	31–40	78–111	Checked all 34 names of ślokas 31–40 against text.json (the end of the Bhaṇḍāsura war, the three kūṭas of the subtle form, and the kula/kuṇḍalinī section): sandhi at every member and visible prefix junction, layered samāsa analysis with pausa vigrahas, and each meaning against that analysis. Several members were misidentified in the old splits: 82 śūnyakā is Bhaṇḍa's city Śūnyaka, not 'void'; 106 is sudhā + āsāra 'downpour', not sāra 'essence'; 109 has dental s (āsakti 'attachment'), not śakti 'power'; 101 cut through maṇipūra. Name 83's meaning (Mahendra glossed as Śiva) was replaced and 86's truncated meaning completed. No problem was found in the Sanskrit; no external sandhi joins names in these ślokas.
5	41–50	112–192	Checked all 81 names of ślokas 41–50 against text.json: Bhavānī and the names of devotion, then the long series of nirguṇa names built on nis 'without' (132–187), whose every prefix form (nir, niṣ, niś, nis, niḥ, nī) is explained as sandhi, followed by the 'without X / destroyer of X' pairs. Main findings: 156 is nī-rāgā (nis + rāga 'passion'), not nīr + āgā 'sin'; 126 śāṅkarī (with vṛddhi) is 'consort of Śaṅkara', not 'giver of happiness'; 113's meaning ('unattainable') contradicted its split ('attainable') — both divisions are traditional, the gamyā reading is followed and the other recorded; 133 nirañjanā is 'stainless'. Two external sandhis join names (116–117, 154–155). No problem was found in the Sanskrit.
6	51–60	193–248	Checked all 56 names of ślokas 51–60 (names 193–248) against text.json: sandhi at every member junction, a layered samāsa analysis with vigraha-vākyas in pausa form, and the meanings against that analysis. One reading form was wrongly cut (229: mahāsanā is mahā + āsanā, not mahā-sanā), and several meanings carried commentary in place of the grammar (207, 209, 225, 226, 241) or misread a suffix (203 -mayī 'consisting of', not 'pervading'); these were replaced. External sandhi joins names only by visarga → r in ślokas 53–55. No problem was found in the Sanskrit text.
7	61–70	249–304	Checked all 56 names of ślokas 61–70 (names 249–304) against text.json: sandhi at every member junction (including prefix junctions such as ut + meṣa and sam + doha), layered samāsa analyses with vigraha-vākyas in pausa form, and the meanings against that analysis. Two meanings were replaced (271 īśvarī, 279 bhagavatī: the old wording was not in the name) and one list of the five cosmic acts was corrected (274). External sandhi joins names in ślokas 64 and 69 (including Bhāskararāya's division of tirodhānakarīśvarī into 270 + 271). No problem was found in the Sanskrit text; svapantī (258) is noted as non-Pāṇinian but attested.

8	71–80	305–365	Checked all 61 names of ślokas 71–80 against text.json: sandhi at every member and visible prefix junction, layered samāsa analyses with pausa-form vigraha-vākyas, and the meanings against that analysis. Most changes are tidying (ITRANS, capitalization, typos) or removing words not in the name; two meanings were replaced (363 tatpadalakṣyārthā, which names the Vedāntic 'implied meaning' of tat, and 364 cidekarasarūpiṇī, whose 'cause of knowledge' is not in the name). Old splits often left fused members as one row (rājārcitā, trayāgni, saṃhṛtāśeṣa, lavībhūta) or gave stems in their sandhi form (vāg, cid). No problem was found in the Sanskrit text; the only external sandhi is citiḥ + tat- in śloka 80.
9	81–90	366–423	Checked all 58 names of ślokas 81–90 against text.json: sandhi at every member and visible prefix junction (including the visarga and anusvāra forms of rahas-, sadyas-, tamas-, śivam-), layered samāsa analyses with pausa-form vigraha-vākyas, and the meanings against that analysis. Most changes are ITRANS and wording tidying; two meanings were replaced (367 pratyakcitīrūpā, where pratyak is 'inward', not 'unmanifested'; 418 jaḍaśaktiḥ, where commentary had been given as translation). One word boundary was wrong in the old split (415: manovācām agocarā, not vācāma gocarā). The Sanskrit wording is sound; one orthographic concern is recorded: the half-line of śloka 87 has a stray hyphen and lacks the avagraha of name 402.
10	91–100	424–490	Checked all 67 names of ślokas 91–100 against text.json, with sandhi at every member junction (and at visible prefix junctions such as ud + jvalā, sam + vṛtā, anu + itā), a layered samāsa analysis with pausa-form vigrahas, and the meanings against that analysis. Bhāskararāya's division tat / tvam / ayī (425–427) is explained (the single word tattvamayī is name 907), and 454 lolākṣīkāmarūpiṇī is analysed as one name. Meanings that were interpretation or belonged to another sense were replaced (448 svastimatī, 454, 466 kṣobhiṇī, 471 siddheśvarī, 481 tvaksthā); the rest were tidied (ITRANS, typos, words not in the name). The yoginī section begins at 475. No problem was found in the Sanskrit text.

11	101–110	491–541	Checked all 51 names of ślokas 101–110 against text.json — the yoginī section from Rākiṇī's attendants to Yākinī (491–534), then svāhā … anuttamā — with sandhi at every member junction (including visible prefix junctions such as ni + sthā → niṣṭhā, sam + yutā, anu + itā), layered samāsa analyses with pausa-form vigrahas, and the meanings against that analysis. Most meanings were tidied (ITRANS, words not in the name, compounds whose head was missed, such as 501, 505, 512, 519); none needed replacing. Name 498 is shown to be a two-word phrase (ḍāmaryādibhir āvṛtā), and 537 amatiḥ is explained as Bhāskararāya's reading of svadhā'matiḥ. No problem was found in the Sanskrit text.
12	111–120	542–600	Checked all 59 names of ślokas 111–120 against text.json: sandhi at every member junction and visible prefix junction, a layered samāsa with pausa-form vigrahas, and each meaning against that analysis. Name 552's old meaning was truncated (death was missing) and was replaced; 36 others were tidied (ITRANS to IAST, words not in the name removed, e.g. 'and sorrows' in 551, 'three worlds' in 582), and 575's inner reading was moved to the significance. Names 572–573 are read as adjective-noun phrases (parā śaktiḥ, parā niṣṭhā), not compounds, since the feminine parā is kept; 590's kiṅkarībhūta is a cvi formation. No problem was found in the Sanskrit; the reading of 547 (bandhurālakā, with barbarālakā as a variant) is flagged for review, and external sandhi joins names in ślokas 113, 115, 117 and 119.
13	121–130	601–661	Checked all 61 names of ślokas 121–130 against text.json: sandhi at every member junction and visible prefix junction (including ud + jval, pari + cheda, sam + vedya, the augment m in yugandharā), a layered samāsa with pausa-form vigrahas, and each meaning against that analysis. Two meanings were replaced (638 stated only an interpretation; 651 added an object the name lacks) and 40 were tidied (ITRANS to IAST, typos, words not in the name such as 'daily' in 610 and 'maintained' in 648). Several old splits misdivided members (629 tridaśa + īśvarī, not tri + daśeśvarī; 657 yuga + the augment m) or gave sandhi forms as stems (jagad, vāg, sad/asad, pratipan). No problem was found in the Sanskrit; external sandhi joins names in ślokas 121, 124, 125 and 127, where the avagrahas mark avaradā (639) and apariccheḍyā (642).

14	131–140	662–727	Checked all 66 names of ślokas 131–140 against text.json: sandhi at every member and prefix junction, layered samāsa analyses with pausa-form vigrahas, and each meaning against its analysis. Bhāskararāya's division of sādhvī into 711 sādhu + 712 ī (to avoid repeating name 128) and his single name 683 śobhanā sulabhā gatiḥ (avoiding a repeat of 462) are explained; meanings that misread a word were replaced (666 bhūman, 674, 686 vallabha, 687 rājat, 689 rājya, 712, and 723, which carried 708's meaning). No problem was found in the Sanskrit text.
15	141–150	728–790	Checked all 63 names of ślokas 141–150 against text.json: sandhi at every member and prefix junction (including the external fusion citkalā + ānandakalikā), layered samāsa analyses with pausa-form vigrahas, and each meaning against its analysis. Three word boundaries were wrong in the old splits and are corrected (753 mahā + aśanā, not śanā; 782 para + ākāśa, not parā + kāśā; 788 jayat + senā, not jaya + tsenā). Meanings were replaced for 728 (kalā not rendered), 756 ('and other asuras' is not in the name) and 772 (ādharṣa is 'assailing', not 'control'). No problem was found in the Sanskrit text.
16	151–160	791–861	Checked all 71 names of ślokas 151–160 against text.json, with sandhi at every member junction, a layered samāsa analysis and the meanings tested against it. Bhāskararāya's division of ब्रह्मजननी into 822 brahma and 823 jananī is kept and explained; 806 and 807 are two-word phrases (param jyotiḥ, param dhāma), not compounds. Meanings were replaced where a commentarial gloss or a wrong sense stood in for the name (792 sāmarasya, 796 kāmarūpiṇī, 821 brahmāṇī, 830 prakaṭākṛtiḥ, 853 śāntyatītā kalā); several old splits glossed para as 'supreme' where it means 'enemy' (812) or gave sandhi forms as stems. No problem was found in the Sanskrit text.
17	161–170	862–922	Checked all 61 names of ślokas 161–170 against text.json, with sandhi at every member junction, a layered samāsa analysis and the meanings tested against it. Two old reading forms cut through the words and were re-hyphenated: 878 svātmārāmā (sva + ātma + ārāmā, not svātmā + rāmā) and 908 tattvam-artha-svarūpiṇī (tat + tvam + artha, not tattva + 'martha'). Name 905's meaning was replaced (the baindava place is the bindu of the Śrīcakra, not the spot between the eyebrows); several old glosses were corrected (kārya 'effect', su 'very', sadā 'always', savya 'left'). No problem was found in the Sanskrit text.

18	171–180	923–989	Checked all 67 names of ślokas 171–180 against text.json: sandhi at every member and prefix junction, a layered samāsa analysis with vigraha-vākyas in pausa form, and every meaning against that analysis. Bhāskararāya's divisions are explained where they fall (955 dharā / 956 dharasutā with no sound change; 972 āśobhanā and 985 ambā across savarṇa-dīrgha), and two misread members were corrected in the word tables: 923 is dakṣiṇa + a-dakṣiṇa (left-hand worshipers had been dropped) and 978 Tripurāśrī is one deity, not 'three cities' + 'sacred'. No meaning had to be replaced outright; most edits put ITRANS into IAST or removed words not in the name. No problem was found in the Sanskrit text.
19	181–183	990–1000	Checked the last 11 names (990–1000, ślokas 181–183) against text.json, with sandhi at every member and prefix junction, layered vigraha-vākyas in pausa form, and every meaning against the analysis; the closing half-line of śloka 183 is explained in its verse note. Two members were misidentified in the old tables (994 gopa 'beetle' for 'cowherd'; 990 jñātā as 'knower' rather than 'known'), and 992's meaning was sharpened to render avyāja 'without any pretext' and mūrti 'embodiment'. No problem was found in the Sanskrit of the names; the only observation is spacing in the closing line (श्रीललिता देव्या reads as one compound), noted in the verse note.
