How to read this book

Every śloka — the nyāsa, the four dhyāna ślokas and the 183 ślokas of the names — is set out the same way, top to bottom:

1. The Sanskrit, large, exactly as it is recited, with a space wherever one word or name ends and the next begins without any letter changing. When sandhi joins two names, the joining sound stays with the first (भद्रमूर्तिर् भक्तसौभाग्यदायिनी), and an elided initial vowel is shown by the avagraha (सर्वारुणा ऽनवद्याङ्गी). Four times in the hymn two names melt into one sound and cannot be parted without changing the text (साध्वी = 711 sādhu + 712 ī, for example); there they stay together.
2. The IAST transliteration, word for word the same.
3. The names, separated — the learning view. Every name is shown on its own, numbered, in its own form, with light hyphens at the joints of a compound. A name marked ° has a different form in the recitation because of sandhi (भद्रमूर्तिः on its own, भद्रमूर्तिर् before भक्त...). This view is for learning; the line above is the text.
4. The translation, name by name, numbered.
5. Word by word: every name broken into its grammatical parts, each with its English meaning. The parts are given in their underlying forms (चित् + अग्नि for चिदग्नि), so the table shows what the words are, not only how they sound.
6. The names: for each name its meaning, the sandhi inside it, its compound and the traditional analysing sentence (vigraha-vākya), and a short note on its significance. Readings that are disputed are marked UNCERTAIN (129 of them, listed in Appendix B).

The text. The Lalitā Sahasranāma of the Brahmāṇḍa Purāṇa (Hayagrīva and Agastya), divided into 1,000 names as Bhāskararāya divides them: tat · tvam · ayī (425–427), sādhu · ī (711–712), brahma · jananī (822–823) and dharā · dharasutā (955–956) are his divisions. The text was corrected name by name, checked against an independent copy of the same recension, and proved against the metre (every half-śloka has its sixteen syllables). The names fill 182½ ślokas; the second half of śloka 183 closes the hymn. The nyāsa, dhyāna and colophon are not counted among the names. Every correction is in Appendix A.

WORD BY WORD

SANSKRIT	ENGLISH
1 श्रीमाता śrī-mātā
श्री śrī	auspiciousness, glory, splendor; also the goddess Śrī (Lakṣmī)

SANSKRIT	ENGLISH
माता mātā	mother nominative singular of the stem mātṛ

2 श्रीमहाराज्ञी śrī-mahā-rājñī

श्री śrī	auspicious, glorious (honorific)
महत् mahat	great appears as mahā- in a karmadhāraya (Pāṇini 6.3.46)
राज्ञी rājñī	queen feminine of rājan 'king'

3 श्रीमत्सिंहासनेश्वरी śrīmat-siṃhāsaneśvarī

श्रीमत् śrīmat	glorious, splendid śrī + the possessive suffix -mat
सिंहासन siṃhāsana	throne (lit. 'lion-seat') siṃha 'lion' + āsana 'seat'
ईश्वरी īśvarī	sovereign, ruling lady feminine of īśvara, from √īś 'to rule'

4 चिदग्निकुण्डसम्भूता cid-agni-kuṇḍa-sambhūtā

चित् cit	pure consciousness
अग्नि agni	fire
कुण्ड kuṇḍa	fire-pit, sacrificial altar-pit

समुद्यता samudyatā	ready, intent upon, set to work sam + ud + √yam 'to raise', past participle, feminine: lit. 'with arms raised for the work'

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Names 1–3 each open with śrī/śrīmat and are traditionally read together as creation, maintenance and dissolution; names 4–5 begin the Purāṇic account of Her appearance from the fire for the gods' task.

THE NAMES

1 श्रीमाता śrī-mātā

She who is the auspicious Mother

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND karmadhāraya (śrī as qualifying/honorific first member); alternatively ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa. Two analyses are current, and both make mātā 'mother' the head. As a karmadhāraya, śrī stands in apposition to mātā: 'the Mother who is Śrī', i.e. auspicious, glorious, the source of all prosperity. As a ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa, śrī is the goddess Śrī (Lakṣmī): 'the mother of Śrī'. Śrī and mātā are simply juxtaposed; there is no sound change.

ANALYSIS श्रीः माता श्रीमाता (श्रीः च असौ माता च); अथवा श्रियः माता श्रीमाता

śrīḥ mātā śrīmātā (śrīḥ ca asau mātā ca); athavā śriyaḥ mātā śrīmātā

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally the first three names are read together as the three cosmic functions: as Mother She brings forth the worlds (sṛṣṭi), as Empress She sustains them (sthiti), and as Sovereign of the lion-throne She withdraws them (saṃhāra). She is Mother even of Lakṣmī and Sarasvatī.

> UNCERTAIN Two compound analyses are current: karmadhāraya ('the auspicious Mother') and ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa ('Mother of Śrī/Lakṣmī'). The meaning follows the first; the second is given in the samāsa note.

2 श्रीमहाराज्ञी śrī-mahā-rājñī

She who is the auspicious great Empress

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND karmadhāraya (with an inner karmadhāraya). Inner layer: mahatī rājñī 'the great queen'. In a karmadhāraya the feminine adjective mahatī takes its masculine stem (puṃvadbhāva, Pāṇini 6.3.42), and mahat then becomes mahā- before a co-referential member (6.3.46 ān mahataḥ samānādhikaraṇa-jātīyayoḥ): mahā-rājñī. Rājñī is the feminine of rājan 'king' and is the head. Outer layer: śrī qualifies mahārājñī as in name 1. These are morphological replacements, not sound-sandhi; the members meet without phonetic change.

ANALYSIS महती राज्ञी महाराज्ञी; श्रीः महाराज्ञी श्रीमहाराज्ञी

mahatī rājñī mahārājñī; śrīḥ mahārājñī śrīmahārājñī

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally the second of the three opening names: as Empress She sustains and governs all the worlds (sthiti) that She brought forth as Mother.

3 श्रीमत्सिंहासनेश्वरी śrīmat-siṃhāsaneśvarī

She who is the queen of the most glorious throne

SANDHI सिंहासन = सिंह + आसन (siṃha + āsana) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ), inside the lexicalised compound siṃhāsana 'throne'; सिंहासनेश्वरी = सिंहासन + ईश्वरी (siṃhāsana + īśvarī) — guṇa: a + ī → e (Pāṇini 6.1.87 ād guṇaḥ)

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa (with an inner karmadhāraya). Inner layer: the adjective śrīmat 'glorious' qualifies siṃhāsana 'lion-seat, throne' (karmadhāraya). Outer layer: īśvarī 'sovereign, ruling lady' is the head and the throne stands to it in the genitive relation: 'the sovereign of the glorious throne'. Grammatically śrīmat could also qualify the sovereign herself (śrīmatī reduced to śrīmat by puṃvadbhāva), but the usual reading attaches it to the throne.

ANALYSIS श्रीमत् सिंहासनम् श्रीमत्सिंहासनम्; श्रीमत्सिंहासनस्य ईश्वरी श्रीमत्सिंहासनेश्वरी

śrīmat siṃhāsanam śrīmatsiṃhāsanam; śrīmatsiṃhāsanasya īśvarī śrīmatsiṃhāsaneśvarī

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally the third of the opening triad, dissolution (saṃhāra): the One enthroned as supreme sovereign, into whom all that She created and sustained is finally withdrawn.

4 चिदग्निकुण्डसम्भूता cid-agni-kuṇḍa-sambhūtā

She who arose from the fire-altar of pure consciousness

SANDHI चिदग्नि = चित् + अग्नि (cit + agni) — jaśtva: a final t becomes d before a voiced sound (Pāṇini 8.2.39 jhalāṃ jaśo 'nte)

COMPOUND pañcamī-tatpuruṣa (with an inner ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa and an inner karmadhāraya). Built in three layers. (1) cit-agni 'the fire that is consciousness': a karmadhāraya of identification (rūpaka) — consciousness itself is the fire. (2) cidagni-kuṇḍa 'the altar-pit of that fire': ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa, kuṇḍa is the head. (3) The participle sambhūtā 'arisen' is the head of the whole and the fire-pit stands to it in the ablative: 'arisen from'. A locative reading (cidagnikuṇḍe sambhūtā, saptamī-tatpuruṣa, 'born in the fire-pit') is also current; the sense hardly changes.

ANALYSIS चित् एव अग्निः चिदग्निः; चिदग्नेः कुण्डम् चिदग्निकुण्डम्; चिदग्निकुण्डात् सम्भूता चिदग्निकुण्डसम्भूता

cit eva agniḥ cidagniḥ; cidagneḥ kuṇḍam cidagnikuṇḍam; cidagnikuṇḍāt sambhūtā cidagnikuṇḍasambhūtā

SIGNIFICANCE In the Lalitopākhyāna of the Brahmāṇḍa Purāṇa the Goddess appears from the sacrificial fire kindled by the gods for the war against Bhaṇḍa. Inwardly, the fire is consciousness itself, in which ignorance and duality are offered up.

> UNCERTAIN Ablative ('arisen from') and locative ('born in') analyses of the last member are both current.

5 देवकार्यसमुद्यता deva-kārya-samudyatā

She who is intent on accomplishing the task of the gods

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND saptamī-tatpuruṣa (with an inner ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). Inner layer: deva-kārya 'the task of the gods' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa, kārya is the head). Outer layer: the participle samudyatā 'ready, set upon, intent' is the head and governs the locative: 'intent upon the gods' task'. A caturthī reading ('ready for the sake of the gods' task') gives the same sense.

ANALYSIS देवानाम् कार्यम् देवकार्यम्; देवकार्ये समुद्यता देवकार्यसमुद्यता

devānām kāryam devakāryam; devakārye samudyatā devakāryasamudyatā

SIGNIFICANCE In the Purāṇa the gods' task is the destruction of the demon Bhaṇḍa, for which She arose (name 4). Traditionally it is also read as Her readiness to protect all who live by dharma.

WORD BY WORD

SANSKRIT	ENGLISH
6 उद्यद्भानुसहस्राभा udyad-bhānu-sahasrābhā
उद्यत् udyat	rising ud + √i 'to go', present participle: 'going up'
भानु bhānu	sun
सहस्र sahasra	a thousand; countless

आभा ābhā	radiance, splendor, appearance

7 चतुर्बाहुसमन्विता catur-bāhu-samanvitā

चतुर् catur	four
बाहु bāhu	arm
समन्विता samanvitā	endowed with, accompanied by sam + anu + √i 'to go', past participle, feminine

8 रागस्वरूपपाशाढ्या rāga-svarūpa-pāśāḍhyā

राग rāga	desire, attachment, passion; also love
स्वरूप svarūpa	own form, very nature sva 'own' + rūpa 'form'

आकार ākāra	form, shape
अङ्कुश aṅkuśa	goad (elephant-hook)

SANSKRIT	ENGLISH
उज्ज्वला ujjvalā	blazing, resplendent ud + √jval 'to blaze', feminine

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Names 8–11 (running into śloka 3) name the four emblems held in the four hands of name 7.

THE NAMES

6 उद्यद्भानुसहस्राभा udyad-bhānu-sahasrābhā

She who has the radiance of a thousand rising suns

SANDHI उद्यद्भानु = उद्यत् + भानु (udyat + bhānu) — jaśtva: a final t becomes d before a voiced sound (Pāṇini 8.2.39 jhalāṃ jaśo 'nte); सहस्राभा = सहस्र + आभा (sahasra + ābhā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi of comparison (over an inner ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa and an inner karmadhāraya). (1) udyad-bhānu 'rising sun(s)': the present participle udyat qualifies bhānu (karmadhāraya). (2) udyadbhānu-sahasra 'a thousand rising suns' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa, sahasra is the head). (3) The whole is a bahuvrīhi describing Her: 'She whose radiance (ābhā) is like that of a thousand rising suns'. The name could also be taken as a tatpuruṣa in apposition ('She who is the radiance of ...'); the image is the same.

ANALYSIS उद्यन्तः भानवः उद्यद्भानवः; उद्यद्भानूनाम् सहस्रम् उद्यद्भानुसहस्रम्; उद्यद्भानुसहस्रस्य आभा इव आभा यस्याः सा उद्यद्भानुसहस्राभा

SIGNIFICANCE The crimson of the rising sun is Her own color throughout the hymn; 'a thousand' is traditionally taken to mean beyond counting, a brilliance that is nonetheless gentle like dawn.

7 चतुर्बाहुसमन्विता catur-bāhu-samanvitā

She who is four-armed

SANDHI अन्विता = अनु + इता (anu + itā) — yaṇ: u becomes v before a dissimilar vowel (Pāṇini 6.1.77 iko yaṇ aci), at the junction of the prefix anu with ita

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa (with an inner dvigu). Inner layer: catur-bāhu 'four arms', a numeral + noun karmadhāraya, i.e. a dvigu, allowed here because another member follows (Pāṇini 2.1.51–52). Outer layer: the participle samanvitā 'endowed with' is the head and the four arms stand to it in the instrumental. The r of catur is original, so it stays r before the voiced b; no visarga arises.

ANALYSIS चत्वारः बाहवः चतुर्बाहवः; चतुर्भिः बाहुभिः समन्विता चतुर्बाहुसमन्विता

catvāraḥ bāhavaḥ caturbāhavaḥ; caturbhiḥ bāhubhiḥ samanvitā caturbāhusamanvitā

SIGNIFICANCE The four arms carry the four emblems named next: the noose, the goad, the sugarcane bow and the flower arrows (names 8–11).

She who holds the noose whose very nature is desire (rāga)

SANDHI पाशाढ्या = पाश + आढ्या (pāśa + āḍhyā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa (over an inner karmadhāraya and an inner bahuvrīhi). (1) rāga-svarūpa 'whose very nature is desire' — a bahuvrīhi that qualifies the noose. (2) rāgasvarūpa-pāśa 'the noose whose nature is desire' (karmadhāraya, pāśa is the head). (3) āḍhyā 'rich in, furnished with' is the head of the whole and takes the noose in the instrumental: 'furnished with that noose'.

ANALYSIS रागः स्वरूपम् यस्य सः रागस्वरूपः; रागस्वरूपः पाशः रागस्वरूपपाशः; रागस्वरूपपाशेन आढ्या रागस्वरूपपाशाढ्या

rāgaḥ svarūpam yasya saḥ rāgasvarūpaḥ; rāgasvarūpaḥ pāśaḥ rāgasvarūpapāśaḥ; rāgasvarūpapāśena āḍhyā rāgasvarūpapāśāḍhyā

SIGNIFICANCE In Śrīvidyā the noose is commonly read as icchā-śakti, the power of will: the binding pull of attachment is itself held in Her hand, so She can bind devotees to Herself and loosen worldly ties.

9 क्रोधाकाराङ्कुशोज्ज्वला krodhākārāṅkuśojjvalā

She who is resplendent with the goad that has the form of anger

SANDHI क्रोधाकार = क्रोध + आकार (krodha + ākāra) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ); आकाराङ्कुश = आकार + अङ्कुश (ākāra + aṅkuśa) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ); अङ्कुशोज्ज्वला = अङ्कुश + उज्ज्वला (aṅkuśa + ujjvalā) — guṇa: a + u → o (Pāṇini 6.1.87 ād guṇaḥ); उज्ज्वला = उद् + ज्वला (ud + jvalā) — the prefix ud assimilates to the following palatal: d becomes j before j (ścutva, Pāṇini 8.4.40 stoḥ ścunā ścuḥ)

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa (over an inner karmadhāraya and an inner bahuvrīhi). Parallel to name 8. (1) krodha-ākāra 'whose form is anger' — a bahuvrīhi qualifying the goad. (2) krodhākāra-aṅkuśa 'the goad that has the form of anger' (karmadhāraya). (3) ujjvalā 'blazing, resplendent' is the head and takes the goad in the instrumental: 'resplendent with that goad'. Every junction fuses its vowels, so the name cannot be hyphenated.

ANALYSIS क्रोधः आकारः यस्य सः क्रोधाकारः; क्रोधाकारः अङ्कुशः क्रोधाकाराङ्कुशः; क्रोधाकाराङ्कुशेन उज्ज्वला क्रोधाकाराङ्कुशोज्ज्वला

SIGNIFICANCE The goad restrains and directs, as the noose binds. In Śrīvidyā it is commonly read as jñāna-śakti, the power of knowledge; anger itself, held by Her, becomes a force that curbs what is wrong.

मण्डला maṇḍalā	circle, sphere maṇḍala, with the feminine -ā of the bahuvrīhi

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Name 12 fills the whole second half; its participle majjat 'sinking' is intransitive (the universe is immersed).

THE NAMES

10 मनोरूपेक्षुकोदण्डा mano-rūpekṣu-kodaṇḍā

She who holds in Her hand a sugarcane bow that represents the mind

SANDHI मनोरूप = मनस् + रूप (manas + rūpa) — visarga sandhi: final s becomes ru (Pāṇini 8.2.66 sasajuṣo ruḥ), which after a and before a voiced consonant becomes u (6.1.113–114 ato ror aplutād aplute, haśi ca); a + u then gives o (6.1.87); रूपेक्षु = रूप + इक्षु (rūpa + ikṣu) — guṇa: a + i → e (Pāṇini 6.1.87 ād guṇaḥ)

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (over an inner karmadhāraya, an inner bahuvrīhi and an inner ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (1) mano-rūpa 'whose form is the mind' — a bahuvrīhi qualifying the bow. (2) ikṣu-kodaṇḍa 'bow of sugarcane' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa of material). (3) The two combine as a karmadhāraya, 'the sugarcane bow that is the mind'. (4) The whole is a bahuvrīhi describing Her, 'She whose bow is ...'; kodaṇḍa takes the feminine ending -ā to agree with Her (Pāṇini 4.1.4 ajādyataṣ ṭāp).

ANALYSIS मनः रूपम् यस्य सः मनोरूपः; इक्षोः कोदण्डः इक्षुकोदण्डः; मनोरूपः इक्षुकोदण्डः मनोरूपेक्षुकोदण्डः; मनोरूपेक्षुकोदण्डः यस्याः सा मनोरूपेक्षुकोदण्डा

SIGNIFICANCE The sugarcane bow is Kāma's, made sweet; here it is the mind from which the arrows of the senses are loosed. In Śrīvidyā the bow and arrows together are commonly read as kriyā-śakti, the power of action.

11 पञ्चतन्मात्रसायका pañca-tanmātra-sāyakā

She who holds the five subtle elements as arrows

SANDHI तन्मात्र = तत् + मात्र (tat + mātra) — a stop becomes the nasal of its class before a nasal: t → n before m (Pāṇini 8.4.45 yaro 'nunāsike 'nunāsiko vā), inside the lexicalised compound tanmātra

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (with an inner dvigu). Inner layer: pañca-tanmātra 'the five subtle elements', a numeral compound (dvigu) before a further member. Outer layer: a bahuvrīhi, 'She whose arrows are the five subtle elements'; sāyaka takes the feminine -ā. The stem pañcan drops its final n in composition (Pāṇini 8.2.7 nalopaḥ prātipadikāntasya).

SANDHI निजारुण = निज + अरुण (nija + aruṇa) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ); मज्जद्ब्रह्म = मज्जत् + ब्रह्म (majjat + brahma) — jaśtva: a final t becomes d before a voiced sound (Pāṇini 8.2.39 jhalāṃ jaśo 'nte); ब्रह्माण्ड = ब्रह्म + अण्ड (brahma + aṇḍa) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ), inside the lexicalised compound brahmāṇḍa (brahman drops its final n first, 8.2.7)

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (over inner karmadhāraya, ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa and saptamī-tatpuruṣa layers). (1) nija-aruṇa-prabhā 'Her own crimson radiance' (karmadhāraya: two adjectives on prabhā). (2) ...prabhā-pūra 'the flood of that radiance' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (3) ... pūra-majjat 'sinking, bathing in that flood' (saptamī-tatpuruṣa; majjat is intransitive). (4) brahmāṇḍa-maṇḍala 'the round of the world-eggs', i.e. the whole universe (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa), qualified by the participle. (5) The whole is a bahuvrīhi: 'She in the flood of whose own crimson radiance the sphere of the universe is immersed'; nija refers back to Her.

कोटीर koṭīra	crown, diadem
मण्डिता maṇḍitā	adorned √maṇḍ 'to adorn', past participle, feminine

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

From name 13 the names describe Her form from the hair downward; from here to śloka 10 each half-śloka is a single name.

THE NAMES

13 चम्पकाशोकपुन्नागसौगन्धिकलसत्कचा

campakāśoka-punnāga-saugandhika-lasat-kacā

She whose tresses shine with campaka, aśoka, punnāga and saugandhika flowers

SANDHI चम्पकाशोक = चम्पक + अशोक (campaka + aśoka) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (over an inner itaretara-dvandva, tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa and karmadhāraya). (1) The four flower names form an itaretara-dvandva, 'campaka, aśoka, punnāga and saugandhika (blossoms)'. (2) They stand in the instrumental to the participle lasat 'shining, playing' (tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa). (3) lasat qualifies kaca 'hair, tresses' (karmadhāraya). (4) The whole is a bahuvrīhi describing Her: 'She whose tresses shine with …'; kaca takes the feminine -ā.

14 कुरुविन्दमणिश्रेणीकनत्कोटीरमण्डिता kuruvinda-maṇi-śreṇī-kanat-koṭīra-maṇḍitā

She who is adorned with a crown sparkling with rows of kuruvinda rubies

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa (over inner karmadhāraya, ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa and tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa layers). (1) kuruvinda-maṇi 'kuruvinda gems', i.e. rubies (karmadhāraya). (2) …maṇi-śreṇī 'a row of them' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (3) …śreṇī-kanat 'sparkling with that row' (tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa with the participle kanat), which qualifies koṭīra 'crown' (karmadhāraya). (4) The past participle maṇḍitā 'adorned' is the head of the whole and takes the crown in the instrumental. The members meet without sound change.

नाभि nābhi	navel; here the musk-pod mṛganābhi 'deer's navel' is the usual word for musk
विशेषका viśeṣakā	forehead-mark, tilaka viśeṣaka, with the feminine -ā of the bahuvrīhi

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Name 15: divide vibhrājad-alika ('shining forehead'), not vibhrāja-dalika; the d is the voiced t of the participle vibhrājat.

THE NAMES

15 अष्टमीचन्द्रविभ्राजदलिकस्थलशोभिता aṣṭamī-candra-vibhrājad-alika-sthala-śobhitā

She whose forehead shines like the half-moon of the eighth lunar day

SANDHI विभ्राजदलिक = विभ्राजत् + अलिक (vibhrājat + alika) — jaśtva: a final t becomes d at the end of a member, here before a vowel (Pāṇini 8.2.39 jhalāṃ jaśo 'nte)

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa (over an inner upamāna-karmadhāraya, a karmadhāraya and ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣas). (1) aṣṭamī-candra 'the moon of the eighth lunar day', the half-moon (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (2) aṣṭamīcandra-vibhrājat 'shining like that moon': the standard of comparison compounded with the word for the shared quality (upamāna-karmadhāraya, Pāṇini 2.1.55 upamānāni sāmānyavacanaiḥ, as in ghana-śyāma 'dark as a cloud'). (3) alika-sthala 'the expanse of the forehead' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa), qualified by (2) (karmadhāraya). (4) The participle śobhitā 'beautified' is the head and takes the forehead in the instrumental.

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (over an inner karmadhāraya, a bahuvrīhi of resemblance, a rūpaka-karmadhāraya and ṣaṣṭhī-/tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣas). (1) mukha-candra 'the moon that is (Her) face' (rūpaka-karmadhāraya: the face is identified with the moon). (2) ...candra-kalaṅka 'the dark mark on that moon' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (3) ...kalaṅka-ābha 'looking like that mark' (bahuvrīhi of resemblance), qualifying (4) mṛganābhi-viśeṣaka 'a forehead-mark (tilaka) of musk' (mṛga-nābhi 'deer's navel' = musk, then a tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa of material). (3) and (4) form a karmadhāraya. (5) The whole is a bahuvrīhi: 'She whose musk tilaka looks like the mark on the moon of Her face'.

चलत् calat	moving, darting √cal 'to move', present participle
मीन mīna	fish
आभ ābha	resembling, looking like
लोचना locanā	eye locana (neuter), with the feminine -ā of the bahuvrīhi

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Both names are layered bahuvrīhis built on an identification: the face as Kāma's festive house (17), the face's beauty as a stream (18).

17 वदनस्मरमाङ्गल्यगृहतोरणचिल्लिका vadana-smara-māṅgalya-gṛha-toraṇa-cillikā

She whose eyebrows are like the arched gateway of Her face, the festive mansion of Kāma

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi of comparison (over a rūpaka-karmadhāraya, a karmadhāraya and ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣas). (1) māṅgalya-gṛha 'festive, auspicious house' (karmadhāraya). (2) smara-... 'Kāma's festive house' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (3) vadana-... 'the face, which is Kāma's festive house' (rūpaka-karmadhāraya). (4) ...gṛha-toraṇa 'the arched gateway of that house' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (5) A bahuvrīhi of comparison: 'She whose eyebrows are (like) that gateway'. The feminine cillikā, as a subordinate final member, is shortened (Pāṇini 1.2.48 gostriyor upasarjanasya) and then takes -ā again to agree with Her.

SIGNIFICANCE The curve of Her brows is the toraṇa hung over the door of a house on a festive day. In Śrīvidyā Kāma is counted among Her foremost worshippers, so Her face is fittingly his house of celebration.

18 वक्त्रलक्ष्मीपरीवाहचलन्मीनाभलोचना vaktra-lakṣmī-parīvāha-calan-mīnābha-locanā

She whose eyes are like fish darting in the overflowing stream of the beauty of Her face

SANDHI चलन्मीन = चलत् + मीन (calat + mīna) — a stop becomes the nasal of its class before a nasal: t → n before m (Pāṇini 8.4.45 yaro 'nunāsike 'nunāsiko vā); मीनाभ = मीन + आभ (mīna + ābha) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

THE NAMES

19 नवचम्पकपुष्पाभनासादण्डविराजिता nava-campaka-puṣpābha-nāsā-daṇḍa-virājitā

She who is resplendent with a nose that has the beauty of a newly blossoming campaka flower

SANDHI पुष्पाभ = पुष्प + आभ (puṣpa + ābha) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa (over an inner karmadhāraya, a bahuvrīhi of resemblance and ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣas). (1) nava-campakapuṣpa 'a fresh campaka blossom' (karmadhāraya over the ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa campaka-puṣpa). (2) …puṣpa-ābha 'resembling that blossom' (bahuvrīhi of resemblance), qualifying (3) nāsā-daṇḍa 'the staff of the nose', i.e. its straight ridge (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (4) The participle virājitā 'shining, made resplendent' is the head and takes the nose in the instrumental.

20 ताराकान्तितिरस्कारिनासाभरणभासुरा tārā-kānti-tiraskāri-nāsābharaṇa-bhāsurā

She who shines with a nose-ornament that excels the luster of a star

SANDHI तिरस्कारि = तिरस् + कारि (tiras + kāri) — the final s of tiras is kept as s before k instead of becoming visarga (optional, Pāṇini 8.3.42 tiraso 'nyatarasyām); नासाभरण = नासा + आभरण (nāsā + ābharaṇa) — savarṇa-dīrgha: ā + ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa (over an inner karmadhāraya, an upapada-tatpuruṣa and ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣas). (1) tārā-kānti 'the brilliance of the stars' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (2) …kānti-tiraskārin 'putting that brilliance to shame': an agent noun in -in from tiras + √kṛ, compounded with its object (upapada-tatpuruṣa); it loses its final n in composition (8.2.7). (3) It qualifies nāsā-ābharaṇa 'nose-ornament' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa) as a karmadhāraya. (4) bhāsurā 'radiant' is the head and takes the ornament in the instrumental.

कर्णपूर karṇapūra	ear-ornament (lit. 'ear-filler'), a flower or jewel worn over the ear
मनोहरा manoharā	captivating (lit. 'mind-stealing') manas 'mind' + √hṛ 'to take away', feminine

22 ताटङ्कयुगलीभूततपनोडुपमण्डला tāṭaṅka-yugalī-bhūta-tapanoḍupa-maṇḍalā

ताटङ्क tāṭaṅka	large round earring
युगली yugalī	(made into) a pair yugala 'pair' + cvi: a → ī (Pāṇini 7.4.32)
भूत bhūta	become √bhū 'to be, become', past participle
तपन tapana	the sun (lit. 'the heater')
उडुप uḍupa	the moon (lit. 'lord of the stars')
मण्डला maṇḍalā	disc, orb maṇḍala, with the feminine -ā of the bahuvrīhi

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Name 21 is spelled with vocalic ḷ: क्लृप्त (kḷpta), the participle of √kḷp; karṇapūra 'ear-ornament' is one word.

THE NAMES

21 कदम्बमञ्जरीक्लृप्तकर्णपूरमनोहरा kadamba-mañjarī-kḷpta-karṇapūra-manoharā

She who is captivating with ear-ornaments fashioned from clusters of kadamba blossoms

SANDHI मनोहरा = मनस् + हरा (manas + harā) — visarga sandhi: final s becomes ru (Pāṇini 8.2.66), which after a and before a voiced consonant becomes u (6.1.114 haśi ca); a + u then gives o (6.1.87) — inside the lexicalised compound manohara

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa (over an inner karmadhāraya, a tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa and a ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (1) kadamba-mañjarī 'clusters of kadamba blossom' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (2) ...mañjarī-kḷpta 'fashioned from those clusters': an instrument compounded with a past participle (tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa, Pāṇini 2.1.32 kartṛkaraṇe kṛtā bahulam). (3) It qualifies karṇapūra 'ear-ornament' (karmadhāraya). (4) manoharā 'captivating' is the head and takes the ornament in the instrumental: 'captivating with ...'.

SIGNIFICANCE The kadamba is Her tree: She dwells in the kadamba forest (kadambavana) of Her island-city, and its blossoms adorn Her ears.

> VARIANTS Many printed editions spell the participle क्लृप्त (klṛpta); क्लृप्त (kḷpta) is the correct form, as in name 648.

> CORRECTED कदम्बमञ्जरीक्लृप्तकर्णपूरमनोहरा → कदम्बमञ्जरीक्लृप्तकर्णपूरमनोहरा. klṛpta → kḷpta: the participle of √kḷp is kḷpta (vocalic ḷ); the verse text already reads क्लृप्त, as does name 648.

22 ताटङ्कयुगलीभूततपनोडुपमण्डला tāṭaṅka-yugalī-bhūta-tapanoḍupa-maṇḍalā

She for whom the discs of the sun and the moon have become a pair of earrings

SANDHI तपनोडुप = तपन + उडुप (tapana + uḍupa) — guṇa: a + u → o (Pāṇini 6.1.87 ād guṇaḥ)

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (over an inner karmadhāraya, a gati-samāsa with a cvi form, an itaretara-dvandva and ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣas). (1) tāṭaṅka-yugala 'a pair of earrings' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (2) With the suffix cvi ('becoming what it was not') its final a becomes ī (Pāṇini 7.4.32 asya cvau), and the cvi form, a gati (1.4.61), compounds with bhūta 'become' (2.2.18 kugatiprādayaḥ): tāṭaṅkayugalī-bhūta 'turned into a pair of earrings'. (3) tapana-uḍupa 'sun and moon' (itaretara-dvandva) + maṇḍala 'disc' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (4) (2) qualifies (3) (karmadhāraya). (5) The whole is a bahuvrīhi: 'She for whom the discs of sun and moon have become a pair of earrings'.

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Name 23 ends in the ū-stem bhū, so its nominative ends -bhūḥ, not -ā; the visarga stands at the half-line break.

23 पद्मरागशिलादर्शपरिभाविकपोलभूः padmarāga-śilādarśa-paribhāvi-kapola-bhūḥ

She whose cheeks outshine mirrors made of ruby (padmarāga)

(2) ...śilā-ādarśa 'a mirror made of such a slab' (karmadhāraya with the middle word -maya dropped). (3) ...ādarśa-paribhāvin 'surpassing that mirror' (upapada-tatpuruṣa; agent noun in -in from pari + √bhū). (4) kapola-bhū 'the expanse of the cheeks' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (5) The whole is a bahuvrīhi: 'She whose cheeks surpass ...'. The feminine paribhāvinī takes the masculine stem in the bahuvrīhi (Pāṇini 6.3.34) and drops its n (8.2.7); bhū is not a feminine-suffix stem, so it is not shortened and keeps its nominative -bhūḥ.

Name 26: vīṭikāmoda is vīṭikā + āmoda 'fragrance' (the long ā absorbs āmoda's initial ā).

25 शुद्धविद्याङ्कुराकारद्विजपङ्क्तिद्वयोज्ज्वला

śuddha-vidyāṅkurākāra-dvija-paṅkti-dvayojjvalā

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally śuddhavidyā is taken here as the sixteen-syllabled Śrīvidyā mantra (ṣoḍaśī), the two rows of sixteen teeth answering to it; Her very smile shows the white, budding seeds of liberating knowledge.

> UNCERTAIN The identification of śuddhavidyā with the sixteen-syllabled mantra (and of the 32 teeth with it) is widely reported from the commentarial tradition; its exact source wording was not confirmed here.

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally read as the fragrance of Her betel pervading every direction and drawing beings from all quarters to Her. Betel with camphor is among the offerings (upacāra) of Her worship.

> UNCERTAIN The relation of samākarṣin to digantara admits two readings: the quarters draw in (are pervaded by) the fragrance, as analysed here, or the fragrance draws the beings of every quarter to Her, the usual paraphrase, which takes digantara by metonymy for those who dwell there.

(2) ...smita-prabhā 'its radiance' and ...prabhā-pūra 'the flood of that radiance' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣas). (3) The present participle majjat 'sinking, being immersed' is intransitive and takes the flood in the locative (saptamī-tatpuruṣa): 'sinking in that flood'. (4) It qualifies kāmeśa-mānasa 'the mind of Kāmeśa' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa inside, karmadhāraya with the participle). (5) The whole is a bahuvrīhi: 'She in the flood of whose gentle smile's radiance Kāmeśa's mind is immersed'; mānasa takes the feminine -ā. She does not plunge His mind; it sinks of itself.

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Kāmeśa (28, 30, 39) is kāma + īśa joined by guṇa; the name cannot be hyphenated across the e.

THE NAMES

29 अनाकलितसादृश्यचिबुकश्रीविराजिता an-ākalita-sādṛśya-cibuka-śrī-virājitā

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa (over inner ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa, karmadhāraya, bahuvrīhi and nañ-tatpuruṣa). (1) an-ākalita 'not conceived, never found' (nañ-tatpuruṣa; the negative na appears as an- before a vowel, a morphological replacement, Pāṇini 6.3.73–74). (2) anākalita-sādṛśya 'whose likeness has never been conceived' (bahuvrīhi), qualifying cibuka 'chin' (karmadhāraya). (3) …cibuka-śrī 'the beauty of that chin' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (4) The participle virājitā 'shining, made splendid' is the head and takes the beauty in the instrumental. Incomparability is not a separate word: it comes from 'whose likeness was never conceived'.

मुक्ताफल muktāphala	pearl muktā 'pearl' + phala 'fruit'
अन्विता anvitā	endowed with, wearing anu + √i, past participle, feminine

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Name 32: divide muktāphala-anvitā; phala belongs to muktāphala 'pearl', and anvitā 'endowed with' governs all three ornaments.

THE NAMES

31 कनकाङ्गदकेयूरकमनीयभुजान्विता kanakāṅgada-keyūra-kamanīya-bhujānvitā

She who is endowed with arms made lovely by golden armlets (aṅgada and keyūra)

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa (over inner karmadhārayas, a tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa and a dvandva). (1) aṅgada and keyūra, two kinds of upper-arm ornament, form a dvandva. (2) kanaka 'gold' qualifies them with the middle word 'made of' understood (karmadhāraya). Since aṅgada stands next to kanaka, one may also take kanaka with aṅgada alone ('golden aṅgadas and keyūras'); the sense is the same. (3) kamanīya 'lovely' takes the ornaments in the instrumental (tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa) and (4) qualifies bhuja 'arm' (karmadhāraya). (5) The participle anvitā 'endowed with' is the head and takes the arms in the instrumental.

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa (over an itaretara-dvandva of three members, with inner karmadhārayas). (1) ratna-graiveya 'a necklace set with gems' (karmadhāraya with the middle word 'set with' dropped). (2) lola-muktāphala 'swaying pearls' (karmadhāraya). (3) These and cintāka, a neck ornament, are joined as an itaretara-dvandva: 'the jewelled necklace, the cintāka and the swaying pearls'. (4) The participle anvitā 'endowed with, wearing' is the head and takes them in the instrumental. muktāphala 'pearl' is one word (lit. 'pearl-fruit'); its phala belongs to it, not to anvitā.

SIGNIFICANCE Another stage of the description of Her form, at the neck and breast; the ornaments of the Goddess are part of Her worship (bhūṣaṇa), offered to Her in pūjā.

> UNCERTAIN The exact form of the cintāka is not certain: it is taken as a gold collar-necklace or as the pendant (locket) of the jewelled necklace. On the second reading the analysis is 'the jewelled necklace with its pendant, and swaying pearls'.

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Name 35: divide latā + ādhāratā 'being the support', not latā + dhāratā; the ā of ādhāratā is fused with latā. Name 36: dalan- is the participle dalat, its t nasalised before madhya.

THE NAMES

35 लक्ष्यरोमलताधारतासमुन्नेयमध्यमा

lakṣya-roma-latādhāratā-samunneya-madhyamā

She whose waist can be known only by inference, from its being the support of the visible creeper of fine hair

SANDHI लताधारता = लता + आधारता (latā + ādhāratā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: ā + ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ); the second member is ādhāratā 'being the support', not dhāratā — the fused ā hides the boundary; उन्नेय = उद् + नेय (ud + neya) — nasal assimilation: the d of the prefix ud becomes n before the nasal n (Pāṇini 8.4.45 yaro 'nunāsike 'nunāsiko vā)

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (over an inner tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa, ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣas and a karmadhāraya). (1) roma-latā 'the creeper of fine hair' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa, with the creeper metaphor of name 34), qualified by lakṣya 'visible' (karmadhāraya; lakṣyā takes its masculine stem, Pāṇini 6.3.42). (2) ...latā-ādhāratā 'the fact of being the support of that creeper' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa; ādhāra + the abstract suffix -tā). (3) samunneya 'to be inferred' takes that fact in the instrumental, as the ground of the inference (tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa). (4) The whole is a bahuvrīhi: 'She whose waist (madhyama) is to be inferred from its being the support of the visible hair-creeper'.

She whose three folds of skin form a band that binds Her waist, as though it would break under the weight of Her breasts

SANDHI दलन्मध्य = दलत् + मध्य (dalat + madhya) — nasal assimilation: the final t of the participle dalat becomes n before the nasal m (Pāṇini 8.4.45 yaro 'nunāsike 'nunāsiko vā)

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (over inner tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa, karmadhārayas and ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣas). (1) stana-bhāra 'the weight of the breasts' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (2) The present participle dalat 'splitting, cracking' takes that weight in the instrumental (tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa), and (3) qualifies madhya 'waist' (karmadhāraya): 'the waist that seems to crack under the weight'. (4) paṭṭa-bandha 'a binding band' for that waist (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣas). (5) vali-traya 'the three folds' is identified with that band, the word 'in the form of' (rūpa) understood. (6) The whole is a bahuvrīhi: 'She whose three folds are a binding band for Her waist ...'; traya takes the feminine -ā.

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Name 37: kausumbha is dyed with safflower (kusumbha), not saffron.

THE NAMES

37 अरुणारुणकौसुम्भवस्त्रभास्वत्कटीतटी

aruṇāruṇa-kausumbha-vastra-bhāsvat-kaṭī-taṭī

She whose hips shine with a safflower-dyed garment as red as the dawn

SANDHI अरुणारुण = अरुण + अरुण (aruṇa + aruṇa) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (over inner tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa, karmadhārayas and a ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (1) aruṇa-aruṇa: 'red like Aruṇa, the dawn' (upamāna-karmadhāraya, the standard of comparison compounded with the shared quality). (2) It qualifies kausumbha-vastra 'a safflower-dyed garment' (karmadhāraya). (3) bhāsvat 'shining' takes the garment in the instrumental (tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa). (4) kaṭī-taṭī 'the slope of the hips' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (5) The whole is a bahuvrīhi: 'She whose hips shine with a safflower-dyed garment red as the dawn'; bhāsvatī takes its masculine stem bhāsvat (puṃvadbhāva).

SIGNIFICANCE Red is Her color throughout the hymn; its dhyāna verses picture Her as aruṇā, red, and in red garlands, ornaments and garments (aruṇa-mālya-bhūṣāmbarām). Traditionally the red is read as compassion and the passion (rāga) of creative power.

> UNCERTAIN aruṇāruṇa may be read as 'red as the dawn' (upamāna, as analysed) or as the color word doubled for emphasis, 'deep red, red upon red'.

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Name 39: mārdavoru is mārdava + ūru 'thigh'. Name 40: many editions spell makuṭa, a by-form of mukuṭa 'crown'.

39 कामेशज्ञातसौभाग्यमार्दवोरुद्वयान्विता

kāmeśa-jñāta-saubhāgya-mārdavoru-dvayānvitā

She whose two thighs, in their beauty and softness, are known to Kāmeśa alone

SANDHI कामेश = काम + ईश (kāma + īśa) — guṇa: a + ī → e (Pāṇini 6.1.87 ād guṇaḥ), inside the lexicalised name Kāmeśa; मार्दवोरु = मार्दव + ऊरु (mārdava + ūru) — guṇa: a + ū → o (Pāṇini 6.1.87 ād guṇaḥ); द्वयान्विता = द्वय + अन्विता (dvaya + anvitā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ); अन्विता = अनु + इता (anu + itā) — yaṇ: u becomes v before a dissimilar vowel (Pāṇini 6.1.77 iko yaṇ aci), at the junction of the prefix anu with ita

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa (over inner bahuvrīhi, dvandva, tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa, karmadhāraya and ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (1) saubhāgya-mārdava 'beauty and softness' (dvandva). (2) kāmeśa-jñāta 'known by Kāmeśa' (tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa) qualifies them. (3) Together they form a bahuvrīhi describing the thighs: 'whose beauty and softness are known to Kāmeśa', qualifying ūru 'thigh' (karmadhāraya). (4) …ūru-dvaya 'the pair of such thighs' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (5) anvitā 'endowed with' is the head and takes the pair in the instrumental. 'Only' is not a word in the name; it is the traditional sense of 'known by Kāmeśa'.

SANDHI मुकुटाकार = मुकुट + आकार (mukuṭa + ākāra) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa (over an inner karmadhāraya, a bahuvrīhi of resemblance and a ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (1) māṇikya-mukuṭa 'a crown of ruby' (karmadhāraya with 'made of' understood). (2) ...mukuṭa-ākāra 'having the shape of such a crown' (bahuvrīhi of resemblance, as in name 25). (3) It qualifies jānu-dvaya 'the pair of knees' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa inside; karmadhāraya). (4) virājitā 'shining' is the head and takes the knees in the instrumental.

SIGNIFICANCE The rounded, glowing kneecaps are likened to small domed crowns of ruby; the red of the ruby again answers to Her color.

VARIANTS Many printed editions read माणिक्यमकुटाकार (makuṭa). makuṭa is a recognized by-form of mukuṭa 'crown' in the lexicons, so that reading is a variant spelling rather than a misprint; the sense is the same.

CORRECTED माणिक्यमकुटाकारजानुद्वयविराजिता → माणिक्यमुकुटाकारजानुद्वयविराजिता. Name list read मकुट (makuṭa), the śloka text मुकुट (mukuṭa). Both are recognised spellings of the word for crown; the śloka text's reading is adopted so name and śloka agree.

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Name 41: indragopa is one word, a scarlet insect (not Indra + 'beetle'). The second half holds two names: gūḍhagulphā (42) | kūrmapṛṣṭha… (43).

41 इन्द्रगोपपरिक्षिप्तस्मरतूणाभजङ्घिका indragopa-parikṣipta-smara-tūṇābha-jaṅghikā

SIGNIFICANCE The comparison is to Kāma's quiver, which holds the flower-arrows; in this hymn those arrows are Her own (name 11). The scarlet indragopas, like the ruby knees of name 40, keep the description in Her color, red.

> UNCERTAIN Translators take indragopa here either as the scarlet insects themselves, scattered over the quiver, or as red gems of their color set around it; the comparison of the calves to Kāma's quiver is not in doubt.

42 गूढगुल्फा gūḍha-gulphā

She whose ankles are hidden

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi. gūḍha 'hidden' qualifies gulpha 'ankle'; the compound describes Her: 'She whose ankles are hidden'. gulpha takes the feminine -ā. The members are simply juxtaposed.

ANALYSIS गूढौ गुल्फौ यस्याः सा गूढगुल्फा

gūḍhau gulphau yasyāḥ sā gūḍhagulphā

SIGNIFICANCE Ankles that are full and rounded, with the bone not standing out, are a classical mark of beauty in the description of the body.

nakha-dīdhiti-sañchanna-namaj-jana-tamo-guṇā

She the radiance of whose toenails overwhelms the darkness (tamoguṇa) of those who bow to Her

SANDHI सञ्छन्न = सम् + छन्न (sam + channa) — the m of the prefix sam becomes anusvāra and then the palatal nasal ñ before ch (Pāṇini 8.3.23 mo 'nusvāraḥ; 8.4.58 anusvārasya yayi parasavarṇaḥ); written here with ñ, elsewhere as saṃchanna; नमज्जन = नमत् + जन (namat + jana) — the final t of the participle namat is voiced to d (jaśtva, Pāṇini 8.2.39) and assimilated to the following palatal j (ścutva, Pāṇini 8.4.40 stoḥ ścunā ścuḥ); तमोगुण = तमस् + गुण (tamas + guṇa) — the final s becomes ru (Pāṇini 8.2.66 sasajuṣo ruḥ), which turns to u after a before a voiced consonant (6.1.114 haśi ca); a + u then gives o by guṇa (6.1.87)

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (over inner tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa, karmadhārayas and ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣas). (1) nakha-dīdhiti 'the rays of the (toe)nails' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (2) sañchanna 'covered over, overwhelmed' takes the rays in the instrumental (tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa). (3) namaj-jana 'people who bow' (karmadhāraya of participle and noun). (4) tamo-guṇa 'the guṇa tamas', darkness, inertia, ignorance (karmadhāraya), and ...jana-tamoguṇa 'the tamas of those who bow' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (5) The whole is a bahuvrīhi: 'She by the rays of whose toenails the tamas of those who bow is covered over', i.e. overwhelmed and dispelled by light; guṇa takes the feminine -ā.

SIGNIFICANCE Those who bow touch Her feet with their heads, and the light of Her toenails falls on them. Traditionally this is the removal of ignorance through surrender at Her feet.

> CORRECTED नखदीधितिसंछन्ननमज्जनतमोगुणा → नखदीधितिसञ्छन्ननमज्जनतमोगुणा. संछन्न → सञ्छन्न: anusvāra written as the homorganic nasal before छ, matching the verse text (both spellings are permitted; one form is used throughout).

45 पदद्वयप्रभाजालपराकृतसरोरुहा pada-dvaya-prabhā-jāla-parākṛta-saroruhā

She whose two feet, by their mass of radiance, put the lotuses to shame

SANDHI सरोरुह = सरस् + रुह (saras + ruha) — the final s becomes ru (Pāṇini 8.2.66), which turns to u after a before the voiced r (6.1.114 haśi ca); a + u gives o by guṇa (6.1.87), inside the lexicalised word saroruha 'lotus'

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (over an inner tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa and ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣas). (1) pada-dvaya 'the two feet', …dvaya-prabhā 'their radiance', …prabhā-jāla 'the mass (lit. net) of that radiance' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣas). (2) The passive participle parākṛta 'defeated, set aside' takes it in the instrumental (tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa). (3) It qualifies saroruha 'lotus' and the whole is a bahuvrīhi: 'She by the radiance of whose two feet the lotuses are put to shame'; saroruha takes the feminine -ā.

शेवधिः śevadhiḥ	treasure, treasure-house masculine i-stem śevadhi, nominative singular

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

With name 46 the head-to-foot description begun at name 13 reaches the feet; 47–48 sum up Her gait and beauty. The second half holds two names: marālīmandagamanā (47) | mahālāvaṇyaśevadhiḥ (48), which keeps the masculine of its head śevadhi.

THE NAMES

46 शिञ्जानमणिमञ्जीरमण्डितश्रीपदाम्बुजा

śiñjāna-maṇi-mañjīra-maṇḍita-śrī-padāmbujā

She whose auspicious lotus feet are adorned with tinkling jewelled anklets

SANDHI पदाम्बुज = पद् + अम्बुज (pada + ambuja) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (over inner karmadhārayas, a rūpaka and a tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa). (1) maṇi-mañjīra 'jewelled anklets' (karmadhāraya with 'made of' understood), qualified by the participle śiñjāna 'tinkling' (karmadhāraya). (2) maṇḍita 'adorned' takes the anklets in the instrumental (tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa). (3) pada-ambuja 'the feet that are lotuses' (rūpaka karmadhāraya), with the honorific śrī 'auspicious, glorious'. (4) The whole is a bahuvrīhi: 'She whose auspicious lotus-feet are adorned with tinkling jewelled anklets'; ambuja takes the feminine -ā.

SIGNIFICANCE With the feet the description of Her form, begun with the hair at name 13, is complete. In Śrīvidyā Her feet (pādukā) are the highest object of worship and the refuge of the devotee.

VARIANTS Some printings spell the participle with dental s: सिञ्जान (siñjāna). √śiñj is the Dhātupāṭha form; siñj is recorded in the lexicons as a by-spelling.

CORRECTED शिञ्जानमणिमञ्जिरमण्डितश्रीपदाम्बुजा → शिञ्जानमणिमञ्जीरमण्डितश्रीपदाम्बुजा. मञ्जिर → मञ्जीर (mañjīra, anklet: long ī). The verse text printed सिञ्जान; the name list's शिञ्जान is kept and now used in the verse too (√śiji, Dhātupāṭha "śiji avyakte śabde"). Flagged for review.

47 मरालीमन्दगमना marālī-manda-gamanā

She whose gait is as slow and gentle as that of a swan

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (over an inner upamāna-karmadhāraya). (1) marālī-manda 'slow like a female swan': the standard of comparison compounded with the shared quality (upamāna-karmadhāraya, as in name 15). (2) It qualifies gamana 'gait', and the whole is a bahuvrīhi describing Her; gamana takes the feminine -ā. The members are simply juxtaposed.

ANALYSIS मराली इव मन्दम् मरालीमन्दम्; मरालीमन्दम् गमनम् यस्याः सा मरालीमन्दगमना

marālī iva mandam marālīmandam; marālīmandam gamanam yasyāḥ sā marālīmandagamanā

SIGNIFICANCE The unhurried, gliding gait of the swan is the classical image of graceful, stately movement.

48 महालावण्यशेवधिः mahā-lāvaṇya-śevadhiḥ

She who is the treasure-house of supreme beauty

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa (with an inner karmadhāraya). (1) mahā-lāvaṇya 'great beauty' (karmadhāraya; mahat becomes mahā- before a co-referential member, Pāṇini 6.3.46). (2) śevadhi 'treasure, treasury' is the head and the beauty stands to it in the genitive. As a tatpuruṣa it keeps the head's masculine gender (2.4.26), so the name ends -śevadhiḥ, not with a feminine ending, though it names the Goddess.

ANALYSIS महत् लावण्यम् महालावण्यम्; महालावण्यस्य शेवधिः महालावण्यशेवधिः

mahat lāvaṇyam mahālāvaṇyam; mahālāvaṇyasya śevadhiḥ mahālāvaṇyaśevadhiḥ

SIGNIFICANCE The name sums up the description of Her form that ends here: all beauty is stored in Her, and every lesser loveliness is drawn from that treasury.

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

सर्वारुणाऽनवद्याङ्गी = सर्वारुणा + अनवद्याङ्गी (sarvāruṇā + anavadyāṅgī) — savarṇa-dīrgha: ā + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101); the avagraha ऽ (') marks the absorbed initial a of anavadyāṅgī

Read sarvāruṇā | anavadyāṅgī: the avagraha shows where the second name begins. Names 49–51 close the description of Her form; 52–54 name Her union with Kāmeśvara.

THE NAMES

49 सर्वारुणा sarvāruṇā

She who is red in every part

SANDHI सर्वारुणा = सर्व + अरुणा (sarva + aruṇā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND karmadhāraya (sarva 'whole, entire' qualifying aruṇā). sarva in the sense 'whole, in every part' qualifies aruṇā 'red'; aruṇā is the head and the compound describes Her: red throughout. sarvā takes its masculine stem sarva inside the karmadhāraya (puṃvadbhāva, Pāṇini 6.3.42).

ANALYSIS सर्वा अरुणा सर्वारुणा

sarvā aruṇā sarvāruṇā

SIGNIFICANCE Her body, garments, garlands and ornaments are all red, as the dhyāna verses picture Her (aruṇāṃ …; aruṇa-mālya-bhūṣāmbarām). In Śrīvidyā this red is read as vimarśa, the self-reflective power of consciousness, and as the color of compassion.

50 अनवद्याङ्गी an-avadyāṅgī

She whose every limb is faultless

SANDHI अवद्याङ्गी = अवद्य + अङ्गी (avadya + aṅgī) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (over an inner nañ-tatpuruṣa). (1) an-avadya 'not blameworthy, faultless' (nañ-tatpuruṣa; na appears as an- before a vowel, Pāṇini 6.3.73–74). (2) It qualifies aṅga 'limb', and the whole is a bahuvrīhi describing Her: 'She whose limbs are faultless'. aṅga, a body-part word ending the bahuvrīhi, takes the feminine ī (Pāṇini 4.1.54): -aṅgī.

ANALYSIS न अवद्यम् अनवद्यम्; अनवद्यानि अङ्गानि यस्याः सा अनवद्याङ्गी

na avadyam anavadyam; anavadyāni aṅgāni yasyāḥ sā anavadyāṅgī

SIGNIFICANCE No flaw can be found in any part of Her form; traditionally this is read also as freedom from every impurity, since Her body is pure consciousness.

51 सर्वाभरणभूषिता sarvābharaṇa-bhūṣitā

She who is adorned with all ornaments

SANDHI सर्वाभरण = सर्व + आभरण (sarva + ābharaṇa) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa (with an inner karmadhāraya). (1) sarva-ābharaṇa 'all ornaments' (karmadhāraya). (2) The participle bhūṣitā 'adorned' is the head and takes the ornaments in the instrumental.

ANALYSIS सर्वाणि आभरणानि सर्वाभरणानि; सर्वाभरणैः भूषिता सर्वाभरणभूषिता

sarvāṇi ābharaṇāni sarvābharaṇāni; sarvābharaṇaiḥ bhūṣitā sarvābharaṇabhūṣitā

SIGNIFICANCE The description of Her form closes by gathering every ornament into one; in worship the ornaments (ābharaṇa) are offered to Her as one of the services of pūjā.

52 शिवकामेश्वराङ्कस्था śiva-kāmeśvarāṅka-sthā

She who sits on the lap of Śiva, who is Kāmeśvara

SANDHI कामेश्वर = काम + ईश्वर (kāma + īśvara) — guṇa: a + ī → e (Pāṇini 6.1.87 ād guṇaḥ); कामेश्वराङ्क = कामेश्वर + अङ्क (kāmeśvara + aṅka) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa (over an inner ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa and a karmadhāraya). (1) śiva-kāmeśvara 'Śiva who is Kāmeśvara' (karmadhāraya of apposition). (2) ...kāmeśvara-aṅka 'His lap' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (3) -stha 'staying, seated' is √sthā with the suffix -a after a word in the locative (Pāṇini 3.2.4 supi sthaḥ), an upapada-tatpuruṣa; it takes the feminine -ā.

ANALYSIS शिवः कामेश्वरः शिवकामेश्वरः; शिवकामेश्वरस्य अङ्कः शिवकामेश्वराङ्कः; शिवकामेश्वराङ्के तिष्ठति इति शिवकामेश्वराङ्कस्था

SIGNIFICANCE Her iconic form is seated on the left lap of Kāmeśvara: Śiva and Śakti as one, never apart. Traditionally the name is read as that inseparability, the stillness of Śiva holding the dynamism of Śakti.

53 शिवा śivā

She who is Śivā, auspiciousness itself, the power of Śiva

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally there is no difference between Śiva and Śivā: She is Śiva's own nature, and as the auspicious one She bestows auspiciousness and liberation on those who worship Her.

54 स्वाधीनवल्लभा svādhīna-vallabhā

She who keeps Her husband always under Her control

SANDHI स्वाधीन = स्व + अधीन (sva + adhīna) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (over an inner saptamī-tatpuruṣa). (1) sva-adhīna 'dependent on oneself, subject to oneself' (saptamī-tatpuruṣa: adhīna 'dependent' governs the locative). Here sva refers to Her. (2) It qualifies vallabha 'beloved, husband', and the whole is a bahuvrīhi: 'She whose beloved is subject to Her'; vallabha takes the feminine -ā.

ANALYSIS स्वस्मिन् अधीनः स्वाधीनः; स्वाधीनः वल्लभः यस्याः सा स्वाधीनवल्लभा

svasmin adhīnaḥ svādhīnaḥ; svādhīnaḥ vallabhaḥ yasyāḥ sā svādhīnavallabhā

SIGNIFICANCE In poetics the svādhīnabhartṛkā is the heroine whose husband is under her sway. Saundaryalaharī 1 gives the reason: Śiva joined to Śakti is able to act; without Her He cannot even stir.

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Names 55–61 describe Her abode: the central peak of Meru, the city, the cintāmaṇi palace, the throne of the five Brahmas, the lotus and kadamba forests, the ocean of nectar. In 56 śrīman- is śrīmat with t → n before nagara.

THE NAMES

55 सुमेरुमध्यशृङ्गस्था sumeru-madhya-śṛṅga-sthā

She who sits on the middle peak of Mount Sumeru

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa (over an inner ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa and a karmadhāraya). (1) madhya-śṛṅga 'the middle peak' (karmadhāraya). (2) sumeru-madhyaśṛṅga 'the middle peak of Sumeru' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (3) -sthā 'abiding' (√sthā after a word in the locative, Pāṇini 3.2.4) is the head: 'She who abides on the middle peak of Sumeru'. The members are simply juxtaposed.

madhyam śṛṅgam madhyaśṛṅgam; sumeroḥ madhyaśṛṅgam sumerumadhyaśṛṅgam; sumerumadhyaśṛṅge tiṣṭhati iti sumerumadhyaśṛṅgasthā

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally Meru has three peaks at its corners, the seats of Brahmā, Viṣṇu and Śiva, and a higher middle peak where Her city stands. With this name begins the account of Her abode.

> CORRECTED सुमेरुमध्यशृङ्गस्था → सुमेरुमध्यशृङ्गस्था. Removed a zero-width joiner inside शृ (rendering workaround) that also corrupted the IAST.

56 श्रीमन्नगरनायिका śrīman-nagara-nāyikā

She who is the sovereign of the glorious city (Śrīpura)

SANDHI श्रीमन्नगर = श्रीमत् + नगर (śrīmat + nagara) — nasal assimilation: the final t of śrīmat becomes n before the nasal n (Pāṇini 8.4.45 yaro 'nunāsike 'nunāsiko vā)

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa (with an inner karmadhāraya). (1) śrīmat-nagara 'the glorious city' (karmadhāraya), i.e. Śrīnagara or Śrīpura, Her city. (2) nāyikā 'mistress, sovereign' is the head and the city stands to it in the genitive.

ANALYSIS श्रीमत् नगरम् श्रीमन्नगरम्; श्रीमन्नगरस्य नायिका श्रीमन्नगरनायिका

śrīmat nagaram śrīmannagaram; śrīmannagarasya nāyikā śrīmannagaranāyikā

SIGNIFICANCE Śrīpura, the city on Meru's central peak, is described in the Lalitopākhyāna with its many concentric enclosures; in Śrīvidyā the city is also the Śrīcakra, with Her at its center.

57 चिन्तामणिगृहान्तस्था cintāmaṇi-gṛhānta-sthā

She who dwells within the palace built of cintāmaṇi, the wish-fulfilling gems

SANDHI गृहान्त = गृह + अन्त (gṛha + anta) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa (over an inner ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa and a karmadhāraya). (1) cintāmaṇi-gṛha 'the house made of cintāmaṇi gems' (karmadhāraya with 'made of' understood). (2) ...gṛha-anta 'its interior' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (3) -sthā 'abiding' (√sthā after a word in the locative) is the head.

ANALYSIS चिन्तामणिमयम् गृहम् चिन्तामणिगृहम्; चिन्तामणिगृहस्य अन्तः चिन्तामणिगृहान्तः; चिन्तामणिगृहान्ते तिष्ठति इति चिन्तामणिगृहान्तस्था

58 पञ्चब्रह्मासनस्थिता pañca-brahmāsana-sthitā

She who is seated on the throne formed of the five Brahmas

SANDHI ब्रह्मासन = ब्रह्म + आसन (brahma + āsana) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND saptamī-tatpuruṣa (over an inner karmadhāraya and a dvigu). (1) pañca-brahman 'the five Brahmas', a numeral compound used as a fixed designation (dvigu). (2) ... brahma-āsana 'the seat formed of the five Brahmas' (karmadhāraya with 'consisting of' understood). (3) The participle sthitā 'seated' is the head and takes the seat in the locative.

pañcan and brahman lose their final n in composition; these are morphological, not sandhi.

ANALYSIS पञ्च ब्रह्माणः पञ्चब्रह्माणः; पञ्चब्रह्मात्मकम् आसनम् पञ्चब्रह्मासनम्; पञ्चब्रह्मासने स्थिता पञ्चब्रह्मासनस्थिता

pañca brahmāṇaḥ pañcabrahmāṇaḥ; pañcabrahmātmakam āsanam pañcabrahmāsanam; pañcabrahmāsane sthitā pañcabrahmāsanasthitā

SIGNIFICANCE In Śrīvidyā the throne's four legs are Brahmā, Viṣṇu, Rudra and Īśvara, and Sadāśiva is its seat: the lords of creation, maintenance, dissolution, concealment and grace all serve as Her throne.

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

The second half holds three names: sudhāsāgaramadhyasthā (61) | kāmākṣī (62) | kāmadāyinī (63).

THE NAMES

59 महापद्माटवीसंस्था mahā-padmāṭavī-saṃsthā

She who resides in the great lotus forest

SANDHI पद्माटवी = पद्म + अटवी (padma + aṭavī) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ); संस्था = सम् + स्था (sam + sthā) — the m of the prefix sam becomes anusvāra before a consonant (Pāṇini 8.3.23 mo 'nusvāraḥ)

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa (over an inner karmadhāraya and a ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (1) padma-aṭavī 'a forest of lotuses' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (2) mahā qualifies it, 'the great lotus forest' (karmadhāraya; mahatī → mahā-, Pāṇini 6.3.42 and 6.3.46). It can equally be read as mahāpadma-aṭavī 'the forest of great lotuses'. (3) saṃsthā 'abiding' (sam + √sthā + -a, after a word in the locative) is the head.

ANALYSIS पद्मानाम् अटवी पद्माटवी; महती पद्माटवी महापद्माटवी; महापद्माटव्याम् संतिष्ठते इति महापद्माटवीसंस्था

padmānām aṭavī padmāṭavī; mahatī padmāṭavī mahāpadmāṭavī; mahāpadmāṭavyām saṃtiṣṭhate iti mahāpadmāṭavīsaṃsthā

SIGNIFICANCE A great lotus forest is part of the setting of Her city. Traditionally it is also read inwardly, as the lotuses of the yogic body and above all the thousand-petalled lotus at the crown.

> UNCERTAIN mahā may qualify the forest ('the great lotus forest') or the lotuses ('the forest of great lotuses'); both readings are current and the sense is the same.

60 कदम्बवनवासिनी kadamba-vana-vāsinī

She who resides in the kadamba forest

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa (over an inner ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (1) kadamba-vana 'the forest of kadamba trees' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (2) vāsin 'dwelling', √vas with the suffix -in after a word in the locative (Pāṇini 3.2.78 supy ajātau ṇinis tācchīlye: one whose nature it is to dwell there), is the head; it takes the feminine ī. The members are simply juxtaposed.

ANALYSIS कदम्बानाम् वनम् कदम्बवनम्; कदम्बवने वसति इति कदम्बवनवासिनी

kadambānām vanam kadambavanam; kadambavane vasati iti kadambavanavāsinī

SIGNIFICANCE A grove of kadamba trees surrounds Her palace in Śrīpura. On earth, Madurai, the seat of Mīnākṣī, was anciently a kadamba forest, and the Goddess there is traditionally praised by this name.

61 सुधासागरमध्यस्था sudhā-sāgara-madhya-sthā

She who resides in the center of the ocean of nectar

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa (over inner ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣas). (1) sudhā-sāgara 'the ocean of nectar' and …sāgara-madhya 'its middle' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣas). (2) -sthā 'abiding' (√sthā after a word in the locative) is the head. The members are simply juxtaposed.

sudhāyāḥ sāgaraḥ sudhāsāgaraḥ; sudhāsāgarasya madhyam sudhāsāgaramadhyam; sudhāsāgaramadhye tiṣṭhati iti sudhāsāgaramadhyasthā

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally Her city is also placed on an island of gems (maṇidvīpa) in the midst of an ocean of nectar. Inwardly the nectar is read as the amṛta that flows from the thousand-petalled lotus.

62 कामाक्षी kāmākṣī

She whose eyes are lovely, eyes in which love dwells

SANDHI कामाक्षी = काम + अक्षी (kāma + akṣī) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (with the compound-final suffix ṣac). A bahuvrīhi describing Her. akṣi 'eye' at the end of a bahuvrīhi becomes akṣa (the samāsānta suffix ṣac, Pāṇini 5.4.113 bahuvrīhau sakthyakṣṇoḥ svāṅgāt ṣac) and takes the feminine ī: -ākṣī. kāma may be the adjective 'lovely, desirable' ('whose eyes are lovely') or the noun 'love, desire' ('in whose eyes love dwells').

ANALYSIS कामे कमनीये अक्षिणी यस्याः सा कामाक्षी; अथवा कामः अक्ष्णोः यस्याः सा कामाक्षी

kāme kamanīye akṣiṇī yasyāḥ sā kāmākṣī; athavā kāmaḥ akṣṇoḥ yasyāḥ sā kāmākṣī

SIGNIFICANCE Kāmākṣī is the Goddess of Kāñcīpuram, traditionally identified with Lalitā. A traditional reading divides kā (Sarasvatī) + mā (Lakṣmī) + akṣī: She whose two eyes are Sarasvatī and Lakṣmī.

> UNCERTAIN Several analyses are current: kāma as 'lovely' (the meaning given), as 'love, desire' dwelling in Her eyes, and the traditional kā + mā + akṣī (Sarasvatī and Lakṣmī as Her eyes).

63 कामदायिनी kāma-dāyinī

She who grants all wishes

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa. dāyin 'giving', √dā with the agent suffix -in (a y is inserted after the root's ā), takes kāma 'desire, wish' as its object; it is the head and takes the feminine ī. The members are simply juxtaposed.

ANALYSIS कामान् ददाति इति कामदायिनी

kāmān dadāti iti kāmadāyinī

SIGNIFICANCE She fulfills the desires of Her devotees, and traditionally the highest of them, the desire for liberation. kāma can also be the god Kāma: She gave back Kāma, burnt by Śiva's eye, a deed named in name 84.

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Here begins the Bhaṇḍāsura episode of the Lalitopākhyāna, which runs to name 84. Name 64: divide stūyamāna + ātma-vaibhava ('Her own glory'), not stūyamānātma.

64 देवर्षिगणसङ्घातस्तूयमानात्मवैभवा devarṣi-gaṇa-saṅghāta-stūyamānātma-vaibhavā

She whose own glory is being praised by the assembled hosts of gods and sages

SANDHI देवर्षि = देव + ऋषि (deva + ṛṣi) — guṇa: a + ṛ → ar (Pāṇini 6.1.87 ād guṇaḥ); स्तूयमानात्म = स्तूयमान + आत्म (stūyamāna + ātma) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (over inner tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa, ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣas and a dvandva). (1) deva-ṛṣi 'gods and sages' (dvandva; it can also be read as a karmadhāraya, 'the divine sages'). (2) …ṛṣi-gaṇa 'their hosts' and …gaṇa-saṅghāta 'the assembled multitude of those hosts' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣas). (3) stūyamāna 'being praised', the present passive participle of √stu, takes that multitude as agent in the instrumental (tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa). (4) ātma-vaibhava 'Her own glory' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa), qualified by (3). (5) The whole is a bahuvrīhi: 'She whose own glory is being praised by …'; vaibhava takes the feminine -ā.

65 भण्डासुरवधोद्युक्तशक्तिसेनासमन्विता

bhaṇḍāsura-vadhodyukta-śakti-senā-samanvitā

She who is accompanied by an army of śaktis intent on slaying Bhaṇḍāsura

SANDHI भण्डासुर = भण्ड + असुर (bhaṇḍa + asura) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ); वधोद्युक्त = वध + उद्युक्त (vadha + udyukta) — guṇa: a + u → o (Pāṇini 6.1.87 ād guṇaḥ); अन्विता = अनु + इता (anu + itā) — yaṇ: u becomes v before a dissimilar vowel (Pāṇini 6.1.77 iko yaṇ aci), at the junction of the prefix anu with ita

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa (over inner karmadhārayas, a saptamī-tatpuruṣa and ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣas). (1) bhaṇḍa-asura 'the demon Bhaṇḍa' (karmadhāraya of apposition) and …asura-vadha 'his slaying' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (2) udyukta 'intent, set upon' takes the slaying in the locative (saptamī-tatpuruṣa). (3) śakti-senā 'the army of śaktis' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa), qualified by (2) (karmadhāraya; udyuktā takes its masculine stem). (4) samanvitā 'accompanied by' is the head and takes the army in the instrumental.

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Name 67 is one name of two words: …koṭikoṭibhiḥ āvṛtā; the visarga becomes r before ā (koṭibhir āvṛtā).

THE NAMES

66 सम्पत्करीसमारूढसिन्धुरव्रजसेविता sampatkarī-samārūḍha-sindhura-vraja-sevitā

She who is attended by a herd of elephants ridden by Sampatkarī

SANDHI सम्पत्करी = सम्पद् + करी (sampad + karī) — cartva: the final d of sampad becomes t before the voiceless k (Pāṇini 8.4.55 khari ca)

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa (over an inner ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa, a karmadhāraya and a tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa). (1) sampatkarī-samārūḍha 'mounted by Sampatkarī' (tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa:

agent with a past participle). (2) It qualifies sindhura 'elephant' (karmadhāraya). (3) ... sindhura-vraja 'the herd of those elephants' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (4) The participle sevitā 'attended, served' is the head and takes the herd in the instrumental. Sampatkarī rides at the head of the elephants, and the herd is hers.

67 अश्वारूढाधिष्ठिताश्वकोटिकोटिभिरावृता aśvārūḍhādhiṣṭhitāśva-koṭi-koṭibhir-āvṛtā

She who is surrounded by countless millions of horses commanded by Aśvārūḍhā

SANDHI अश्वारूढा = अश्व + आरूढा (aśva + ārūḍhā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ); आरूढाधिष्ठित = आरूढा + अधिष्ठित (ārūḍhā + adhiṣṭhita) — savarṇa-dīrgha: ā + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ); अधिष्ठित = अधि + स्थित (adhi + sthita) — after the prefix adhi the s of √sthā becomes ṣ (Pāṇini 8.3.65), and the following t becomes ṭ after ṣ (ṣṭutva, 8.4.41 ṣṭunā ṣṭuḥ); अधिष्ठिताश्व = अधिष्ठित + अश्व (adhiṣṭhita + aśva) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ); कोटिभिरावृता = कोटिभिः + आवृता (koṭibhiḥ + āvṛtā) — visarga becomes r before a vowel (the s of the ending -bhis becomes ru, Pāṇini 8.2.66, pronounced r before a vowel); this joins two separate words

COMPOUND a phrase of two words: a compound in the instrumental plural (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa over a karmadhāraya, a tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa and a dvitīyā-tatpuruṣa), governed by the participle āvṛtā. (1) aśva-ārūḍhā 'she who has mounted a horse', the name of the śakti Aśvārūḍhā (dvitīyā-tatpuruṣa). (2) adhiṣṭhita 'commanded, presided over' takes her as agent in the instrumental (tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa), and (3) qualifies aśva 'horse' (karmadhāraya). (4) koṭi-koṭi 'crores of crores', i.e. countless millions (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa), of those horses. This long compound is declined in the instrumental plural (...koṭibhiḥ) and is a separate word from āvṛtā 'surrounded', which governs it; the visarga becomes r before ā. The name is therefore a two-word phrase, not a single compound.

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Names 68–70 name the three chariots of the war: Cakrarāja (Hers), Geyacakra (Mantriṇī's) and Kiricakra (Daṇḍanāthā's).

68 चक्रराजरथारूढसर्वायुधपरिष्कृता cakra-rāja-rathārūḍha-sarvāyudha-pariṣkṛtā

She who, mounted on the chariot Cakrarāja, is equipped with all weapons

SANDHI रथारूढ = रथ + आरूढ (ratha + ārūḍha) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ); सर्वायुध = सर्व + आयुध (sarva + āyudha) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND karmadhāraya of two qualifiers (each a dvitīyā- or tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa over inner karmadhārayas and a ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (1) cakra-rāja 'king of cakras' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa; rājan becomes rāja at the end of a tatpuruṣa, Pāṇini 5.4.91), the name of Her chariot, in apposition with ratha (karmadhāraya). (2) ārūḍhā 'mounted on' takes the chariot as object (dvitīyā-tatpuruṣa). (3) sarva-āyudha 'all weapons' (karmadhāraya) in the instrumental with pariṣkṛtā 'equipped, adorned' (tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa). (4) The two qualifiers, both describing Her, are joined as a karmadhāraya: 'mounted on Cakrarāja and equipped with all weapons'; the first takes its masculine stem (ārūḍha).

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally the chariot Cakrarāja, 'king of cakras', is the Śrīcakra itself, its tiers occupied by the deities of the Śrīcakra's enclosures (āvaraṇa). Names 68–70 name the three chariots of the war.

> UNCERTAIN The compound can also be read with ārūḍha qualifying āyudha, 'equipped with all the weapons placed on the Cakrarāja chariot', parallel to names 69–70 where ārūḍha qualifies the following member. The meaning given follows the usual reading.

69 गेयचक्ररथारूढमन्त्रिणीपरिसेविता geya-cakra-rathārūḍha-mantriṇī-parisevitā

She who is attended by Mantriṇī, mounted on the chariot Geyacakra

SANDHI रथारूढ = रथ + आरूढ (ratha + ārūḍha) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa (over inner karmadhārayas and a dvitīyā-tatpuruṣa). (1) geya-cakra 'the cakra of song', the name of Mantriṇī's chariot, in apposition with ratha (karmadhāraya). (2) ārūḍhā 'mounted on' takes the chariot as object (dvitīyā-tatpuruṣa) and (3) qualifies mantriṇī (karmadhāraya; ārūḍhā takes its masculine stem). (4) The participle parisevitā 'attended, served' is the head and takes Mantriṇī in the instrumental.

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Name 71: Jvālāmālinikā is the goddess Jvālāmālinī (with -kā), one name, followed by ākṣipta 'raised'; do not divide jvālā | mālinikākṣipta.

70 किरिचक्ररथारूढदण्डनाथापुरस्कृता kiri-cakra-rathārūḍha-daṇḍa-nāthā-puraskṛtā

She who is escorted by Daṇḍanāthā, mounted on the chariot Kiricakra

SANDHI रथारूढ = रथ + आरूढ (ratha + ārūḍha) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ); पुरस्कृता = पुरस् + कृता (puras + kṛtā) — the s of puras, used as a prefix (gati), stays s before k instead of becoming visarga (Pāṇini 8.3.40 namaspurasor gatyoḥ)

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa (over inner karmadhārayas, a dvitīyā-tatpuruṣa and a ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (1) kiri-cakra 'the boar-cakra', the name of the chariot drawn by boars, in apposition with ratha (karmadhāraya). (2) ārūḍhā takes it as object (dvitīyā-tatpuruṣa) and (3) qualifies daṇḍa-nāthā 'mistress of the rod', the commander (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa inside; karmadhāraya). (4) puraskṛtā 'placed in front, escorted, honored' is the head and takes Daṇḍanāthā in the instrumental: Daṇḍanāthā goes before Her.

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Vārāhī (76) is Daṇḍanāthā of name 70. Name 77 introduces Mahāgaṇeśa, who breaks the obstacle-yantra in the next name.

THE NAMES

76 विशुक्रप्राणहरणवाराहीवीर्यनन्दिता viśukra-prāṇa-haraṇa-vārāhī-vīrya-nanditā

She who is delighted by the valor of Vārāhī, who took the life of Viśukra

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa (over an inner karmadhāraya and ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣas). (1) viśukra-prāṇa 'Viśukra's life-breaths' and …prāṇa-haraṇa 'the taking of them' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣas). (2) vārāhī-vīrya 'Vārāhī's valor' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (3) (1) and (2) stand in apposition: the valor that was the taking of Viśukra's life (karmadhāraya). (4) nanditā 'delighted' is the head and takes that valor in the instrumental. haraṇa can also be read as an agent noun, 'taking away', qualifying Vārāhī; the sense is the same. The members are simply juxtaposed.

SANDHI कामेश्वर = काम + ईश्वर (kāma + īśvara) — guṇa: a + ī → e (Pāṇini 6.1.87 ād guṇaḥ); मुखालोक = मुख + आलोक (mukha + āloka) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ); गणेश्वरा = गण + ईश्वरा (gaṇa + īśvarā) — guṇa: a + ī → e (Pāṇini 6.1.87 ād guṇaḥ)

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (over inner tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa, karmadhāraya and ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣas). (1) kāmeśvara-mukha 'Kāmeśvara's face' and …mukha-āloka 'the look upon that face' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣas; the genitive is that of the object looked at). (2) kalpita 'fashioned, brought forth' takes the look as its means in the instrumental (tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa). (3) gaṇa-īśvara 'lord of the hosts', Gaṇeśa (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa), with the honorific śrī (karmadhāraya). (4) The whole is a bahuvrīhi in the instrumental relation: 'She by whom Śrī Gaṇeśa was brought forth through a look at Kāmeśvara's face'; gaṇeśvara takes the feminine -ā.

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Names 78–84 close the war with Bhaṇḍāsura: the obstacle-yantra (78), the counter-missiles (79), the ten avatāras (80), the Pāśupata and Kāmeśvara missiles (81–82), the gods' praise (83) and the revival of Kāma (84). Each half-śloka here is a single name.

78 महागणेशनिर्भिन्नविघ्नयन्त्रप्रहर्षिता

mahā-gaṇeśa-nirbhinna-vighna-yantra-praharṣitā

She who was delighted when Mahāgaṇeśa shattered the yantra of obstacles

SANDHI गणेश = गण + ईश (gaṇa + īśa) — guṇa: a + ī → e (Pāṇini 6.1.87 ād guṇaḥ), inside the lexicalised compound gaṇeśa; निर्भिन्न = निस् + भिन्न (nis + bhinna) — the final s of the prefix nis becomes r before a vowel or a voiced consonant (s → ru, Pāṇini 8.2.66 sasajuṣo ruḥ; ru turns to visarga only before a voiceless sound or a pause, 8.3.15): nis → nir

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa (over an inner karmadhāraya, a tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa and a karmadhāraya). (1) mahā-gaṇeśa 'the great Gaṇeśa' (karmadhāraya; mahat becomes mahā- before a co-referential member). (2) vighna-yantra 'the yantra of obstacles', a device that causes obstacles (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (3) mahāgaṇeśa-nirbhinna 'shattered by Mahāgaṇeśa': the agent in the instrumental with a past participle (tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa). (4) That participle qualifies vighnayantra (karmadhāraya): 'the obstacle-yantra shattered by Mahāgaṇeśa'. (5) The head is praharṣitā 'made glad', and the whole event stands to it in the instrumental of cause: 'delighted by (the sight of) it'.

SIGNIFICANCE In the Lalitopākhyāna a yantra that spreads obstacles is set up against Her army; from Her glance at Kāmeśvara Mahāgaṇapati arises and smashes it. Inwardly, Her grace removes the obstacles to sādhana, which is why Gaṇeśa is worshipped first.

79 भण्डासुरेन्द्रनिर्मुक्तशस्त्रप्रत्यस्त्रवर्षिणी

bhaṇḍāsurendra-nirmukta-śastra-pratyastra-varṣiṇī

She who rained counter-missiles on the weapons released by Bhaṇḍāsura, lord of the demons

SANDHI भण्डासुर = भण्ड + असुर (bhaṇḍa + asura) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ); असुरेन्द्र = असुर + इन्द्र (asura + indra) — guṇa: a + i → e (Pāṇini 6.1.87 ād guṇaḥ); निर्मुक्त = निस् + मुक्त (nis + mukta) — the final s of the prefix nis becomes r before a vowel or a voiced consonant (s → ru, Pāṇini 8.2.66 sasajuṣo ruḥ; ru turns to visarga only before a voiceless sound or a pause, 8.3.15): nis → nir; प्रत्यस्त्र = प्रति + अस्त्र (prati + astra) — yaṇ: i becomes y before a dissimilar vowel (Pāṇini 6.1.77 iko yaṇ aci)

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa (over inner karmadhārayas and tṛtīyā- and ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣas). (1) asura-indra 'lord of the asuras' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa), in apposition to Bhaṇḍa (karmadhāraya): 'Bhaṇḍa, lord of the asuras'. (2) …-nirmukta 'released by him' (tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa), qualifying śastra 'weapons' (karmadhāraya). (3) prati-astra 'counter-missile' is itself a prādi compound; here the weapons stand to it in the genitive: 'the counter-missiles to those weapons'. (4) The head varṣiṇī 'raining down' (√vṛṣ + -in, feminine) takes all of this as its object (upapada-tatpuruṣa).

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Name 80 ends in -iḥ, not -ā: its last member ākṛti is a feminine i-stem.

80 कराङ्गुलिनखोत्पन्ननारायणदशाकृतिः karāṅguli-nakhotpanna-nārāyaṇa-daśākṛtiḥ

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (over inner ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣas, a pañcamī-tatpuruṣa and a numeral karmadhāraya). (1) kara-aṅguli 'fingers of the hand' and …-nakha 'their nails' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣas). (2) …nakha-utpanna 'sprung from those nails' (pañcamī-tatpuruṣa with the participle utpanna). (3) nārāyaṇa-daśa-ākṛti 'the ten forms of Nārāyaṇa': the numeral daśa qualifies ākṛti, and Nārāyaṇa stands in the genitive. (4) The whole is a bahuvrīhi: 'She from the nails of whose fingers the ten forms of Nārāyaṇa arose'. ākṛti is already a feminine i-stem, so the name ends in -iḥ, not -ā.

kāmeśvarāstra-nirdagdha-sabhaṇḍāsura-śūnyakā

She who with the Kāmeśvara missile burned up Bhaṇḍāsura together with his city Śūnyaka

SANDHI कामेश्वर = काम + ईश्वर (kāma + īśvara) — guṇa: a + ī → e (Pāṇini 6.1.87 ād guṇaḥ); कामेश्वरास्त्र = कामेश्वर + अस्त्र (kāmeśvara + astra) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ); निर्दग्ध = निस् + दग्ध (nis + dagdha) — the final s of the prefix nis becomes r before a vowel or a voiced consonant (s → ru, Pāṇini 8.2.66 sasajuṣo ruḥ; ru turns to visarga only before a voiceless sound or a pause, 8.3.15): nis → nir; भण्डासुर = भण्ड + असुर (bhaṇḍa + asura) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (over inner ṣaṣṭhī- and tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣas, a saha-bahuvrīhi and a karmadhāraya). (1) kāmeśvara-astra 'the missile of Kāmeśvara' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa), and …-nirdagdha 'burnt up by it' (tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa). (2) sa-bhaṇḍāsura 'together with Bhaṇḍāsura': a saha-bahuvrīhi in which saha 'with' is shortened to sa- (Pāṇini 2.2.28, 6.3.82). (3) It qualifies Śūnyaka, the name of Bhaṇḍa's city (karmadhāraya). (4) The whole is a bahuvrīhi with the instrumental relation: 'She by whom Śūnyaka, together with Bhaṇḍāsura, was burnt up by the Kāmeśvara missile'; the last member takes the feminine -ā.

SIGNIFICANCE The Lalitopākhyāna ends the war with the Kāmeśvara missile, which destroys Bhaṇḍa and Śūnyaka together. The city's name, 'the void', is traditionally read as the emptiness to which ignorance and its works are reduced.

83 ब्रह्मोपेन्द्रमहेन्द्रादिदेवसंस्तुतवैभवा

brahmopendra-mahendrādi-deva-saṃstuta-vaibhavā

She whose glory is extolled by Brahmā, Upendra (Viṣṇu), Mahendra (Indra) and the other gods

SANDHI ब्रह्मोपेन्द्र = ब्रह्म + उपेन्द्र (brahma + upendra) — guṇa: a + u → o (Pāṇini 6.1.87 ād guṇaḥ); उपेन्द्र = उप + इन्द्र (upa + indra) — guṇa: a + i → e (Pāṇini 6.1.87 ād guṇaḥ), inside the lexicalised compound upendra; महेन्द्र = महा + इन्द्र (mahā + indra) — guṇa: ā + i → e (Pāṇini 6.1.87 ād guṇaḥ), inside the lexicalised compound mahendra; महेन्द्रादि = महेन्द्र + आदि (mahendra + ādi) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ); संस्तुत = सम् + स्तुत (sam + stuta) — m becomes anusvāra before a consonant (Pāṇini 8.3.23 mo 'nusvāraḥ); before a sibilant it stays anusvāra: sam → saṃ

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (over an itaretara-dvandva, an inner bahuvrīhi with ādi, a karmadhāraya and a tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa). (1) brahma-upendra-mahendra 'Brahmā, Upendra and Mahendra' (itaretara-dvandva). (2) …-ādi 'beginning with them' (a bahuvrīhi with ādi), qualifying deva 'the gods' (karmadhāraya): 'the gods headed by Brahmā, Upendra and Mahendra'. (3) …deva-saṃstuta 'extolled by those gods' (tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa), qualifying vaibhava 'glory'. (4) The whole is a bahuvrīhi: 'She whose glory is extolled by …'; vaibhava takes the feminine -ā. brahman drops its final n in composition (8.2.7).

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Name 84 completes the Bhaṇḍa episode. Name 85 begins the subtle form (sūkṣma-rūpa): the three kūṭas of the Pañcadaśī as Her body (85–89).

THE NAMES

84 हरनेत्राग्निसन्दग्धकामसञ्जीवनौषधिः

hara-netrāgni-sandagdha-kāma-sañjīvanauṣadhiḥ

She who is the life-restoring herb for Kāma, who had been burned by the fire of Hara's (Śiva's) eye

SANDHI नेत्राग्नि = नेत्र + अग्नि (netra + agni) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ); सन्दग्ध = सम् + दग्ध (sam + dagdha) — m becomes anusvāra before a consonant (Pāṇini 8.3.23 mo 'nusvāraḥ), and the anusvāra takes the nasal of the following stop's class (8.4.58 anusvārasya yayi parasavarṇaḥ): sam → san; सञ्जीवन = सम् + जीवन (sam + jīvana) — m becomes anusvāra before a consonant (Pāṇini 8.3.23 mo 'nusvāraḥ), and the anusvāra takes the nasal of the following stop's class (8.4.58 anusvārasya yayi parasavarṇaḥ): sam → sañ; सञ्जीवनौषधि = सञ्जीवन + ओषधि (sañjīvana + oṣadhi) — vṛddhi: a + o → au (Pāṇini 6.1.88 vṛddhir eci)

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa (over inner ṣaṣṭhī- and tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣas and karmadhārayas). (1) hara-netra-agni 'the fire of Hara's (Śiva's) eye' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣas). (2) … agni-sandagdha 'burnt up by that fire' (tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa), qualifying kāma (karmadhāraya): 'Kāma, burnt by the fire of Hara's eye'. (3) sañjīvana-oṣadhi 'the reviving herb' (karmadhāraya; sañjīvanī takes its masculine stem before oṣadhi). (4) Kāma stands to it in the genitive (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa), and the whole is identified with Her: She IS the herb. oṣadhi is a feminine i-stem, so the name ends in -iḥ.

She whose lotus face is, in its very nature, the glorious vāgbhava-kūṭa (the first syllable-group of the Pañcadaśī mantra)

SANDHI श्रीमद्वाग्भव = श्रीमत् + वाग्भव (śrīmat + vāgbhava) — jaśtva: a final t becomes d before a voiced sound (Pāṇini 8.2.39 jhalāṃ jaśo 'nte); वाग्भव = वाच् + भव (vāc + bhava) — the final c of vāc becomes k at the end of a member (Pāṇini 8.2.30 coḥ kuḥ) and is voiced to g before bh (jaśtva, 8.2.39), inside the lexicalised compound vāgbhava; कूटैक = कूट + एक (kūṭa + eka) — vṛddhi: a + e → ai (Pāṇini 6.1.88 vṛddhir eci)

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (over an inner bahuvrīhi, a rūpaka-karmadhāraya and karmadhārayas). (1) vāgbhava-kūṭa 'the kūṭa called vāgbhava' (karmadhāraya), qualified by śrīmat 'glorious'. (2) …kūṭa-eka-svarūpa 'having that kūṭa alone as its very nature' (an inner bahuvrīhi; eka 'one, sole'). (3) mukha-paṅkaja 'the lotus that is the face' (rūpaka-karmadhāraya), which that bahuvrīhi qualifies. (4) The whole is a bahuvrīhi: 'She whose lotus face is, in its very nature, the glorious vāgbhava-kūṭa'; paṅkaja takes the feminine -ā.

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Name 86 keeps the visarga of adhaḥ before k (kaṇṭhādhaḥ-kaṭi); in name 87 the same adhas appears as adho- before bh.

THE NAMES

86 कण्ठाधःकटिपर्यन्तमध्यकूटस्वरूपिणी

kaṇṭhādhaḥ-kaṭi-paryanta-madhya-kūṭa-svarūpiṇī

She whose form from below the throat down to the waist is the middle kūṭa (the kāmarāja-kūṭa) of the Pañcadaśī

SANDHI कण्ठाधः = कण्ठ + अधः (kaṇṭha + adhaḥ) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ); अधःकटि = अधस् + कटि (adhas + kaṭi) — visarga sandhi: the final s of adhas becomes ru (Pāṇini 8.2.66 sasajuṣo ruḥ) and then visarga before the voiceless k (8.3.15 kharavasānayor visarjanīyaḥ); पर्यन्त = परि + अन्त (pari + anta) — yaṇ: i becomes y before a dissimilar vowel (Pāṇini 6.1.77 iko yaṇ aci), inside the lexicalised compound paryanta

COMPOUND saptamī-tatpuruṣa in sense (the body-region in the locative), over an inner bahuvrīhi, a karmadhāraya and the possessive -in. (1) kaṇṭha-adhas 'below the throat' (the indeclinable adhas with the throat as its point of reference). (2) kaṭi-paryanta 'having the waist as its limit' (bahuvrīhi), together with (1) naming the region of the body 'from below the throat down to the waist'. (3) madhya-kūṭa 'the middle kūṭa' (karmadhāraya). (4) svarūpiṇī 'having as Her own form' (svarūpa + the possessive -in, feminine -iṇī) is the head; madhyakūṭa is what She has as Her form, and the region is where: 'She who, from below the throat to the waist, has the middle kūṭa as Her form'.

SIGNIFICANCE The middle kūṭa of the Pañcadaśī, called kāmarāja, is traditionally Her body from the throat to the waist, the second of the three parts of Her subtle form.

> UNCERTAIN The first part, kaṇṭhādhaḥ-kaṭiparyanta, can be analysed adverbially or as a bahuvrīhi qualifying an understood 'part of the body'; the relation to the head is therefore stated in sense (locative) rather than as one fixed samāsa type.

87 शक्तिकूटैकतापन्नकट्यधोभागधारिणी śakti-kūṭaikatāpanna-kaṭyadho-bhāga-dhāriṇī

She whose form below the waist has become one with the śakti-kūṭa (the last four syllables of the Pañcadaśī mantra)

SANDHI कूटैकता = कूट + एकता (kūṭa + ekatā) — vṛddhi: a + e → ai (Pāṇini 6.1.88 vṛddhir eci); एकतापन्न = एकता + आपन्न (ekatā + āpanna) — savarṇa-dīrgha: ā + ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ); कट्यधः = कटि + अधः (kaṭi + adhaḥ) — yaṇ: i becomes y before a dissimilar vowel (Pāṇini 6.1.77 iko yaṇ aci); अधोभाग = अधस् + भाग (adhas + bhāga) — visarga sandhi: final s becomes ru (Pāṇini 8.2.66), which after a and before a voiced consonant becomes u (6.1.114 haśi ca); a + u then gives o (6.1.87)

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa (over inner karmadhārayas, a tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa and a dvitīyā-tatpuruṣa). (1) śakti-kūṭa 'the kūṭa called śakti' (karmadhāraya); …-ekatā 'oneness with it' (tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa). (2) …ekatā-āpanna 'having attained that oneness': an accusative with āpanna (dvitīyā-tatpuruṣa, Pāṇini 2.1.24, which names āpanna). (3) kaṭi-adhas-bhāga 'the part below the waist', qualified by (2) (karmadhāraya). (4) The head dhāriṇī 'bearing' (√dhṛ + -in, feminine) takes it as object (upapada-tatpuruṣa): 'She who bears a lower body that has become one with the śakti-kūṭa'.

SIGNIFICANCE The śakti-kūṭa, the last four syllables of the Pañcadaśī, completes Her subtle form as the part below the waist. Traditionally the three kūṭas are also read as Her three powers and as the three sections of the Śrīcakra.

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Four names in this śloka. From name 90 the hymn turns to kula and the ascent of kuṇḍalinī (to name 111).

THE NAMES

88 मूलमन्त्रात्मिका mūla-mantrātmikā

She whose very self is the root mantra (the fifteen-syllabled Pañcadaśī)

SANDHI मन्त्रात्मिका = मन्त्र + आत्मिका (mantra + ātmikā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (over an inner karmadhāraya). (1) mūla-mantra 'the root mantra' (karmadhāraya: mūla qualifies mantra), i.e. the Pañcadaśī. (2) The whole is a bahuvrīhi: 'She whose self (ātman) is the root mantra'. ātman takes the suffix -ka at the end of the bahuvrīhi (ātmaka), and its feminine is ātmikā.

ANALYSIS मूलम् मन्त्रः मूलमन्त्रः; मूलमन्त्रः आत्मा यस्याः सा मूलमन्त्रात्मिका

mūlam mantraḥ mūlamantraḥ; mūlamantraḥ ātmā yasyāḥ sā mūlamantrātmikā

SIGNIFICANCE The mūla-mantra of Śrīvidyā is the Pañcadaśī; the deity and Her mantra are not two, so to repeat the mantra is to meet Her directly.

89 मूलकूटत्रयकलेवरा mūla-kūṭa-traya-kalevarā

She whose (subtle) body is the three kūṭas of the root mantra

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (over inner ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣas). (1) mūla-kūṭa 'the kūṭas of the root (mantra)' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa; mūla is short for mūlamantra, name 88). (2) ...kūṭa-traya 'the triad of those kūṭas' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (3) The whole is a bahuvrīhi: 'She whose body is the triad of kūṭas of the root mantra'; kalevara takes the feminine -ā.

90 कुलामृतैकरसिका kulāmṛtaika-rasikā

She who delights solely in the nectar of kula

SANDHI कुलामृत = कुल + अमृत (kula + amṛta) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ); अमृतैक = अमृत + एक (amṛta + eka) — vṛddhi: a + e → ai (Pāṇini 6.1.88 vṛddhir eci)

COMPOUND saptamī-tatpuruṣa (over an inner ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa and an inner bahuvrīhi). (1) kula-amṛta 'the nectar of kula' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (2) eka-rasikā 'having a single relish, devoted to one delight': eka-rasa 'one taste' with the possessive suffix -ika, feminine -ikā. (3) The nectar stands to it in the locative (saptamī-tatpuruṣa): 'She whose one delight is in the nectar of kula'.

ANALYSIS कुलस्य अमृतम् कुलामृतम्; एकः रसः यस्याः सा एकरसिका; कुलामृते एकरसिका कुलामृतैकरसिका

kulasya amṛtam kulāmṛtam; ekaḥ rasaḥ yasyāḥ sā ekarasikā; kulāmṛte ekarasikā kulāmṛtaikarasikā

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally the kula-nectar is the stream that flows when kuṇḍalinī, rising along the kula path, reaches the sahasrāra; it is also read as the bliss in which knower, knowing and known become one.

> UNCERTAIN eka can be taken with kulāmṛta ('the kula-nectar alone') or with rasikā (eka-rasikā 'having one delight'); the sense is the same.

91 कुलसङ्केतपालिनी kula-saṅketa-pālinī

She who guards the secret conventions of the kula path

SANDHI सङ्केत = सम् + केत (sam + keta) — m becomes anusvāra before a consonant (Pāṇini 8.3.23 mo 'nusvāraḥ), and the anusvāra takes the nasal of the following stop's class (8.4.58 anusvārasya yayi parasavarṇaḥ): sam → saṅ, inside the lexicalised word saṅketa

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa (over an inner ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (1) kula-saṅketa 'the secret conventions of the kula' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (2) The head pālinī 'protecting' (√pāl + -in, feminine) takes them as object (upapada-tatpuruṣa).

ANALYSIS कुलस्य सङ्केताः कुलसङ्केताः; कुलसङ्केतान् पालयति इति कुलसङ्केतपालिनी

kulasya saṅketāḥ kulasaṅketāḥ; kulasaṅketān pālayati iti kulasaṅketapālinī

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally the kula teachings (mantras, signs and practices) are kept from the unprepared, and She herself guards them.

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Kula and its opposite are paired: Kaulinī (94) and Akulā (96, beginning with the negative a-); the Kaula and Samaya paths (93, 97–98). In 93 and 97, -āntasthā is best divided antar + sthā ('abiding within').

THE NAMES

92 कुलाङ्गना kulāṅganā

She who is well-born (a lady of noble family)

SANDHI कुलाङ्गना = कुल + अङ्गना (kula + aṅganā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa. aṅganā 'woman, lady' is the head and kula 'noble family' stands to it in the genitive: 'the lady of a noble house', i.e. a well-born lady. Read with the surrounding names, kula is also the Kaula path, and She is its lady.

ANALYSIS कुलस्य अङ्गना कुलाङ्गना

kulasya aṅganā kulāṅganā

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally, as a lady of a noble house is not seen in public, the Śrīvidyā is kept hidden and is not displayed to all.

93 कुलान्तस्था kulānta-sthā

She who abides within the kula

SANDHI कुलान्तः = कुल + अन्तः (kula + antaḥ) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ); अन्तस्था = अन्तर् + स्था (antar + sthā) — the final r of antar becomes visarga before a voiceless sound (Pāṇini 8.3.15), and a visarga before a sibilant followed by a voiceless consonant may be dropped (a vārttika on 8.3.36): antaḥ-sthā → antasthā

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa (with kula dependent on the indeclinable antar). sthā 'standing, abiding' (√sthā with the suffix ka, used only at the end of a compound) is the head; antar 'within' says where, and kula stands to antar in the genitive: 'She who abides within the kula'.

ANALYSIS कुलस्य अन्तः तिष्ठति इति कुलान्तस्था

kulasya antaḥ tiṣṭhati iti kulāntasthā

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally She dwells within the kula both as the inner meaning of the Kaula teaching and as the presence within the suṣumnā through which kuṇḍalinī rises.

> UNCERTAIN The division kula-anta-sthā 'abiding at the end (or the inner part) of kula' is also possible; the reading antar + sthā is followed here.

94 कौलिनी kaulinī

She who belongs to the Kaula tradition

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally kula is Śakti and akula is Śiva, and kaula is their union; She who belongs to it is that union itself.

95 कुलयोगिनी kula-yoginī

She who is the yoginī (presiding deity) of the kula

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa. yoginī is the head and kula stands to it in the genitive: 'the yoginī of the kula', i.e. the one who presides over it and is joined (yoga) with it.

ANALYSIS कुलस्य योगिनी कुलयोगिनी

kulasya yoginī kulayoginī

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally the kula is read as the group of cakras along the suṣumnā, over which She presides as yoginī.

96 अकुला akulā

She who has no family (She who is beyond kula)

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND nañ-bahuvrīhi. The negative a- (from nañ) with kula: 'She who has no kula', i.e. no family or lineage and nothing that bounds Her as a group. The name describes Her, so kula takes the feminine -ā.

ANALYSIS न विद्यते कुलम् यस्याः सा अकुला

na vidyate kulam yasyāḥ sā akulā

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally akula is the sahasrāra beyond the kula path of the suṣumnā, and also Śiva; She who is Kaulinī (94) is equally beyond all kula.

97 समयान्तस्था samayānta-sthā

She who abides within samaya

SANDHI समयान्तः = समय + अन्तः (samaya + antaḥ) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ); अन्तस्था = अन्तर् + स्था (antar + sthā) — the final r of antar becomes visarga before a voiceless sound (Pāṇini 8.3.15), and a visarga before a sibilant followed by a voiceless consonant may be dropped (a vārttika on 8.3.36): antaḥ-sthā → antasthā

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa (with samaya dependent on the indeclinable antar). As in name 93: sthā 'abiding' is the head, antar 'within' says where, and samaya stands to antar in the genitive: 'She who abides within samaya'.

ANALYSIS समयस्य अन्तः तिष्ठति इति समयान्तस्था

samayasya antaḥ tiṣṭhati iti samayāntasthā

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally samaya is the inward worship of the Goddess in the cakras of one's own body, and also the equality (sāmya) of Śiva and Śakti; She abides within both.

> UNCERTAIN As with name 93, the division samaya-anta-sthā ('abiding at the end of samaya') is also possible.

98 समयाचारतत्परा samayācāra-tatparā

She who is devoted to the Samaya mode of worship

SANDHI समयाचार = समय + आचार (samaya + ācāra) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND saptamī-tatpuruṣa (over an inner karmadhāraya; tatparā is itself a bahuvrīhi). (1) samaya-ācāra 'the Samaya mode of worship' (karmadhāraya). (2) tat-parā 'devoted, intent', literally 'having that as the highest' (a lexicalised bahuvrīhi). (3) The Samaya practice stands to tatparā in the locative (saptamī-tatpuruṣa): 'intent upon the Samaya practice'.

ANALYSIS समयः आचारः समयाचारः; तत् परम् यस्याः सा तत्परा; समयाचारे तत्परा समयाचारतत्परा

samayaḥ ācāraḥ samayācāraḥ; tat param yasyāḥ sā tatparā; samayācāre tatparā samayācāratatparā

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally Samayācāra is the inward worship of the Goddess in the cakras, beginning at the mūlādhāra, which the next names describe; external ritual is not its means.

विष्णु viṣṇu	Viṣṇu
ग्रन्थि granthi	knot
विभेदिनी vibhedinī	piercing, breaking through vi + √bhid + -in, feminine

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Names 99–104 trace kuṇḍalinī's ascent in order: mūlādhāra, the knot of Brahmā, maṇipūra, the knot of Viṣṇu, ājñā, the knot of Rudra. Name 101 is maṇipūra-antar-uditā; maṇipūra is one cakra name.

99 मूलाधारैकनिलया mūlādhāraika-nilayā

She whose principal abode is the mūlādhāra

SANDHI मूलाधार = मूल + आधार (mūla + ādhāra) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ), inside the lexicalised compound mūlādhāra; आधारैक = आधार + एक (ādhāra + eka) — vṛddhi: a + e → ai (Pāṇini 6.1.88 vṛddhir eci)

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (over an inner karmadhāraya). (1) mūla-ādhāra 'the root support', the lowest cakra (karmadhāraya). (2) The whole is a bahuvrīhi: 'She whose one (principal) abode is the mūlādhāra'; eka qualifies nilaya and nilaya takes the feminine -ā.

ANALYSIS मूलम् आधारः मूलाधारः; मूलाधारः एव एकः निलयः यस्याः सा मूलाधारैकनिलया

mūlam ādhāraḥ mūlādhāraḥ; mūlādhāraḥ eva ekaḥ nilayaḥ yasyāḥ sā mūlādhāraikanilayā

SIGNIFICANCE As kuṇḍalinī She lies coiled in the mūlādhāra; the following names trace Her ascent through the three knots (granthis) to the sahasrāra.

100 ब्रह्मग्रन्थिविभेदिनी brahma-granthi-vibhedinī

She who pierces the knot of Brahmā

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa (over an inner ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (1) brahma-granthi 'the knot of Brahmā' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (2) The head vibhedinī 'piercing, breaking through' (vi + √bhid + -in, feminine) takes it as object (upapada-tatpuruṣa).

ANALYSIS ब्रह्मणः ग्रन्थिः ब्रह्मग्रन्थिः; ब्रह्मग्रन्थिम् विभिनत्ति इति ब्रह्मग्रन्थिविभेदिनी

brahmaṇaḥ granthiḥ brahmagranthiḥ; brahmagranthim vibhinatti iti brahmagranthivibhedinī

SIGNIFICANCE The brahmagranthi is the first of the three knots that bar kuṇḍalinī's path; rising from the mūlādhāra She pierces it before appearing in the maṇipūra (101).

101 मणिपूरान्तरुदिता maṇipūrāntar-uditā

She who rises within the maṇipūra cakra

SANDHI पूरान्तर् = पूर + अन्तर् (pūra + antar) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND tatpuruṣa (maṇipūra dependent on the indeclinable antar, which qualifies the participle). uditā 'risen, appeared' is the head; antar 'within' qualifies it, and maṇipūra stands to antar in the genitive: 'risen within the maṇipūra'. The r of antar simply runs into the vowel of uditā.

ANALYSIS मणिपूरस्य अन्तः उदिता मणिपूरान्तरुदिता

maṇipūrasya antaḥ uditā maṇipūrāntaruditā

SIGNIFICANCE Having pierced the brahmagranthi, kuṇḍalinī becomes manifest in the maṇipūra at the navel, before the knot of Viṣṇu (102).

102 विष्णुग्रन्थिविभेदिनी viṣṇu-granthi-vibhedinī

She who pierces the knot of Viṣṇu

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa (over an inner ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). As in name 100: viṣṇu-granthi 'the knot of Viṣṇu' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa) is the object of vibhedinī 'piercing' (upapada-tatpuruṣa).

ANALYSIS विष्णोः ग्रन्थिः विष्णुग्रन्थिः; विष्णुग्रन्थिम् विभिनत्ति इति विष्णुग्रन्थिविभेदिनी

viṣṇoḥ granthiḥ viṣṇugranthiḥ; viṣṇugranthim vibhinatti iti viṣṇugranthivibhedinī

SIGNIFICANCE The viṣṇugranthi, above the maṇipūra, is the second of the three knots on kuṇḍalinī's path.

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Name 106: sudhāsāra is best divided sudhā + āsāra 'downpour of nectar'.

THE NAMES

103 आज्ञाचक्रान्तरालस्था ājñā-cakrāntarāla-sthā

She who abides within the ājñā cakra

SANDHI चक्रान्तराल = चक्र + अन्तराल (cakra + antarāla) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa (over an inner karmadhāraya and ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (1) ājñā-cakra 'the cakra called ājñā' (karmadhāraya of name). (2) ...cakra-antarāla 'the interior of that cakra' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (3) sthā 'abiding' is the head, with the interior in the locative (upapada-tatpuruṣa).

SIGNIFICANCE The ājñā cakra between the eyebrows is the seat of the guru's command; there kuṇḍalinī meets the last knot, of Rudra (104).

104 रुद्रग्रन्थिविभेदिनी rudra-granthi-vibhedinī

She who pierces the knot of Rudra

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa (over an inner ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). As in names 100 and 102: rudra-granthi 'the knot of Rudra' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa) is the object of vibhedinī 'piercing' (upapada-tatpuruṣa).

ANALYSIS रुद्रस्य ग्रन्थिः रुद्रग्रन्थिः; रुद्रग्रन्थिम् विभिनत्ति इति रुद्रग्रन्थिविभेदिनी

rudrasya granthiḥ rudragranthiḥ; rudragranthim vibhinatti iti rudragranthivibhedinī

SIGNIFICANCE The rudragranthi at the ājñā is the last of the three knots; once it is pierced, the way to the sahasrāra (105) is open.

105 सहस्राराम्बुजारूढा sahasrārāmbujārūḍhā

She who ascends to the thousand-petaled lotus

SANDHI सहस्रार = सहस्र + अर (sahasra + ara) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ), inside the lexicalised compound sahasrāra; सहस्राराम्बुज = सहस्रार + अम्बुज (sahasrāra + ambuja) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ); अम्बुजारूढा = अम्बुज + आरूढा (ambuja + ārūḍhā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND dvitīyā-tatpuruṣa (over an inner bahuvrīhi and karmadhāraya). (1) sahasra-ara 'thousand-spoked, thousand-petalled' (bahuvrīhi). (2) It qualifies ambuja 'lotus' (karmadhāraya). (3) The head ārūḍhā 'having mounted' takes the lotus as its object in the accusative (dvitīyā-tatpuruṣa).

ANALYSIS सहस्रम् अराः यस्य तत् सहस्रारम्; सहस्रारम् अम्बुजम् सहस्राराम्बुजम्; सहस्राराम्बुजम् आरूढा सहस्राराम्बुजारूढा

sahasram arāḥ yasya tat sahasrāram; sahasrāram ambujam sahasrārāmbujam; sahasrārāmbujam ārūḍhā sahasrārāmbujārūḍhā

SIGNIFICANCE The sahasrāra at the crown is Śiva's abode; kuṇḍalinī's ascent ends there in their union.

106 सुधासाराभिवर्षिणी sudhāsārābhivarṣiṇī

She who pours down streams of nectar

SANDHI सुधासार = सुधा + आसार (sudhā + āsāra) — savarṇa-dīrgha: ā + ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ); the second member is āsāra 'downpour', its ā absorbed into sudhā's; आसाराभि = आसार + अभि (āsāra + abhi) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa (over an inner ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (1) sudhā-āsāra 'a downpour of nectar' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (2) The head abhivarṣiṇī 'raining down upon' (abhi + √vṛṣ + -in, feminine) takes it as object (upapada-tatpuruṣa).

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Name 109 is read महासक्तिः with dental s (maha 'festival' + āsakti 'attachment'); many printed editions have महाशक्तिः 'the great power'. Name 107 is also found as taṭillatā.

THE NAMES

107 तडिल्लतासमरुचिः taḍillatā-sama-ruciḥ

She whose radiance equals a streak of lightning

SANDHI तडिल्लता = तडित् + लता (taḍit + latā) — t becomes l before l (Pāṇini 8.4.60 tor li), inside the compound taḍillatā

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (over an inner rūpaka-karmadhāraya and a tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa). (1) taḍit-latā 'the lightning-creeper', a streak of lightning (rūpaka-karmadhāraya: the lightning is the creeper). (2) ...latā-sama 'equal to it' (tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa with sama). (3) The whole is a bahuvrīhi: 'She whose radiance equals a streak of lightning'. ruci is a feminine i-stem, so the name ends in -iḥ; samā takes its masculine stem sama- inside the compound.

ANALYSIS तडित् एव लता तडिल्लता; तडिल्लतया समा तडिल्लतासमा; तडिल्लतासमा रुचिः यस्याः सा तडिल्लतासमरुचिः

taḍit eva latā taḍillatā; taḍillatayā samā taḍillatāsamā; taḍillatāsamā ruciḥ yasyāḥ sā taḍillatāsamaruciḥ

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally kuṇḍalinī rising through the suṣumnā is seen as a thin streak of lightning: brilliant, swift and subtle.

> VARIANTS Some copies read तटिल्लता (taṭillatā); taḍit and taṭit both mean lightning (see corrections.json, variants).

108 षट्चक्रोपरिसंस्थिता ṣaṭ-cakropari-saṃsthitā

She who abides above the six cakras

SANDHI षट्चक्र = षष् + चक्र (ṣaṣ + cakra) — the final ṣ of ṣaṣ becomes ḍ at the end of a member (jaśtva, Pāṇini 8.2.39) and then ṭ before the voiceless c (cartva, 8.4.55 khari ca); चक्रोपरि = चक्र + उपरि (cakra + upari) — guṇa: a + u → o (Pāṇini 6.1.87 ād guṇaḥ); संस्थिता = सम् + स्थिता

(sam + sthitā) — m becomes anusvāra before a consonant (Pāṇini 8.3.23 mo 'nusvāraḥ); before a sibilant it stays anusvāra: sam → saṃ

COMPOUND saptamī-tatpuruṣa in sense (over a dvigu and the indeclinable upari). (1) ṣaṭ-cakra 'the six cakras' (a numeral compound, dvigu, before a further member). (2) … cakra-upari 'above the six cakras' (the indeclinable upari with the cakras in the genitive). (3) The head saṃsthitā 'established, abiding' is qualified by that place.

ANALYSIS षट् चक्राणि षट्चक्राणि; षट्चक्राणाम् उपरि षट्चक्रोपरि; षट्चक्रोपरि संस्थिता षट्चक्रोपरिसंस्थिता

ṣaṭ cakrāṇi ṣaṭcakrāṇi; ṣaṭcakrāṇām upari ṣaṭcakropari; ṣaṭcakropari saṃsthitā ṣaṭcakroparisaṃsthitā

SIGNIFICANCE The six cakras are mūlādhāra, svādhiṣṭhāna, maṇipūra, anāhata, viśuddhi and ājñā; She abides above them in the sahasrāra.

109 महासक्तिः mahāsaktiḥ

She who is devoted to the festival (of the union of Śiva and Śakti)

SANDHI महासक्ति = मह + आसक्ति (maha + āsakti) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ); the second member is āsakti 'attachment', its ā absorbed into maha

COMPOUND vyadhikaraṇa-bahuvrīhi (members in different cases). maha 'festival' and āsakti 'attachment' are in different cases (the festival in the locative), as in cakrapāṇi 'whose discus is in his hand': 'She whose attachment is to the festival'. āsakti is a feminine i-stem, so the name ends in -iḥ.

ANALYSIS महे आसक्तिः यस्याः सा महासक्तिः

mahe āsaktiḥ yasyāḥ sā mahāsaktiḥ

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally the 'festival' (maha) is the union of Śiva and Śakti in the sahasrāra, to which kuṇḍalinī is drawn; read with a dental s, the name does not mean 'great power'.

> UNCERTAIN The division mahā + sakti 'great attachment' is also possible; maha 'festival' + āsakti 'attachment' is followed here because it explains the festive union of the traditional gloss.

> VARIANTS Many printed editions read महाशक्तिः (mahāśaktiḥ, 'the great power'); this edition follows the reading with dental s, महासक्तिः.

110 कुण्डलिनी kuṇḍalinī

She who is coiled (the kuṇḍalinī)

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE Kuṇḍalinī lies coiled, traditionally three and a half times, in the mūlādhāra; Her rising through the cakras is the subject of names 99–111.

111 बिसतन्तुतनीयसी bisa-tantu-tanīyasī

She who is more slender than the fiber of a lotus stalk

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND pañcamī-tatpuruṣa (ablative of comparison, over an inner ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (1) bisa-tantu 'the fiber of a lotus stalk' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (2) The head tanīyasī 'more slender' is a comparative, and the thing compared stands in the ablative: 'more slender than a lotus fiber'.

ANALYSIS बिसस्य तन्तुः बिसतन्तुः; बिसतन्तोः तनीयसी बिसतन्तुतनीयसी

bisasya tantuḥ bisatantuḥ; bisatantoḥ tanīyasī bisatantutanīyasī

SIGNIFICANCE Kuṇḍalinī in the suṣumnā is traditionally pictured as finer than a lotus fiber, so subtle that only inner sight perceives Her.

TRANSLATION

[112]She who is the consort of Bhava (Śiva); [113]She who is attained through contemplation (bhāvanā); [114]She who is the axe that clears the forest of worldly existence (saṃsāra); [115]She who is fond of all that is auspicious; [116]She who is the embodiment of auspiciousness or benevolence; [117]She who bestows good fortune (saubhāgya) on Her devotees.

WORD BY WORD

SANSKRIT	ENGLISH
112 भवानी bhavānī
भवानी bhavānī	the consort of Bhava (Śiva) bhava + the feminine suffix -ī with the augment ān (Pāṇini 4.1.49 indravaruṇabhavaśarvarudra...)

SANSKRIT	ENGLISH
113 भावनागम्या bhāvanā-gamyā
भावना bhāvanā	contemplation, meditative realization from the causative of √bhū "to become": "causing to become"
गम्या gamyā	to be reached, attainable √gam "to go" + the gerundive suffix -ya, feminine
114 भवारण्यकुठारिका bhavāraṇya-kuṭhārikā
भव bhava	becoming, worldly existence (saṃsāra)
अरण्य araṇya	forest, wilderness
कुठारिका kuṭhārikā	axe kuṭhāra "axe" + -ka, feminine -ikā
115 भद्रप्रिया bhadra-priyā
भद्र bhadra	auspicious, good, blessed
प्रिया priyā	dear, beloved; fond of priya, with the feminine -ā
116 भद्रमूर्तिः bhadra-mūrtiḥ
भद्र bhadra	auspicious, gracious, benevolent
मूर्तिः mūrtiḥ	form, embodiment feminine i-stem; nominative
117 भक्तसौभाग्यदायिनी bhakta-saubhāgya-dāyinī
भक्त bhakta	devotee

SANSKRIT	ENGLISH
सौभाग्य saubhāgya	good fortune, blessedness; the auspicious state of a married woman from subhaga "fortunate", with vṛddhi
दायिनी dāyinī	giving, bestowing √dā "to give" + -in, with y inserted before the suffix (Pāṇini 7.3.33 āto yuk ciṇkṛtoḥ); feminine

भद्रमूर्तिर्भक्त = भद्रमूर्तिः + भक्त... (bhadramūrtiḥ + bhakta...) — visarga sandhi: final s becomes ru (Pāṇini 8.2.66 sasajuṣo ruḥ), which after i stays r before a voiced sound (it becomes visarga only before a voiceless sound or a pause, 8.3.15)

Name 113 can be divided bhāvanā-gamyā 'attainable through contemplation' or bhāvanā-agamyā 'unattainable by imagining'; the letters are the same. Names 112–125 turn to Her as Śiva's consort and to devotion.

THE NAMES

112 भवानी bhavānī

She who is the consort of Bhava (Śiva)

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE Bhava, 'existence', is Śiva as the one from whom all becoming arises; as Bhavānī She is the power that gives that existence life.

113 भावनागम्या bhāvanā-gamyā

She who is attained through contemplation (bhāvanā)

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa. gamyā 'to be reached, attainable' (√gam + the gerundive -ya, feminine) is the head, and bhāvanā 'contemplation' stands to it in the instrumental: 'attainable through contemplation'. The text can also be divided bhāvanā + agamyā, with the a of agamyā absorbed into the long ā (savarṇa-dīrgha): 'unattainable by mere imagining'.

ANALYSIS भावनया गम्या भावनागम्या

bhāvanayā gamyā bhāvanāgamyā

SIGNIFICANCE In Śrīvidyā bhāvanā is the inner contemplation in which the worshipper realizes body and mind as the Śrīcakra and the Goddess, as taught in the Bhāvanopaniṣad; She is reached through it.

> UNCERTAIN Both divisions are traditional: bhāvanā-gamyā 'attainable through contemplation' and bhāvanā-agamyā 'unattainable through (mere) imagination'. The Devanagari is the same either way.

114 भवारण्यकुठारिका bhavāraṇya-kuṭhārikā

She who is the axe that clears the forest of worldly existence (saṃsāra)

SANDHI भवारण्य = भव + अरण्य (bhava + araṇya) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa (over an inner rūpaka-karmadhāraya). (1) bhava-araṇya 'the forest that is worldly existence' (rūpaka-karmadhāraya: existence is identified with a forest). (2) The head kuṭhārikā 'axe' takes that forest in the genitive: 'the axe of (for) the forest of existence'. The name identifies Her with the axe.

ANALYSIS भवः एव अरण्यम् भवारण्यम्; भवारण्यस्य कुठारिका भवारण्यकुठारिका

bhavaḥ eva araṇyam bhavāraṇyam; bhavāraṇyasya kuṭhārikā bhavāraṇyakuṭhārikā

SIGNIFICANCE Saṃsāra is a pathless forest of births and deaths; She cuts it down at the root, which is ignorance.

115 भद्रप्रिया bhadra-priyā

She who is fond of all that is auspicious

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi. 'She to whom what is auspicious (bhadra) is dear (priya)': priya is the predicate of the bahuvrīhi and takes the feminine -ā. A ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa 'dear to the auspicious ones (the good)' is also possible.

ANALYSIS भद्रम् प्रियम् यस्याः सा भद्रप्रिया

bhadram priyam yasyāḥ sā bhadrapriyā

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally what is auspicious is dear to Her, and She grants it to those who seek Her, so the name also implies that She gives what is good.

116 भद्रमूर्तिः bhadra-mūrtiḥ

She who is the embodiment of auspiciousness or benevolence

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi. 'She whose form (mūrti) is auspicious (bhadra)'. bhadrā takes its masculine stem bhadra- inside the compound, and mūrti is a feminine i-stem, so the name ends in -iḥ. It can also be taken as a karmadhāraya, 'auspiciousness in embodied form'.

ANALYSIS भद्रा मूर्तिः यस्याः सा भद्रमूर्तिः

bhadrā mūrtiḥ yasyāḥ sā bhadramūrtiḥ

SIGNIFICANCE Her very form is auspicious, so to see or meditate on Her is itself a blessing.

117 भक्तसौभाग्यदायिनी bhakta-saubhāgya-dāyinī

She who bestows good fortune (saubhāgya) on Her devotees

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa (over an inner ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (1) bhakta-saubhāgya 'the good fortune of devotees' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (2) The head dāyinī 'giving' takes it as object (upapada-tatpuruṣa).

ANALYSIS भक्तानाम् सौभाग्यम् भक्तसौभाग्यम्; भक्तसौभाग्यम् ददाति इति भक्तसौभाग्यदायिनी

bhaktānām saubhāgyam bhaktasaubhāgyam; bhaktasaubhāgyam dadāti iti bhaktasaubhāgyadāyinī

SIGNIFICANCE Saubhāgya, 'blessedness', is the characteristic gift of Lalitā; Bhāskararāya's commentary is itself named Saubhāgyabhāskara.

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Bhavānī (112), Śāmbhavī (122), Śarvāṇī (124) and Śāṅkarī (126) are each formed from a name of Śiva: Bhava, Śambhu, Śarva, Śaṅkara.

THE NAMES

118 भक्तिप्रिया bhakti-priyā

She who is fond of (and pleased by) devotion

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi. 'She to whom devotion (bhakti) is dear (priya)'; priya takes the feminine -ā.

ANALYSIS भक्तिः प्रिया यस्याः सा भक्तिप्रिया

bhaktiḥ priyā yasyāḥ sā bhaktipriyā

SIGNIFICANCE Names 118–120 form a group: devotion pleases Her, devotion reaches Her, and devotion wins Her.

119 भक्तिगम्या bhakti-gamyā

She who is attained through devotion

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa. gamyā 'attainable' is the head and bhakti stands to it in the instrumental: 'attainable through devotion'.

ANALYSIS भक्त्या गम्या भक्तिगम्या

bhaktyā gamyā bhaktigamyā

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally devotion is the surest way to Her, as the Bhagavad Gītā says of the Lord: He is reached by undivided devotion.

120 भक्तिवश्या bhakti-vaśyā

She who is won over by devotion

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa. vaśyā 'to be brought under control, won over' is the head and bhakti stands to it in the instrumental: 'won over by devotion'.

ANALYSIS भक्त्या वश्या भक्तिवश्या

bhaktyā vaśyā bhaktivaśyā

SIGNIFICANCE The Mother who rules all worlds lets Herself be ruled by Her devotees' love.

121 भयापहा bhayāpahā

She who dispels fear

SANDHI भयापहा = भय + अपहा (bhaya + apahā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa. apahā 'removing, driving away' (apa + √han 'strike', as an agent at the end of a compound) is the head, and bhaya 'fear' is its object.

ANALYSIS भयम् अपहन्ति इति भयापहा

bhayam apahanti iti bhayāpahā

SIGNIFICANCE Above all She dispels the fear of saṃsāra, the root of every other fear.

122 शाम्भवी śāmbhavī

She who is the consort of Śambhu (Śiva)

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE Śāmbhavī is also the name of an initiation (śāmbhavī dīkṣā) and a yogic gaze (śāmbhavī mudrā); traditionally She is all three.

123 शारदाराध्या śāradārādhyā

She who is worshipped by Śāradā (Sarasvatī, the goddess of speech)

SANDHI शारदाराध्या = शारदा + आराध्या (śāradā + ārādhyā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: ā + ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa. ārādhyā 'to be worshipped' (ā + √rādh + the gerundive -ya, feminine) is the head, and Śāradā, the agent of the worship, stands in the instrumental: 'worshipped by Śāradā'.

ANALYSIS शारदया आराध्या शारदाराध्या

śāradayā ārādhyā śāradārādhyā

SIGNIFICANCE Even Sarasvatī, the goddess of speech and learning, worships Her; so do all who seek knowledge.

124 शर्वाणी śarvāṇī

She who is the consort of Śarva (Śiva)

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE Śarva is Śiva as the archer who destroys; Śarvāṇī is His inseparable power.

125 शर्मदायिनी śarma-dāyinī

She who confers happiness

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa. dāyinī 'giving' is the head, and śarman 'happiness, shelter' is its object.

ANALYSIS शर्म ददाति इति शर्मदायिनी

śarma dadāti iti śarmadāyinī

SIGNIFICANCE Śarman is happiness that is also shelter: She gives the peace of being protected.

133 निरञ्जना nir-añjanā

निस् nis	out, away; (in a bahuvrīhi) without the prefix nis (also listed as nir); here it appears as nir
अञ्जना añjanā	collyrium; a dark stain or smear añjana, with the feminine -ā of the bahuvrīhi

Name 128 sādhvī is one name here; at 711–712 Bhāskararāya divides the same word into sādhu + ī. With nirādhārā (132) begins the long series of names of the attributeless Brahman, mostly built on nis 'without' (to 187).

THE NAMES

126 शाङ्करी śāṅkarī

She who is the consort of Śaṅkara (Śiva)

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE Śaṅkara means 'the maker of welfare' (śam karoti), so as His consort She too brings about happiness, which is the sense the previous meaning gave.

127 श्रीकरी śrī-karī

She who brings about prosperity (śrī)

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa. karī 'making, bringing about' (√kṛ + the agent suffix -a, feminine -ī) is the head, and śrī 'prosperity' is its object.

ANALYSIS श्रियम् करोति इति श्रीकरी

śriyam karoti iti śrīkarī

SIGNIFICANCE Śrī is every kind of wealth, outer and inner; She is its source, and Śrī (Lakṣmī) herself is Her form.

128 साध्वी sādhvī

She who is chaste

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE She is wholly faithful to Śiva and never separate from Him. Here sādhvī is one name; at names 711–712 Bhāskararāya divides the same word into sādhu and ī.

129 शरच्चन्द्रनिभानना śaraccandra-nibhānanā

She whose face is like the autumn moon

SANDHI शरच्चन्द्र = शरद् + चन्द्र (śarad + candra) — d becomes t before a voiceless sound (cartva, Pāṇini 8.4.55 khari ca), then c beside the palatal c (ścutva, 8.4.40 stoḥ ścunā ścuḥ); निभानना = निभ + आनना (nibha + ānanā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (over an inner ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa and a tatpuruṣa with nibha). (1) śarat-candra 'the autumn moon' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (2) ...candra-nibha 'resembling that moon' (nibha 'like' at the end of a compound). (3) The whole is a bahuvrīhi: 'She whose face (ānana) is like the autumn moon'; ānana takes the feminine -ā.

ANALYSIS शरदः चन्द्रः शरच्चन्द्रः; शरच्चन्द्रेण निभम् शरच्चन्द्रनिभम्; शरच्चन्द्रनिभम् आननम् यस्याः सा शरच्चन्द्रनिभानना

śaradaḥ candraḥ śaraccandraḥ; śaraccandreṇa nibham śaraccandranibham; śaraccandranibham ānanam yasyāḥ sā śaraccandranibhānanā

SIGNIFICANCE The autumn moon, shining in a sky cleared by the rains, is the poets' image of a calm, radiant face.

130 शातोदरी śātodarī

She who is slender-waisted

SANDHI शातोदरी = शात + उदरी (śāta + udarī) — guṇa: a + u → o (Pāṇini 6.1.87 ād guṇaḥ)

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi. 'She whose waist (udara) is slender (śāta)'. A bahuvrīhi ending in udara may take the feminine -ī (Pāṇini 4.1.55), hence śātodarī rather than śātodarā.

ANALYSIS शातम् उदरम् यस्याः सा शातोदरी

śātam udaram yasyāḥ sā śātodarī

SIGNIFICANCE A slender waist is a classical mark of beauty; it recalls the description of Her form in the earlier names.

131 शान्तिमती śānti-matī

She who is peaceful

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE Her peace is not the absence of activity but the stillness from which all activity arises.

132 निराधारा nir-ādhārā

She who is without support (resting on nothing)

SANDHI निराधारा = निस् + आधारा (nis + ādhārā) — the final s of the prefix nis becomes r before a vowel or a voiced consonant (s → ru, Pāṇini 8.2.66 sasajuṣo ruḥ; ru turns to visarga only before a voiceless sound or a pause, 8.3.15): nis → nir

ANALYSIS निर्गतः आधारः यस्याः सा निराधारा

nirgataḥ ādhāraḥ yasyāḥ sā nirādhārā

SIGNIFICANCE She is the support (ādhāra) of everything and herself rests on nothing. With name 132 begins the long series of names of the attributeless (nirguṇa) Brahman, most built with nis 'without'.

She who is without stain

SANDHI निरञ्जना = निस् + अञ्जना (nis + añjanā) — the final s of the prefix nis becomes r before a vowel or a voiced consonant (s → ru, Pāṇini 8.2.66 sasajuṣo ruḥ; ru turns to visarga only before a voiceless sound or a pause, 8.3.15): nis → nir

ANALYSIS निर्गतम् अञ्जनम् यस्याः सा निरञ्जना

nirgatam añjanam yasyāḥ sā nirañjanā

SIGNIFICANCE Añjana is the black collyrium of the eyes, and traditionally stands for the darkening stain of ignorance (avidyā), which never touches Her.

उपप्लवा upaplavā	affliction, calamity, disturbance upaplava (upa + √plu), with the feminine -ā of the bahuvrīhi

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

The prefix nis takes its shape from the next sound: nir before vowels and voiced sounds (nirlepā), niṣ before k and p (niṣkalā); the meaning never changes. Name 137 is nirākārā with long ā (corrected).

THE NAMES

134 निर्लेपा nir-lepā

She who is untainted (by the effects of action)

SANDHI निर्लेपा = निस् + लेपा (nis + lepā) — the final s of the prefix nis becomes r before a vowel or a voiced consonant (s → ru, Pāṇini 8.2.66 sasajuṣo ruḥ; ru turns to visarga only before a voiceless sound or a pause, 8.3.15): nis → nir

ANALYSIS निर्गतः लेपः यस्याः सा निर्लेपा

nirgataḥ lepaḥ yasyāḥ sā nirlepā

SIGNIFICANCE Lepa is the residue that action leaves on the doer; She acts through all beings yet nothing clings to Her.

135 निर्मला nir-malā

She who is free from all impurities

SANDHI निर्मला = निस् + मला (nis + malā) — the final s of the prefix nis becomes r before a vowel or a voiced consonant (s → ru, Pāṇini 8.2.66 sasajuṣo ruḥ; ru turns to visarga only before a voiceless sound or a pause, 8.3.15): nis → nir

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (prādi-bahuvrīhi with the prefix nis). The prefix nis 'out, away' stands for nirgata 'gone out', whose participle is dropped in the compound (prādi-bahuvrīhi): 'She from whom mala (impurity) has gone out', i.e. 'She who is without mala (impurity)'. The name describes Her, so the last member takes the feminine ending.

ANALYSIS निर्गतः मलः यस्याः सा निर्मला

nirgataḥ malaḥ yasyāḥ sā nirmalā

SIGNIFICANCE In the Śaiva and Śākta traditions the three impurities (malas) — the sense of limitation (āṇava), the veil of māyā (māyīya) and the residue of action (kārma) — bind the soul; She is free of all three.

136 नित्या nityā

She who is eternal

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE She is also the Nityās, the goddesses of the fifteen lunar days (Kāmeśvarī to Citrā), with Lalitā herself as the sixteenth, Mahānityā.

137 निराकारा nir-ākārā

She who is without form

SANDHI निराकारा = निस् + आकारा (nis + ākārā) — the final s of the prefix nis becomes r before a vowel or a voiced consonant (s → ru, Pāṇini 8.2.66 sasajuṣo ruḥ; ru turns to visarga only before a voiceless sound or a pause, 8.3.15): nis → nir

ANALYSIS निर्गतः आकारः यस्याः सा निराकारा

nirgataḥ ākāraḥ yasyāḥ sā nirākārā

SIGNIFICANCE Beyond the forms She takes for Her devotees, She is in essence formless consciousness; the name balances the long description of Her form.

> CORRECTED निराकरा → निराकारा. निराकरा → निराकारा (nir-ākārā, formless): ākāra "form" has a long ā; the verse text reads निराकारा.

138 निराकुला nir-ākulā

She who is without agitation

SANDHI निराकुला = निस् + आकुला (nis + ākulā) — the final s of the prefix nis becomes r before a vowel or a voiced consonant (s → ru, Pāṇini 8.2.66 sasajuṣo ruḥ; ru turns to visarga only before a voiceless sound or a pause, 8.3.15): nis → nir

ANALYSIS निर्गतम् आकुलम् यस्याः सा निराकुला

nirgatam ākulam yasyāḥ sā nirākulā

SIGNIFICANCE No disturbance reaches Her, and those who take refuge in Her share that steadiness.

139 निर्गुणा nir-guṇā

She who is without qualities, beyond the three guṇas (sattva, rajas and tamas)

SANDHI निर्गुणा = निस् + गुणा (nis + guṇā) — the final s of the prefix nis becomes r before a vowel or a voiced consonant (s → ru, Pāṇini 8.2.66 sasajuṣo ruḥ; ru turns to visarga only before a voiceless sound or a pause, 8.3.15): nis → nir

ANALYSIS निर्गताः गुणाः यस्याः सा निर्गुणा

nirgatāḥ guṇāḥ yasyāḥ sā nirguṇā

SIGNIFICANCE The guṇas are the strands of prakṛti; as Brahman without attributes She is beyond them, though as Māyā She wields them.

140 निष्कला niṣ-kalā

She who is without parts

SANDHI निष्कला = निस् + कला (nis + kalā) — the final s of nis becomes visarga before a voiceless sound (8.2.66, 8.3.15), and after i that visarga becomes ṣ before k or p (Pāṇini 8.3.41 idudupadhasya cāpratyayasya): nis → niṣ

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (prādi-bahuvrīhi with the prefix nis). The prefix nis 'out, away' stands for nirgata 'gone out', whose participle is dropped in the compound (prādi-bahuvrīhi): 'She from whom parts (kalā) has gone out', i.e. 'She who is without parts (kalā)'. The name describes Her, so the last member takes the feminine ending.

ANALYSIS निर्गताः कलाः यस्याः सा निष्कला

nirgatāḥ kalāḥ yasyāḥ sā niṣkalā

SIGNIFICANCE What has parts can come apart; She is partless, undivided and indestructible.

141 शान्ता śāntā

She who is tranquil

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE Her tranquility is that of Brahman, in which all movement has come to rest.

142 निष्कामा niṣ-kāmā

She who is without desire

SANDHI निष्कामा = निस् + कामा (nis + kāmā) — the final s of nis becomes visarga before a voiceless sound (8.2.66, 8.3.15), and after i that visarga becomes ṣ before k or p (Pāṇini 8.3.41 idudupadhasya cāpratyayasya): nis → niṣ

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (prādi-bahuvrīhi with the prefix nis). The prefix nis 'out, away' stands for nirgata 'gone out', whose participle is dropped in the compound (prādi-bahuvrīhi): 'She from whom desire has gone out', i.e. 'She who is without desire'. The name describes Her, so the last member takes the feminine ending.

ANALYSIS निर्गतः कामः यस्याः सा निष्कामा

nirgataḥ kāmaḥ yasyāḥ sā niṣkāmā

SIGNIFICANCE Being complete, She lacks nothing to desire; Her creative will is play (līlā), not want.

143 निरुपप्लवा nir-upaplavā

She who is free from all affliction and disturbance

SANDHI निरुपप्लवा = निस् + उपप्लवा (nis + upaplavā) — the final s of the prefix nis becomes r before a vowel or a voiced consonant (s → ru, Pāṇini 8.2.66 sasajuṣo ruḥ; ru turns to visarga only before a voiceless sound or a pause, 8.3.15): nis → nir

ANALYSIS निर्गतः उपप्लवः यस्याः सा निरुपप्लवा

nirgataḥ upaplavaḥ yasyāḥ sā nirupaplavā

SIGNIFICANCE Upaplava is any calamity that befalls a thing, even an eclipse of the moon; nothing can overtake Her, and so She is also called indestructible.

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Names 144, 148 and 149 (with nitya 'ever') recall the Vedāntic 'ever pure, awake and free'.

THE NAMES

144 नित्यमुक्ता nitya-muktā

She who is ever free from worldly bonds

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND karmadhāraya (nitya used adverbially). muktā 'freed' (√muc, past participle, feminine) is the head, and nitya 'ever' qualifies it adverbially: 'ever free'.

ANALYSIS नित्यम् मुक्ता नित्यमुक्ता

nityam muktā nityamuktā

SIGNIFICANCE She was never bound and so is never freed: Her freedom is not an achievement but Her nature.

145 निर्विकारा nir-vikārā

She who is unchanging

SANDHI निर्विकारा = निस् + विकारा (nis + vikārā) — the final s of the prefix nis becomes r before a vowel or a voiced consonant (s → ru, Pāṇini 8.2.66 sasajuṣo ruḥ; ru turns to visarga only before a voiceless sound or a pause, 8.3.15): nis → nir

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (prādi-bahuvrīhi with the prefix nis). The prefix nis 'out, away' stands for nirgata 'gone out', whose participle is dropped in the compound (prādi-bahuvrīhi): 'She from whom change (vikāra) has gone out', i.e. 'She who is without change (vikāra)'. The name describes Her, so the last member takes the feminine ending.

ANALYSIS निर्गतः विकारः यस्याः सा निर्विकारा

nirgataḥ vikāraḥ yasyāḥ sā nirvikārā

SIGNIFICANCE All change belongs to the world She projects; She, its ground, is without modification.

146 निष्प्रपञ्चा niṣ-prapañcā

She who is beyond the phenomenal world

SANDHI निष्प्रपञ्चा = निस् + प्रपञ्चा (nis + prapañcā) — the final s of nis becomes visarga before a voiceless sound (8.2.66, 8.3.15), and after i that visarga becomes ṣ before k or p (Pāṇini 8.3.41 idudupadhasya cāpratyayasya): nis → niṣ

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (prādi-bahuvrīhi with the prefix nis). The prefix nis 'out, away' stands for nirgata 'gone out', whose participle is dropped in the compound (prādi-bahuvrīhi): 'She from whom the manifold world (prapañca) has gone out', i.e. 'She who is without the manifold world (prapañca)'. The name describes Her, so the last member takes the feminine ending.

ANALYSIS निर्गतः प्रपञ्चः यस्याः सा निष्प्रपञ्चा

nirgataḥ prapañcaḥ yasyāḥ sā niṣprapañcā

SIGNIFICANCE Prapañca is the expansion of the one into the many; in Her own nature She is untouched by it, as the Māṇḍūkya Upaniṣad describes the fourth state as the stilling of prapañca (prapañcopaśama).

147 निराश्रया nir-āśrayā

She who does not depend on anything

SANDHI निराश्रया = निस् + आश्रया (nis + āśrayā) — the final s of the prefix nis becomes r before a vowel or a voiced consonant (s → ru, Pāṇini 8.2.66 sasajuṣo ruḥ; ru turns to visarga only before a voiceless sound or a pause, 8.3.15): nis → nir

ANALYSIS निर्गतः आश्रयः यस्याः सा निराश्रया

nirgataḥ āśrayaḥ yasyāḥ sā nirāśrayā

SIGNIFICANCE Everything depends on Her, and She depends on nothing.

148 नित्यशुद्धा nitya-śuddhā

She who is eternally pure

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND karmadhāraya (nitya used adverbially). śuddhā 'pure' (√śudh, past participle, feminine) is the head, and nitya 'ever' qualifies it: 'ever pure'.

ANALYSIS नित्यम् शुद्धा नित्यशुद्धा

nityam śuddhā nityaśuddhā

SIGNIFICANCE Names 148–149 echo the Vedāntic description of the Self as nitya-śuddha-buddha-mukta, 'ever pure, awake and free' (with 144).

149 नित्यबुद्धा nitya-buddhā

She who is ever awake (eternally enlightened)

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND karmadhāraya (nitya used adverbially). buddhā 'awake, knowing' (√budh, past participle, feminine) is the head, and nitya 'ever' qualifies it: 'ever awake'.

ANALYSIS नित्यम् बुद्धा नित्यबुद्धा

nityam buddhā nityabuddhā

SIGNIFICANCE She is consciousness itself, never clouded by sleep or ignorance.

150 निरवद्या nir-avadyā

She who is blameless (and so praiseworthy)

SANDHI निरवद्या = निस् + अवद्या (nis + avadyā) — the final s of the prefix nis becomes r before a vowel or a voiced consonant (s → ru, Pāṇini 8.2.66 sasajuṣo ruḥ; ru turns to visarga only before a voiceless sound or a pause, 8.3.15): nis → nir

ANALYSIS निर्गतम् अवद्यम् यस्याः सा निरवद्या

nirgatam avadyam yasyāḥ sā niravadyā

SIGNIFICANCE Avadya, literally 'not to be spoken of', is what deserves blame; nothing in Her deserves it.

151 निरन्तरा nir-antarā

She who is without any gap or interval (all-pervading)

SANDHI निरन्तरा = निस् + अन्तरा (nis + antarā) — the final s of the prefix nis becomes r before a vowel or a voiced consonant (s → ru, Pāṇini 8.2.66 sasajuṣo ruḥ; ru turns to visarga only before a voiceless sound or a pause, 8.3.15): nis → nir

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (prādi-bahuvrīhi with the prefix nis). The prefix nis 'out, away' stands for nirgata 'gone out', whose participle is dropped in the compound (prādi-bahuvrīhi): 'She from whom antara (gap, interval) has gone out', i.e. 'She who is without antara (gap, interval)'. The name describes Her, so the last member takes the feminine ending.

ANALYSIS निर्गतम् अन्तरम् यस्याः सा निरन्तरा

nirgatam antaram yasyāḥ sā nirantarā

SIGNIFICANCE Nothing separates Her from anything, in space, in time or in substance; She pervades all without interruption.

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

निरुपाधिर्निरीश्वरा = निरुपाधिः + निरीश्वरा (nirupādhiḥ + nirīśvarā) — visarga sandhi: final s becomes ru (Pāṇini 8.2.66 sasajuṣo ruḥ), which after i stays r before a voiced sound (it becomes visarga only before a voiceless sound or a pause, 8.3.15)

Name 156 is nī-rāgā (nis + rāga), not nīr + āgā. From here the names come in pairs, 'without X' and 'destroyer of X' (156–181); name 159 is mada-nāśinī, not madana + aśinī.

THE NAMES

152 निष्कारणा niṣ-kāraṇā

She who is without cause

SANDHI निष्कारणा = निस् + कारणा (nis + kāraṇā) — the final s of nis becomes visarga before a voiceless sound (8.2.66, 8.3.15), and after i that visarga becomes ṣ before k or p (Pāṇini 8.3.41 idudupadhasya cāpratyayasya): nis → niṣ

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (prādi-bahuvrīhi with the prefix nis). The prefix nis 'out, away' stands for nirgata 'gone out', whose participle is dropped in the compound (prādi-bahuvrīhi): 'She from whom a cause has gone out', i.e. 'She who is without a cause'. The name describes Her, so the last member takes the feminine ending.

ANALYSIS निर्गतम् कारणम् यस्याः सा निष्कारणा

nirgatam kāraṇam yasyāḥ sā niṣkāraṇā

SIGNIFICANCE She is the cause of everything and has no cause herself.

153 निष्कलङ्का niṣ-kalaṅkā

She who is faultless

SANDHI निष्कलङ्का = निस् + कलङ्का (nis + kalaṅkā) — the final s of nis becomes visarga before a voiceless sound (8.2.66, 8.3.15), and after i that visarga becomes ṣ before k or p (Pāṇini 8.3.41 idudupadhasya cāpratyayasya): nis → niṣ

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (prādi-bahuvrīhi with the prefix nis). The prefix nis 'out, away' stands for nirgata 'gone out', whose participle is dropped in the compound (prādi-bahuvrīhi): 'She from whom kalaṅka (stain) has gone out', i.e. 'She who is without kalaṅka (stain)'. The name describes Her, so the last member takes the feminine ending.

ANALYSIS निर्गतः कलङ्कः यस्याः सा निष्कलङ्का

nirgataḥ kalaṅkaḥ yasyāḥ sā niṣkalaṅkā

SIGNIFICANCE Unlike the moon, whose spot is its kalaṅka (cf. name 16), She is without any blemish.

154 निरुपाधिः nir-upādhiḥ

She who is free from all limiting adjuncts (upādhi)

SANDHI निरुपाधिः = निस् + उपाधिः (nis + upādhiḥ) — the final s of the prefix nis becomes r before a vowel or a voiced consonant (s → ru, Pāṇini 8.2.66 sasajuṣo ruḥ; ru turns to visarga only before a voiceless sound or a pause, 8.3.15): nis → nir; उपाधि = उप + आधि (upa + ādhi) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ), inside the lexicalised word upādhi

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (prādi-bahuvrīhi with the prefix nis). The prefix nis 'out, away' stands for nirgata 'gone out', whose participle is dropped in the compound (prādi-bahuvrīhi): 'She from whom upādhi (limiting adjunct) has gone out', i.e. 'She who is without upādhi (limiting adjunct)'. The name describes Her, so the last member takes the feminine ending. upādhi is a masculine i-stem; in the bahuvrīhi it keeps its i, so the feminine nominative is nirupādhiḥ, not -ā.

ANALYSIS निर्गतः उपाधिः यस्याः सा निरुपाधिः

nirgataḥ upādhiḥ yasyāḥ sā nirupādhiḥ

SIGNIFICANCE In Vedānta the upādhis — body, mind and the rest — make the one consciousness appear limited, as a jar seems to enclose space; She is free of them.

155 निरीश्वरा nir-īśvarā

She who has no superior or protector

SANDHI निरीश्वरा = निस् + ईश्वरा (nis + īśvarā) — the final s of the prefix nis becomes r before a vowel or a voiced consonant (s → ru, Pāṇini 8.2.66 sasajuṣo ruḥ; ru turns to visarga only before a voiceless sound or a pause, 8.3.15): nis → nir

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (prādi-bahuvrīhi with the prefix nis). The prefix nis 'out, away' stands for nirgata 'gone out', whose participle is dropped in the compound (prādi-bahuvrīhi): 'She from whom a lord (īśvara) has gone out', i.e. 'She who is without a lord (īśvara)'. The name describes Her, so the last member takes the feminine ending.

ANALYSIS निर्गतः ईश्वरः यस्याः सा निरीश्वरा

nirgataḥ īśvaraḥ yasyāḥ sā nirīśvarā

SIGNIFICANCE She is the supreme ruler; there is no lord over Her.

156 नीरागा nī-rāgā

She who is free from passion

SANDHI नीरागा = निस् + रागा (nis + rāgā) — the final s of nis becomes r (8.2.66); an r before r is dropped (Pāṇini 8.3.14 ro ri) and the vowel before it is lengthened (6.3.111 ḍhralope pūrvasya dīrgho 'ṇaḥ): nis + r → nī r

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (prādi-bahuvrīhi with the prefix nis). The prefix nis 'out, away' stands for nirgata 'gone out', whose participle is dropped in the compound (prādi-bahuvrīhi): 'She from whom rāga (passion) has gone out', i.e. 'She who is without rāga (passion)'. The name describes Her, so the last member takes the feminine ending.

ANALYSIS निर्गतः रागः यस्याः सा नीरागा

nirgataḥ rāgaḥ yasyāḥ sā nīrāgā

SIGNIFICANCE Rāga, 'coloring', is the passion that colors the mind; from here the names come in pairs: She is free of a fault and destroys it in others (156–181).

157 रागमथनी rāga-mathanī

She who destroys desires (passions)

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa. mathanī 'crushing, churning up' (√math + the agent suffix -ana, feminine -ī) is the head and rāga 'passion' its object.

ANALYSIS रागम् मथ्नाति इति रागमथनी

rāgam mathnāti iti rāgamathanī

SIGNIFICANCE Free of passion herself (156), She crushes it in Her devotees.

158 निर्मदा nir-madā

She who is without pride

SANDHI निर्मदा = निस् + मदा (nis + madā) — the final s of the prefix nis becomes r before a vowel or a voiced consonant (s → ru, Pāṇini 8.2.66 sasajuṣo ruḥ; ru turns to visarga only before a voiceless sound or a pause, 8.3.15): nis → nir

ANALYSIS निर्गतः मदः यस्याः सा निर्मदा

nirgataḥ madaḥ yasyāḥ sā nirmadā

SIGNIFICANCE Mada is the intoxication of pride; She, who has everything, has none.

---

159 मदनाशिनी mada-nāśinī

She who destroys pride

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa. nāśinī 'destroying' (causative of √naś + -in, feminine) is the head and mada 'pride' its object. The division is mada-nāśinī; it is not madana 'Kāma' + aśinī.

ANALYSIS मदम् नाशयति इति मदनाशिनी

madam nāśayati iti madanāśinī

SIGNIFICANCE Free of pride (158), She destroys it in others.

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

niścintā (160): the s of nis becomes ś before c.

THE NAMES

160 निश्चिन्ता niś-cintā

She who is free from anxiety

SANDHI निश्चिन्ता = निस् + चिन्ता (nis + cintā) — the final s of nis, by way of visarga, is restored as s before a voiceless stop (Pāṇini 8.3.34 visarjanīyasya saḥ) and becomes ś beside the palatal c (8.4.40 stoḥ ścunā ścuḥ): nis → niś

ANALYSIS निर्गता चिन्ता यस्याः सा निश्चिन्ता

nirgatā cintā yasyāḥ sā niścintā

SIGNIFICANCE Nothing is lacking or threatened in Her, so there is nothing to worry over.

161 निरहङ्कारा nir-ahaṅkārā

She who is without ego (ahaṅkāra, the sense of 'I')

SANDHI निरहङ्कारा = निस् + अहङ्कारा (nis + ahaṅkārā) — the final s of the prefix nis becomes r before a vowel or a voiced consonant (s → ru, Pāṇini 8.2.66 sasajuṣo ruḥ; ru turns to visarga only before a voiceless sound or a pause, 8.3.15): nis → nir; अहङ्कार = अहम् + कार (aham + kāra) — m becomes anusvāra before a consonant (Pāṇini 8.3.23 mo 'nusvāraḥ), and the anusvāra takes the nasal of the following stop's class (8.4.58 anusvārasya yayi parasavarṇaḥ): aham → ahaṅ, inside the lexicalised compound ahaṅkāra

ANALYSIS निर्गतः अहङ्कारः यस्याः सा निरहङ्कारा

nirgataḥ ahaṅkāraḥ yasyāḥ sā nirahaṅkārā

SIGNIFICANCE Ahaṅkāra is the 'I-maker' that identifies with body and mind; She, the true Self, has no such false identification.

162 निर्मोहा nir-mohā

She who is free from delusion

SANDHI निर्मोहा = निस् + मोहा (nis + mohā) — the final s of the prefix nis becomes r before a vowel or a voiced consonant (s → ru, Pāṇini 8.2.66 sasajuṣo ruḥ; ru turns to visarga only before a voiceless sound or a pause, 8.3.15): nis → nir

ANALYSIS निर्गतः मोहः यस्याः सा निर्मोहा

nirgataḥ mohaḥ yasyāḥ sā nirmohā

SIGNIFICANCE Moha mistakes the unreal for the real; She is pure knowledge.

163 मोहनाशिनी moha-nāśinī

She who destroys delusion

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa. nāśinī 'destroying' is the head and moha 'delusion' its object.

ANALYSIS मोहम् नाशयति इति मोहनाशिनी

moham nāśayati iti mohanāśinī

SIGNIFICANCE Free of delusion (162), She destroys it in Her devotees.

164 निर्ममा nir-mamā

She who is free from the sense of 'mine'

SANDHI निर्ममा = निस् + ममा (nis + mamā) — the final s of the prefix nis becomes r before a vowel or a voiced consonant (s → ru, Pāṇini 8.2.66 sasajuṣo ruḥ; ru turns to visarga only before a voiceless sound or a pause, 8.3.15): nis → nir

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (prādi-bahuvrīhi with the prefix nis). The prefix nis 'out, away' stands for nirgata 'gone out', whose participle is dropped in the compound (prādi-bahuvrīhi): 'She from whom (the sense of) mine has gone out', i.e. 'She who is without the sense of mine'. Here mama, the genitive 'my, mine', is treated as a noun, 'the sense of mine'; as the name describes Her, it takes the feminine -ā.

ANALYSIS निर्गतम् मम यस्याः सा निर्ममा

nirgatam mama yasyāḥ sā nirmamā

SIGNIFICANCE Mamatā, 'mine-ness', is the possessive twin of ahaṅkāra (161); She owns all and claims nothing.

---

165 ममताहन्त्री mamatā-hantrī

She who destroys the sense of ownership

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa. hantrī 'slayer' (√han + the agent suffix -tṛ, feminine -trī) is the head and mamatā 'the sense of mine' stands to it in the genitive. Classical grammar is wary of compounding a genitive with an agent noun in -tṛ (the sūtra tṛjakābhyāṃ kartari), but such compounds are common in the hymns.

ANALYSIS ममतायाः हन्त्री ममताहन्त्री

mamatāyāḥ hantrī mamatāhantrī

SIGNIFICANCE Free of 'mine' herself (164), She destroys possessiveness in Her devotees.

166 निष्पापा niṣ-pāpā

She who is without sin

SANDHI निष्पापा = निस् + पापा (nis + pāpā) — the final s of nis becomes visarga before a voiceless sound (8.2.66, 8.3.15), and after i that visarga becomes ṣ before k or p (Pāṇini 8.3.41 idudupadhasya cāpratyayasya): nis → niṣ

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (prādi-bahuvrīhi with the prefix nis). The prefix nis 'out, away' stands for nirgata 'gone out', whose participle is dropped in the compound (prādi-bahuvrīhi): 'She from whom pāpa (sin) has gone out', i.e. 'She who is without pāpa (sin)'. The name describes Her, so the last member takes the feminine ending.

ANALYSIS निर्गतम् पापम् यस्याः सा निष्पापा

nirgatam pāpam yasyāḥ sā niṣpāpā

SIGNIFICANCE No act and no fruit of action clings to Her.

167 पापनाशिनी pāpa-nāśinī

She who destroys sin

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa. nāśinī 'destroying' is the head and pāpa 'sin' its object.

ANALYSIS पापम् नाशयति इति पापनाशिनी

pāpam nāśayati iti pāpanāśinī

SIGNIFICANCE Free of sin (166), She destroys the sins of those who take refuge in Her.

She who is without anger

SANDHI निष्क्रोधा = निस् + क्रोधा (nis + krodhā) — the final s of nis becomes visarga before a voiceless sound (8.2.66, 8.3.15), and after i that visarga becomes ṣ before k or p (Pāṇini 8.3.41 idudupadhasya cāpratyayasya): nis → niṣ

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (prādi-bahuvrīhi with the prefix nis). The prefix nis 'out, away' stands for nirgata 'gone out', whose participle is dropped in the compound (prādi-bahuvrīhi): 'She from whom krodha (anger) has gone out', i.e. 'She who is without krodha (anger)'. The name describes Her, so the last member takes the feminine ending.

ANALYSIS निर्गतः क्रोधः यस्याः सा निष्क्रोधा

nirgataḥ krodhaḥ yasyāḥ sā niṣkrodhā

SIGNIFICANCE Anger arises from frustrated desire; She, desireless (142), has none.

169 क्रोधशमनी krodha-śamanī

She who calms anger

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa. śamanī 'calming, pacifying' is the head and krodha 'anger' its object.

ANALYSIS क्रोधम् शमयति इति क्रोधशमनी

krodham śamayati iti krodhaśamanī

SIGNIFICANCE Free of anger (168), She pacifies it in Her devotees.

170 निर्लोभा nir-lobhā

She who is without greed

SANDHI निर्लोभा = निस् + लोभा (nis + lobhā) — the final s of the prefix nis becomes r before a vowel or a voiced consonant (s → ru, Pāṇini 8.2.66 sasajuṣo ruḥ; ru turns to visarga only before a voiceless sound or a pause, 8.3.15): nis → nir

ANALYSIS निर्गतः लोभः यस्याः सा निर्लोभा

nirgataḥ lobhaḥ yasyāḥ sā nirlobhā

SIGNIFICANCE Lacking nothing, She craves nothing.

171 लोभनाशिनी lobha-nāśinī

She who destroys greed

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa. nāśinī 'destroying' is the head and lobha 'greed' its object.

ANALYSIS लोभम् नाशयति इति लोभनाशिनी

lobham nāśayati iti lobhanāśinī

SIGNIFICANCE Free of greed (170), She destroys it in Her devotees.

172 निःसंशया niḥ-saṃśayā

She who is without doubts

SANDHI निःसंशया = निस् + संशया (nis + saṃśayā) — the final s of nis becomes visarga before a voiceless sound (8.2.66, 8.3.15), and the visarga is kept before a sibilant (optionally, Pāṇini 8.3.36 vā śari): nis → niḥ; संशय = सम् + शय (sam + śaya) — m becomes anusvāra before a consonant (Pāṇini 8.3.23 mo 'nusvāraḥ); before a sibilant it stays anusvāra: sam → saṃ, inside the lexicalised word saṃśaya

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (prādi-bahuvrīhi with the prefix nis). The prefix nis 'out, away' stands for nirgata 'gone out', whose participle is dropped in the compound (prādi-bahuvrīhi): 'She from whom saṃśaya (doubt) has gone out', i.e. 'She who is without saṃśaya (doubt)'. The name describes Her, so the last member takes the feminine ending.

ANALYSIS निर्गतः संशयः यस्याः सा निःसंशया

nirgataḥ saṃśayaḥ yasyāḥ sā niḥsaṃśayā

SIGNIFICANCE She is certain knowledge itself, in which no doubt can arise.

173 संशयघ्नी saṃśaya-ghnī

She who kills all doubts

SANDHI संशय = सम् + शय (sam + śaya) — m becomes anusvāra before a consonant (Pāṇini 8.3.23 mo 'nusvāraḥ); before a sibilant it stays anusvāra: sam → saṃ, inside the lexicalised word saṃśaya

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa. ghnī 'killing' (√han at the end of a compound, -ghna, feminine -ghnī) is the head and saṃśaya 'doubt' its object.

ANALYSIS संशयम् हन्ति इति संशयघ्नी

saṃśayam hanti iti saṃśayaghnī

SIGNIFICANCE Free of doubt (172), She dispels the doubts of Her devotees, the last obstacle to knowledge.

174 निर्भवा nir-bhavā

She who is without origin

SANDHI निर्भवा = निस् + भवा (nis + bhavā) — the final s of the prefix nis becomes r before a vowel or a voiced consonant (s → ru, Pāṇini 8.2.66 sasajuṣo ruḥ; ru turns to visarga only before a voiceless sound or a pause, 8.3.15): nis → nir

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (prādi-bahuvrīhi with the prefix nis). The prefix nis 'out, away' stands for nirgata 'gone out', whose participle is dropped in the compound (prādi-bahuvrīhi): 'She from whom bhava (birth, becoming) has gone out', i.e. 'She who is without bhava (birth, becoming)'. The name describes Her, so the last member takes the feminine ending.

ANALYSIS निर्गतः भवः यस्याः सा निर्भवा

nirgataḥ bhavaḥ yasyāḥ sā nirbhavā

SIGNIFICANCE She was never born and never enters the round of becoming.

---

175 भवनाशिनी bhava-nāśinī

She who destroys bhava, the round of worldly existence (saṃsāra)

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa. nāśinī 'destroying' is the head and bhava 'worldly existence' its object.

ANALYSIS भवम् नाशयति इति भवनाशिनी

bhavam nāśayati iti bhavanāśinī

SIGNIFICANCE Without origin herself (174), She ends the cycle of births for Her devotees.

THE NAMES

176 निर्विकल्पा nir-vikalpā

She who is free from mental constructs (vikalpa)

SANDHI निर्विकल्पा = निस् + विकल्पा (nis + vikalpā) — the final s of the prefix nis becomes r before a vowel or a voiced consonant (s → ru, Pāṇini 8.2.66 sasajuṣo ruḥ; ru turns to visarga only before a voiceless sound or a pause, 8.3.15): nis → nir

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (prādi-bahuvrīhi with the prefix nis). The prefix nis 'out, away' stands for nirgata 'gone out', whose participle is dropped in the compound (prādi-bahuvrīhi): 'She from whom vikalpa (mental construction) has gone out', i.e. 'She who is without vikalpa (mental construction)'. The name describes Her, so the last member takes the feminine ending.

ANALYSIS निर्गतः विकल्पः यस्याः सा निर्विकल्पा

nirgataḥ vikalpaḥ yasyāḥ sā nirvikalpā

SIGNIFICANCE Vikalpa is the mind's division of experience into this and that; She is the undivided awareness before such division (nirvikalpa).

177 निराबाधा nir-ābādhā

She who is not disturbed by anything

SANDHI निराबाधा = निस् + आबाधा (nis + ābādhā) — the final s of the prefix nis becomes r before a vowel or a voiced consonant (s → ru, Pāṇini 8.2.66 sasajuṣo ruḥ; ru turns to visarga only before a voiceless sound or a pause, 8.3.15): nis → nir

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (prādi-bahuvrīhi with the prefix nis). The prefix nis 'out, away' stands for nirgata 'gone out', whose participle is dropped in the compound (prādi-bahuvrīhi): 'She from whom ābādhā (affliction) has gone out', i.e. 'She who is without ābādhā (affliction)'. The name describes Her, so the last member takes the feminine ending.

ANALYSIS निर्गता आबाधा यस्याः सा निराबाधा

nirgatā ābādhā yasyāḥ sā nirābādhā

SIGNIFICANCE No affliction or obstruction can reach Her.

---

178 निर्भेदा nir-bhedā

She who is beyond all sense of difference

SANDHI निर्भेदा = निस् + भेदा (nis + bhedā) — the final s of the prefix nis becomes r before a vowel or a voiced consonant (s → ru, Pāṇini 8.2.66 sasajuṣo ruḥ; ru turns to visarga only before a voiceless sound or a pause, 8.3.15): nis → nir

ANALYSIS निर्गतः भेदः यस्याः सा निर्भेदा

nirgataḥ bhedaḥ yasyāḥ sā nirbhedā

SIGNIFICANCE She is non-dual: no difference within Her, from others of Her kind, or from anything else.

---

179 भेदनाशिनी bheda-nāśinī

She who destroys the sense of difference

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa. nāśinī 'destroying' is the head and bheda 'difference' its object.

ANALYSIS भेदम् नाशयति इति भेदनाशिनी bhedam nāśayati iti bhedanāśinī

SIGNIFICANCE Free of difference (178), She removes from Her devotees the sense of separation born of past impressions (vāsanās).

180 निर्नाशा nir-nāśā

She who is imperishable

SANDHI निर्नाशा = निस् + नाशा (nis + nāśā) — the final s of the prefix nis becomes r before a vowel or a voiced consonant (s → ru, Pāṇini 8.2.66 sasajuṣo ruḥ; ru turns to visarga only before a voiceless sound or a pause, 8.3.15): nis → nir

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (prādi-bahuvrīhi with the prefix nis). The prefix nis 'out, away' stands for nirgata 'gone out', whose participle is dropped in the compound (prādi-bahuvrīhi): 'She from whom nāśa (destruction) has gone out', i.e. 'She who is without nāśa (destruction)'. The name describes Her, so the last member takes the feminine ending.

ANALYSIS निर्गतः नाशः यस्याः सा निर्नाशा

nirgataḥ nāśaḥ yasyāḥ sā nirnāśā

SIGNIFICANCE What is never born (174) never perishes.

181 मृत्युमथनी mṛtyu-mathanī

She who destroys death

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa. mathanī 'crushing, destroying' is the head and mṛtyu 'death' its object.

ANALYSIS मृत्युम् मथ्नाति इति मृत्युमथनी

mṛtyum mathnāti iti mṛtyumathanī

SIGNIFICANCE Imperishable herself (180), She frees Her devotees from death by granting knowledge of the deathless Self.

182 निष्क्रिया niṣ-kriyā

She who remains without action

SANDHI निष्क्रिया = निस् + क्रिया (nis + kriyā) — the final s of nis becomes visarga before a voiceless sound (8.2.66, 8.3.15), and after i that visarga becomes ṣ before k or p (Pāṇini 8.3.41 idudupadhasya cāpratyayasya): nis → niṣ

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (prādi-bahuvrīhi with the prefix nis). The prefix nis 'out, away' stands for nirgata 'gone out', whose participle is dropped in the compound (prādi-bahuvrīhi): 'She from whom kriyā (action) has gone out', i.e. 'She who is without kriyā (action)'. The name describes Her, so the last member takes the feminine ending.

ANALYSIS निर्गता क्रिया यस्याः सा निष्क्रिया

nirgatā kriyā yasyāḥ sā niṣkriyā

SIGNIFICANCE All activity is Her power at work, yet She herself, as the witness, does not act.

---

183 निष्परिग्रहा niṣ-parigrahā

She who does not acquire or accept anything

SANDHI निष्परिग्रहा = निस् + परिग्रहा (nis + parigrahā) — the final s of nis becomes visarga before a voiceless sound (8.2.66, 8.3.15), and after i that visarga becomes ṣ before k or p (Pāṇini 8.3.41 idudupadhasya cāpratyayasya): nis → niṣ

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (prādi-bahuvrīhi with the prefix nis). The prefix nis 'out, away' stands for nirgata 'gone out', whose participle is dropped in the compound (prādi-bahuvrīhi): 'She from whom parigraha (taking, possession) has gone out', i.e. 'She who is without parigraha (taking, possession)'. The name describes Her, so the last member takes the feminine ending.

ANALYSIS निर्गतः परिग्रहः यस्याः सा निष्परिग्रहा

nirgataḥ parigrahaḥ yasyāḥ sā niṣparigrahā

SIGNIFICANCE Possessing everything already, She has nothing to acquire or receive.

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

nistulā (184) shows nis unchanged before t. Names 188–190 play on dur- 'hard': durlabhā, durgamā, durgā.

THE NAMES

184 निस्तुला nis-tulā

She who is incomparable, unequalled

SANDHI निस्तुला = निस् + तुला (nis + tulā) — the final s of nis, by way of visarga, is restored as s before the voiceless dental t (Pāṇini 8.3.34 visarjanīyasya saḥ), so the prefix shows no visible change

ANALYSIS निर्गता तुला यस्याः सा निस्तुला

nirgatā tulā yasyāḥ sā nistulā

SIGNIFICANCE There is nothing beside Her to weigh against Her.

---

185 नीलचिकुरा nīla-cikurā

She whose hair is dark (blue-black)

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi. 'She whose tresses (cikura) are dark (nīla)'; cikura takes the feminine -ā.

ANALYSIS नीलाः चिकुराः यस्याः सा नीलचिकुरा

nīlāḥ cikurāḥ yasyāḥ sā nīlacikurā

SIGNIFICANCE Amid the names of the formless, a single image of Her form; dark, abundant tresses are a classical mark of beauty (cf. name 13).

---

186 निरपाया nir-apāyā

She who is beyond loss or decay

SANDHI निरपाया = निस् + अपाया (nis + apāyā) — the final s of the prefix nis becomes r before a vowel or a voiced consonant (s → ru, Pāṇini 8.2.66 sasajuṣo ruḥ; ru turns to visarga only before a voiceless sound or a pause, 8.3.15): nis → nir; अपाय = अप + आय (apa + āya) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ), inside the lexicalised word apāya

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (prādi-bahuvrīhi with the prefix nis). The prefix nis 'out, away' stands for nirgata 'gone out', whose participle is dropped in the compound (prādi-bahuvrīhi): 'She from whom apāya (loss, harm) has gone out', i.e. 'She who is without apāya (loss, harm)'. The name describes Her, so the last member takes the feminine ending.

ANALYSIS निर्गतः अपायः यस्याः सा निरपाया

nirgataḥ apāyaḥ yasyāḥ sā nirapāyā

SIGNIFICANCE Apāya is any falling away or harm; nothing in Her can wane.

---

187 निरत्यया nir-atyayā

She who cannot be transgressed

SANDHI निरत्यया = निस् + अत्यया (nis + atyayā) — the final s of the prefix nis becomes r before a vowel or a voiced consonant (s → ru, Pāṇini 8.2.66 sasajuṣo ruḥ; ru turns to visarga only before a voiceless sound or a pause, 8.3.15): nis → nir; अत्यय = अति + अय (ati + aya) — yaṇ: i becomes y before a dissimilar vowel (Pāṇini 6.1.77 iko yaṇ aci), inside the lexicalised word atyaya

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (prādi-bahuvrīhi with the prefix nis). The prefix nis 'out, away' stands for nirgata 'gone out', whose participle is dropped in the compound (prādi-bahuvrīhi): 'She from whom atyaya (transgression, passing away) has gone out', i.e. 'She who is without atyaya (transgression, passing away)'. The name describes Her, so the last member takes the feminine ending.

ANALYSIS निर्गतः अत्ययः यस्याः सा निरत्यया

nirgataḥ atyayaḥ yasyāḥ sā niratyayā

SIGNIFICANCE No one can go beyond Her or set aside Her law; atyaya also means passing away, so the name also says She does not pass away.

---

188 दुर्लभा dur-labhā

She who is won only with much difficulty

SANDHI दुर्लभा = दुस् + लभा (dus + labhā) — the final s of the prefix dus becomes r before a voiced consonant (s → ru, Pāṇini 8.2.66 sasajuṣo ruḥ; ru turns to visarga only before a voiceless sound or a pause, 8.3.15): dus → dur

COMPOUND upapada compound (dus with √labh and the suffix khal). dus 'with difficulty' combined with √labh 'to obtain' and the suffix khal (-a), which forms such 'hard/easy to ...' words (Pāṇini 3.3.126 īṣaddussuṣu kṛcchrākṛcchrārtheṣu khal): 'hard to obtain'. The feminine -ā describes Her.

ANALYSIS दुःखेन लभ्यते इति दुर्लभा

duḥkhena labhyate iti durlabhā

SIGNIFICANCE Names 188–190 play on dur- 'hard': She is hard to win, hard to approach, and is Durgā; yet She is easily won by devotion (120).

---

189 दुर्गमा dur-gamā

She who is approachable only with extreme effort

SANDHI दुर्गमा = दुस् + गमा (dus + gamā) — the final s of the prefix dus becomes r before a voiced consonant (s → ru, Pāṇini 8.2.66 sasajuṣo ruḥ; ru turns to visarga only before a voiceless sound or a pause, 8.3.15): dus → dur

COMPOUND upapada compound (dus with √gam and the suffix khal). As in name 188: dus 'with difficulty' with √gam 'to go' and the suffix khal (-a): 'hard to approach'.

ANALYSIS दुःखेन गम्यते इति दुर्गमा

duḥkhena gamyate iti durgamā

SIGNIFICANCE The way to Her is steep for one who relies only on effort; Her grace makes it open.

---

190 दुर्गा durgā

She who is the Goddess Durgā

SANDHI दुर्गा = दुस् + गा (dus + gā) — the final s of the prefix dus becomes r before a voiced consonant (s → ru, Pāṇini 8.2.66 sasajuṣo ruḥ; ru turns to visarga only before a voiceless sound or a pause, 8.3.15): dus → dur, inside the word durgā

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE In the Devī Māhātmya the Goddess foretells that She will be called Durgā for slaying the asura Durgama; traditionally She is also the fortress that protects Her devotees.

---

191 दुःखहन्त्री duḥkha-hantrī

She who is the destroyer of sorrow

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa. hantrī 'slayer' (√han + -tṛ, feminine) is the head and duḥkha 'sorrow' stands to it in the genitive (see name 165 on compounds with -tṛ).

ANALYSIS दुःखस्य हन्त्री दुःखहन्त्री

duḥkhasya hantrī duḥkhahantrī

SIGNIFICANCE She destroys sorrow at its root, which is ignorance, and so gives happiness (192).

---

192 सुखप्रदा sukha-pradā

She who is the giver of happiness

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa. pradā 'giving' (pra + √dā with the suffix ka, feminine) is the head and sukha 'happiness' its object.

ANALYSIS सुखम् प्रददाति इति सुखप्रदा

sukham pradadāti iti sukhapradā

SIGNIFICANCE Having removed sorrow (191), She gives happiness, in this world and as the bliss of liberation.

198 समानाधिकवर्जिता samānādhika-varjitā

समान samāna	equal, the same
अधिक adhika	greater, superior, exceeding
वर्जिता varjitā	devoid of, without √vṛj, causative past participle, feminine

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Name 194: durācāra is the prefix dus (dur) + ācāra 'conduct'. Name 198 echoes the Śvetāśvatara Upaniṣad (6.8): none is equal to Her, none greater.

THE NAMES

193 दुष्टदूरा duṣṭa-dūrā

She who is far from the wicked

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND pañcamī-tatpuruṣa. dūrā 'far, remote' is the head; duṣṭa 'the wicked' stands to it in the ablative: 'far from the wicked'. The genitive (duṣṭānām dūrā, ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa) gives the same sense, since words for 'far' take either case. The two members are simply juxtaposed.

ANALYSIS दुष्टेभ्यः दूरा दुष्टदूरा duṣṭebhyaḥ dūrā duṣṭadūrā

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally: those who harm others cannot reach Her by worship alone, because their own malice keeps them away; the distance is theirs, not Hers.

194 दुराचारशमनी durācāra-śamanī

She who quells evil conduct

SANDHI दुराचार = दुस् + आचार (dus + ācāra) — visarga sandhi: the final s of the prefix dus (dur) becomes r before a vowel (Pāṇini 8.2.66 sasajuṣo ruḥ, the r then kept before a vowel)

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa (with an inner prādi-tatpuruṣa). Inner layer: dur-ācāra 'evil conduct', a prādi compound in which the prefix dus 'bad, ill' qualifies ācāra 'conduct'.

Outer layer: śamanī 'she who quells' is the head and takes the inner compound in the genitive: 'the quencher of evil conduct'. Durācāra may also denote the evil-doers themselves; the sense is the same.

ANALYSIS दुष्टः आचारः दुराचारः; दुराचारस्य शमनी दुराचारशमनी

duṣṭaḥ ācāraḥ durācāraḥ; durācārasya śamanī durācāraśamanī

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally She both checks the wrongdoing of the world and, for the devotee, calms the inner tendencies that lead to wrong action.

195 दोषवर्जिता doṣa-varjitā

She who is free from all faults

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa. The past participle varjitā 'free from, devoid of' is the head and the faults stand to it in the instrumental: 'devoid of faults'. The members are juxtaposed without sound change.

ANALYSIS दोषैः वर्जिता दोषवर्जिता

doṣaiḥ varjitā doṣavarjitā

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally the faults are those of embodied existence — attachment, aversion, delusion and the like — which cannot touch Her, as the sky is untouched by the clouds that pass through it.

---

196 सर्वज्ञा sarva-jñā

She who is omniscient

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa. -jña 'knowing' is a verbal noun from √jñā formed with the suffix ka (Pāṇini 3.2.3 āto 'nupasarge kaḥ), which only occurs with a preceding word (upapada); sarva 'all' is its object. The feminine is -jñā. No sound change at the junction.

ANALYSIS सर्वम् जानाति इति सर्वज्ञा

sarvam jānāti iti sarvajñā

SIGNIFICANCE Her knowledge is not acquired piece by piece; She knows all because all is Her own self-awareness. Muṇḍaka Upaniṣad 1.1.9 calls the Absolute 'yaḥ sarvajñaḥ sarvavit'.

197 सान्द्रकरुणा sāndra-karuṇā

She who shows intense compassion

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi. sāndra 'dense, thick, abundant' qualifies karuṇā 'compassion', and the whole describes Her: 'She whose compassion is dense'. A karmadhāraya reading ('She who is dense compassion itself') is also possible. The members are juxtaposed.

ANALYSIS सान्द्रा करुणा यस्याः सा सान्द्रकरुणा

sāndrā karuṇā yasyāḥ sā sāndrakaruṇā

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally Her compassion is 'dense' because it is unmixed: it does not wait to be earned.

198 समानाधिकवर्जिता samānādhika-varjitā

She who has neither equal nor superior

SANDHI समानाधिक = समान + अधिक (samāna + adhika) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a/ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa (with an inner itaretara-dvandva). Inner layer: samāna 'equal' and adhika 'greater, superior' are joined as a dvandva, 'an equal and a superior'. Outer layer: the participle varjitā 'devoid of' is the head and takes the pair in the instrumental: 'devoid of an equal or a superior'.

ANALYSIS समानः च अधिकः च समानाधिकौ; समानाधिकाभ्याम् वर्जिता समानाधिकवर्जिता

samānaḥ ca adhikaḥ ca samānādhikau; samānādhikābhyām varjitā samānādhikavarjitā

SIGNIFICANCE The name echoes the Śvetāśvatara Upaniṣad (6.8): 'na tat-samaś cābhyadhikaś ca dṛśyate' — none is seen equal to It, nor greater.

स्वरूपिणी svarūpiṇī	whose own form is, having the nature of sva 'own' + rūpa 'form', with the possessive suffix -in, feminine

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Names 199–206 form a run of sarva- ('all') names: She is all powers, all auspiciousness, all mantras, yantras and Tantras.

THE NAMES

199 सर्वशक्तिमयी sarva-śakti-mayī

She who consists of all powers

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND karmadhāraya, followed by the taddhita suffix -maya (mayaṭ). Inner layer: sarva-śakti 'all powers' (karmadhāraya, sarva qualifying śakti). To this the suffix -maya 'consisting of, made of' (mayaṭ, Pāṇini 5.4.21 in the sense of 'consisting abundantly of') is added, feminine -mayī: 'consisting of all powers'. The second step is a derivation, not a further compound; its gloss sarvaśaktisvarūpā shows the sense.

ANALYSIS सर्वाः शक्तयः सर्वशक्तयः; सर्वशक्तिस्वरूपा सर्वशक्तिमयी

sarvāḥ śaktayaḥ sarvaśaktayaḥ; sarvaśaktisvarūpā sarvaśaktimayī

SIGNIFICANCE In Śrīvidyā every power — of will, knowledge and action, and every deity of the Śrīcakra's enclosures — is a portion of Her; She does not merely possess the powers, She is made of them.

200 सर्वमङ्गला sarva-maṅgalā

She who is the source of all that is auspicious

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi. 'She to whom all auspicious things belong', i.e. from whom they come; maṅgala takes the feminine -ā of the bahuvrīhi. A karmadhāraya reading (sarvā cāsau maṅgalā ca, 'She who is wholly auspicious') is also current. The members are juxtaposed.

ANALYSIS सर्वाणि मङ्गलानि यस्याः सा सर्वमङ्गला

sarvāṇi maṅgalāni yasyāḥ sā sarvamaṅgalā

SIGNIFICANCE The Devī Māhātmya salutes Her as 'sarvamaṅgala-māṅgalye', the auspiciousness of all that is auspicious.

---

201 सद्गतिप्रदा sad-gati-pradā

She who bestows the true goal

SANDHI सद्गति = सत् + गति (sat + gati) — jaśtva: a final t becomes d before a voiced sound (Pāṇini 8.2.39 jhalāṃ jaśo 'nte)

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa (with an inner karmadhāraya). Inner layer: sat 'true, good' qualifies gati 'way, goal, destination' (karmadhāraya; the feminine satī takes the masculine stem sat, puṃvadbhāva). Outer layer: -pradā 'giving' (pra + √dā with the suffix -a) is the head and governs the inner compound as its object.

ANALYSIS सती गतिः सद्गतिः; सद्गतिम् प्रददाति इति सद्गतिप्रदा

satī gatiḥ sadgatiḥ; sadgatim pradadāti iti sadgatipradā

SIGNIFICANCE Sadgati is both the good path and its end, liberation; traditionally She grants each seeker the right way and, at last, the highest state.

202 सर्वेश्वरी sarveśvarī

She who is the sovereign of all

SANDHI सर्वेश्वरी = सर्व + ईश्वरी (sarva + īśvarī) — guṇa: a/ā + ī → e (Pāṇini 6.1.87 ād guṇaḥ)

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa. īśvarī 'sovereign, ruling lady' is the head and sarva 'all' stands to it in the genitive: 'the sovereign of all'.

ANALYSIS सर्वेषाम् ईश्वरी सर्वेश्वरी

sarveṣām īśvarī sarveśvarī

SIGNIFICANCE Her rule extends over all that moves and does not move; nothing lies outside Her governance.

203 सर्वमयी sarva-mayī

She who is everything

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally: since She consists of all, there is nothing outside Her to pervade; the world is not a container She fills but Her own form.

204 सर्वमन्त्रस्वरूपिणी sarva-mantra-svarūpiṇī

She who is the essence of all the mantras

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa (with an inner karmadhāraya), followed by the possessive suffix -in. (1) sarva-mantra 'all mantras' (karmadhāraya). (2) sarvamantra-svarūpa 'the essential form of all mantras' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa; svarūpa is the head). (3) The possessive suffix -in (feminine -inī) makes the whole an adjective: 'She who has the essential form of all mantras', i.e. who is their very nature. Juxtaposition throughout.

ANALYSIS सर्वे मन्त्राः सर्वमन्त्राः; सर्वमन्त्राणाम् स्वरूपम् सर्वमन्त्रस्वरूपम्; तत् अस्याः अस्ति इति सर्वमन्त्रस्वरूपिणी

sarve mantrāḥ sarvamantrāḥ; sarvamantrāṇām svarūpam sarvamantrasvarūpam; tat asyāḥ asti iti sarvamantrasvarūpiṇī

SIGNIFICANCE In Śrīvidyā every mantra is a sound-form of the Goddess, and Her own fifteen-syllabled vidyā is held to contain them all.

SANSKRIT	ENGLISH
205 सर्वयन्त्रात्मिका sarva-yantrātmikā
सर्व sarva	all
यन्त्र yantra	yantra, sacred diagram (lit. 'instrument of restraint') √yam 'to hold' + -tra

SANSKRIT	ENGLISH
आत्मिका ātmikā	having as its self or nature ātman + the suffix -ka, feminine -ikā

206 सर्वतन्त्ररूपा sarva-tantra-rūpā

सर्व sarva	all
तन्त्र tantra	Tantra, a body of scripture and practice (lit. 'loom, framework') √tan 'to extend'
रूपा rūpā	form rūpa, with the feminine -ā of the bahuvrīhi

207 मनोन्मनी manonmanī

मनस् manas	mind appears as mano- in the name
उत् ut	up, beyond (prefix) appears as un- before m
मनी manī	mind manas, shortened, with feminine -ī in the bahuvrīhi unmanī

208 माहेश्वरी māheśvarī

माहेश्वरी māheśvarī	belonging to Maheśvara; the consort and power of Maheśvara (Śiva) taddhita (suffix -a with vṛddhi, feminine -ī) from maheśvara = mahā 'great' + īśvara 'lord'

209 महादेवी mahā-devī

महत् mahat	great appears as mahā- in a karmadhāraya or bahuvrīhi (Pāṇini 6.3.46)

SANSKRIT	ENGLISH
देवी devī	goddess feminine of deva, from √div 'to shine, to play'

210 महालक्ष्मीः mahā-lakṣmīḥ

महत् mahat	great appears as mahā- in a karmadhāraya or bahuvrīhi (Pāṇini 6.3.46)
लक्ष्मीः lakṣmīḥ	Lakṣmī, goddess of fortune and prosperity; fortune, splendor nominative singular with -ḥ

211 मृडप्रिया mṛḍa-priyā

मृड mṛḍa	Mṛḍa, 'the gracious one', a name of Śiva √mṛḍ 'to be gracious, to delight'
प्रिया priyā	beloved, dear

महालक्ष्मीर्मृड = महालक्ष्मीः + मृड... (mahālakṣmīḥ + mṛḍa...) — visarga becomes r before a voiced sound

Name 210 ends in -ḥ (mahālakṣmīḥ): lakṣmī keeps the nominative s, which surfaces as r before mṛḍa-. Name 208 begins the long run of mahā- names that continues to name 237.

THE NAMES

205 सर्वयन्त्रात्मिका sarva-yantrātmikā

She whose very nature is all the yantras

SANDHI यन्त्रात्मिका = यन्त्र + आत्मिका (yantra + ātmikā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a/ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (with an inner karmadhāraya). Inner layer: sarva-yantra 'all yantras' (karmadhāraya). Outer layer: a bahuvrīhi with ātman 'self, nature' as final member, which takes the suffix -ka; the feminine is -ātmikā (a → i before the suffix, Pāṇini 7.3.44): 'She whose very self is all yantras', i.e. who is their nature.

ANALYSIS सर्वाणि यन्त्राणि सर्वयन्त्राणि; सर्वयन्त्राणि आत्मा यस्याः सा सर्वयन्त्रात्मिका

sarvāṇi yantrāṇi sarvayantrāṇi; sarvayantrāṇi ātmā yasyāḥ sā sarvayantrātmikā

SIGNIFICANCE Every yantra is a diagram of Her presence, and the Śrīcakra, king of yantras, contains them all.

---

206 सर्वतन्त्ररूपा sarva-tantra-rūpā

She whose form is all the Tantras

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (with an inner karmadhāraya). Inner layer: sarva-tantra 'all the Tantras' (karmadhāraya). Outer layer: a bahuvrīhi, 'She whose form is all the Tantras'; rūpa takes the feminine -ā. Juxtaposition throughout.

ANALYSIS सर्वाणि तन्त्राणि सर्वतन्त्राणि; सर्वतन्त्राणि रूपम् यस्याः सा सर्वतन्त्ररूपा

sarvāṇi tantrāṇi sarvatantrāṇi; sarvatantrāṇi rūpam yasyāḥ sā sarvatantrarūpā

SIGNIFICANCE Names 204–206 together: She is the sound (mantra), the diagram (yantra) and the method (tantra) of Her own worship.

207 मनोन्मनी manonmanī

She who is Manonmanī, the state in which the mind transcends itself

SANDHI उन्मनी = उत् + मनी (ut + manī) — a stop becomes the nasal of its class before a nasal: t → n (Pāṇini 8.4.45 yaro 'nunāsike 'nunāsiko vā), inside unmanī; मनोन्मनी = मनस् + उन्मनी (manas + unmanī) — manas appears without its final s and its a coalesces with the u of unmanī by guṇa: a + u → o (Pāṇini 6.1.87 ād guṇaḥ). Regular sandhi of manaḥ + unmanī would leave a hiatus (mana unmanī); the fused form is that of the lexicalised technical term

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa (traditional analysis), with an inner prādi-bahuvrīhi. Inner layer: un-manī 'she whose mind has risen beyond', a bahuvrīhi with the prefix ut 'up, beyond' (manas is shortened and takes the feminine -ī): the state in which the mind is transcended. Outer layer: manas-unmanī 'the transcending of the mind', with manas in the genitive. The name is a technical term of Śaiva and Śākta yoga and is not built by ordinary sandhi.

ANALYSIS उद्गतम् मनः यस्याः सा उन्मनी; मनसः उन्मनी मनोन्मनी

udgatam manaḥ yasyāḥ sā unmanī; manasaḥ unmanī manonmanī

SIGNIFICANCE In Śaiva and Śākta yoga unmanī is the last stage of the subtle ascent of sound beyond the mind, where thought falls silent; Manonmanī is also the name of the highest of Śiva's nine powers in the Śaiva Āgamas.

UNCERTAIN The junction mano + unmanī is not regular sandhi and the analysis of this technical term varies (some read manas + unmanī as a karmadhāraya, 'the mind that has become unmanī'); the meaning follows the common yogic sense.

She who is the consort of Maheśvara

SANDHI माहेश्वरी = महा + ईश्वर (mahā + īśvara) — guṇa: a/ā + ī → e (Pāṇini 6.1.87 ād guṇaḥ), inside the base maheśvara 'great lord'; the derivative then strengthens its first vowel (ma → mā, vṛddhi), a morphological change, not sandhi

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE As the power (śakti) of the Great Lord She is inseparable from Him; Māheśvarī is also one of the seven Mothers (mātṛkās), the śakti of Maheśvara.

209 महादेवी mahā-devī

She who is the great Goddess

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND karmadhāraya. mahat 'great' qualifies devī 'goddess', the head; the feminine mahatī takes the masculine stem (puṃvadbhāva) and mahat becomes mahā- (Pāṇini 6.3.46). The name can also be read as the feminine of mahādeva, 'the consort of Mahādeva'. No sound change.

ANALYSIS महती देवी महादेवी

mahatī devī mahādevī

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally mahā is read as 'immeasurable': Her body cannot be measured, since it is the universe itself. She is also the consort of Mahādeva.

210 महालक्ष्मीः mahā-lakṣmīḥ

She who is the great goddess Lakṣmī

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND karmadhāraya. mahat 'great' (as mahā-) qualifies lakṣmī, the head. Lakṣmī belongs to the small group of ī-stems that keep the nominative -s (-ḥ), unlike the derived feminines in -ī; hence mahālakṣmīḥ, which the verse shows as mahālakṣmīr before mṛḍa-.

ANALYSIS महती लक्ष्मीः महालक्ष्मीः

mahatī lakṣmīḥ mahālakṣmīḥ

SIGNIFICANCE In the Devī Māhātmya Mahālakṣmī is the form of the Goddess who destroys Mahiṣa; here She is Lakṣmī not as one goddess among others but as the source of all fortune and splendor.

> CORRECTED महालक्ष्मी → महालक्ष्मीः. महालक्ष्मी → महालक्ष्मीः: lakṣmī keeps the nominative -ḥ (not a ṅīp stem); the verse shows it as महालक्ष्मीर्मृडप्रिया.

211 मृडप्रिया mṛḍa-priyā

She who is the beloved of Mṛḍa (Śiva)

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa. priyā 'beloved' is the head and Mṛḍa stands to it in the genitive: 'the beloved of Mṛḍa'. A bahuvrīhi reading (mṛḍaḥ priyaḥ yasyāḥ sā, 'She to whom Mṛḍa is dear') is also possible. Juxtaposition.

ANALYSIS मृडस्य प्रिया मृडप्रिया

mṛḍasya priyā mṛḍapriyā

SIGNIFICANCE Mṛḍa names Śiva as gracious and kindly; She is dear to Him in His aspect of grace.

रतिः ratiḥ	delight, joy, love; also Rati, consort of Kāma √ram 'to delight', nominative singular

महाशक्तिर्महारतिः = महाशक्तिः + महारतिः (mahāśaktiḥ + mahāratiḥ) — visarga becomes r before a voiced sound

THE NAMES

212 महारूपा mahā-rūpā

She who has a great form

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi. 'She whose form is great'; mahat appears as mahā- (Pāṇini 6.3.46) and rūpa takes the feminine -ā of the bahuvrīhi. No sound change.

ANALYSIS महत् रूपम् यस्याः सा महारूपा mahat rūpam yasyāḥ sā mahārūpā

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally Her form is great because it surpasses everything that has form, including the Purāṇic universe-form.

213 महापूज्या mahā-pūjyā

She who is the greatest object of worship

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND karmadhāraya. The gerundive pūjyā 'to be worshipped' is the head; mahā- 'greatly, supremely' qualifies it. No sound change.

ANALYSIS महती पूज्या महापूज्या

mahatī pūjyā mahāpūjyā

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally even the gods who are themselves worshipped — Brahmā, Viṣṇu and Śiva — worship Her.

---

214 महापातकनाशिनी mahā-pātaka-nāśinī

She who destroys even the greatest of sins

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa (with an inner karmadhāraya). Inner layer: mahā-pātaka 'great sins' (karmadhāraya). Outer layer: nāśinī 'destroyer' (from the causative of √naś with the agent suffix -in) is the head and takes the sins in the genitive.

ANALYSIS महान्ति पातकानि महापातकानि; महापातकानाम् नाशिनी महापातकनाशिनी

mahānti pātakāni mahāpātakāni; mahāpātakānām nāśinī mahāpātakanāśinī

SIGNIFICANCE The mahāpātakas are the gravest sins of the Dharmaśāstra (such as killing a brāhmaṇa and theft of gold); traditionally even these are destroyed by remembrance of Her.

215 महामाया mahā-māyā

She who is the great illusion

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND karmadhāraya. mahā- (from mahat) qualifies māyā, the head. No sound change.

ANALYSIS महती माया महामाया

mahatī māyā mahāmāyā

SIGNIFICANCE The Devī Māhātmya says that Mahāmāyā draws even the minds of the wise into delusion; the same power, when pleased, grants release.

---

216 महासत्त्वा mahā-sattvā

She who possesses great sattva

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi. 'She whose sattva is great'; sattva takes the feminine -ā of the bahuvrīhi. No sound change.

ANALYSIS महत् सत्त्वम् यस्याः सा महासत्त्वा

mahat sattvam yasyāḥ sā mahāsattvā

SIGNIFICANCE Sattva here covers both pure being and the strength or courage that flows from it; traditionally She is supreme in both.

---

217 महाशक्तिः mahā-śaktiḥ

She who is the great Power

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND karmadhāraya. mahā- qualifies śakti 'power', the head: 'the great Power'. Because śakti is itself feminine, a bahuvrīhi ('She whose power is great') would give the same form. No sound change.

ANALYSIS महती शक्तिः महाशक्तिः

mahatī śaktiḥ mahāśaktiḥ

SIGNIFICANCE She is not one power among many but the Power from which every other power is drawn.

---

218 महारतिः mahā-ratiḥ

She who is boundless delight

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND karmadhāraya. mahā- qualifies rati 'delight, love', the head. No sound change.

ANALYSIS महती रतिः महारतिः

mahatī ratiḥ mahāratiḥ

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally Her delight is the unending joy of the Self, of which every lesser pleasure is a faint reflection.

योग yoga	yoga, union, discipline
ईश्वर īśvara	lord, master √īś 'to rule'
ईश्वरी īśvarī	sovereign, ruling lady feminine of īśvara

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

महाबुद्धिर्महासिद्धिः = महाबुद्धिः + महासिद्धिः (mahābuddhiḥ + mahāsiddhiḥ) — visarga becomes r before a voiced sound

महासिद्धिर्महायोगे = महासिद्धिः + महायोगे... (mahāsiddhiḥ + mahāyoge...) — visarga becomes r before a voiced sound

Name 220 is mahā + aiśvaryā fused by vṛddhi (mahaiśvaryā); name 225 is one name, the sovereign of the great lords of yoga.

THE NAMES

219 महाभोगा mahā-bhogā

She who has immense wealth

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi. 'She whose enjoyment (or wealth) is great'; bhoga takes the feminine -ā. No sound change.

ANALYSIS महान् भोगः यस्याः सा महाभोगा

mahān bhogaḥ yasyāḥ sā mahābhogā

SIGNIFICANCE Bhoga is both enjoyment and the riches enjoyed; traditionally the whole universe is the object of Her enjoyment.

---

220 महैश्वर्या mahaiśvaryā

She who has supreme sovereignty

SANDHI महैश्वर्या = महा + ऐश्वर्या (mahā + aiśvaryā) — vṛddhi: ā + ai → ai (Pāṇini 6.1.88 vṛddhir eci)

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi. 'She whose sovereignty is great'; aiśvarya takes the feminine -ā.

ANALYSIS महत् ऐश्वर्यम् यस्याः सा महैश्वर्या

mahat aiśvaryam yasyāḥ sā mahaiśvaryā

SIGNIFICANCE Aiśvarya is the lordship of the Lord; traditionally Hers is the sovereignty that even the gods' powers derive from.

---

221 महावीर्या mahā-vīryā

She who is supreme in valor

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi. 'She whose valor is great'; vīrya takes the feminine -ā. No sound change.

ANALYSIS महत् वीर्यम् यस्याः सा महावीर्या

mahat vīryam yasyāḥ sā mahāvīryā

SIGNIFICANCE Her valor is shown in the Purāṇic battles against Bhaṇḍa and the other demons; inwardly it is the strength that overcomes ignorance.

---

222 महाबला mahā-balā

She who is supreme in might

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi. 'She whose strength is great'; bala takes the feminine -ā. No sound change.

ANALYSIS महत् बलम् यस्याः सा महाबला

mahat balam yasyāḥ sā mahābalā

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally Her might is that on which every other strength depends, as the Kena Upaniṣad shows the gods' powers failing without Brahman.

223 महाबुद्धिः mahā-buddhiḥ

She who is supreme in intelligence

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi. 'She whose intelligence is great'. Because buddhi is feminine, the bahuvrīhi keeps the form buddhiḥ. No sound change.

ANALYSIS महती बुद्धिः यस्याः सा महाबुद्धिः

mahatī buddhiḥ yasyāḥ sā mahābuddhiḥ

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally She is the intelligence that illumines every intellect; Mahat or Buddhi is also the first evolute of nature, which She governs.

---

224 महासिद्धिः mahā-siddhiḥ

She who is endowed with the highest attainments

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi. 'She whose attainments are great'; siddhi, being feminine, keeps its form. A karmadhāraya ('She who is the great attainment') is equally possible. No sound change.

ANALYSIS महत्यः सिद्धयः यस्याः सा महासिद्धिः

mahatyaḥ siddhayaḥ yasyāḥ sā mahāsiddhiḥ

SIGNIFICANCE The siddhis are the powers of the yogin, beginning with aṇimā; the greatest attainment is liberation, which She herself is.

---

225 महायोगेश्वरेश्वरी mahā-yogeśvareśvarī

She who is the sovereign of the great lords of yoga

SANDHI योगेश्वर = योग + ईश्वर (yoga + īśvara) — guṇa: a/ā + ī → e (Pāṇini 6.1.87 ād guṇaḥ); योगेश्वरेश्वरी = योगेश्वर + ईश्वरी (yogeśvara + īśvarī) — guṇa: a/ā + ī → e (Pāṇini 6.1.87 ād guṇaḥ)

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa (over an inner karmadhāraya and ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (1) yoga-īśvara 'lord of yoga', i.e. a master yogin (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (2) mahā-yogeśvara 'the great lords of yoga' (karmadhāraya). (3) īśvarī 'sovereign' is the head of the whole and takes the great yogins in the genitive: 'the sovereign of the great lords of yoga'.

ANALYSIS योगस्य ईश्वरः योगेश्वरः; महान्तः योगेश्वराः महायोगेश्वराः; महायोगेश्वराणाम् ईश्वरी महायोगेश्वरेश्वरी

yogasya īśvaraḥ yogeśvaraḥ; mahāntaḥ yogeśvarāḥ mahāyogeśvarāḥ; mahāyogeśvarāṇām īśvarī mahāyogeśvareśvarī

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally even the greatest yogins, Śiva foremost among them, are under Her rule and worship Her.

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Name 229 is mahā + āsanā (mahāsanā, 'whose seat is great'), not mahā-sanā.

THE NAMES

226 महातन्त्रा mahā-tantrā

She who is the great Tantra

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi. Formally a bahuvrīhi, 'She whose Tantra is great', with the feminine -ā; in sense it identifies Her with the great Tantra, as names 227 and 228 do with mantra and yantra. No sound change.

ANALYSIS महत् तन्त्रम् यस्याः सा महातन्त्रा

mahat tantram yasyāḥ sā mahātantrā

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally the great Tantras (the Kulārṇava, Jñānārṇava and others) are counted as Her body; She is both what they teach and the teaching itself.

227 महामन्त्रा mahā-mantrā

She who is the greatest mantra

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi. Formally 'She whose mantra is great', with the feminine -ā; in sense She is the great mantra itself. No sound change.

ANALYSIS महान् मन्त्रः यस्याः सा महामन्त्रा

mahān mantraḥ yasyāḥ sā mahāmantrā

SIGNIFICANCE In Śrīvidyā the great mantra is Her fifteen-syllabled (pañcadaśī) vidyā, which is held to be Her sound-body.

---

228 महायन्त्रा mahā-yantrā

She who is in the form of the great yantras

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi. Formally 'She whose yantra is great', with the feminine -ā; in sense She is the great yantra itself. No sound change.

ANALYSIS महत् यन्त्रम् यस्याः सा महायन्त्रा

mahat yantram yasyāḥ sā mahāyantrā

SIGNIFICANCE The great yantra is the Śrīcakra, which in Śrīvidyā is not a symbol of Her but Her very form.

---

229 महासना mahāsanā

She whose seat is great

SANDHI महासना = महा + आसना (mahā + āsanā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a/ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi. 'She whose seat is great'; āsana takes the feminine -ā. Mahā and āsanā fuse by savarṇa-dīrgha, so the name cannot be cut as mahā-sanā.

ANALYSIS महत् आसनम् यस्याः सा महासना

mahat āsanam yasyāḥ sā mahāsanā

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally Her great seat is the whole hierarchy of the tattvas, or the couch formed by the five Brahmās (name 249).

---

230 महायागक्रमाराध्या mahā-yāga-kramārādhyā

She who is to be worshipped through the ordered rite of the great sacrifice

SANDHI क्रमाराध्या = क्रम + आराध्या (krama + ārādhyā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a/ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa (over an inner ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa and karmadhāraya). (1) mahā-yāga 'the great sacrifice' (karmadhāraya). (2) mahāyāga-krama 'the ordered sequence of the great sacrifice' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (3) The gerundive ārādhyā 'to be worshipped' is the head and takes the sequence in the instrumental: 'to be worshipped by the sequence of the great sacrifice'.

ANALYSIS महान् यागः महायागः; महायागस्य क्रमः महायागक्रमः; महायागक्रमेण आराध्या महायागक्रमाराध्या

mahān yāgaḥ mahāyāgaḥ; mahāyāgasya kramaḥ mahāyāgakramaḥ; mahāyāgakrameṇa ārādhyā mahāyāgakramārādhyā

SIGNIFICANCE In Śrīvidyā the mahāyāga is the complete worship of the Śrīcakra, enclosure by enclosure in its prescribed order; inwardly it is the offering of all experience into the fire of consciousness.

---

231 महाभैरवपूजिता mahā-bhairava-pūjitā

She who is worshipped even by Mahābhairava (Śiva)

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa (with an inner karmadhāraya). Inner layer: mahā-bhairava 'the great Bhairava' (karmadhāraya). Outer layer: the past participle pūjitā 'worshipped' is the head and takes the agent in the instrumental: 'worshipped by Mahābhairava'.

ANALYSIS महान् भैरवः महाभैरवः; महाभैरवेण पूजिता महाभैरवपूजिता

mahān bhairavaḥ mahābhairavaḥ; mahābhairaveṇa pūjitā mahābhairavapūjitā

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally Śiva as Mahābhairava, the Lord of dissolution, Himself worships Her.

सुन्दरी sundarī	beautiful woman, the beautiful one

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Name 232 fills the whole first half: Maheśvara's great dance at the end of the great aeon, and She its witness.

THE NAMES

232 महेश्वरमहाकल्पमहाताण्डवसाक्षिणी maheśvara-mahā-kalpa-mahā-tāṇḍava-sākṣiṇī

She who is the witness of the great dance of Maheśvara (Śiva) at the end of the great cycle of creation

SANDHI महेश्वर = महा + ईश्वर (mahā + īśvara) — guṇa: a/ā + ī → e (Pāṇini 6.1.87 ād guṇaḥ), inside maheśvara 'great lord'

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa (over inner karmadhāraya, saptamī-tatpuruṣa and ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa layers). (1) Three karmadhārayas: maheśvara 'the great Lord', mahā-kalpa 'the great aeon' (whose end is the great dissolution) and mahā-tāṇḍava 'the great dance'. (2) They combine as 'the great dance of Maheśvara at the great aeon('s end)', the Lord in the genitive and the aeon in the locative. (3) sākṣiṇī 'witness' is the head of the whole and takes the dance in the genitive: 'the witness of that dance'.

ANALYSIS महान् ईश्वरः महेश्वरः; महान् कल्पः महाकल्पः; महत् ताण्डवम् महाताण्डवम्; महेश्वरस्य महाकल्पे महाताण्डवम् महेश्वरमहाकल्पमहाताण्डवम्; तस्य साक्षिणी महेश्वरमहाकल्पमहाताण्डवसाक्षिणी

SIGNIFICANCE When all else is dissolved at the end of the great aeon, Śiva dances and She alone remains to watch; traditionally this shows that She outlasts dissolution itself.

233 महाकामेशमहिषी mahā-kāmeśa-mahiṣī

She who is the great queen of Mahākāmeśvara (Śiva)

SANDHI कामेश = काम + ईश (kāma + īśa) — guṇa: a/ā + ī → e (Pāṇini 6.1.87 ād guṇaḥ)

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa (over an inner karmadhāraya and ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (1) kāma-īśa 'the Lord of desire', Kāmeśvara (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (2) mahā-kāmeśa 'the great Kāmeśa' (karmadhāraya). (3) mahiṣī 'chief queen' is the head and takes Him in the genitive.

ANALYSIS कामस्य ईशः कामेशः; महान् कामेशः महाकामेशः; महाकामेशस्य महिषी महाकामेशमहिषी

kāmasya īśaḥ kāmeśaḥ; mahān kāmeśaḥ mahākāmeśaḥ; mahākāmeśasya mahiṣī mahākāmeśamahiṣī

SIGNIFICANCE Kāmeśvara is Śiva as Lord of desire, on whose lap She is seated (name 52, śiva-kāmeśvarāṅkasthā).

---

234 महात्रिपुरसुन्दरी mahā-tripura-sundarī

She who is the great Tripurasundarī, the beautiful one of the three cities

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND karmadhāraya (over an inner saptamī-tatpuruṣa and dvigu). (1) tri-pura 'the three cities' (a dvigu of the collective type). (2) tripura-sundarī 'the beautiful one in the three cities', i.e. the most beautiful in all three worlds (saptamī-tatpuruṣa; a genitive reading is also given). (3) mahā- qualifies the whole: 'the great Tripurasundarī'.

ANALYSIS त्रयाणाम् पुराणाम् समाहारः त्रिपुरम्; त्रिपुरे सुन्दरी त्रिपुरसुन्दरी; महती त्रिपुरसुन्दरी महात्रिपुरसुन्दरी
trayāṇām purāṇām samāhāraḥ tripuram; tripure sundarī tripurasundarī; mahatī tripurasundarī mahātripurasundarī

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally tripura is read through every triad — the three worlds, three bodies, three states, three guṇas, three syllable-groups of Her mantra — and She is the beauty that shines through all of them.

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Names 235–237 spell 'sixty-four' with the visarga kept (catuḥṣaṣṭi, Pāṇini 8.3.36 vā śari); catuṣṣaṣṭi is the equally correct assimilated spelling.

THE NAMES

235 चतुःषष्ट्युपचाराढ्या catuḥ-ṣaṣṭy-upacārāḍhyā

She who is honored with the sixty-four services of worship

SANDHI चतुःषष्टि = चतुर् + षष्टि (catur + ṣaṣṭi) — visarga: the final r of catur becomes visarga before a sibilant (Pāṇini 8.3.15 kharavasānayor visarjanīyaḥ), and the visarga may stay before ṣ (8.3.36 vā śari); the text keeps it rather than assimilating to catuṣṣaṣṭi; षष्ट्युपचार = षष्टि + उपचार (ṣaṣṭi + upacāra) — yaṇ: i becomes y before a dissimilar vowel (Pāṇini 6.1.77 iko yaṇ aci); उपचाराढ्या = उपचार + आढ्या (upacāra + āḍhyā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a/ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa (over an inner karmadhāraya of numeral and noun). (1) catuḥ-ṣaṣṭi 'sixty-four', i.e. 'sixty increased by four' (a karmadhāraya in which the middle word 'increased' is understood). (2) The numeral qualifies upacāra 'service of worship' (a dvigu-type karmadhāraya). (3) āḍhyā 'rich in, endowed with' is the head and takes the services in the instrumental: 'rich in the sixty-four services of worship'.

ANALYSIS चतुरधिका षष्टिः चतुःषष्टिः; चतुःषष्टिः उपचाराः चतुःषष्ट्युपचाराः; चतुःषष्ट्युपचारैः आढ्या चतुःषष्ट्युपचाराढ्या

caturadhikā ṣaṣṭiḥ catuḥṣaṣṭiḥ; catuḥṣaṣṭiḥ upacārāḥ catuḥṣaṣṭyupacārāḥ; catuḥṣaṣṭyupacāraiḥ āḍhyā catuḥṣaṣṭyupacārāḍhyā

SIGNIFICANCE In Śrīvidyā the fullest worship offers sixty-four upacāras, the services fit for a sovereign queen; inwardly they are the offering of every faculty to Her.

> CORRECTED चतुष्षष्ट्युपचाराढ्या → चतुःषष्ट्युपचाराढ्या. चतुष्षष्टि → चतुःषष्टि: visarga before ṣ may be kept or assimilated (Pāṇini 8.3.36 vā śari); the verse text keeps it, so the names follow.

236 चतुःषष्टिकलामयी catuḥ-ṣaṣṭi-kalā-mayī

She who embodies the sixty-four fine arts

SANDHI चतुःषष्टि = चतुर् + षष्टि (catur + ṣaṣṭi) — visarga: the final r of catur becomes visarga before a sibilant (Pāṇini 8.3.15 kharavasānayor visarjanīyaḥ), and the visarga may stay before ṣ (8.3.36 vā śari); the text keeps it rather than assimilating to catuṣṣaṣṭi

COMPOUND karmadhāraya of numeral and noun (over an inner karmadhāraya), followed by the taddhita suffix -maya. (1) catuḥ-ṣaṣṭi 'sixty-four'. (2) catuḥṣaṣṭi-kalā 'the sixty-four arts' (numeral + noun). (3) The suffix -maya 'consisting of', feminine -mayī: 'consisting of the sixty-four arts'.

ANALYSIS चतुरधिका षष्टिः चतुःषष्टिः; चतुःषष्टिः कलाः चतुःषष्टिकलाः; चतुःषष्टिकलास्वरूपा चतुःषष्टिकलामयी
caturadhikā ṣaṣṭiḥ catuḥṣaṣṭiḥ; catuḥṣaṣṭiḥ kalāḥ catuḥṣaṣṭikalāḥ; catuḥṣaṣṭikalāsvarūpā catuḥṣaṣṭikalāmayī

SIGNIFICANCE The sixty-four arts range from music and painting to the crafts of daily life; traditionally the number also recalls the sixty-four Tantras which, the Saundaryalaharī (31) says, Śiva taught before Her own.

> CORRECTED चतुष्षष्टिकलामयी → चतुःषष्टिकलामयी. As 235.

237 महाचतुःषष्टिकोटियोगिनीगणसेविता mahā-catuḥ-ṣaṣṭi-koṭi-yoginī-gaṇa-sevitā

She who is served by the great hosts of sixty-four crore yoginīs

SANDHI चतुःषष्टि = चतुर् + षष्टि (catur + ṣaṣṭi) — visarga: the final r of catur becomes visarga before a sibilant (Pāṇini 8.3.15 kharavasānayor visarjanīyaḥ), and the visarga may stay before ṣ (8.3.36 vā śari); the text keeps it rather than assimilating to catuṣṣaṣṭi

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa (over inner karmadhāraya and ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa layers). (1) catuḥṣaṣṭi-koṭi 'sixty-four crores' (numeral + noun). (2) mahā- 'great' and the number qualify yoginī, the yoginīs (karmadhāraya). (3) ...yoginī-gaṇa 'the hosts of those yoginīs' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (4) The past participle sevitā 'served, attended' is the head and takes the hosts in the instrumental.

ANALYSIS चतुःषष्टिः कोटयः चतुःषष्टिकोटयः; महत्यः चतुःषष्टिकोटयः योगिन्यः महाचतुःषष्टिकोटियोगिन्यः; महाचतुःषष्टिकोटियोगिनीनाम् गणाः महाचतुःषष्टिकोटियोगिनीगणाः; तैः सेविता महाचतुःषष्टिकोटियोगिनीगणसेविता

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally the yoginīs are attendant powers grouped under the Mothers (mātṛkās) of the Śrīcakra's enclosures; their countless number shows the reach of Her retinue.

UNCERTAIN Whether mahā- qualifies the number, the yoginīs or their hosts is not decided by the grammar; the sense hardly changes.

CORRECTED महाचतुष्षष्टिकोटियोगिनीगणसेविता → महाचतुःषष्टिकोटियोगिनीगणसेविता. As 235.

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Names 238–239 are two of the traditional twelve forms of the Śrīvidyā mantra, named after their worshippers (Manu, the Moon); names 239–243 gather round the moon.

THE NAMES

238 मनुविद्या manu-vidyā

She who is the Manuvidyā, the form of Her mantra worshipped by Manu

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa. vidyā 'mantra-knowledge' is the head and Manu stands to it in the genitive: 'the vidyā of Manu', the form of the mantra that Manu worshipped. Juxtaposition.

ANALYSIS मनोः विद्या मनुविद्या

manoḥ vidyā manuvidyā

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally twelve great devotees — among them Manu, Candra, Kubera, Lopāmudrā, Agastya and Kāma — each worshipped Her through a form of the Śrīvidyā mantra; names 238 and 239 name two of them.

239 चन्द्रविद्या candra-vidyā

She who is the Candravidyā, the form of Her mantra worshipped by the Moon

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa. 'The vidyā of Candra (the Moon)', the form of Her mantra worshipped by the Moon. Juxtaposition.

ANALYSIS चन्द्रस्य विद्या चन्द्रविद्या

candrasya vidyā candravidyā

SIGNIFICANCE Another of the twelve traditional forms of the Śrīvidyā mantra, named after the devotee who worshipped Her through it.

---

240 चन्द्रमण्डलमध्यगा candra-maṇḍala-madhyagā

She who resides in the center of the moon's disc

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa (over inner ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣas). (1) candra-maṇḍala 'the disc of the moon' and (2) ...maṇḍala-madhya 'its center' are ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣas. (3) -gā 'going, being in' (from √gam) is the head and takes the center as its place: 'She who abides in the center of the moon's disc'.

ANALYSIS चन्द्रस्य मण्डलम् चन्द्रमण्डलम्; चन्द्रमण्डलस्य मध्यम् चन्द्रमण्डलमध्यम्; चन्द्रमण्डलमध्ये गच्छति तिष्ठति इति चन्द्रमण्डलमध्यगा

candrasya maṇḍalam candramaṇḍalam; candramaṇḍalasya madhyam candramaṇḍalamadhyam; candramaṇḍalamadhye gacchati tiṣṭhati iti candramaṇḍalamadhyagā

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally the lunar disc is also inward: the cool, nectar-dropping moon in the thousand-petalled lotus at the crown of the head, where She is meditated upon.

---

241 चारुरूपा cāru-rūpā

She whose form is beautiful

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi. 'She whose form is beautiful'; rūpa takes the feminine -ā. Juxtaposition.

ANALYSIS चारु रूपम् यस्याः सा चारुरूपा

cāru rūpam yasyāḥ sā cārurūpā

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally Her beauty, unlike the moon's of the previous names, neither waxes nor wanes.

---

242 चारुहासा cāru-hāsā

She who has a beautiful smile

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi. 'She whose smile is beautiful'; hāsa takes the feminine -ā. Juxtaposition.

ANALYSIS चारुः हासः यस्याः सा चारुहासा

cāruḥ hāsaḥ yasyāḥ sā cāruhāsā

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally Her smile is the visible sign of Her grace, and the devotee's sorrow dissolves before it.

---

243 चारुचन्द्रकलाधरा cāru-candra-kalā-dharā

She who wears a lovely crescent moon

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa (over an inner karmadhāraya and ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (1) candra-kalā 'a digit of the moon', the crescent (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (2) cāru 'lovely' qualifies it (karmadhāraya; the feminine cārvī takes the masculine stem cāru). (3) -dharā 'bearing, wearing' (√dhṛ + -a) is the head and governs the crescent as its object.

ANALYSIS चन्द्रस्य कला चन्द्रकला; चार्वी चन्द्रकला चारुचन्द्रकला; चारुचन्द्रकलाम् धरति इति चारुचन्द्रकलाधरा

candrasya kalā candrakalā; cārvī candrakalā cārucandrakalā; cārucandrakalām dharati iti cārucandrakalādharā

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally the crescent on Her crown is the eternal digit that never waxes or wanes.

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Name 248: padmarāga 'lotus-hued' is the ruby; rāga here means color, not passion.

THE NAMES

244 चराचरजगन्नाथा carācara-jagan-nāthā

She who is the ruler of the animate and inanimate worlds

SANDHI चराचर = चर + अचर (cara + acara) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a/ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ); जगन्नाथा = जगत् + नाथा (jagat + nāthā) — a stop becomes the nasal of its class before a nasal: t → n (Pāṇini 8.4.45 yaro 'nunāsike 'nunāsiko vā)

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa (over an inner karmadhāraya and samāhāra-dvandva). (1) cara-acara 'the moving and the unmoving' (dvandva; carācara is also explained as a reduplicated adjective from √car). (2) It qualifies jagat 'world' (karmadhāraya). (3) nāthā 'mistress, ruler', the feminine of nātha, is the head and takes the world in the genitive.

ANALYSIS चरम् च अचरम् च चराचरम्; चराचरम् जगत् चराचरजगत्; चराचरजगतः नाथा चराचरजगन्नाथा

caram ca acaram ca carācaram; carācaram jagat carācarajagat; carācarajagataḥ nāthā carācarajagannāthā

SIGNIFICANCE Nātha is a protector as well as a ruler; traditionally She guards every being, moving or still, as Her own.

245 चक्रराजनिकेतना cakra-rāja-niketanā

She whose abode is the king of cakras, the Śrīcakra

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (with an inner ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). Inner layer: cakra-rāja 'the king of cakras' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa; rājan becomes rāja at the end of a tatpuruṣa, Pāṇini 5.4.91 rājāhaḥsakhibhyaṣ ṭac). Outer layer: a bahuvrīhi, 'She whose abode is the king of cakras'; niketana takes the feminine -ā.

ANALYSIS चक्राणाम् राजा चक्रराजः; चक्रराजः निकेतनम् यस्याः सा चक्रराजनिकेतना

cakrāṇām rājā cakrarājaḥ; cakrarājaḥ niketanam yasyāḥ sā cakrarājaniketanā

SIGNIFICANCE The Śrīcakra is called the king of cakras; She dwells in it as in Her own palace, and in Śrīvidyā it is identical with Her body and with the body of the worshipper.

246 पार्वती pārvatī

She who is the daughter of the Mountain (Himavat)

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE As Pārvatī, daughter of Himavat, the supreme Goddess enters the Purāṇic story as the consort whom Śiva wins and who wins Śiva by austerity.

247 पद्मनयना padma-nayanā

She whose eyes are like lotuses

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (with an inner upamāna relation). 'She whose eyes are like lotuses': padma is the standard of comparison for nayana, and the whole is a bahuvrīhi; nayana takes the feminine -ā. Juxtaposition.

ANALYSIS पद्मे इव नयने यस्याः सा पद्मनयना

padme iva nayane yasyāḥ sā padmanayanā

SIGNIFICANCE Lotus eyes are long, soft and wide open; traditionally they are also eyes that look on all with compassion.

248 पद्मरागसमप्रभा padma-rāga-sama-prabhā

She whose radiance equals that of the ruby

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (over an inner bahuvrīhi and tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa). (1) padma-rāga 'lotus-hued', the ruby (a bahuvrīhi that has become a noun). (2) padmarāga-samā 'equal to the ruby' (tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa: words of equality govern the instrumental). (3) The whole is a bahuvrīhi: 'She whose radiance is equal to that of the ruby'; sama takes the masculine stem before prabhā (puṃvadbhāva).

ANALYSIS पद्मस्य इव रागः यस्य सः पद्मरागः; पद्मरागेण समा पद्मरागसमा; पद्मरागसमा प्रभा यस्याः सा पद्मरागसमप्रभा

padmasya iva rāgaḥ yasya saḥ padmarāgaḥ; padmarāgeṇa samā padmarāgasamā; padmarāgasamā prabhā yasyāḥ sā padmarāgasamaprabhā

SIGNIFICANCE The ruby-red continues the crimson of Her form (names 6 and 12); in Śrīvidyā the red is the color of compassion and of vimarśa, Her self-awareness.

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Names 249–250 pair the five Brahmās (Brahmā, Viṣṇu, Rudra, Īśvara, Sadāśiva): lifeless as Her seat, alive as Her form. Names 251–253 then name Her as consciousness and bliss.

THE NAMES

249 पञ्चप्रेतासनासीना pañca-pretāsanāsīnā

She who sits on the seat formed by the five corpses

SANDHI प्रेतासन = प्रेत + आसन (preta + āsana) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a/ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ); आसनासीना = आसन + आसीना (āsana + āsīnā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a/ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND saptamī-tatpuruṣa (over an inner karmadhāraya of identification and a numeral compound). (1) pañca-preta 'the five pretas' (numeral compound). (2) pañcapreta-āsana 'the seat that is the five pretas', a karmadhāraya of identification: the five are themselves the seat. (3) The participle āsīnā 'seated' is the head and takes the seat in the locative: 'seated on the seat of the five pretas'.

She whose own form is the five Brahmās

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa (with an inner numeral compound), followed by the possessive suffix -in. (1) pañca-brahma 'the five Brahmās' (numeral compound; brahman drops its final n, 8.2.7). (2) ...brahma-svarūpa 'the own form of the five Brahmās' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (3) The possessive suffix -in, feminine -inī: 'She who has the own form of the five Brahmās', i.e. who is their very nature. Juxtaposition throughout.

ANALYSIS पञ्च ब्रह्माणः पञ्चब्रह्माणः; पञ्चब्रह्मणाम् स्वरूपम् पञ्चब्रह्मस्वरूपम्; तत् अस्याः अस्ति इति पञ्चब्रह्मस्वरूपिणी

pañca brahmāṇaḥ pañcabrahmāṇaḥ; pañcabrahmaṇām svarūpam pañcabrahmasvarūpam; tat asyāḥ asti iti pañcabrahmasvarūpiṇī

SIGNIFICANCE The same five gods who are Her lifeless seat in name 249 are, as active powers, nothing but Her own form: they act only as She acts through them.

CORRECTED पञ्चब्रह्मस्वरुपिणी → पञ्चब्रह्मस्वरूपिणी. स्वरुपिणी → स्वरूपिणी (svarūpa: long ū).

251 चिन्मयी cin-mayī

She who is consciousness itself

SANDHI चिन्मयी = चित् + मयी (cit + mayī) — a stop becomes the nasal of its class before a nasal: t → n (Pāṇini 8.4.45 yaro 'nunāsike 'nunāsiko vā)

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE She does not have consciousness as a quality; She consists of it, as Vedānta says of Brahman.

---

252 परमानन्दा paramānandā

She who is supreme bliss

SANDHI परमानन्दा = परम + आनन्दा (parama + ānandā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a/ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (with an inner karmadhāraya). Inner layer: parama 'supreme' qualifies ānanda 'bliss' (karmadhāraya). Applied to Her it takes the feminine -ā, as a bahuvrīhi: 'She whose very nature is supreme bliss'.

ANALYSIS परमः आनन्दः परमानन्दः; परमानन्दः स्वरूपम् यस्याः सा परमानन्दा

paramaḥ ānandaḥ paramānandaḥ; paramānandaḥ svarūpam yasyāḥ sā paramānandā

SIGNIFICANCE The Taittirīya Upaniṣad (3.6) teaches that Brahman is bliss, from which all beings arise; She is that bliss.

---

253 विज्ञानघनरूपिणी vijñāna-ghana-rūpiṇī

She whose form is a solid mass of pure consciousness

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND karmadhāraya (over an inner tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa), followed by the possessive suffix -in. (1) vijñāna-ghana 'dense with consciousness alone', a solid mass of consciousness (tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa). (2) It qualifies rūpa 'form' (karmadhāraya). (3) The possessive suffix -in, feminine -inī: 'She who has a form that is a mass of consciousness'.

ANALYSIS विज्ञानेन घनः विज्ञानघनः; विज्ञानघनम् रूपम् विज्ञानघनरूपम्; तत् अस्याः अस्ति इति विज्ञानघनरूपिणी

vijñānena ghanaḥ vijñānaghanaḥ; vijñānaghanam rūpam vijñānaghanarūpam; tat asyāḥ asti iti vijñānaghanarūpiṇī

SIGNIFICANCE The Bṛhadāraṇyaka Upaniṣad (2.4.12) calls the Self 'vijñānaghana eva', nothing but a mass of consciousness, like a lump of salt that is salty through and through.

रूपा rūpā	form rūpa, with the feminine -ā

255 धर्माधर्मविवर्जिता dharmādharma-vivarjitā

धर्म dharma	virtue, merit, right action
अधर्म adharma	vice, demerit a- 'not' + dharma
विवर्जिता vivarjitā	wholly free from, untouched by vi + √vṛj, causative past participle, feminine

256 विश्वरूपा viśva-rūpā

विश्व viśva	the universe, all; also Viśva, the waking self of the Māṇḍūkya Upaniṣad
रूपा rūpā	form rūpa, with the feminine -ā

257 जागरिणी jāgariṇī

जागरिणी jāgariṇī	wakeful, she who is awake jāgara 'waking' (√jāgṛ) + the possessive suffix -in, feminine -inī

258 स्वपन्ती svapantī

स्वपन्ती svapantī	sleeping, dreaming √svap 'to sleep', present participle, feminine

259 तैजसात्मिका taijasātmikā

तैजस taijasa	Taijasa, 'the luminous one': the self in the dream state taddhita from tejas 'light'

SANSKRIT	ENGLISH
आत्मिका ātmikā	whose self or nature is ātman + -ka, feminine

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Names 256–263 follow the states of the self in the Māṇḍūkya Upaniṣad: waking (Viśva), dream (Taijasa), deep sleep (Prājña), the Fourth (turya) and beyond all states.

THE NAMES

254 ध्यानध्यातृध्येयरूपा dhyāna-dhyātṛ-dhyeya-rūpā

She whose form is meditation, the meditator and the object of meditation

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (with an inner itaretara-dvandva). Inner layer: a dvandva of three derivatives of √dhyai 'to meditate' — dhyāna 'meditation', dhyātṛ 'meditator', dhyeya 'what is to be meditated upon'. Outer layer: a bahuvrīhi, 'She whose form is these three'; rūpa takes the feminine -ā. Juxtaposition throughout.

ANALYSIS ध्यानम् च ध्याता च ध्येयम् च ध्यानध्यातृध्येयानि; ध्यानध्यातृध्येयानि रूपम् यस्याः सा ध्यानध्यातृध्येयरूपा

dhyānam ca dhyātā ca dhyeyam ca dhyānadhyātṛdhyeyāni; dhyānadhyātṛdhyeyāni rūpam yasyāḥ sā dhyānadhyātṛdhyeyarūpā

SIGNIFICANCE The triad of knower, knowing and known (tripuṭī) is all Her; when it is seen as one, meditation reaches its end.

255 धर्माधर्मविवर्जिता dharmādharma-vivarjitā

She who is devoid of (who transcends) both virtue and vice

SANDHI धर्माधर्म = धर्म + अधर्म (dharma + adharma) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a/ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa (with an inner itaretara-dvandva). Inner layer: dharma 'merit, virtue' and adharma 'demerit' form a dvandva. Outer layer: the participle vivarjitā 'wholly free from' is the head and takes the pair in the instrumental.

ANALYSIS धर्मः च अधर्मः च धर्माधर्मौ; धर्माधर्माभ्याम् विवर्जिता धर्माधर्मविवर्जिता

dharmaḥ ca adharmaḥ ca dharmādharmau; dharmādharmābhyām vivarjitā dharmādharmavivarjitā

SIGNIFICANCE Merit and demerit bind only one who acts as a separate agent; the Kaṭha Upaniṣad speaks of That which is other than dharma and other than adharma.

256 विश्वरूपा viśva-rūpā

She who has the whole universe as Her form

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi. 'She whose form is the universe'; rūpa takes the feminine -ā. Juxtaposition. In this sequence the name can also be read 'She who has the form of Viśva', the self of the waking state.

ANALYSIS विश्वम् रूपम् यस्याः सा विश्वरूपा

viśvam rūpam yasyāḥ sā viśvarūpā

SIGNIFICANCE Names 256–263 follow the states of the self in the Māṇḍūkya Upaniṣad; here She is the universe, and also Viśva, the self as experiencer of the waking world.

> CORRECTED विश्वरुपा → विश्वरूपा. विश्वरुपा → विश्वरूपा (rūpa: long ū).

257 जागरिणी jāgariṇī

She who is in the waking state, or She who assumes the form of the jīva who is in the waking state

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally She is both the waking state itself and the individual (jīva) who experiences it.

---

258 स्वपन्ती svapantī

She who is in the dream state, or She who assumes the form of the jīva in the dream state

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE As dreamer She creates and enjoys a world of Her own making, a picture of how the whole universe is Her projection.

UNCERTAIN By Pāṇini (7.1.80–81) the feminine participle of the class-2 root svap (svapiti) would be svapatī; svapantī follows the thematic inflection (svapati) found in epic usage. The text reads svapantī and the metre is the same either way.

259 तैजसात्मिका taijasātmikā

She whose self is Taijasa, the dreaming self

SANDHI तैजसात्मिका = तैजस + आत्मिका (taijasa + ātmikā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a/ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi. 'She whose self is Taijasa'; ātman takes the suffix -ka and the feminine -ikā (a → i, Pāṇini 7.3.44).

ANALYSIS तैजसः आत्मा यस्याः सा तैजसात्मिका

taijasaḥ ātmā yasyāḥ sā taijasātmikā

SIGNIFICANCE The Māṇḍūkya Upaniṣad names the dreaming self Taijasa, 'the luminous', because in dream it is lit by its own light; it is identified with the subtle body.

TRANSLATION

260 She who is in the deep-sleep state or assumes the form of the jīva experiencing deep sleep; 261 She whose self is Prājña, the self in deep sleep; 262 She who is the Fourth (turya), the state beyond waking, dream and deep sleep; 263 She who transcends all states; 264 She who is the creator; 265 She who has the form of Brahmā, the creator; 266 She who protects; 267 She who has assumed the form of Govinda (Viṣṇu) for the preservation of the universe.

WORD BY WORD

260 सुप्ता suptā
सुप्ता suptā	asleep, in deep sleep √svap 'to sleep', past participle, feminine

SANSKRIT	ENGLISH
261 प्राज्ञात्मिका prājñātmikā
प्राज्ञ prājña	Prājña, 'the knower': the self in deep sleep taddhita from prajñā 'knowledge'
आत्मिका ātmikā	whose self or nature is ātman + -ka, feminine
262 तुर्या turyā
तुर्या turyā	the fourth turya = turīya 'fourth', from catur 'four', feminine
263 सर्वावस्थाविवर्जिता sarvāvasthā-vivarjitā
सर्व sarva	all
अवस्था avasthā	state, condition ava + √sthā 'to stand'
विवर्जिता vivarjitā	wholly free from vi + √vṛj, causative past participle, feminine
264 सृष्टिकर्त्री sṛṣṭi-kartrī
सृष्टि sṛṣṭi	creation, emission √sṛj 'to emit, create'

265 ब्रह्मरूपा brahma-rūpā
ब्रह्मन् brahman	Brahmā, the creator (masculine); also Brahman, the Absolute (neuter) appears as brahma- (final n dropped)

SANSKRIT	ENGLISH
रूपा rūpā	form rūpa, with the feminine -ā

266 गोप्त्री goptrī

गोप्त्री goptrī	protectress, guardian √gup 'to protect' + the agent suffix -tṛ, feminine -trī

267 गोविन्दरूपिणी govinda-rūpiṇī

गोविन्द govinda	Govinda, a name of Viṣṇu (traditionally 'finder of cows' or 'he who is known through speech')
रूपिणी rūpiṇī	having the form of rūpa + -in, feminine

Names 264–274 set out the five cosmic acts with their deities: creation (Brahmā), protection (Govinda), dissolution (Rudra), concealment (Īśvara) and grace (Sadāśiva).

THE NAMES

260 सुप्ता suptā

She who is in the deep-sleep state or assumes the form of the jīva experiencing deep sleep

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE In deep sleep all distinctions rest in Her, as the world rests in Her at dissolution.

261 प्राज्ञात्मिका prājñātmikā

She whose self is Prājña, the self in deep sleep

SANDHI प्राज्ञात्मिका = प्राज्ञ + आत्मिका (prājña + ātmikā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a/ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi. 'She whose self is Prājña'; ātman takes -ka and the feminine -ikā, as in name 259.

ANALYSIS प्राज्ञः आत्मा यस्याः सा प्राज्ञात्मिका

prājñaḥ ātmā yasyāḥ sā prājñātmikā

SIGNIFICANCE The Māṇḍūkya Upaniṣad calls the self in deep sleep Prājña, a mass of knowing made of bliss; it is identified with the causal body.

---

262 तुर्या turyā

She who is the Fourth (turya), the state beyond waking, dream and deep sleep

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE The Māṇḍūkya Upaniṣad calls the Self beyond the three states 'the fourth': not a further state but the witness present in all three.

---

263 सर्वावस्थाविवर्जिता sarvāvasthā-vivarjitā

She who transcends all states

SANDHI सर्वावस्था = सर्व + अवस्था (sarva + avasthā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a/ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa (with an inner karmadhāraya). Inner layer: sarva-avasthā 'all states' (karmadhāraya). Outer layer: vivarjitā 'wholly free from' is the head and takes the states in the instrumental.

ANALYSIS सर्वाः अवस्थाः सर्वावस्थाः; सर्वावस्थाभिः विवर्जिता सर्वावस्थाविवर्जिता

sarvāḥ avasthāḥ sarvāvasthāḥ; sarvāvasthābhiḥ vivarjitā sarvāvasthāvivarjitā

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally this is the state beyond even the fourth (turyātīta): She is not touched by any state, the fourth included.

---

264 सृष्टिकर्त्री sṛṣṭi-kartrī

She who is the creator

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa. kartrī 'maker', the feminine of the agent noun kartṛ, is the head and sṛṣṭi 'creation' stands to it in the genitive: 'the maker of creation'. Juxtaposition.

ANALYSIS सृष्टेः कर्त्री सृष्टिकर्त्री

sṛṣṭeḥ kartrī sṛṣṭikartrī

SIGNIFICANCE Names 264–274 set out the five cosmic acts — creation, protection, dissolution, concealment and grace — each with its presiding deity; here She creates, as Brahmā (name 265).

> UNCERTAIN Pāṇini 2.2.15 restricts compounding a genitive with an agent noun in -tṛ; compounds like sṛṣṭi-kartṛ are nevertheless standard in usage and are usually explained as a general genitive (śeṣa-ṣaṣṭhī).

265 ब्रह्मरूपा brahma-rūpā

She who has the form of Brahmā, the creator

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi. 'She whose form is Brahmā'; brahman drops its final n in composition and rūpa takes the feminine -ā. Juxtaposition.

ANALYSIS ब्रह्मा रूपम् यस्याः सा ब्रह्मरूपा

brahmā rūpam yasyāḥ sā brahmarūpā

SIGNIFICANCE In the sequence of cosmic acts She creates as Brahmā; read with the neuter brahman, the name also says She is the Absolute itself.

---

266 गोप्त्री goptrī

She who protects

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE The second of the cosmic acts, protection or maintenance (sthiti), which She performs as Govinda (name 267).

---

267 गोविन्दरूपिणी govinda-rūpiṇī

She who has assumed the form of Govinda (Viṣṇu) for the preservation of the universe

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa, followed by the possessive suffix -in. govinda-rūpa 'the form of Govinda' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa), with the possessive suffix -in, feminine -inī: 'She who has the form of Govinda'. Juxtaposition.

ANALYSIS गोविन्दस्य रूपम् गोविन्दरूपम्; तत् अस्याः अस्ति इति गोविन्दरूपिणी

govindasya rūpam govindarūpam; tat asyāḥ asti iti govindarūpiṇī

SIGNIFICANCE As Viṣṇu She sustains the worlds; the gods of the five acts are Her forms, not powers beside Her.

TRANSLATION

[268] She who is the destroyer of the universe; [269] She who has assumed the form of Rudra (Śiva) for the dissolution of the universe; [270] She who brings about concealment (tirodhāna); [271] She who is the Sovereign, Īśvarī;

[272] She who is Sadāśiva, the ever-auspicious; [273] She who confers blessing; [274] She who is devoted to the five functions (creation, preservation, dissolution, concealment and grace).

WORD BY WORD

SANSKRIT	ENGLISH
268 संहारिणी saṃhāriṇī
सम् sam	together, completely (prefix) appears as saṃ- before h
हारिणी hāriṇī	she who takes away, withdraws √hṛ 'to take' + the agent suffix -in, feminine -inī

269 रुद्ररूपा rudra-rūpā
रुद्र rudra	Rudra, Śiva as the lord of dissolution
रूपा rūpā	form rūpa, with the feminine -ā
270 तिरोधानकरी tirodhāna-karī
तिरस् tiras	out of sight, hidden (indeclinable) appears as tiro- before dh
धान dhāna	placing, putting √dhā 'to put'
करी karī	she who makes, causes √kṛ + -a, feminine -ī
271 ईश्वरी īśvarī
ईश्वरी īśvarī	sovereign, ruling lady feminine of īśvara, from √īś 'to rule'
272 सदाशिवा sadā-śivā
सदा sadā	always, ever (indeclinable)
शिवा śivā	auspicious, benign; the consort of Śiva feminine of śiva
273 अनुग्रहदा anugraha-dā
अनुग्रह anugraha	grace, favor, blessing (lit. 'taking hold of after') anu + √grah 'to seize'
दा dā	giving, bestowing √dā 'to give', feminine

SANSKRIT	ENGLISH

274 पञ्चकृत्यपरायणा pañca-kṛtya-parāyaṇā

पञ्चन् pañcan	five appears as pañca- (final n dropped, Pāṇini 8.2.7)
कृत्य kṛtya	act, function √kṛ + the gerundive suffix -ya: 'what is to be done'
परायणा parāyaṇā	wholly devoted to, intent on para 'highest' + ayana 'goal, resort', feminine

तिरोधानकरीश्वरी = तिरोधानकरी + ईश्वरी (tirodhānakarī + īśvarī) — savarṇa-dīrgha: ī + ī → ī (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

सदाशिवाऽनुग्रहदा = सदाशिवा + अनुग्रहदा (sadāśivā + anugrahadā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: ā + a → ā; the avagraha (ऽ) marks the a absorbed at the start of the next name

Bhāskararāya's division reads tirodhānakarīśvarī as two names, tirodhānakarī (270) and īśvarī (271): the long ī belongs to both. Likewise sadāśivā'nugrahadā is sadāśivā (272) + anugrahadā (273), the avagraha showing the elided a.

THE NAMES

268 संहारिणी saṃhāriṇī

She who is the destroyer of the universe

SANDHI संहारिणी = सम् + हारिणी (sam + hāriṇī) — the final m of the prefix sam becomes anusvāra before a consonant (Pāṇini 8.3.23 mo 'nusvāraḥ)

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE Saṃhāra is a 'drawing together': at dissolution She withdraws the worlds into Herself as a tortoise draws in its limbs.

269 रुद्ररूपा rudra-rūpā

She who has assumed the form of Rudra (Śiva) for the dissolution of the universe

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi. 'She whose form is Rudra'; rūpa takes the feminine -ā. Juxtaposition.

ANALYSIS रुद्रः रूपम् यस्याः सा रुद्ररूपा

rudraḥ rūpam yasyāḥ sā rudrarūpā

SIGNIFICANCE Dissolution, the third cosmic act, She performs as Rudra.

---

270 तिरोधानकरी tirodhāna-karī

She who brings about concealment (tirodhāna)

SANDHI तिरोधान = तिरस् + धान (tiras + dhāna) — the s of tiras becomes u before a voiced consonant and combines with the preceding a as o (Pāṇini 6.1.114 haśi ca; 6.1.87 ād guṇaḥ)

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa. -karī 'making, causing' (√kṛ with the suffix -a, feminine -ī) is the head and takes tirodhāna 'concealment' as its object. Tirodhāna itself is tiras 'out of sight' + dhāna 'placing', i.e. hiding from view.

ANALYSIS तिरोधानम् करोति इति तिरोधानकरी

tirodhānam karoti iti tirodhānakarī

SIGNIFICANCE Concealment, the fourth cosmic act, is the veiling by which She hides Her own nature so that the play of the world can go on; it is performed as Īśvara (name 271).

---

271 ईश्वरी īśvarī

She who is the Sovereign, Īśvarī

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE In the sequence of the five acts She is the power of Īśvara, the deity of concealment; read on its own, the name makes Her ruler of all.

---

272 सदाशिवा sadā-śivā

She who is Sadāśiva, the ever-auspicious

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND karmadhāraya (supsupā). The indeclinable sadā 'always' qualifies śivā 'auspicious, benign', the head: 'ever auspicious'. As a name it is the feminine of Sadāśiva, the deity of the fifth act. Juxtaposition.

ANALYSIS सदा शिवा सदाशिवा

sadā śivā sadāśivā

SIGNIFICANCE Sadāśiva is the deity of grace (anugraha), the fifth act, named in the next name.

---

273 अनुग्रहदा anugraha-dā

She who confers blessing

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa. -dā 'giving' (√dā with the suffix -a, feminine -ā) is the head and takes anugraha 'grace' as its object.

ANALYSIS अनुग्रहम् ददाति इति अनुग्रहदा

anugraham dadāti iti anugrahadā

SIGNIFICANCE Grace (anugraha) is the fifth cosmic act, which ends concealment and reveals the Self; it is the act by which She frees.

---

274 पञ्चकृत्यपरायणा pañca-kṛtya-parāyaṇā

She who is devoted to the five functions (creation, preservation, dissolution, concealment and grace)

SANDHI परायणा = पर + अयना (para + ayanā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a/ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ); the n of ayana then becomes ṇ after the r of para (retroflexion)

COMPOUND saptamī-tatpuruṣa (with an inner numeral compound). (1) pañca-kṛtya 'the five acts' (numeral compound). (2) parāyaṇā 'wholly given to, intent on' — itself para 'highest' + ayana 'goal', 'having as highest goal' — is the head and takes the acts in the locative.

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Name 277 Bhagamālinī is also the second of the fifteen Nityā goddesses; names 277 and 279 both turn on bhaga, the six divine excellences.

THE NAMES

275 भानुमण्डलमध्यस्था bhānu-maṇḍala-madhya-sthā

She who abides at the center of the sun's disc

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa (over inner ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣas). (1) bhānu-maṇḍala 'the disc of the sun' and (2) …maṇḍala-madhya 'its center' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣas). (3) -sthā 'standing, abiding' (√sthā + -a, Pāṇini 3.2.4 supi sthaḥ) is the head and takes the center as its place.

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally She is meditated upon in the sun's orb at the twilight worship (sandhyā), as the light within the light; compare name 240, the moon's disc.

276 भैरवी bhairavī

She who is the wife of Bhairava (Śiva)

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE Bhairavī is also the Goddess in Her own awe-inspiring form, worshipped as Tripurabhairavī among the great Wisdom Goddesses.

---

277 भगमालिनी bhaga-mālinī

She who wears a garland made of the six excellences (of auspiciousness, supremacy, fame, valor, detachment and knowledge)

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa, followed by the possessive suffix -in. bhaga-mālā 'a garland of excellences' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa), with the possessive suffix -in, feminine -inī: 'She who has (wears) a garland of excellences'. Juxtaposition.

ANALYSIS भगानाम् माला भगमाला; सा अस्याः अस्ति इति भगमालिनी

bhagānām mālā bhagamālā; sā asyāḥ asti iti bhagamālinī

SIGNIFICANCE The Viṣṇu Purāṇa defines bhaga as the six excellences — sovereignty, valor, fame, prosperity, knowledge and dispassion. Bhagamālinī is also the second of the fifteen Nityā goddesses of the Śrīcakra.

278 पद्मासना padmāsanā

She who is seated in the lotus flower

SANDHI पद्मासना = पद्म + आसना (padma + āsanā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a/ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi. 'She whose seat is a lotus'; āsana takes the feminine -ā.

ANALYSIS पद्मम् आसनम् यस्याः सा पद्मासना

padmam āsanam yasyāḥ sā padmāsanā

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally the lotus is also inward: She is seated in the lotuses (cakras) of the body, and in the thousand-petalled lotus above them.

---

279 भगवती bhagavatī

She who is the Blessed One, possessed of all six excellences

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE The Viṣṇu Purāṇa calls Bhagavān the one who has the six excellences, and the one who knows the arising and dissolution of beings, their coming and going, knowledge and ignorance; She is Bhagavatī in that full sense.

280 पद्मनाभसहोदरी padma-nābha-sahodarī

She who is the sister of Padmanābha (Viṣṇu)

SANDHI सहोदरी = सह + उदरी (saha + udarī) — guṇa: a + u → o (Pāṇini 6.1.87 ād guṇaḥ)

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa (over an inner bahuvrīhi). Inner layer: padma-nābha 'He in whose navel is a lotus', Viṣṇu (bahuvrīhi; nābhi 'navel' takes the form nābha at the end of the compound). Outer layer: sahodarī 'sister' (lit. 'of the same womb') is the head and takes Him in the genitive.

ANALYSIS पद्मम् नाभौ यस्य सः पद्मनाभः; पद्मनाभस्य सहोदरी पद्मनाभसहोदरी

padmam nābhau yasya saḥ padmanābhaḥ; padmanābhasya sahodarī padmanābhasahodarī

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally Pārvatī is Viṣṇu's sister; in Śrīvidyā the two are one power, appearing as Viṣṇu in male form and as the Goddess in female form.

284 सहस्रपात् sahasra-pāt

सहस्र sahasra	a thousand
पात् pāt	foot pāda 'foot' as pād in the bahuvrīhi; nominative pāt

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Name 281 fills the whole first half; names 282–284 echo the Puruṣa-sūkta ('sahasraśīrṣā puruṣaḥ sahasrākṣaḥ sahasrapāt').

THE NAMES

281 उन्मेषनिमिषोत्पन्नविपन्नभुवनावली unmeṣa-nimiṣotpanna-vipanna-bhuvanāvalī

She at the opening and closing of whose eyes whole rows of worlds arise and perish

SANDHI उन्मेष = उत् + मेष (ut + meṣa) — a stop becomes the nasal of its class before a nasal: t → n (Pāṇini 8.4.45 yaro 'nunāsike 'nunāsiko vā); निमिषोत्पन्न = निमिष + उत्पन्न (nimiṣa + utpanna) — guṇa: a + u → o (Pāṇini 6.1.87 ād guṇaḥ); भुवनावली = भुवन + आवली (bhuvana + āvalī) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a/ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (over an inner itaretara-dvandva, a karmadhāraya of two participles and a ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (1) unmeṣa-nimiṣa 'the opening and the closing (of the eyes)' (dvandva). (2) utpanna-vipanna 'arisen and perished', two participles joined as a karmadhāraya, taken in order with the dvandva: arising with the opening, perishing with the closing. (3) bhuvana-āvalī 'the row of worlds' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (4) The whole is a bahuvrīhi: 'She by whose opening and closing of the eyes rows of worlds arise and perish'.

SIGNIFICANCE Creation and dissolution cost Her no more than a blink. In Kashmir Śaivism unmeṣa and nimeṣa are also the unfolding and infolding of consciousness, by which the world appears and withdraws.

> UNCERTAIN A bahuvrīhi ending in an ī-stem like āvalī would by Pāṇini 5.4.153 normally take the suffix -ka (...āvalīkā); the name keeps -āvalī, which is common in such poetic compounds.

282 सहस्रशीर्षवदना sahasra-śīrṣa-vadanā

She who has a thousand heads and faces

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (with an inner itaretara-dvandva). Inner layer: śīrṣa-vadana 'heads and faces' (dvandva). Outer layer: a bahuvrīhi with the numeral sahasra 'a thousand': 'She who has a thousand heads and faces'; vadana takes the feminine -ā. Juxtaposition.

ANALYSIS शीर्षाणि च वदनानि च शीर्षवदनानि; सहस्रम् शीर्षवदनानि यस्याः सा सहस्रशीर्षवदना

śīrṣāṇi ca vadanāni ca śīrṣavadanāni; sahasram śīrṣavadanāni yasyāḥ sā sahasraśīrṣavadanā

SIGNIFICANCE Names 282–284 echo the Puruṣa-sūkta of the Ṛgveda — 'sahasraśīrṣā puruṣaḥ sahasrākṣaḥ sahasrapāt' — and give the cosmic Person's form to Her; 'thousand' means countless.

283 सहस्राक्षी sahasrākṣī

She who has a thousand eyes

SANDHI सहस्राक्षी = सहस्र + अक्षी (sahasra + akṣī) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a/ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi. 'She who has a thousand eyes'. In a bahuvrīhi akṣi 'eye' takes the suffix -a (ṣac, Pāṇini 5.4.113), giving -akṣa, and the feminine is -ākṣī (4.1.41).

ANALYSIS सहस्रम् अक्षीणि यस्याः सा सहस्राक्षी

sahasram akṣīṇi yasyāḥ sā sahasrākṣī

SIGNIFICANCE Her eyes are everywhere: nothing happens unseen by Her.

---

284 सहस्रपात् sahasra-pāt

She who has a thousand feet

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi. 'She who has a thousand feet'. After a numeral, pāda loses its final a in a bahuvrīhi (Pāṇini 5.4.140) and becomes pād, whose nominative is pāt; the bahuvrīhi may keep this form in the feminine (4.1.8 pādo 'nyatarasyām).

ANALYSIS सहस्रम् पादाः यस्याः सा सहस्रपात्

sahasram pādāḥ yasyāḥ sā sahasrapāt

SIGNIFICANCE With the Puruṣa-sūkta's thousand feet She stands in every place at once.

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Name 285: ābrahma-kīṭa is 'from Brahmā down to the worm', the indeclinable ā + brahma, not a word ābrahma.

THE NAMES

285 आब्रह्मकीटजननी ābrahma-kīṭa-jananī

She who is the mother of everything from Brahmā to the lowliest insect

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa (with an inner avyayībhāva). Inner layer: ā-brahma-kīṭa 'from Brahmā down to the worm', an avyayībhāva with the indeclinable ā 'up to, including' (Pāṇini 2.1.13 āṅ maryādābhividhyoḥ), naming every being between the two limits. Outer layer: jananī 'mother' is the head, with all those beings in the genitive. brahman drops its final n in composition.

286 वर्णाश्रमविधायिनी varṇāśrama-vidhāyinī

She who ordains the order of the classes and the stages of life

SANDHI वर्णाश्रम = वर्ण + आश्रम (varṇa + āśrama) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a/ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa (with an inner itaretara-dvandva). Inner layer: varṇa-āśrama 'the classes and the stages of life' (dvandva). Outer layer: vidhāyinī 'she who ordains' (vi + √dhā with the agent suffix -in, y inserted after the ā, feminine -inī) is the head and takes them in the genitive.

varṇāḥ ca āśramāḥ ca varṇāśramāḥ; varṇāśramāṇām vidhāyinī varṇāśramavidhāyinī

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally the order of duties belongs to Her because the Vedas that teach it are Her command (name 287).

> CORRECTED वर्णाश्रमविधायिनि → वर्णाश्रमविधायिनी. विधायिनि → विधायिनी: the nominative feminine ends in long ī (-inī).

287 निजाज्ञारूपनिगमा nijājñā-rūpa-nigamā

She whose own commands are the Vedas

SANDHI निजाज्ञा = निजा + आज्ञा (nijā + ājñā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a/ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (over an inner bahuvrīhi and karmadhāraya). (1) nija-ājñā 'Her own command' (karmadhāraya). (2) nijājñā-rūpa 'having Her own command as their form', a bahuvrīhi qualifying nigama. (3) The whole is a bahuvrīhi: 'She whose Vedas have the form of Her own command'; nigama takes the feminine -ā.

मौक्तिका mauktikā	pearl mauktika (from muktā 'pearl'), with the feminine -ā

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Each half is a single name (289, 290): the Vedas bowing to Her feet, and the scriptures as the shell that holds Her as a pearl.

289 श्रुतिसीमन्तसिन्दूरीकृतपादाब्जधूलिका śruti-sīmanta-sindūrī-kṛta-pādābja-dhūlikā

She the dust of whose lotus feet becomes the vermilion in the hair-parting of the Vedas

SANDHI सीमन्त = सीमन् + अन्त (sīman + anta) — irregular fusion: in the sense 'hair-parting' sīman (its n dropped) + anta gives sīmanta, the second vowel replacing the first (pararūpa; the śakandhu group of words); पादाब्ज = पाद + अब्ज (pāda + abja) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a/ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (over inner ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa, saptamī-tatpuruṣa and gati-compound layers). (1) śruti-sīmanta 'the hair-partings of the Vedas', the Vedas pictured as women (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (2) pāda-abja 'lotus feet' (feet like lotuses) and ...abja-dhūlikā 'the dust of those feet' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (3) sindūrī-kṛta 'made into vermilion', a cvi formation: sindūra + kṛta with a → ī, meaning 'turned into what it was not' (Pāṇini 7.4.32). (4) The whole is a bahuvrīhi: 'She the dust of whose lotus feet is made the vermilion in the hair-partings of the Vedas'.

ANALYSIS श्रुतीनाम् सीमन्ताः श्रुतिसीमन्ताः; पादौ अब्जे इव पादाब्जे; पादाब्जयोः धूलिका पादाब्जधूलिका; असिन्दूरम् सिन्दूरम् कृता सिन्दूरीकृता; श्रुतिसीमन्तेषु सिन्दूरीकृता पादाब्जधूलिका यस्याः सा श्रुतिसीमन्तसिन्दूरीकृतपादाब्जधूलिका

SIGNIFICANCE The Vedas, pictured as married women, bow their heads at Her feet so that the dust of Her feet marks their partings like the vermilion of the auspicious wife: the Upaniṣads, the crown of the Veda, rest at Her feet.

290 सकलागमसन्दोहशुक्तिसम्पुटमौक्तिका sakalāgama-sandoha-śukti-sampuṭa-mauktikā

She who is the pearl within the oyster-shell formed by all the scriptures together

SANDHI सकलागम = सकल + आगम (sakala + āgama) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a/ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ); सन्दोह = सम् + दोह (sam + doha) — m becomes anusvāra before a consonant (Pāṇini 8.3.23) and the anusvāra takes the nasal of the following stop's class, n before d (8.4.58 anusvārasya yayi parasavarṇaḥ)

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa (over inner karmadhāraya, ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa and rūpaka layers), applied to Her with the feminine -ā. (1) sakala-āgama 'all the scriptures' (karmadhāraya) and …āgama-sandoha 'their whole mass' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (2) śukti-sampuṭa 'the closed pair of oyster-valves' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (3) The mass of scripture IS that oyster-shell (a karmadhāraya of identification, rūpaka). (4) mauktika 'pearl' is the head, with the shell in the genitive: She is the pearl within; it takes the feminine -ā as applied to Her.

ANALYSIS सकलाः आगमाः सकलागमाः; सकलागमानाम् सन्दोहः सकलागमसन्दोहः; शुक्तेः सम्पुटम् शुक्तिसम्पुटम्; सकलागमसन्दोहः एव शुक्तिसम्पुटम् सकलागमसन्दोहशुक्तिसम्पुटम्; तस्य मौक्तिकम् इव सकलागमसन्दोहशुक्तिसम्पुटमौक्तिका

अम्बिकाऽनादिनिधना = अम्बिका + अनादिनिधना (ambikā + anādinidhanā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: ā + a → ā; the avagraha (ऽ) marks the a absorbed at the start of the next name

Divide ambikā (295) | anādinidhanā (296): the avagraha marks the initial a of anādi, which carries the negation.

THE NAMES

291 पुरुषार्थप्रदा puruṣārtha-pradā

She who grants the (four-fold) objects of human life

SANDHI पुरुषार्थ = पुरुष + अर्थ (puruṣa + artha) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a/ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa (with an inner ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). Inner layer: puruṣa-artha 'the aims of a person' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). Outer layer: -pradā 'giving' is the head and governs them as its object.

ANALYSIS पुरुषस्य अर्थाः पुरुषार्थाः; पुरुषार्थान् प्रददाति इति पुरुषार्थप्रदा

puruṣasya arthāḥ puruṣārthāḥ; puruṣārthān pradadāti iti puruṣārthapradā

SIGNIFICANCE The four aims are dharma (right living), artha (wealth), kāma (fulfilled desire) and mokṣa (liberation); She grants each in its place, and the last above all.

292 पूर्णा pūrṇā

She who is full and complete

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE The Upaniṣadic invocation 'pūrṇam adaḥ pūrṇam idam' describes Her: whole, and whole even when the whole is taken from Her. Traditionally She neither grows nor decays, unlike the moon.

293 भोगिनी bhoginī

She who is the enjoyer

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally all experience is finally Hers: She is the one who enjoys in every enjoyer.

294 भुवनेश्वरी bhuvaneśvarī

She who is the ruler of the universe

SANDHI भुवनेश्वरी = भुवन + ईश्वरी (bhuvana + īśvarī) — guṇa: a/ā + ī → e (Pāṇini 6.1.87 ād guṇaḥ)

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa. īśvarī 'sovereign' is the head and bhuvana 'world' stands to it in the genitive: 'the sovereign of the worlds'.

ANALYSIS भुवनानाम् ईश्वरी भुवनेश्वरी

bhuvanānām īśvarī bhuvaneśvarī

SIGNIFICANCE Bhuvaneśvarī is also the Goddess whose seed-syllable is hrīṃ (name 301), worshipped among the great Wisdom Goddesses.

295 अम्बिका ambikā

She who is the Mother, Ambikā

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE Ambikā is the Mother of all the worlds; traditionally the name is also read as the union of Her three powers of will, knowledge and action.

---

296 अनादिनिधना anādi-nidhanā

She who has neither beginning nor end

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND nañ-bahuvrīhi (over an inner itaretara-dvandva). Inner layer: ādi 'beginning' and nidhana 'end' (dvandva). Outer layer: a bahuvrīhi with the negative particle (nañ, appearing as an- before a vowel): 'She for whom beginning and end do not exist'. nidhana takes the feminine -ā.

ANALYSIS आदिः च निधनम् च आदिनिधने; न विद्येते आदिनिधने यस्याः सा अनादिनिधना

ādiḥ ca nidhanam ca ādinidhane; na vidyete ādinidhane yasyāḥ sā anādinidhanā

SIGNIFICANCE What has a beginning has an end; She has neither, because time itself arises in Her.

---

297 हरिब्रह्मेन्द्रसेविता hari-brahmendra-sevitā

She who is attended by Brahmā, Viṣṇu and Indra

SANDHI ब्रह्मेन्द्र = ब्रह्म + इन्द्र (brahma + indra) — guṇa: a + i → e (Pāṇini 6.1.87 ād guṇaḥ)

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa (with an inner itaretara-dvandva). Inner layer: hari-brahma-indra 'Hari, Brahmā and Indra' (dvandva; brahman drops its final n). Outer layer: the past participle sevitā 'served, attended' is the head and takes the gods in the instrumental.

ANALYSIS हरिः च ब्रह्मा च इन्द्रः च हरिब्रह्मेन्द्राः; हरिब्रह्मेन्द्रैः सेविता हरिब्रह्मेन्द्रसेविता

hariḥ ca brahmā ca indraḥ ca haribrahmendrāḥ; haribrahmendraiḥ sevitā haribrahmendrasevitā

SIGNIFICANCE The highest gods are Her attendants; their powers are Her gifts.

301 She who is the syllable hrīṃ; 302 She who is endowed with modesty; 303 She who abides in the heart and delights it; 304 She who has nothing to reject or accept.

WORD BY WORD

SANSKRIT	ENGLISH
298 नारायणी nārāyaṇī
नारायणी nārāyaṇī	the feminine power of Nārāyaṇa feminine of nārāyaṇa = nāra 'the waters' (or 'beings') + ayana 'resting-place'

SANSKRIT	ENGLISH
299 नादरूपा nāda-rūpā
नाद nāda	nāda, sound; in Tantra the subtle, unstruck sound from which speech unfolds √nad 'to sound'
रूपा rūpā	form rūpa, with the feminine -ā
300 नामरूपविवर्जिता nāma-rūpa-vivarjitā
नामन् nāman	name appears as nāma- (final n dropped)
रूप rūpa	form
विवर्जिता vivarjitā	wholly free from vi + √vṛj, causative past participle, feminine
301 ह्रीङ्कारी hrīṅ-kārī
ह्रीम् hrīm	hrīṃ, the seed-syllable (bīja) of the Goddess
कारी kārī	the syllable (as in oṅkāra), feminine -kāra, the suffix that names a sound, with the feminine -ī
302 ह्रीमती hrī-matī
ह्री hrī	modesty, shyness; also the syllable hrīṃ
मती matī	possessing the possessive suffix -mat, feminine -matī

303 हृद्या hṛdyā
हृद्या hṛdyā	dwelling in the heart; dear to the heart, pleasing from hṛdaya 'heart' (as hṛd-, Pāṇini 6.3.50) + the suffix -ya, feminine
304 हेयोपादेयवर्जिता heyopādeya-varjitā
हेय heya	to be abandoned, rejected √hā 'to leave' + the gerundive -ya
उपादेय upādeya	to be taken up, accepted upa + ā + √dā 'to take' + the gerundive -ya
वर्जिता varjitā	free from, devoid of √vṛj, causative past participle, feminine

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Names 301–302 open with hrī: hrīṅkārī is the seed-syllable hrīṃ, and hrīmatī can be read with it as well as 'modest'.

THE NAMES

298 नारायणी nārāyaṇī

She who is the feminine counterpart of Nārāyaṇa

SANDHI नारायण = नार + अयन (nāra + ayana) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a/ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ), inside nārāyaṇa; the n of ayana then becomes ṇ after r (retroflexion)

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE The Devī Māhātmya hymns Her with the refrain 'nārāyaṇi namo 'stu te'; as Nārāyaṇī She is Viṣṇu's own power (compare name 280).

299 नादरूपा nāda-rūpā

She who is in the form of sound

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi. 'She whose form is nāda'; rūpa takes the feminine -ā. Juxtaposition.

ANALYSIS नादः रूपम् यस्याः सा नादरूपा

nādaḥ rūpam yasyāḥ sā nādarūpā

SIGNIFICANCE In Śrīvidyā nāda is the subtle resonance that rises after the bindu in the utterance of a seed-syllable such as hrīṃ, and from which all speech and all things unfold.

---

300 नामरूपविवर्जिता nāma-rūpa-vivarjitā

She who has no name or form

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa (with an inner itaretara-dvandva). Inner layer: nāma-rūpa 'name and form' (dvandva; nāman drops its final n). Outer layer: vivarjitā 'wholly free from' is the head and takes them in the instrumental.

ANALYSIS नाम च रूपम् च नामरूपे; नामरूपाभ्याम् विवर्जिता नामरूपविवर्जिता

nāma ca rūpam ca nāmarūpe; nāmarūpābhyām vivarjitā nāmarūpavivarjitā

SIGNIFICANCE In the Chāndogya Upaniṣad (6.3) Being enters the world to unfold name and form; She is that Being, Herself untouched by name and form — even as She bears a thousand names.

301 ह्रीङ्कारी hrīṅ-kārī

She who is the syllable hrīṃ

SANDHI ह्रीङ्कारी = ह्रीम् + कारी (hrīm + kārī) — m becomes the nasal of the following stop's class, ṅ before k (via anusvāra, Pāṇini 8.3.23 and 8.4.58)

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE Hrīṃ, the māyā-bīja or Bhuvaneśvarī-bīja, closes each of the three sections of Her fifteen-syllabled mantra; the name can also be read 'She who makes the syllable hrīṃ'.

---

302 ह्रीमती hrī-matī

She who is endowed with modesty

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally modesty here is the reserve of the noble; the name can also be read 'She who possesses the syllable hrīṃ', continuing name 301.

---

303 हृद्या hṛdyā

She who abides in the heart and delights it

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE She is found in the heart of the devotee, and is what the heart finds dearest.

> UNCERTAIN Two derivations are current: 'dear to the heart' (4.4.95) and 'being in the heart'; the meaning gives both.

304 हेयोपादेयवर्जिता heyopādeya-varjitā

She who has nothing to reject or accept

SANDHI हेयोपादेय = हेय + उपादेय (heya + upādeya) — guṇa: a + u → o (Pāṇini 6.1.87 ād guṇaḥ); उपादेय = उप + आदेय (upa + ādeya) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a/ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ), inside the prefixed word upādeya

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa (with an inner itaretara-dvandva). Inner layer: heya 'what is to be given up' and upādeya 'what is to be taken up' (dvandva of two gerundives). Outer layer: varjitā 'free from' is the head and takes the pair in the instrumental: for Her there is nothing to reject and nothing to accept.

ANALYSIS हेयम् च उपादेयम् च हेयोपादेये; हेयोपादेयाभ्याम् वर्जिता हेयोपादेयवर्जिता

heyam ca upādeyam ca heyopādeye; heyopādeyābhyām varjitā heyopādeyavarjitā

SIGNIFICANCE Since all is Her own self, nothing can be shunned or sought; the seeker's discipline of rejecting and accepting ends in Her.

311 रस्या rasyā

रस्या rasyā	to be relished; full of flavor and delight from rasa 'taste, essence, delight' (or √ras) with the suffix -ya, feminine

312 रणत्किङ्किणिमेखला raṇat-kiṅkiṇi-mekhalā

रणत् raṇat	tinkling, jingling √raṇ 'to sound, ring', present participle
किङ्किणि kiṅkiṇi	small bell kiṅkiṇī, also kiṅkiṇi; worn on girdles and anklets
मेखला mekhalā	girdle, waist-band

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Names 305–320 (to the end of śloka 72) all begin with ra/rā; the next ślokas group names by initial sound in the same way: k in 73–74 (except 325 jagatīkandā), v in 74–75 and 77, kṣ in 76, t in 79. Name 305 divides rāja-rāja + arcitā ('worshipped by the king of kings').

THE NAMES

305 राजराजार्चिता rāja-rājārcitā

She who is worshipped by the King of kings

SANDHI राजार्चिता = राज + अर्चिता (rāja + arcitā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa (with an inner ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). Inner layer: rājñām rājā 'the king of kings' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). The first rājan loses its n in composition (Pāṇini 8.2.7 nalopaḥ prātipadikāntasya); the second, as the final of a tatpuruṣa, takes the samāsānta suffix ṭac (5.4.91 rājāhaḥsakhibhyaṣ ṭac), so the stem is rājarāja. Outer layer: the participle arcitā 'worshipped' is the head, and the king of kings stands to it in the instrumental as the agent.

ANALYSIS राज्ञाम् राजा राजराजः; राजराजेन अर्चिता राजराजार्चिता

rājñām rājā rājarājaḥ; rājarājena arcitā rājarājārcitā

SIGNIFICANCE Rājarāja 'king of kings' is a standard name of Kubera, lord of wealth (so the Amarakośa), and Kubera is counted traditionally among the great worshippers of Śrīvidyā. The name also implies that every sovereign's power is received from Her.

306 राज्ञी rājñī

She who is the Queen

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally read with the previous name: She is the consort of the King of kings, Śiva as Kāmeśvara, and the ruling queen in Her own right.

307 रम्या ramyā

She who is lovely and delightful

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally, all that delights the mind delights because of Her; She is the one whose beauty draws the devotee.

308 राजीवलोचना rājīva-locanā

She whose eyes are like lotuses

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi of comparison. The two members stand in a comparison: rājīva 'lotus' is the standard of comparison (upamāna) and locana 'eye' what is compared. The whole describes Her as a bahuvrīhi, 'She whose eyes are (like) lotuses'; locana takes the feminine -ā.

ANALYSIS राजीवे इव लोचने यस्याः सा राजीवलोचना

rājīve iva locane yasyāḥ sā rājīvalocanā

SIGNIFICANCE The lotus-eye is the classical image of beauty and tenderness; traditionally Her glance is said to bless as a lotus opens to the sun.

309 रञ्जनी rañjanī

She who delights the mind

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE The root rañj means both 'to color' and 'to delight'. Traditionally it is said that Her crimson radiance tints even the white Śiva, and that She colors the mind with joy.

UNCERTAIN The root allows two senses, 'one who colors (reddens)' and 'one who delights'; the meaning gives the second, the significance the first.

310 रमणी ramaṇī

She who gives joy

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE Ramaṇī is also an ordinary word for a beautiful woman; traditionally She is the one who delights in Her play of creation and makes Her devotees rejoice.

311 रस्या rasyā

She who is to be relished, the essence of all delight

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE The Taittirīya Upaniṣad says of the Real, raso vai saḥ, 'It is rasa itself; having gained rasa one becomes blissful'. She is that essence, the delight that is tasted in every delight.

312 रणत्किङ्किणिमेखला raṇat-kiṅkiṇi-mekhalā

She who wears a girdle of tinkling bells

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (over a karmadhāraya with a dropped middle member and an inner karmadhāraya). (1) raṇat-kiṅkiṇi 'tinkling bells': the present participle raṇat qualifies kiṅkiṇi (karmadhāraya). (2) …kiṅkiṇi-mekhalā 'a girdle set with tinkling bells': a karmadhāraya whose middle word 'yukta, furnished with' is understood (madhyamapadalopin). (3) The whole is a bahuvrīhi describing Her: 'She whose girdle has tinkling bells'.

ANALYSIS रणन्त्यः किङ्किण्यः रणत्किङ्किण्यः; रणत्किङ्किणीभिः युक्ता मेखला रणत्किङ्किणिमेखला; रणत्किङ्किणिमेखला यस्याः सा रणत्किङ्किणिमेखला

raṇantyaḥ kiṅkiṇyaḥ raṇatkiṅkiṇyaḥ; raṇatkiṅkiṇībhiḥ yuktā mekhalā raṇatkiṅkiṇimekhalā; raṇatkiṅkiṇimekhalā yasyāḥ sā raṇatkiṅkiṇimekhalā

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally the soft sound of the bells announces Her presence; the girdle belongs to the description of Her form.

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Name 313 ramā is a name of Lakṣmī; 319 rāmā (long first ā) is a different word, 'delightful woman'.

THE NAMES

313 रमा ramā

She who is Ramā (Lakṣmī)

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE Ramā, 'she who delights', is a standard name of Lakṣmī, goddess of fortune; here Lalitā is Lakṣmī Herself.

> UNCERTAIN The earlier rendering added Sarasvatī; that rests on a commentarial derivation I could not confirm, so it is left out.

314 राकेन्दुवदना rākendu-vadanā

She whose face is like the full moon

SANDHI राकेन्दु = राका + इन्दु (rākā + indu) — guṇa: ā + i → e (Pāṇini 6.1.87 ād guṇaḥ)

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi of comparison (over an inner ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (1) rākā-indu 'the moon of the full-moon night', i.e. the full moon (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (2) The whole is a bahuvrīhi of comparison: 'She whose face (vadana) is like the full moon'; vadana takes the feminine -ā.

ANALYSIS राकायाः इन्दुः राकेन्दुः; राकेन्दुः इव वदनम् यस्याः सा राकेन्दुवदना

rākāyāḥ induḥ rākenduḥ; rākenduḥ iva vadanam yasyāḥ sā rākenduvadanā

SIGNIFICANCE The full moon is whole, cool and radiant without glare: so is Her face. Traditionally, the moon lacking nothing points to Her as the fullness that never wanes.

---

315 रतिरूपा rati-rūpā

She who is in the form of Rati, the wife of Kāma

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi. rati 'Rati, delight' and rūpa 'form' are co-referential, and the compound describes Her: 'She whose form is Rati'. It may equally be taken as a karmadhāraya in apposition ('She who is Rati in form'); the sense is the same.

ANALYSIS रतिः रूपम् यस्याः सा रतिरूपा

ratiḥ rūpam yasyāḥ sā ratirūpā

SIGNIFICANCE Rati is the delight of love personified, the consort of Kāma; traditionally every delight is a form of Hers.

---

316 रतिप्रिया rati-priyā

She who is fond of Rati

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi; alternatively ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa. As a bahuvrīhi, Rati (or delight) is dear to Her: 'She to whom Rati is dear', i.e. who is fond of Rati. As a ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa, priyā 'beloved' is the head and Rati stands in the genitive: 'She who is dear to Rati'. The members are simply juxtaposed.

ANALYSIS रतिः प्रिया यस्याः सा रतिप्रिया; अथवा रतेः प्रिया रतिप्रिया

ratiḥ priyā yasyāḥ sā ratipriyā; athavā rateḥ priyā ratipriyā

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally Rati, being dear to Her, attends on Her; read inwardly, She delights in the joy of Her devotees.

> UNCERTAIN Bahuvrīhi ('to whom Rati is dear') and ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa ('dear to Rati') are both possible; rati may also be the common noun 'delight'.

317 रक्षाकरी rakṣā-karī

She who is the protector

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa. The second member karī is an agent form of √kṛ 'to make' that exists only with a preceding object word (upapada): 'she who makes protection'. The suffix ṭa (Pāṇini 3.2.20) makes the feminine end in -ī.

ANALYSIS रक्षाम् करोति इति रक्षाकरी

rakṣām karoti iti rakṣākarī

SIGNIFICANCE She protects the worlds She has made; traditionally, the protection is above all from fear and from bondage.

318 राक्षसघ्नी rākṣasa-ghnī

She who slays the demons

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa. ghnī is an agent form of √han 'to strike, slay', used only after its object (upapada): 'she who slays the rākṣasas'. With the suffix (ṭak) the root is reduced to ghn- and the feminine ends in -ī.

ANALYSIS राक्षसान् हन्ति इति राक्षसघ्नी

rākṣasān hanti iti rākṣasaghnī

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally, outwardly the demons of the Purāṇic wars, inwardly the dark tendencies (lust, anger, greed) that oppose the devotee.

319 रामा rāmā

She who gives delight

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE Rāmā is also a common word for a woman; traditionally every woman is seen as Her form, as the Devī Māhātmya says in its hymn to Nārāyaṇī (striyaḥ samastāḥ sakalā jagatsu).

320 रमणलम्पटा ramaṇa-lampaṭā

She who is passionately devoted to Her beloved, Lord Śiva

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND saptamī-tatpuruṣa. lampaṭā 'eagerly devoted, passionately attached' is the head; the object of the attachment, ramaṇa 'the beloved', stands to it in the locative ('devoted to'). The members are simply juxtaposed.

ANALYSIS रमणे लम्पटा रमणलम्पटा

ramaṇe lampaṭā ramaṇalampaṭā

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally the beloved is Kāmeśvara; Her devotion to Him is the model of the devotee's own longing.

> UNCERTAIN ramaṇa can be the beloved (Śiva) or the act of love-play itself ('eager for love-play'); the meaning follows the first.

करुणा karuṇā	compassion

रस rasa	essence, liquid; aesthetic sentiment
सागरा sāgarā	ocean sāgara, with the feminine -ā

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Name 322 kāmakalā is a technical term of Śrīvidyā, the subtle triangular form of the Goddess, not 'the art of love'.

321 काम्या kāmyā

She who is to be desired

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally She is the one goal worth desiring, sought above all by those who seek liberation; every other desire is a distant reflection of the longing for Her.

---

322 कामकलारूपा kāma-kalā-rūpā

She who is in the form of Kāmakalā

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (over an inner ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (1) kāma-kalā 'the kalā (subtle digit, power) of Kāma' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (2) The whole is a bahuvrīhi: 'She whose form is the kāmakalā'. kāmakalā can also be analysed as a dvandva, Kāma and Kalā, i.e. Kāmeśvara and Kāmeśvarī together.

ANALYSIS कामस्य कला कामकला; कामकला रूपम् यस्याः सा कामकलारूपा

kāmasya kalā kāmakalā; kāmakalā rūpam yasyāḥ sā kāmakalārūpā

SIGNIFICANCE In Śrīvidyā the kāmakalā is the most subtle form of the Goddess: the triangle of three bindus (sun, moon and fire) with the half-digit below, the union of Śiva and Śakti from which the Śrīcakra and the mantra unfold. Puṇyānanda's Kāmakalāvilāsa is devoted to it.

> UNCERTAIN kāmakalā is analysed both as 'the digit of Kāma' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa) and as 'Kāma and Kalā' (dvandva).

323 कदम्बकुसुमप्रिया kadamba-kusuma-priyā

She who is fond of kadamba flowers

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (over an inner ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (1) kadamba-kusuma 'the flowers of the kadamba tree' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (2) The whole is a bahuvrīhi with priya 'dear' as its predicate: 'She to whom kadamba flowers are dear'; priya takes the feminine -ā.

ANALYSIS कदम्बस्य कुसुमानि कदम्बकुसुमानि; कदम्बकुसुमानि प्रियाणि यस्याः सा कदम्बकुसुमप्रिया

kadambasya kusumāni kadambakusumāni; kadambakusumāni priyāṇi yasyāḥ sā kadambakusumapriyā

SIGNIFICANCE Her abode in Maṇidvīpa lies within a kadamba forest (name 60, kadambavanavāsinī), and kadamba blossoms adorn Her ears (name 21).

324 कल्याणी kalyāṇī

She who is auspicious

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE She is auspiciousness itself, and so the giver of all that is good; traditionally kalyāṇī also means 'beautiful'.

325 जगतीकन्दा jagatī-kandā

She who is the root of the whole world

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa (the final member made feminine to agree with Her). kanda 'bulbous root' is the head and jagatī 'the world' stands to it in the genitive: 'the root of the world'. Because the name is in apposition to the Goddess, kanda takes the feminine -ā.

ANALYSIS जगत्याः कन्दः जगतीकन्दः; सा जगतीकन्दा

jagatyāḥ kandaḥ jagatīkandaḥ; sā jagatīkandā

SIGNIFICANCE As a plant springs from its bulb and is sustained by it, the world sprouts from Her and is nourished by Her.

326 करुणारससागरा karuṇā-rasa-sāgarā

She who is an ocean of the nectar of compassion

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa (over an inner karmadhāraya), the final member made feminine. (1) karuṇā-rasa 'the rasa that is compassion' (karmadhāraya of identification): compassion is both a liquid essence and the aesthetic sentiment (rasa) of pathos. (2) …rasa-sāgara 'the ocean of that essence' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (3) In apposition to Her, sāgara takes the feminine -ā.

ANALYSIS करुणा एव रसः करुणारसः; करुणारसस्य सागरः करुणारससागरः; सा करुणारससागरा

karuṇā eva rasaḥ karuṇārasaḥ; karuṇārasasya sāgaraḥ karuṇārasasāgaraḥ; sā karuṇārasasāgarā

SIGNIFICANCE The ocean is limitless and never exhausted however much is drawn from it; so is Her compassion.

वर vara	boon, a chosen gift
दा dā	giving √dā 'to give' with the suffix ka, feminine
332 वामनयना vāma-nayanā
वाम vāma	beautiful, lovely; also left
नयना nayanā	eye nayana, with the feminine -ā of the bahuvrīhi

SANSKRIT	ENGLISH
333 वारुणीमदविह्वला vāruṇī-mada-vihvalā
वारुणी vāruṇī	vāruṇī, a wine (said to have risen from the churned ocean, hence Varuṇa's)
मद mada	intoxication, rapture
विह्वला vihvalā	overcome, agitated, reeling vi + √hval 'to waver'

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Name 333 is one compound, vāruṇī-mada-vihvalā (spelled ह्व, vihvalā); the printed source had split it and misspelled it.

THE NAMES

327 कलावती kalāvatī

She who possesses all the arts

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE The kalās are the sixty-four arts (compare name 236, catuḥṣaṣṭikalāmayī) and also the sixteen digits of the moon; She possesses them all, and they are Hers to bestow.

328 कलालापा kalālāpā

She who speaks musically and sweetly

SANDHI कलालाप = कल + आलाप (kala + ālāpa) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi. kala 'soft, sweet, melodious' qualifies ālāpa 'speech, discourse', and the whole describes Her: 'She whose speech is sweet and soft'. ālāpa takes the feminine -ā.

ANALYSIS कलः आलापः यस्याः सा कलालापा

kalaḥ ālāpaḥ yasyāḥ sā kalālāpā

SIGNIFICANCE Name 27 says the sweetness of Her speech puts to shame the vīṇā (kacchapī) of Sarasvatī; traditionally Her speech is gentle even when it commands.

> UNCERTAIN The fused ā allows kalā 'art' + ālāpa as well: 'She whose talk is of the arts'. The usual reading takes kala 'sweet'.

329 कान्ता kāntā

She who is beautiful

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE Kāntā is literally 'the desired one': She is beautiful and the beloved of Kāmeśvara; traditionally Her beauty is the radiance (kānti) of consciousness.

---

330 कादम्बरीप्रिया kādambarī-priyā

She who is fond of kādambarī, the kadamba-flower wine

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi. kādambarī is the subject and priyā 'dear' its predicate within the compound, and the whole describes Her: 'She to whom kādambarī is dear'.

ANALYSIS कादम्बरी प्रिया यस्याः सा कादम्बरीप्रिया

kādambarī priyā yasyāḥ sā kādambarīpriyā

SIGNIFICANCE In Śrīvidyā ritual, offerings of wine have an inner sense: the nectar of bliss that flows when kuṇḍalinī reaches the crown.

---

331 वरदा vara-dā

She who grants boons

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa. dā is an agent form of √dā 'to give' used only after its object (Pāṇini 3.2.3 āto 'nupasarge kaḥ: suffix ka after roots in ā): 'she who gives boons'. It takes the feminine -ā.

ANALYSIS वरम् ददाति इति वरदा

varam dadāti iti varadā

SIGNIFICANCE The boon-granting gesture (varada-mudrā) is one of the classical hand-poses of the Goddess; traditionally She grants even more than is asked.

332 वामनयना vāma-nayanā

She who has beautiful eyes

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi. vāma 'beautiful' qualifies nayana 'eye', and the whole describes Her: 'She whose eyes are beautiful'; nayana takes the feminine -ā.

ANALYSIS वामे नयने यस्याः सा वामनयना

vāme nayane yasyāḥ sā vāmanayanā

SIGNIFICANCE vāma also means 'left': traditionally a hint that She is the left half of Śiva.

> UNCERTAIN vāma means both 'beautiful' and 'left'; the meaning takes the first.

333 वारुणीमदविह्वला vāruṇī-mada-vihvalā

She who is overcome by the intoxication of vāruṇī

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa (over an inner ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (1) vāruṇī-mada 'the intoxication of vāruṇī' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (2) The adjective vihvalā 'overcome, reeling' is the head, and the intoxication stands to it in the instrumental as the cause.

ANALYSIS वारुण्याः मदः वारुणीमदः; वारुणीमदेन विह्वला वारुणीमदविह्वला

vāruṇyāḥ madaḥ vāruṇīmadaḥ; vāruṇīmadena vihvalā vāruṇīmadavihvalā

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally read inwardly: the rapture of the bliss of the Self, which leaves one heedless of the world.

> CORRECTED वारुणी मदविव्हला → वारुणीमदविह्वला. "वारुणी मदविव्हला" → वारुणीमदविह्वला: one compound name, not two words; विव्हला is a misspelling of vihvalā (ह्व).

340 विलासिनी vilāsinī

विलासिनी vilāsinī	playful, sportive; graceful vi + √las 'to shine, sport' + -in (or vilāsa + -in), feminine -inī

THE NAMES

334 विश्वाधिका viśvādhikā

She who transcends the universe

SANDHI विश्वाधिका = विश्व + अधिका (viśva + adhikā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND pañcamī-tatpuruṣa. adhikā 'exceeding, greater' is the head and viśva 'the universe' stands to it in the ablative of comparison: 'greater than the universe'.

ANALYSIS विश्वस्मात् अधिका विश्वाधिका

viśvasmāt adhikā viśvādhikā

SIGNIFICANCE As the Puruṣasūkta says of the Person, all beings are one quarter of Him and three quarters are immortal beyond; She pervades the universe and exceeds it.

335 वेदवेद्या veda-vedyā

She who is to be known through the Vedas

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa. vedyā 'to be known' (gerundive of √vid) is the head, and veda stands to it in the instrumental as the means: 'to be known through the Vedas'.

ANALYSIS वेदैः वेद्या वेदवेद्या

vedaiḥ vedyā vedavedyā

SIGNIFICANCE As Kṛṣṇa says in the Bhagavad Gītā (15.15), 'I alone am to be known by all the Vedas' (vedaiś ca sarvair aham eva vedyaḥ); the whole of the Veda points to Her.

336 विन्ध्याचलनिवासिनी vindhyācala-nivāsinī

She who resides in the Vindhya mountains

SANDHI विन्ध्याचल = विन्ध्य + अचल (vindhya + acala) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa (over an inner karmadhāraya). (1) vindhya-acala 'the Vindhya mountain' (karmadhāraya of apposition: the mountain that is Vindhya). (2) nivāsin 'dwelling' is an agent noun from ni + √vas with the suffix ṇini (Pāṇini 3.2.78 supy ajātau ṇinis tācchīlye), compounded with its place in the locative sense: 'she who dwells on the Vindhya mountain'; feminine -inī.

ANALYSIS विन्ध्यः एव अचलः विन्ध्याचलः; विन्ध्याचले निवसति इति विन्ध्याचलनिवासिनी

vindhyaḥ eva acalaḥ vindhyācalaḥ; vindhyācale nivasati iti vindhyācalanivāsinī

SIGNIFICANCE In the Devī Māhātmya (ch. 11) the Goddess foretells that She will be born of Yaśodā and dwell on the Vindhya mountain (vindhyācalanivāsinī); She is worshipped there as Vindhyavāsinī.

---

337 विधात्री vidhātrī

She who creates and sustains this universe

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE vidhātṛ is a name of Brahmā as creator and ordainer; dhātrī also means a nurse or mother. She both ordains the world and nourishes it.

338 वेदजननी veda-jananī

She who is the mother of the Vedas

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa. jananī 'mother, she who gives birth' is the head and the Vedas stand to it in the genitive: 'the mother of the Vedas'.

ANALYSIS वेदानाम् जननी वेदजननी

vedānām jananī vedajananī

SIGNIFICANCE The Bṛhadāraṇyaka Upaniṣad says the Ṛg, Yajur and Sāma Vedas are the breath of the Great Being; traditionally the Vedas issue from Her as Her breath.

---

339 विष्णुमाया viṣṇu-māyā

She who is the illusory power (māyā) of Viṣṇu

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa. māyā is the head and Viṣṇu stands to it in the genitive: 'the māyā of Viṣṇu'. The members are simply juxtaposed.

ANALYSIS विष्णोः माया विष्णुमाया

viṣṇoḥ māyā viṣṇumāyā

SIGNIFICANCE The Devī Māhātmya (ch. 5) hails the Goddess 'who in all beings is called Viṣṇumāyā' (yā devī sarvabhūteṣu viṣṇumāyeti śabditā): the power by which even the all-pervading Lord appears in forms.

---

340 विलासिनी vilāsinī

She who is playful

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally the universe is Her play (vilāsa, līlā); the play is the projecting power by which the One appears as the many.

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Names 341–345 all begin with kṣ and take up the Bhagavad Gītā's teaching of the field (kṣetra) and the knower of the field (kṣetrajña).

341 क्षेत्रस्वरूपा kṣetra-svarūpā

She whose very form is the field (kṣetra), the body and all matter

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi. kṣetra 'the field' and svarūpa 'own form, nature' are co-referential, and the whole describes Her: 'She whose own form is the field'. svarūpa itself is sva 'own' + rūpa 'form'.

ANALYSIS क्षेत्रम् स्वरूपम् यस्याः सा क्षेत्रस्वरूपा

kṣetram svarūpam yasyāḥ sā kṣetrasvarūpā

SIGNIFICANCE The Bhagavad Gītā (ch. 13) calls the body, and all of prakṛti, the field (kṣetra), and the one who knows it the knower of the field (kṣetrajña). Names 341–345 develop that teaching.

342 क्षेत्रेशी kṣetreśī

She who is the Sovereign of the field (kṣetra)

SANDHI क्षेत्रेशी = क्षेत्र + ईशी (kṣetra + īśī) — guṇa: a + ī → e (Pāṇini 6.1.87 ād guṇaḥ)

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa; alternatively the feminine of a ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa by association (puṃyoga). Read directly, īśī 'ruler' is the head and kṣetra stands to it in the genitive: 'the sovereign of the field'. Read the other way, kṣetreśa 'Lord of the field' is Śiva, and kṣetreśī is his consort, the feminine formed by association with the husband (Pāṇini 4.1.48 puṃyogād ākhyāyām).

ANALYSIS क्षेत्रस्य ईशी क्षेत्रेशी; अथवा क्षेत्रस्य ईशः क्षेत्रेशः तस्य पत्नी क्षेत्रेशी

kṣetrasya īśī kṣetreśī; athavā kṣetrasya īśaḥ kṣetreśaḥ tasya patnī kṣetreśī

SIGNIFICANCE She rules over every body and the whole field of matter, as the inner controller; traditionally She is also the consort of Śiva, the Lord of the field.

> UNCERTAIN The name may mean 'ruler of the field' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa) or 'wife of Kṣetreśa, Śiva' (puṃyoga feminine); both are current.

343 क्षेत्रक्षेत्रज्ञपालिनी kṣetra-kṣetrajña-pālinī

She who protects both the field and the knower of the field

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa (over an inner itaretara-dvandva and an upapada-tatpuruṣa). (1) kṣetra-jña 'the knower of the field' (upapada-tatpuruṣa; jña from √jñā with the suffix ka, Pāṇini 3.2.3). (2) kṣetra-kṣetrajña 'the field and the knower of the field' (itaretara-dvandva). (3) pālinī 'protector' is the head and the pair stands to it in the genitive.

ANALYSIS क्षेत्रम् जानाति इति क्षेत्रज्ञः; क्षेत्रम् च क्षेत्रज्ञः च क्षेत्रक्षेत्रज्ञौ; क्षेत्रक्षेत्रज्ञयोः पालिनी क्षेत्रक्षेत्रज्ञपालिनी

kṣetram jānāti iti kṣetrajñaḥ; kṣetram ca kṣetrajñaḥ ca kṣetrakṣetrajñau; kṣetrakṣetrajñayoḥ pālinī kṣetrakṣetrajñapālinī

SIGNIFICANCE The field is the body and the world; its knower is the conscious self. She guards both: matter and spirit, body and soul.

344 क्षयवृद्धिविनिर्मुक्ता kṣaya-vṛddhi-vinirmuktā

She who is free from growth and decay

SANDHI निर्मुक्ता = निस् + मुक्ता (nis + muktā) — the s of the prefix nis becomes r (through ru, Pāṇini 8.2.66 sasajuṣo ruḥ) before a voiced sound

COMPOUND pañcamī-tatpuruṣa (over an inner itaretara-dvandva). (1) kṣaya-vṛddhi 'decay and growth' (itaretara-dvandva). (2) The participle vinirmuktā 'wholly freed' is the head and the pair stands to it in the ablative: 'freed from decay and growth'.

ANALYSIS क्षयः च वृद्धिः च क्षयवृद्धी; क्षयवृद्धिभ्याम् विनिर्मुक्ता क्षयवृद्धिविनिर्मुक्ता

kṣayaḥ ca vṛddhiḥ ca kṣayavṛddhī; kṣayavṛddhibhyām vinirmuktā kṣayavṛddhivinirmuktā

SIGNIFICANCE The moon waxes and wanes; traditionally She is the sixteenth digit of the moon, which neither grows nor wanes, and the Self that is untouched by birth and death.

345 क्षेत्रपालसमर्चिता kṣetra-pāla-samarcitā

She who is worshipped by Kṣetrapāla, guardian of the sacred field

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa (over an inner upapada-tatpuruṣa). (1) kṣetra-pāla 'guardian of the field' (upapada-tatpuruṣa; pāla from √pāl 'to protect' with the suffix aṇ). (2) The participle samarcitā 'well worshipped' is the head and Kṣetrapāla stands to it in the instrumental as the agent.

ANALYSIS क्षेत्रम् पालयति इति क्षेत्रपालः; क्षेत्रपालेन समर्चिता क्षेत्रपालसमर्चिता

kṣetram pālayati iti kṣetrapālaḥ; kṣetrapālena samarcitā kṣetrapālasamarcitā

SIGNIFICANCE Kṣetrapāla is the guardian deity of a temple precinct, a form of Bhairava (Śiva). Traditionally a Purāṇic story is told here: after Kālī slew the demon Dāruka, Śiva took the form of an infant to draw off Her fury, and that child is Kṣetrapāla.

> UNCERTAIN The story of the infant Kṣetrapāla is traditionally told on this name; I could not confirm its Purāṇic source, so it is not attributed.

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Name 350 vāgvādinī: the stem is vāc 'speech'; its c appears as g before v.

THE NAMES

346 विजया vijayā

She who is ever-victorious

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE The prefix vi- intensifies: Her victory is complete and unique. Vijayā is also a name of Durgā and one of the Nityā goddesses of the lunar fortnight.

347 विमला vimalā

She who is without a trace of impurity

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND prādi-bahuvrīhi. The prefix vi- stands for vigata 'gone away', and the compound describes Her: 'She from whom impurity has gone'; mala takes the feminine -ā.

ANALYSIS विगतम् मलम् यस्याः सा विमला

vigatam malam yasyāḥ sā vimalā

SIGNIFICANCE In Śaiva and Śākta thought the soul is bound by three impurities (āṇava, māyīya and kārma mala); She is untouched by any of them, and frees those who worship Her.

348 वन्द्या vandyā

She who is adorable, worthy of worship

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE She is to be saluted by all, the gods included; traditionally the salutation itself is a form of Her worship.

349 वन्दारुजनवत्सला vandāru-jana-vatsalā

She who is full of motherly love for those who worship Her

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND saptamī-tatpuruṣa (over an inner karmadhāraya). (1) vandāru-jana 'people given to worship' (karmadhāraya). (2) vatsalā 'tenderly loving' is the head and the worshippers stand to it in the locative: 'loving towards those who bow to Her'.

ANALYSIS वन्दारवः जनाः वन्दारुजनाः; वन्दारुजनेषु वत्सला वन्दारुजनवत्सला

vandāravaḥ janāḥ vandārujanāḥ; vandārujaneṣu vatsalā vandārujanavatsalā

SIGNIFICANCE vatsala is the love of a cow for her calf: She runs to the devotee who bows to Her as a mother to her child.

350 वाग्वादिनी vāg-vādinī

She who gives voice to all speech

SANDHI वाग्वादिनी = वाच् + वादिनी (vāc + vādinī) — the final c of vāc becomes a velar at the end of a member (Pāṇini 8.2.30 coḥ kuḥ), voiced to g before v by jaśtva (8.2.39): vāg-

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa. vādinī is an agent noun from √vad 'to speak' with the suffix ṇini, compounded with its object vāc 'speech': 'she who utters speech'. Feminine -inī.

ANALYSIS वाचम् वदति इति वाग्वादिनी

vācam vadati iti vāgvādinī

SIGNIFICANCE The Kena Upaniṣad speaks of 'that which is not uttered by speech, by which speech is uttered' (yad vācānabhyuditaṃ yena vāg abhyudyate). Vāgvādinī is also the name invoked in the mantra of Sarasvatī (vada vada vāgvādini).

351 वामकेशी vāma-keśī

She who has beautiful hair

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi. vāma 'beautiful' qualifies keśa 'hair', and the whole describes Her: 'She whose hair is beautiful'. Because keśa is a part of the body, the feminine may end in -ī (Pāṇini 4.1.54 svāṅgāc copasarjanād asaṃyogopadhāt).

ANALYSIS वामाः केशाः यस्याः सा वामकेशी

vāmāḥ keśāḥ yasyāḥ sā vāmakeśī

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally also read as the consort of Vāmakeśa (Śiva); the Vāmakeśvara Tantra is one of the root texts of Śrīvidyā (compare name 945, vāmakeśvarī).

> UNCERTAIN Read as a bahuvrīhi ('beautiful-haired') or as the consort of Vāmakeśa, Śiva; the meaning takes the first.

352 वह्निमण्डलवासिनी vahni-maṇḍala-vāsinī

She who resides in the disc of fire

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa (over an inner ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (1) vahni-maṇḍala 'the disc (region) of fire' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (2) vāsinī 'dwelling', an agent noun from √vas with the suffix ṇini, is compounded with its place in the locative sense: 'she who dwells in the region of fire'.

ANALYSIS वह्नेः मण्डलम् वह्निमण्डलम्; वह्निमण्डले वसति इति वह्निमण्डलवासिनी

vahneḥ maṇḍalam vahnimaṇḍalam; vahnimaṇḍale vasati iti vahnimaṇḍalavāsinī

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally the body holds three regions, of fire, sun and moon; the region of fire is placed at the base of the spine, where kuṇḍalinī sleeps.

आचार ācāra	conduct, practice
प्रवर्तिका pravartikā	one who sets going, promoter pra + √vṛt, causative, + the agent suffix -aka; a → i before -kā (Pāṇini 7.3.44)

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Name 355 divides saṃhṛta + aśeṣa + pāṣaṇḍā; the long ā joins saṃhṛta and aśeṣa.

353 भक्तिमत्कल्पलतिका bhaktimat-kalpa-latikā

She who is the wish-granting creeper for Her devotees

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa (over an inner karmadhāraya). (1) kalpa-latikā 'the wish-fulfilling creeper': kalpa, as in kalpa-vṛkṣa 'the tree that grants whatever is wished', qualifies latikā (karmadhāraya). (2) The creeper is the head and bhaktimat 'those who have devotion' stands to it in the genitive: 'the wish-granting creeper of the devotees'. The t of bhaktimat stands unchanged before k.

ANALYSIS कल्पा लतिका कल्पलतिका; भक्तिमताम् कल्पलतिका भक्तिमत्कल्पलतिका

kalpā latikā kalpalatikā; bhaktimatām kalpalatikā bhaktimatkalpalatikā

SIGNIFICANCE The kalpa creeper of Indra's heaven yields whatever is wished; She gives Her devotees all they seek, and in the end Herself.

She who frees bound souls (paśu) from their bonds (pāśa)

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa (over an inner ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (1) paśu-pāśa 'the bonds of the bound souls' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (2) vimocinī 'releaser', an agent noun from the causative of vi + √muc with the suffix ṇini, is compounded with its object: 'she who loosens those bonds'.

ANALYSIS पशूनाम् पाशाः पशुपाशाः; पशुपाशान् विमोचयति इति पशुपाशविमोचिनी

paśūnām pāśāḥ paśupāśāḥ; paśupāśān vimocayati iti paśupāśavimocinī

SIGNIFICANCE In Śaiva and Śākta thought the soul bound by impurity is a paśu, its fetters are pāśa, and the Lord is Paśupati; She cuts those fetters.

355 संहृताशेषपाषण्डा saṃhṛtāśeṣa-pāṣaṇḍā

She by whom all heretics have been destroyed

SANDHI संहृत = सम् + हृत (sam + hṛta) — m becomes anusvāra before a consonant (Pāṇini 8.3.23 mo 'nusvāraḥ); before h it remains anusvāra; संहृताशेष = संहृत + अशेष (saṃhṛta + aśeṣa) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (over an inner karmadhāraya and a nañ-bahuvrīhi). (1) a-śeṣa 'with nothing left over, all' (nañ-bahuvrīhi). (2) aśeṣa-pāṣaṇḍa 'all the heretics' (karmadhāraya). (3) The participle saṃhṛta 'destroyed' is placed first, as is usual for a participle in a bahuvrīhi, and the whole describes Her: 'She by whom all heretics have been destroyed'.

ANALYSIS न शेषः येषाम् ते अशेषाः; अशेषाः पाषण्डाः अशेषपाषण्डाः; संहृताः अशेषपाषण्डाः यया सा संहृताशेषपाषण्डा

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally pāṣaṇḍas are those who abandon dharma and mislead others; inwardly, She destroys hypocrisy and false views in the devotee.

356 सदाचारप्रवर्तिका sad-ācāra-pravartikā

She who establishes and promotes right conduct

SANDHI सदाचार = सत् + आचार (sat + ācāra) — jaśtva: a final t becomes d before a voiced sound (Pāṇini 8.2.39 jhalāṃ jaśo 'nte)

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa (over an inner karmadhāraya). (1) sat-ācāra 'good conduct' (karmadhāraya; sat 'good, true'). (2) pravartikā 'one who sets in motion' is the head and good conduct stands to it in the genitive (as the object of the agent noun).

ANALYSIS सन् आचारः सदाचारः; सदाचारस्य प्रवर्तिका सदाचारप्रवर्तिका

san ācāraḥ sadācāraḥ; sadācārasya pravartikā sadācārapravartikā

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally She upholds the dharma taught in the Veda and the conduct of the good, and inspires others to follow it.

tāpa-trayāgni-santapta-samāhlādana-candrikā

She who is the moonlight that gives joy to those burned by the triple fire of misery

SANDHI त्रयाग्नि = त्रय + अग्नि (traya + agni) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ); सन्तप्त = सम् + तप्त (sam + tapta) — m becomes anusvāra before a consonant (Pāṇini 8.3.23 mo 'nusvāraḥ), which takes the place of articulation of the following stop (8.4.58–59 anusvārasya yayi parasavarṇaḥ): written n before a dental

COMPOUND karmadhāraya (over inner ṣaṣṭhī-, tṛtīyā- and karmadhāraya compounds). (1) tāpa-traya 'the triad of afflictions' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (2) ...traya-agni 'the fire that is that triad' (karmadhāraya of identification). (3) ...agni-santapta 'scorched by that fire' (tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa): those who suffer. (4) samāhlādana 'gladdening' (agent noun in -ana) takes them as its object (genitive relation) and qualifies candrikā 'moonlight' (karmadhāraya): 'the moonlight that gladdens those scorched ...'. In composition the feminine agent noun stands in its stem form.

SIGNIFICANCE The three afflictions are those arising from oneself (ādhyātmika), from other beings (ādhibhautika) and from the powers of nature (ādhidaivika). As moonlight cools after the heat of day, She brings relief.

358 तरुणी taruṇī

She who is ever young

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE She is beyond time and so never ages; traditionally She is pictured always in the bloom of youth, with the freshness of a girl of sixteen (ṣoḍaśī).

359 तापसाराध्या tāpasārādhyā

She who is worshipped by ascetics

SANDHI तापसाराध्या = तापस + आराध्या (tāpasa + ārādhyā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa. ārādhyā 'to be worshipped' (gerundive) is the head and the ascetics stand to it in the instrumental as the agents.

ANALYSIS तापसैः आराध्या तापसाराध्या

tāpasaiḥ ārādhyā tāpasārādhyā

SIGNIFICANCE Those who practise austerity seek Her; traditionally, tapas undertaken without Her is said to bear no fruit.

---

360 तनुमध्या tanu-madhyā

She who is slender-waisted

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi. tanu 'slender' qualifies madhya 'middle, waist', and the whole describes Her: 'She whose waist is slender'; madhya takes the feminine -ā.

ANALYSIS तनु मध्यम् यस्याः सा तनुमध्या

tanu madhyam yasyāḥ sā tanumadhyā

SIGNIFICANCE The slender waist belongs to the classical picture of beauty; traditionally it also suggests the subtle, scarcely visible link between the manifest and the unmanifest.

---

361 तमोऽपहा tamo'pahā

She who dispels darkness, the ignorance of tamas

SANDHI तमोऽपहा = तमस् + अपहा (tamas + apahā) — s becomes ru (Pāṇini 8.2.66), ru becomes u after a and before a (6.1.113 ato ror aplutād aplute), a + u → o by guṇa (6.1.87), and the following a merges into the o (6.1.109 eṅaḥ padāntād ati), marked by the avagraha ऽ

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa. apahā is an agent form of apa + √han 'to strike away' (suffix ḍa, with the root reduced to -ha) used after its object: 'she who strikes away darkness'. Feminine -ā.

ANALYSIS तमः अपहन्ति इति तमोऽपहा

tamaḥ apahanti iti tamo'pahā

SIGNIFICANCE The prayer 'lead me from darkness to light' (tamaso mā jyotir gamaya, Bṛhadāraṇyaka Upaniṣad) is answered by Her.

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

चितिस्तत्पद = चितिः + तत्पद... (citiḥ + tatpada...) — visarga becomes s before t (Pāṇini 8.3.34 visarjanīyasya saḥ)

citiḥ (362) is a name on its own; the s of citis- is its visarga before tat-. Names 362–365 open a run of Vedāntic names; 365 fills the whole second half.

THE NAMES

362 चितिः citiḥ

She who is Consciousness itself

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE The first sūtra of Kṣemarāja's Pratyabhijñāhṛdaya reads citiḥ svatantrā viśvasiddhihetuḥ, 'Consciousness, free, is the cause of the accomplishment of the universe'. With this name begins a run of names on Her as pure consciousness.

> CORRECTED चित् (चितिः) → चितिः. "चित् (चितिः)" → चितिः: the verse reads चितिस्तत्पदलक्ष्यार्था, so the name is citiḥ; the bracketed alternative was an editorial note left in the name.

363 तत्पदलक्ष्यार्था tat-pada-lakṣyārthā

She who is the implied meaning (lakṣyārtha) of the word 'tat' (That)

SANDHI लक्ष्यार्था = लक्ष्य + अर्था (lakṣya + arthā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa (over inner karmadhārayas), the final member made feminine. (1) tat-pada 'the word tat' (karmadhāraya of apposition: the word that is 'tat'). (2) lakṣya-artha 'the indicated (implied) meaning' (karmadhāraya). (3) The implied meaning is the head and the word stands to it in the genitive. In apposition to Her the final member takes the feminine -ā.

ANALYSIS तत् इति पदम् तत्पदम्; लक्ष्यः अर्थः लक्ष्यार्थः; तत्पदस्य लक्ष्यार्थः तत्पदलक्ष्यार्थः; सा तत्पदलक्ष्यार्था tat iti padam tatpadam; lakṣyaḥ arthaḥ lakṣyārthaḥ; tatpadasya lakṣyārthaḥ tatpadalakṣyārthaḥ; sā tatpadalakṣyārthā

SIGNIFICANCE In the great saying tat tvam asi ('You are That', Chāndogya Upaniṣad 6.8.7), Vedānta takes 'tat' not in its literal sense (the omniscient Lord with attributes) but in its implied sense, pure consciousness free of qualities; She is that implied meaning. Names 425–427 return to the same saying.

364 चिदेकरसरूपिणी cid-eka-rasa-rūpiṇī

She whose nature is consciousness alone, one undivided essence

SANDHI चिदेक = चित् + एक (cit + eka) — jaśtva: a final t becomes d before a voiced sound (Pāṇini 8.2.39 jhalāṃ jaśo 'nte)

COMPOUND karmadhāraya (over an inner karmadhāraya) with the possessive suffix -in. (1) eka-rasa 'a single, uniform essence' (karmadhāraya). (2) cit-ekarasa 'the uniform essence that is consciousness' (karmadhāraya of identification). (3) It is compounded with rūpa 'form', and the possessive suffix -in makes rūpiṇī 'having as form': 'She whose form is consciousness alone, one undivided essence'.

ANALYSIS एकः रसः एकरसः; चित् एव एकरसः चिदेकरसः; चिदेकरसः रूपम् अस्याः अस्ति इति चिदेकरसरूपिणी ekaḥ rasaḥ ekarasaḥ; cit eva ekarasaḥ cidekarasaḥ; cidekarasaḥ rūpam asyāḥ asti iti cidekarasarūpiṇī

SIGNIFICANCE Ekarasa is 'of one taste throughout': as the Bṛhadāraṇyaka's lump of salt is salty through and through, She is consciousness through and through, with nothing else mixed in.

365 स्वात्मानन्दलवीभूतब्रह्माद्यानन्दसन्ततिः

svātmānanda-lavī-bhūta-brahmādyānanda-santatiḥ

She for whom the whole range of bliss of Brahmā and the other gods is but a particle of the bliss of Her own Self

SANDHI स्वात्म = स्व + आत्म (sva + ātma) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ); आत्मानन्द = आत्म + आनन्द (ātma + ānanda) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ); ब्रह्मादि = ब्रह्म + आदि (brahma + ādi) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ); आद्यानन्द = आदि + आनन्द (ādi + ānanda) — yaṇ: i becomes y before a dissimilar vowel (Pāṇini 6.1.77 iko yaṇ aci); सन्तति = सम् + तति (sam + tati) — m becomes anusvāra before a consonant (Pāṇini 8.3.23 mo 'nusvāraḥ), which takes the place of articulation of the following stop (8.4.58–59 anusvārasya yayi parasavarṇaḥ): written n before a dental

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (over a gati-compound with cvi, ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣas and an inner bahuvrīhi). (1) sva-ātman 'Her own Self' and svātma-ānanda 'the bliss of Her own Self' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣas; ātman loses its n in composition). (2) lavībhūta 'become a mere particle': lava 'particle' takes the suffix cvi, which turns its a into ī (Pāṇini 7.4.32 asya cvau) and expresses 'becoming what it was not', and it is compounded with bhūta as a gati (1.4.61 ūryādicviḍācaś ca); the bliss of Her Self stands to it in the genitive ('a particle of …'). (3) brahma-ādi 'Brahmā and the others' (bahuvrīhi), brahmādi-ānanda 'their bliss', and … ānanda-santati 'the whole succession of those blisses' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣas). (4) The whole is a bahuvrīhi describing Her: 'She for whom the whole range of the bliss of Brahmā and the other gods has become a mere particle of the bliss of Her own Self'. santati is feminine, so the name ends in -iḥ.

SIGNIFICANCE The Taittirīya Upaniṣad measures bliss in steps, each a hundredfold the one before, up to the bliss of Brahmā, and all of it is a fraction of the bliss of Brahman; the Bṛhadāraṇyaka says other beings live on a particle of that bliss. Her own bliss is that whole.

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

The four levels of speech run through this śloka: parā (366), paśyantī (368), madhyamā (370) and vaikharī (371), interleaved with 367 and 369. Name 367 pratyak-citī: the k is the c of pratyac before c-.

THE NAMES

366 परा parā

She who is Parā, the Supreme, the highest level of speech

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE Names 366, 368, 370 and 371 give the four levels of speech: parā (transcendent, undifferentiated), paśyantī ('seeing'), madhyamā ('middle', inner speech) and vaikharī (audible). As Parā She is speech before any distinction of word and meaning, one with consciousness.

367 प्रत्यक्चितीरूपा pratyak-citī-rūpā

She whose form is inward-turned consciousness

SANDHI प्रत्यक्चिती = प्रत्यच् + चिती (pratyac + citī) — the final c of pratyac becomes k at the end of a member (Pāṇini 8.2.30 coḥ kuḥ)

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (over an inner karmadhāraya). (1) pratyak-citi 'inward-turned consciousness' (karmadhāraya; the feminine pratīcī returns to the stem pratyac by puṃvadbhāva, Pāṇini 6.3.42). (2) The whole is a bahuvrīhi: 'She whose form is inward consciousness'. The name has citī with a long ī, a lengthened form of citi.

ANALYSIS प्रतीची चितिः प्रत्यक्चितिः; प्रत्यक्चितिः रूपम् यस्याः सा प्रत्यक्चितीरूपा

pratīcī citiḥ pratyakcitiḥ; pratyakcitiḥ rūpam yasyāḥ sā pratyakcitīrūpā

SIGNIFICANCE In Vedānta pratyak-cit or pratyag-ātman is the Self known inwardly as the witness; the Kaṭha Upaniṣad says 'a wise one, seeking immortality, turned his eyes inward and saw the inner Self' (pratyagātmānam aikṣat).

> UNCERTAIN The long ī of citī is not the regular form of citi; it is analysed here as a lengthening of citi (some take it as metrical).

368 पश्यन्ती paśyantī

She who is Paśyantī, the second level of speech

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE Paśyantī, 'the seeing', is speech in which word and meaning are still one, beheld as a whole before they unfold in sequence; it rises from parā.

> UNCERTAIN The bodily seat of each level of speech is placed differently in different texts (paśyantī at the svādhiṣṭhāna in some, at the navel in others); the sequence parā–paśyantī–madhyamā–vaikharī itself is undisputed.

369 परदेवता para-devatā

She who is the supreme Deity

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND karmadhāraya. The adjective parā 'supreme' qualifies devatā 'deity' and, in a karmadhāraya, takes its masculine stem para- (puṃvadbhāva, Pāṇini 6.3.42).

ANALYSIS परा देवता परदेवता

parā devatā paradevatā

SIGNIFICANCE She is the deity beyond all deities, Parāśakti, from whom the gods receive their power.

---

370 मध्यमा madhyamā

She who is Madhyamā, the middle level of speech

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE Madhyamā is inner speech, where words are formed in sequence in the mind but not yet spoken; traditionally it is placed at the heart.

> UNCERTAIN The bodily seat of each level of speech is placed differently in different texts (paśyantī at the svādhiṣṭhāna in some, at the navel in others); the sequence parā–paśyantī–madhyamā–vaikharī itself is undisputed.

371 वैखरीरूपा vaikharī-rūpā

She who is in the form of Vaikharī, audible speech

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi. vaikharī and rūpa are co-referential and the whole describes Her: 'She whose form is vaikharī'.

ANALYSIS वैखरी रूपम् यस्याः सा वैखरीरूपा

vaikharī rūpam yasyāḥ sā vaikharīrūpā

SIGNIFICANCE Vaikharī is speech articulated through throat and mouth and heard by the ear: the fourth and outermost level. Every spoken word is thus Her form.

---

372 भक्तमानसहंसिका bhakta-mānasa-haṃsikā

She who is the swan in the minds of Her devotees

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND saptamī-tatpuruṣa (over an inner ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (1) bhakta-mānasa 'the mind of the devotees' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (2) haṃsikā 'swan' is the head and the mind stands to it in the locative: 'the swan in the devotees' minds'. mānasa also means Lake Mānasa, home of the swans, so the compound carries a double image.

ANALYSIS भक्तानाम् मानसम् भक्तमानसम्; भक्तमानसे हंसिका भक्तमानसहंसिका

bhaktānām mānasam bhaktamānasam; bhaktamānase haṃsikā bhaktamānasahaṃsikā

SIGNIFICANCE As swans live on Lake Mānasa, She lives in the devotee's mind (mānasa); the swan, said to separate milk from water, is also the emblem of discrimination and of the paramahaṃsa. Compare name 816, munimānasahaṃsikā.

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Names 375–379 are traditionally read as recalling the four pīṭhas: Kāma(giri) in 375, Pūrṇa(giri) in 376 sampūrṇā, then Jālandhara (378) and Oḍyāṇa (379); the bindu (380) lies beyond them.

THE NAMES

373 कामेश्वरप्राणनाडी kāmeśvara-prāṇa-nāḍī

She who is the very life-channel of Kāmeśvara, Her consort

SANDHI कामेश्वर = काम + ईश्वर (kāma + īśvara) — guṇa: a + ī → e (Pāṇini 6.1.87 ād guṇaḥ)

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa (over inner ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣas). (1) kāma-īśvara 'the Lord of desire', Śiva as Kāmeśvara (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (2) prāṇa-nāḍī 'the channel of the life-breath', the vital artery (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (3) The life-channel is the head and Kāmeśvara stands to it in the genitive.

kāmasya īśvaraḥ kāmeśvaraḥ; prāṇasya nāḍī prāṇanāḍī; kāmeśvarasya prāṇanāḍī kāmeśvaraprāṇanāḍī

SIGNIFICANCE Without Her, Śiva cannot even stir (Saundaryalaharī 1). The Saundaryalaharī (28) also says that the gods who drank nectar perish at the dissolution while Śiva, who drank poison, lives, because of the power of Her earrings: She is His life.

374 कृतज्ञा kṛta-jñā

ANALYSIS कृतम् जानाति इति कृतज्ञा

kṛtam jānāti iti kṛtajñā

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally She is the inner witness who knows every act as it occurs; in ordinary usage kṛtajña means 'grateful', and She remembers and rewards the least service done to Her.

> UNCERTAIN kṛtajñā means both 'knowing what is done' and 'grateful'; both are given.

375 कामपूजिता kāma-pūjitā

She who is worshipped by Kāma

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa. pūjitā 'worshipped' is the head and Kāma stands to it in the instrumental as the agent.

ANALYSIS कामेन पूजिता कामपूजिता

kāmena pūjitā kāmapūjitā

SIGNIFICANCE Kāma is counted traditionally among the great worshippers of Śrīvidyā, and the kādi form of the fifteen-syllabled mantra is associated with him. Traditionally the name also alludes to Kāmagiri (Kāmarūpa), first of the four pīṭhas that names 375–379 recall.

> UNCERTAIN The allusion to the Kāmagiri pīṭha (reading 'worshipped at Kāma[giri]') is traditional but not in the grammar of the name.

376 शृङ्गाररससम्पूर्णा śṛṅgāra-rasa-sampūrṇā

She who is filled with śṛṅgāra, the rasa of love

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa (over an inner karmadhāraya). (1) śṛṅgāra-rasa 'the rasa that is śṛṅgāra', the sentiment of love (karmadhāraya of apposition). (2) The participle sampūrṇā 'completely filled' is the head and the rasa stands to it in the instrumental.

ANALYSIS शृङ्गारः एव रसः शृङ्गाररसः; शृङ्गाररसेन सम्पूर्णा शृङ्गाररससम्पूर्णा śṛṅgāraḥ eva rasaḥ śṛṅgārarasaḥ; śṛṅgārarasena sampūrṇā śṛṅgārarasasampūrṇā

SIGNIFICANCE Śṛṅgāra is the first and chief of the rasas of poetics; She is its fullness, the love between Śiva and Śakti. Traditionally the word sampūrṇā also alludes to Pūrṇagiri, the second of the four pīṭhas.

CORRECTED शृङ्गाररससम्पूर्णा → शृङ्गाररससम्पूर्णा. Removed a zero-width joiner inside शृ; the IAST had become "śaṛṅgāra".

377 जया jayā

She who is victorious

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE Jayā is also a name of Durgā; She is victory itself, and victory in any field is Hers.

---

378 जालन्धरस्थिता jālandhara-sthitā

She who abides in the Jālandhara pīṭha

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND saptamī-tatpuruṣa. The participle sthitā 'abiding' is the head and Jālandhara stands to it in the locative of place.

ANALYSIS जालन्धरे स्थिता जालन्धरस्थिता

jālandhare sthitā jālandharasthitā

SIGNIFICANCE Jālandhara is the third of the four pīṭhas (Kāmagiri, Pūrṇagiri, Jālandhara, Oḍyāṇa); in the body it is traditionally placed at the throat (viśuddhi).

तर्पण tarpaṇa	satisfying oblation, libation √tṛp 'to be satisfied', causative, + -ana
तर्पिता tarpitā	gratified, satisfied √tṛp, causative, past participle, feminine

381 raho-yāga: raho is rahas before a voiced sound; 382 keeps the s (rahas-tarpaṇa) before t.

THE NAMES

379 ओड्याणपीठनिलया oḍyāṇa-pīṭha-nilayā

She whose abode is the Oḍyāṇa pīṭha

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (over an inner karmadhāraya). (1) oḍyāṇa-pīṭha 'the seat that is Oḍyāṇa' (karmadhāraya of apposition). (2) The whole is a bahuvrīhi: 'She whose abode (nilaya) is the Oḍyāṇa seat'; nilaya takes the feminine -ā.

ANALYSIS ओड्याणम् एव पीठम् ओड्याणपीठम्; ओड्याणपीठम् निलयः यस्याः सा ओड्याणपीठनिलया

oḍyāṇam eva pīṭham oḍyāṇapīṭham; oḍyāṇapīṭham nilayaḥ yasyāḥ sā oḍyāṇapīṭhanilayā

SIGNIFICANCE Oḍyāṇa is the fourth of the four pīṭhas; in the body it is traditionally placed between the eyebrows (ājñā). Beyond the four lies the bindu, the next name.

380 बिन्दुमण्डलवासिनी bindu-maṇḍala-vāsinī

She who resides in the bindu at the center of the Śrīcakra

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa (over an inner karmadhāraya). (1) bindu-maṇḍala 'the circle that is the bindu' (karmadhāraya of apposition). (2) vāsinī 'dwelling', an agent noun from √vas with ṇini, is compounded with its place in the locative sense.

ANALYSIS बिन्दुः एव मण्डलम् बिन्दुमण्डलम्; बिन्दुमण्डले वसति इति बिन्दुमण्डलवासिनी

binduḥ eva maṇḍalam bindumaṇḍalam; bindumaṇḍale vasati iti bindumaṇḍalavāsinī

SIGNIFICANCE The bindu is the innermost enclosure of the Śrīcakra, the sarvānandamaya cakra, where She is one with Kāmeśvara; in the body it corresponds to the crown, beyond the four pīṭhas.

381 रहोयागक्रमाराध्या raho-yāga-kramārādhyā

She who is to be worshipped by the method of secret, inner worship

SANDHI रहोयाग = रहस् + याग (rahas + yāga) — final -as before a voiced consonant: s becomes ru (Pāṇini 8.2.66 sasajuṣo ruḥ), ru becomes u after a (6.1.114 haśi ca), and a + u → o

by guṇa (6.1.87): -o; क्रमाराध्या = क्रम + आराध्या (krama + ārādhyā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa (over inner ṣaṣṭhī- and saptamī-tatpuruṣas). (1) rahas-yāga 'worship in secret' (saptamī-tatpuruṣa). (2) …yāga-krama 'the ordered method of that worship' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (3) ārādhyā 'to be worshipped' is the head and the method stands to it in the instrumental: 'to be worshipped by the method of secret worship'.

ANALYSIS रहसि यागः रहोयागः; रहोयागस्य क्रमः रहोयागक्रमः; रहोयागक्रमेण आराध्या रहोयागक्रमाराध्या

rahasi yāgaḥ rahoyāgaḥ; rahoyāgasya kramaḥ rahoyāgakramaḥ; rahoyāgakrameṇa ārādhyā rahoyāgakramārādhyā

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally rahoyāga is antar-yāga, the inner worship in which the offerings are mental and kuṇḍalinī is led through the cakras to unite with Śiva; it is guarded and taught only from teacher to disciple.

---

382 रहस्तर्पणतर्पिता rahas-tarpaṇa-tarpitā

She who is gratified by secret offerings of libation

SANDHI रहस्तर्पण = रहस् + तर्पण (rahas + tarpaṇa) — s becomes ru (Pāṇini 8.2.66) and visarga before a voiceless sound (8.3.15 kharavasānayor visarjanīyaḥ), which becomes s before t (8.3.34 visarjanīyasya saḥ): the s reappears

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa (over an inner saptamī-tatpuruṣa). (1) rahas-tarpaṇa 'a secret oblation' (saptamī-tatpuruṣa). (2) The participle tarpitā 'gratified' is the head and the oblation stands to it in the instrumental as the means. The same root √tṛp 'to satisfy' gives both members.

ANALYSIS रहसि तर्पणम् रहस्तर्पणम्; रहस्तर्पणेन तर्पिता रहस्तर्पणतर्पिता

rahasi tarpaṇam rahastarpaṇam; rahastarpaṇena tarpitā rahastarpaṇatarpitā

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally the secret tarpaṇa is inward: the nectar released when kuṇḍalinī reaches the crown floods and satisfies the deities of the body, or the senses' objects are offered into the fire of consciousness.

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

383 keeps the visarga inside the name: sadyaḥ-prasādinī.

THE NAMES

383 सद्यःप्रसादिनी sadyaḥ-prasādinī

She who bestows Her grace immediately

SANDHI सद्यःप्रसादिनी = सद्यस् + प्रसादिनी (sadyas + prasādinī) — s becomes ru (Pāṇini 8.2.66) and then visarga before the voiceless p (8.3.15 kharavasānayor visarjanīyaḥ)

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa (with the adverb sadyas). prasādinī is an agent noun from pra + √sad 'to be pleased, gracious' with the suffix ṇini (Pāṇini 3.2.78), which here marks a habit; the indeclinable sadyas 'at once' is compounded with it: 'she who is gracious at once'.

ANALYSIS सद्यः प्रसीदति इति सद्यःप्रसादिनी

sadyaḥ prasīdati iti sadyaḥprasādinī

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally She is quickly pleased by sincere devotion, without long austerities; Her grace is not delayed.

384 विश्वसाक्षिणी viśva-sākṣiṇī

She who is witness to the whole universe

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa. sākṣiṇī 'witness' is the head and the universe stands to it in the genitive.

ANALYSIS विश्वस्य साक्षिणी विश्वसाक्षिणी

viśvasya sākṣiṇī viśvasākṣiṇī

SIGNIFICANCE As pure consciousness She sees all without being touched by what She sees, as the Upaniṣads describe the Self as the witness (sākṣin).

---

385 साक्षिवर्जिता sākṣi-varjitā

She who has no other witness

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa. The participle varjitā 'devoid of' is the head and sākṣin 'witness' stands to it in the instrumental (sākṣin loses its n in composition).

ANALYSIS साक्षिभिः वर्जिता साक्षिवर्जिता

sākṣibhiḥ varjitā sākṣivarjitā

SIGNIFICANCE She is the witness of all, and nothing stands outside Her to witness Her; consciousness is known by itself alone.

---

386 षडङ्गदेवतायुक्ता ṣaḍ-aṅga-devatā-yuktā

She who is accompanied by the deities of the six aṅgas (heart, head, crest, armor, eyes and weapon)

SANDHI षडङ्ग = षष् + अङ्ग (ṣaṣ + aṅga) — the final ṣ of ṣaṣ 'six' becomes ḍ at the end of a member (jaśtva, Pāṇini 8.2.39)

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa (over an inner ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa and a dvigu). (1) ṣaṭ-aṅga 'the six limbs' (a numeral compound, dvigu). (2) ...aṅga-devatā 'the deities of the six limbs' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (3) The participle yuktā 'accompanied' is the head and the deities stand to it in the instrumental.

ANALYSIS षट् अङ्गानि षडङ्गानि; षडङ्गानाम् देवताः षडङ्गदेवताः; षडङ्गदेवताभिः युक्ता षडङ्गदेवतायुक्ता

SIGNIFICANCE In ritual the six limbs of the mantra are placed on the body (aṅga-nyāsa) as heart, head, crest of hair, armor, eyes and weapon. Traditionally the name is also read of Śiva's six attributes: omniscience, contentment, beginningless knowledge, independence, unfailing power and infinite power.

---

387 षाड्गुण्यपरिपूरिता ṣāḍguṇya-paripūritā

She who is completely filled with the six excellences (bhaga)

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa. The participle paripūritā 'completely filled' is the head and ṣāḍguṇya 'the six excellences' stands to it in the instrumental. ṣāḍguṇya is a single derived word (from ṣaḍ-guṇa 'six qualities' with a collective suffix and vṛddhi), so no junction inside it is analysed here.

ANALYSIS षाड्गुण्येन परिपूरिता षाड्गुण्यपरिपूरिता

ṣāḍguṇyena paripūritā ṣāḍguṇyaparipūritā

SIGNIFICANCE The Viṣṇu Purāṇa names the six that make up bhaga, divine excellence: complete sovereignty, dharma, glory, fortune, knowledge and dispassion; some lists have valor (vīrya) in place of dharma.

SANSKRIT	ENGLISH
शरीरिणी śarīriṇī	embodied, having as body śarīra 'body' + the possessive suffix -in, feminine

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Nityaklinnā (388), Śivadūtī (405) and Vijayā (346) are also names of individual Nityā goddesses; 391 names the sixteen together. 390 is one compound (nirvāṇa-sukha-dāyinī), though it was printed as two words.

THE NAMES

388 नित्यक्लिन्ना nitya-klinnā

She who is ever moist with compassion

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND karmadhāraya (supsupā, with an adverbial first member). The adverb nityam 'always' qualifies the participle klinnā 'moist': 'ever-moist'. The members are simply juxtaposed.

ANALYSIS नित्यम् क्लिन्ना नित्यक्लिन्ना

nityam klinnā nityaklinnā

SIGNIFICANCE The moistness is the melting of Her heart in compassion. Nityaklinnā is also the third of the Nityā goddesses of the lunar fortnight (see name 391).

389 निरुपमा nir-upamā

She who is incomparable

SANDHI निरुपमा = निस् + उपमा (nis + upamā) — the s of the prefix nis becomes r (through ru, Pāṇini 8.2.66 sasajuṣo ruḥ) before a voiced sound COMPOUND prādi-bahuvrīhi. nis stands for nirgata 'gone out', and the compound describes Her: 'She from whom all comparison has gone', i.e. who has no equal.

ANALYSIS निर्गता उपमा यस्याः सा निरुपमा

nirgatā upamā yasyāḥ sā nirupamā

SIGNIFICANCE Nothing can be compared with Her, since there is nothing other than Her; as the Śvetāśvatara Upaniṣad says, 'there is no likeness of Him' (na tasya pratimā asti).

390 निर्वाणसुखदायिनी nirvāṇa-sukha-dāyinī

She who confers the bliss of liberation

SANDHI निर्वाण = निस् + वाण (nis + vāṇa) — the s of the prefix nis becomes r (through ru, Pāṇini 8.2.66 sasajuṣo ruḥ) before a voiced sound; the r then turns the n of vāna into ṇ (ṇatva)

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa (over an inner karmadhāraya). (1) nirvāṇa-sukha 'the bliss that is liberation' (karmadhāraya of identification; a genitive reading 'the bliss of liberation' gives the same sense). (2) dāyinī 'giver', an agent noun from √dā with ṇini (the root takes y before -in), is compounded with its object.

ANALYSIS निर्वाणम् एव सुखम् निर्वाणसुखम्; निर्वाणसुखम् ददाति इति निर्वाणसुखदायिनी

nirvāṇam eva sukham nirvāṇasukham; nirvāṇasukham dadāti iti nirvāṇasukhadāyinī

SIGNIFICANCE Nirvāṇa is the 'blowing out' of bondage; its bliss is not a pleasure that ends but the Self's own nature, which She reveals.

> CORRECTED निर्वाण सुखदायिनी → निर्वाणसुखदायिनी. "निर्वाण सुखदायिनी" → निर्वाणसुखदायिनी: one compound name; the space split it into what reads as two words.

391 नित्याषोडशिकारूपा nityā-ṣoḍaśikā-rūpā

She who has the form of the sixteen Nityā goddesses

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (over an inner ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (1) nityā-ṣoḍaśikā 'the group of sixteen Nityās' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). The first member keeps its feminine -ā (nityā, not nitya-) as the name of the goddesses. (2) The whole is a bahuvrīhi: 'She whose form is the sixteen Nityās'.

ANALYSIS नित्यानाम् षोडशिका नित्याषोडशिका; नित्याषोडशिका रूपम् यस्याः सा नित्याषोडशिकारूपा

nityānām ṣoḍaśikā nityāṣoḍaśikā; nityāṣoḍaśikā rūpam yasyāḥ sā nityāṣoḍaśikārūpā

SIGNIFICANCE The Nityās are the deities of the lunar days: Kāmeśvarī, Bhagamālinī, Nityaklinnā, Bheruṇḍā, Vahnivāsinī, Mahāvajreśvarī, Śivadūtī, Tvaritā, Kulasundarī, Nityā, Nīlapatākā, Vijayā, Sarvamaṅgalā, Jvālāmālinī and Citrā, with Lalitā Herself as the sixteenth, Mahānityā. Their worship is set out in the Nityāṣoḍaśikārṇava.

> CORRECTED नित्या-षोडशिकारूपा → नित्याषोडशिकारूपा. A hyphen had been typed into the Devanagari (नित्या-षोडशिका); Devanagari compounds are written solid.

392 श्रीकण्ठार्धशरीरिणी śrīkaṇṭhārdha-śarīriṇī

She who possesses half of the body of Śrīkaṇṭha (Śiva), as Ardhanārīśvara

SANDHI श्रीकण्ठार्ध = श्रीकण्ठ + अर्ध (śrīkaṇṭha + ardha) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND karmadhāraya with the possessive suffix -in (over an inner ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa and a bahuvrīhi). (1) śrī-kaṇṭha 'he in whose throat is beauty' (bahuvrīhi), a name of Śiva, whose throat is marked by the poison He held there. (2) śrīkaṇṭha-ardha 'half of Śrīkaṇṭha' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (3) This is compounded with śarīra 'body', and the possessive suffix -in makes śarīriṇī: 'She who has half of Śiva as Her body'.

ANALYSIS श्रीः कण्ठे यस्य सः श्रीकण्ठः; श्रीकण्ठस्य अर्धम् श्रीकण्ठार्धम्; श्रीकण्ठार्धम् शरीरम् अस्याः अस्ति इति श्रीकण्ठार्धशरीरिणी

śrīḥ kaṇṭhe yasya saḥ śrīkaṇṭhaḥ; śrīkaṇṭhasya ardham śrīkaṇṭhārdham; śrīkaṇṭhārdham śarīram asyāḥ asti iti śrīkaṇṭhārdhaśarīriṇī

SIGNIFICANCE She is the left half of Śiva in the form Ardhanārīśvara, half woman and half man: Śiva and Śakti are inseparable.

> UNCERTAIN For an exact half Pāṇini's rule (2.2.2 ardhaṃ napuṃsakam) puts ardha first; here, as often in later usage, it follows in a genitive compound.

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

मूलप्रकृतिरव्यक्ता = मूलप्रकृतिः + अव्यक्ता (mūlaprakṛtiḥ + avyaktā) — visarga after i becomes r before a vowel (the r of ru, Pāṇini 8.2.66) mūlaprakṛtiḥ (397) and avyaktā (398) are separate names; the r of -prakṛtir is the visarga before a-.

THE NAMES

393 प्रभावती prabhāvatī

She who is effulgent

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally Her radiance is the light of the deities who surround Her in the Śrīcakra, rays of Her own splendor.

394 प्रभारूपा prabhā-rūpā

She who is effulgence

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi. prabhā 'radiance' and rūpa 'form' are co-referential, and the compound describes Her: 'She whose form is radiance'.

ANALYSIS प्रभा रूपम् यस्याः सा प्रभारूपा

prabhā rūpam yasyāḥ sā prabhārūpā

SIGNIFICANCE She does not merely possess light (previous name); She is light, the light of consciousness by which all else is seen.

---

395 प्रसिद्धा prasiddhā

She who is celebrated

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally She is known to everyone, since She is the 'I' that each being knows as itself, even when Her true nature is not recognized.

---

396 परमेश्वरी parameśvarī

She who is the supreme sovereign

SANDHI परमेश्वरी = परम + ईश्वरी (parama + īśvarī) — guṇa: a + ī → e (Pāṇini 6.1.87 ād guṇaḥ)

COMPOUND karmadhāraya. The adjective paramā 'supreme' qualifies īśvarī 'sovereign' and takes its masculine stem parama- in the karmadhāraya (puṃvadbhāva, Pāṇini 6.3.42).

ANALYSIS परमा ईश्वरी परमेश्वरी

paramā īśvarī parameśvarī

SIGNIFICANCE She rules over all rulers, including the gods who govern creation, preservation and dissolution.

---

397 मूलप्रकृतिः mūla-prakṛtiḥ

She who is the root Nature (mūlaprakṛti), the first cause of the universe

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND karmadhāraya. mūla 'root' stands in apposition to prakṛti 'nature', the head: 'the Nature that is the root'. prakṛti is feminine, so the name ends in -iḥ.

ANALYSIS मूलम् प्रकृतिः मूलप्रकृतिः

mūlam prakṛtiḥ mūlaprakṛtiḥ

SIGNIFICANCE Mūlaprakṛti is the Sāṅkhya term for primal matter, itself uncaused (the Sāṅkhyakārikā: mūlaprakṛtir avikṛtiḥ); in Śrīvidyā this root of all evolution is Her own power.

398 अव्यक्ता avyaktā

She who is unmanifested

SANDHI व्यक्ता = वि + अक्ता (vi + aktā) — yaṇ: i becomes y before a dissimilar vowel (Pāṇini 6.1.77 iko yaṇ aci), at the junction of the prefix vi with akta (√añj)

COMPOUND nañ-tatpuruṣa. The negative na, reduced to a- (Pāṇini 6.3.73 nalopo nañaḥ), is compounded with the participle vyaktā 'manifest': 'not manifest'.

ANALYSIS न व्यक्ता अव्यक्ता

na vyaktā avyaktā

SIGNIFICANCE Avyakta is the unmanifest state of prakṛti, beyond the great principle (mahat), as the Kaṭha Upaniṣad says: mahataḥ param avyaktam.

399 व्यक्ताव्यक्तस्वरूपिणी vyaktāvyakta-svarūpiṇī

She who is in the manifested and unmanifested forms

SANDHI व्यक्ताव्यक्त = व्यक्त + अव्यक्त (vyakta + avyakta) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND karmadhāraya with the possessive suffix -in (over an inner itaretara-dvandva). (1) vyakta-avyakta 'the manifest and the unmanifest' (itaretara-dvandva). (2) This is compounded with svarūpa 'own nature', and the possessive suffix -in makes svarūpiṇī 'having as Her own nature'.

ANALYSIS व्यक्तम् च अव्यक्तम् च व्यक्ताव्यक्ते; व्यक्ताव्यक्ते स्वरूपम् अस्याः अस्ति इति व्यक्ताव्यक्तस्वरूपिणी

vyaktam ca avyaktam ca vyaktāvyakte; vyaktāvyakte svarūpam asyāḥ asti iti vyaktāvyaktasvarūpiṇī

SIGNIFICANCE Both the evolved world and its unevolved cause are Her; She is not only the root (397–398) but also all that grows from it.

> CORRECTED व्यक्ताव्यक्तस्वरूपीणि → व्यक्ताव्यक्तस्वरूपिणी. स्वरूपीणि → स्वरूपिणी (-iṇī: short i, long final ī).

कौमुदी kaumudī	moonlight from kumuda: the light that delights the night-lilies

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

The half-line in text.json reads विद्याविद्या-स्वरूपिणी, with a hyphen typed into the Devanagari and without the avagraha that the name (402) has; see the text concern on 402. Name 403 fills the whole second half.

400 व्यापिनी vyāpinī

She who is all-pervading

SANDHI व्यापिनी = वि + आपिनी (vi + āpinī) — yaṇ: i becomes y before a dissimilar vowel (Pāṇini 6.1.77 iko yaṇ aci), at the junction of the prefix vi with āpinī

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE There is no place where She is not; as space pervades all pots, She pervades all beings.

401 विविधाकारा vividhākārā

She who has a multitude of forms

SANDHI विविधाकारा = विविध + आकारा (vividha + ākārā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi. vividha 'various' qualifies ākāra 'form', and the whole describes Her: 'She whose forms are manifold'; ākāra takes the feminine -ā.

ANALYSIS विविधाः आकाराः यस्याः सा विविधाकारा

vividhāḥ ākārāḥ yasyāḥ sā vividhākārā

SIGNIFICANCE Every form in the universe is one of Her forms; traditionally, in worship She takes whatever form the devotee holds dear.

402 विद्याऽविद्यास्वरूपिणी vidyā'vidyā-svarūpiṇī

She who is the form of both knowledge and ignorance

SANDHI विद्याऽविद्या = विद्या + अविद्या (vidyā + avidyā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: ā + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ); the avagraha ऽ marks the absorbed a COMPOUND karmadhāraya with the possessive suffix -in (over an inner itaretara-dvandva). (1) vidyā-avidyā 'knowledge and ignorance' (itaretara-dvandva). (2) This is compounded with svarūpa 'own nature', and the possessive suffix -in makes svarūpiṇī.

ANALYSIS विद्या च अविद्या च विद्याविद्ये; विद्याविद्ये स्वरूपम् अस्याः अस्ति इति विद्याऽविद्यास्वरूपिणी

vidyā ca avidyā ca vidyāvidye; vidyāvidye svarūpam asyāḥ asti iti vidyā'vidyāsvarūpiṇī

SIGNIFICANCE The Devī Māhātmya (ch. 1) calls Her the supreme knowledge that is the cause of liberation and also the cause of the bondage of saṃsāra; the Īśa Upaniṣad teaches that one crosses death by avidyā and gains immortality by vidyā.

403 महाकामेशनयनकुमुदाह्लादकौमुदी mahā-kāmeśa-nayana-kumudāhlāda-kaumudī

She who is the moonlight that gladdens the water-lilies that are Mahākāmeśa's eyes

SANDHI कामेश = काम + ईश (kāma + īśa) — guṇa: a + ī → e (Pāṇini 6.1.87 ād guṇaḥ); कुमुदाह्लाद = कुमुद + आह्लाद (kumuda + āhlāda) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND karmadhāraya with a dropped middle member (over inner karmadhārayas and ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣas). (1) kāma-īśa 'the Lord of desire' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa), and mahā-kāmeśa 'the great Kāmeśa' (karmadhāraya; mahat becomes mahā-). (2) ...kāmeśa-nayana 'the eyes of Mahākāmeśa' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (3) ...nayana-kumuda 'the eyes, which are night-lilies' (karmadhāraya of identification, rūpaka). (4) ...kumuda-āhlāda 'the gladdening of those lilies' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (5) ...āhlāda-kaumudī 'the moonlight that causes that gladdening' (karmadhāraya with the middle word kāriṇī 'causing' understood). kaumudī is feminine already.

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Name 404 fills the first half. Names 405–410 (into śloka 89) all begin with śiva-; 408 śivaṅkarī is śivam + karī.

THE NAMES

404 भक्तहार्दतमोभेदभानुमद्भानुसन्ततिः

bhakta-hārda-tamo-bheda-bhānumad-bhānu-santatiḥ

She who is the stream of sunrays that dispels the darkness in the hearts of Her devotees

SANDHI तमोभेद = तमस् + भेद (tamas + bheda) — final -as before a voiced consonant: s becomes ru (Pāṇini 8.2.66 sasajuṣo ruḥ), ru becomes u after a (6.1.114 haśi ca), and a + u → o by guṇa (6.1.87): -o; भानुमद्भानु = भानुमत् + भानु (bhānumat + bhānu) — jaśtva: a final t becomes d before a voiced sound (Pāṇini 8.2.39 jhalāṃ jaśo 'nte); सन्तति = सम् + तति (sam + tati) — m becomes anusvāra before a consonant (Pāṇini 8.3.23 mo 'nusvāraḥ), which takes the place of articulation of the following stop (8.4.58–59 anusvārasya yayi parasavarṇaḥ): written n before a dental

COMPOUND karmadhāraya with a dropped middle member (over inner karmadhārayas and ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣas). (1) hārda-tamas 'the darkness of the heart' (karmadhāraya; hārda 'belonging to the heart'), and bhakta-hārdatamas 'the heart-darkness of the devotees' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (2) ...tamo-bheda 'the piercing of that darkness' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (3) bhānumad-bhānu 'the rays of the sun' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa; bhānumat 'possessing rays' is the sun) and ...bhānu-santati 'a stream of those rays'. (4) The two halves join as a karmadhāraya with 'causing' understood: 'the stream of sunrays that pierces the darkness in the devotees' hearts'. santati is feminine, so the name ends in -iḥ.

SIGNIFICANCE A single ray does not end the night; a continuous stream of sunlight does. So Her grace, flowing without break, removes the ignorance in the devotee's heart.

405 शिवदूती śiva-dūtī

She for whom Śiva is the messenger

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi; alternatively ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa. As a bahuvrīhi: 'She whose messenger is Śiva'; the final takes the feminine -ī. As a ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa, dūtī 'female messenger' is the head: 'Śiva's messenger'.

ANALYSIS शिवः दूतः यस्याः सा शिवदूती; अथवा शिवस्य दूती शिवदूती

śivaḥ dūtaḥ yasyāḥ sā śivadūtī; athavā śivasya dūtī śivadūtī

SIGNIFICANCE In the Devī Māhātmya (ch. 8) the Śakti that emerges from the Goddess sends Śiva Himself as Her envoy to the demons Śumbha and Niśumbha, and so is known as Śivadūtī. Śivadūtī is also the seventh of the Nityā goddesses.

> UNCERTAIN The bahuvrīhi ('whose messenger is Śiva', as in the Devī Māhātmya story) and the ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa ('messenger of Śiva') are both current.

406 शिवाराध्या śivārādhyā

She who is worshipped by Śiva

SANDHI शिवाराध्या = शिव + आराध्या (śiva + ārādhyā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa. ārādhyā 'to be worshipped' (gerundive) is the head and Śiva stands to it in the instrumental as the agent.

ANALYSIS शिवेन आराध्या शिवाराध्या

śivena ārādhyā śivārādhyā

SIGNIFICANCE Even Śiva worships Her: the power by which He is what He is.

---

407 शिवमूर्तिः śiva-mūrtiḥ

She whose form is Śiva Himself

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi; alternatively karmadhāraya. As a bahuvrīhi, Śiva and mūrti 'form' are co-referential: 'She whose form is Śiva'. As a karmadhāraya, śivā 'auspicious' qualifies mūrti: 'the auspicious form'. mūrti is feminine, so the name ends in -iḥ.

ANALYSIS शिवः मूर्तिः यस्याः सा शिवमूर्तिः; अथवा शिवा मूर्तिः शिवमूर्तिः

śivaḥ mūrtiḥ yasyāḥ sā śivamūrtiḥ; athavā śivā mūrtiḥ śivamūrtiḥ

SIGNIFICANCE Śiva and Śakti are one; Her form is His. Read the other way, Her form is auspiciousness itself.

> UNCERTAIN 'whose form is Śiva' (bahuvrīhi) and 'auspicious form' (karmadhāraya) are both possible.

408 शिवङ्करी śivaṅ-karī

She who brings about auspiciousness

SANDHI शिवङ्करी = शिवम् + करी (śivam + karī) — m becomes anusvāra before a consonant (Pāṇini 8.3.23 mo 'nusvāraḥ), and the anusvāra becomes ṅ before k (8.4.58 anusvārasya yayi parasavarṇaḥ)

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa. karī is an agent form of √kṛ 'to make', compounded with its object śiva 'auspiciousness, welfare': 'she who brings about welfare'. The m before kara is the augment mum, as in bhayaṅkara, kṣemaṅkara (Pāṇini 6.3.67 arurdviṣadajantasya mum); it may also be taken as the accusative ending kept. Either way the surface is śivaṅ-.

ANALYSIS शिवम् करोति इति शिवङ्करी

śivam karoti iti śivaṅkarī

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally also: She makes Her devotees into Śiva, bringing them to identity with Him.

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Name 415 divides mano-vācām + agocarā ('beyond the range of minds and words'), not vācāma + gocarā.

THE NAMES

409 शिवप्रिया śiva-priyā

She who is beloved of Śiva

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa; alternatively bahuvrīhi. As a ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa, priyā 'beloved' is the head: 'the beloved of Śiva'. As a bahuvrīhi: 'She to whom Śiva is dear'. Both are true of Her.

ANALYSIS शिवस्य प्रिया शिवप्रिया; अथवा शिवः प्रियः यस्याः सा शिवप्रिया

śivasya priyā śivapriyā; athavā śivaḥ priyaḥ yasyāḥ sā śivapriyā

SIGNIFICANCE She is dear to Śiva and Śiva is dear to Her; the love of the divine couple is the model of the devotee's love.

410 शिवपरा śiva-parā

She who is solely devoted to Śiva

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi; alternatively pañcamī-tatpuruṣa. As a bahuvrīhi, para 'highest, devoted to' is predicated of Śiva: 'She for whom Śiva is the highest', i.e. wholly devoted to Him. As a pañcamī-tatpuruṣa: 'She who is beyond Śiva'.

ANALYSIS शिवः परः यस्याः सा शिवपरा; अथवा शिवात् परा शिवपरा

śivaḥ paraḥ yasyāḥ sā śivaparā; athavā śivāt parā śivaparā

SIGNIFICANCE She has no aim but Śiva; read the other way, She is beyond even Śiva, as the supreme power.

> UNCERTAIN 'devoted to Śiva' (bahuvrīhi) and 'beyond Śiva' (pañcamī-tatpuruṣa) are both current; the meaning follows the first.

411 शिष्टेष्टा śiṣṭeṣṭā

She who is dear to the righteous

SANDHI शिष्टेष्टा = शिष्ट + इष्टा (śiṣṭa + iṣṭā) — guṇa: a + i → e (Pāṇini 6.1.87 ād guṇaḥ)

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa; alternatively tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa. iṣṭā is the head. From √iṣ 'to desire' it means 'dear, desired', and the righteous stand to it in the genitive: 'dear to the righteous'. From √yaj 'to worship' it means 'worshipped', and they stand to it in the instrumental: 'worshipped by the righteous'.

ANALYSIS शिष्टानाम् इष्टा शिष्टेष्टा; अथवा शिष्टैः इष्टा शिष्टेष्टा

śiṣṭānām iṣṭā śiṣṭeṣṭā; athavā śiṣṭaiḥ iṣṭā śiṣṭeṣṭā

SIGNIFICANCE She is the chosen deity (iṣṭa-devatā) of the disciplined, who worship Her; traditionally She in turn loves those who live by dharma.

> UNCERTAIN iṣṭā may be from √iṣ ('dear to the righteous') or √yaj ('worshipped by the righteous'); a bahuvrīhi 'to whom the righteous are dear' is also given by some.

412 शिष्टपूजिता śiṣṭa-pūjitā

She who is worshipped by the righteous

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa. pūjitā 'worshipped' is the head and the śiṣṭas stand to it in the instrumental as the agents.

ANALYSIS शिष्टैः पूजिता शिष्टपूजिता

śiṣṭaiḥ pūjitā śiṣṭapūjitā

SIGNIFICANCE The śiṣṭas, those trained in the Veda and its discipline, are traditionally the standard of right practice; their worship of Her is itself authority for Her worship.

413 अप्रमेया a-prameyā

She who is immeasurable, beyond every means of knowledge

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND nañ-tatpuruṣa. The negative na, reduced to a- (Pāṇini 6.3.73 nalopo nañaḥ), is compounded with the gerundive prameyā 'to be measured, known by a means of knowledge'.

ANALYSIS न प्रमेया अप्रमेया

na prameyā aprameyā

SIGNIFICANCE No means of valid knowledge (pramāṇa), perception, inference or any other, can make Her its object, since She is the consciousness by which they all work.

414 स्वप्रकाशा sva-prakāśā

She who is self-luminous

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi. sva 'own' qualifies prakāśa 'light', and the whole describes Her: 'She whose light is Her own'. A tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa reading ('shining by Herself', svena prakāśā) gives the same sense.

ANALYSIS स्वः प्रकाशः यस्याः सा स्वप्रकाशा

svaḥ prakāśaḥ yasyāḥ sā svaprakāśā

SIGNIFICANCE 'Everything shines after Him as He shines; by His light all this is lit' (tam eva bhāntam anubhāti sarvam, Kaṭha and Muṇḍaka Upaniṣads). She needs no other light to be known.

415 मनोवाचामगोचरा mano-vācām-agocarā

She who is beyond the range of mind and speech

SANDHI मनोवाचाम् = मनस् + वाचाम् (manas + vācām) — final -as before a voiced consonant: s becomes ru (Pāṇini 8.2.66 sasajuṣo ruḥ), ru becomes u after a (6.1.114 haśi ca), and a + u → o by guṇa (6.1.87): -o

COMPOUND a genitive dvandva governed by a nañ-tatpuruṣa, written as one name. (1) mano-vāc 'minds and words' (itaretara-dvandva), here in the genitive plural, manovācām. (2) a-gocarā 'not within the range' (nañ-tatpuruṣa; gocara 'range of the senses', used adjectivally and made feminine). (3) The genitive depends on agocarā: 'not within the range of minds and words'. The genitive ending is kept, so this is either a compound that retains its case ending (aluk) or two words read together as one name; the m of vācām simply stands before the a of agocarā.

ANALYSIS मनांसि च वाचः च मनोवाचः; न गोचरा अगोचरा; मनोवाचाम् अगोचरा मनोवाचामगोचरा

manāṃsi ca vācaḥ ca manovācaḥ; na gocarā agocarā; manovācām agocarā manovācāmagocarā

SIGNIFICANCE The Taittirīya Upaniṣad says of the bliss of Brahman: 'from which words turn back, together with the mind, not having reached it' (yato vāco nivartante aprāpya manasā saha).

> UNCERTAIN Whether manovācām agocarā is one compound with the genitive retained or two words read as a single name is not settled; the meaning is the same.

द्विज dvija	twice-born; one initiated into the Veda dvis 'twice' + ja 'born'
वृन्द vṛnda	multitude, host
निषेविता niṣevitā	served, worshipped ni + √sev 'to serve', past participle, feminine

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

चिच्छक्तिश् चेतना = चिच्छक्तिः + चेतना… (cicchaktiḥ + cetanā…) — visarga becomes s before a voiceless stop (Pāṇini 8.3.34 visarjanīyasya saḥ), and that s becomes ś before the palatal c (8.4.40 stoḥ ścunā ścuḥ)

जडशक्तिर्जडात्मिका = जडशक्तिः + जडात्मिका (jaḍaśaktiḥ + jaḍātmikā) — visarga after i becomes r before a voiced sound (the r of ru, Pāṇini 8.2.66)

Names 416–419 pair the sentient and insentient powers; 420–423 recall the twilight worship (Gāyatrī, vyāhṛti, sandhyā, the twice-born). The visarga of vyāhṛtiḥ stands unchanged before s- (optional, Pāṇini 8.3.36 vā śari).

THE NAMES

416 चिच्छक्तिः cic-chaktiḥ

She who is the power of consciousness

SANDHI — चिच्छक्ति = चित् + शक्ति (cit + śakti) — t becomes c before ś (Pāṇini 8.4.40 stoḥ ścunā ścuḥ), and ś after it becomes ch (8.4.63 śaś cho 'ṭi, optional): cit + śakti → cicchakti

COMPOUND — karmadhāraya; alternatively ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa. As a karmadhāraya: 'the power that is consciousness'. As a ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa: 'the power of consciousness'. śakti is feminine, so the name ends in -iḥ.

ANALYSIS — चित् एव शक्तिः चिच्छक्तिः; अथवा चितः शक्तिः चिच्छक्तिः

cit eva śaktiḥ cicchaktiḥ; athavā citaḥ śaktiḥ cicchaktiḥ

SIGNIFICANCE — Names 416–419 pair Her sentient and insentient powers: consciousness (416–417) and the inert world (418–419); both are one Śakti.

417 चेतनारूपा cetanā-rūpā

She whose form is awareness (cetanā)

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi. cetanā 'sentience' and rūpa 'form' are co-referential, and the compound describes Her: 'She whose form is sentience'.

ANALYSIS चेतना रूपम् यस्याः सा चेतनारूपा

cetanā rūpam yasyāḥ sā cetanārūpā

SIGNIFICANCE The Devī Māhātmya (ch. 5) salutes the Goddess 'who in all beings is called awareness' (yā devī sarvabhūteṣu cetanety abhidhīyate): the sentience by which each being knows.

418 जडशक्तिः jaḍa-śaktiḥ

She who is the power that becomes the insentient world

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND karmadhāraya; alternatively ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa. As a karmadhāraya: 'the insentient power' (jaḍā takes the stem jaḍa- by puṃvadbhāva). As a ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa: 'the power of (that which is) insentient', i.e. the power that becomes matter.

ANALYSIS जडा शक्तिः जडशक्तिः; अथवा जडस्य शक्तिः जडशक्तिः

jaḍā śaktiḥ jaḍaśaktiḥ; athavā jaḍasya śaktiḥ jaḍaśaktiḥ

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally this is māyā, Her power as the material cause, which transforms itself into the inert universe; it complements cicchakti (416).

419 जडात्मिका jaḍātmikā

She who is in the form of the inanimate world

SANDHI जडात्मिका = जड + आत्मिका (jaḍa + ātmikā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi. jaḍa 'insentient' and ātman 'self, nature' are co-referential, and the whole describes Her: 'She whose nature is the insentient'. The bahuvrīhi takes the suffix kap (ātman → ātmaka), and the feminine is -ikā (Pāṇini 7.3.44).

ANALYSIS जडः आत्मा यस्याः सा जडात्मिका

jaḍaḥ ātmā yasyāḥ sā jaḍātmikā

SIGNIFICANCE The inert world too is Her, as the sentient beings are; nothing is outside Her.

420 गायत्री gāyatrī

She who is the Gāyatrī mantra

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE The Gāyatrī (tat savitur vareṇyam, Ṛgveda 3.62.10) is the mother of the Vedas; the traditional derivation explains the name as that which protects the one who sings it (gāyantaṃ trāyate). Names 420–423 recall the twilight worship (sandhyā-vandana) of the twice-born.

421 व्याहृतिः vyāhṛtiḥ

She who is the Vyāhṛti, the sacred utterance

SANDHI व्याहृति = वि + आहृति (vi + āhṛti) — yaṇ: i becomes y before a dissimilar vowel (Pāṇini 6.1.77 iko yaṇ aci), at the junction of the prefix vi with āhṛti

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE The vyāhṛtis bhūḥ, bhuvaḥ, svaḥ are uttered before the Gāyatrī; they name the three worlds. Traditionally She is also all utterance, the power of speech.

422 सन्ध्या sandhyā

She who is in the form of twilight

SANDHI सन्ध्या = सम् + ध्या (sam + dhyā) — m becomes anusvāra before a consonant (Pāṇini 8.3.23 mo 'nusvāraḥ), which takes the place of articulation of the following stop (8.4.58–59 anusvārasya yayi parasavarṇaḥ): written n before a dental

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE Sandhyā is the junction of night and day and the worship performed at those junctions; She is both the hour and the rite.

> UNCERTAIN The word is derived from sam + √dhyai ('meditation') or from sandhi 'junction' (sam + √dhā); both are traditional.

423 द्विजवृन्दनिषेविता dvija-vṛnda-niṣevitā

She who is worshipped by hosts of the twice-born

SANDHI निषेविता = नि + सेविता (ni + sevitā) — ṣatva: the s of √sev becomes ṣ after the prefix ni

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa (over an inner ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa and an upapada-tatpuruṣa). (1) dvi-ja 'twice-born' (upapada-tatpuruṣa; ja from √jan 'to be born'). (2) dvija-vṛnda 'the host of the twice-born' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (3) The participle niṣevitā 'served, worshipped' is the head and the host stands to it in the instrumental.

ANALYSIS द्विः जातः द्विजः; द्विजानाम् वृन्दम् द्विजवृन्दम्; द्विजवृन्देन निषेविता द्विजवृन्दनिषेविता

dviḥ jātaḥ dvijaḥ; dvijānām vṛndam dvijavṛndam; dvijavṛndena niṣevitā dvijavṛndaniṣevitā

SIGNIFICANCE The twice-born worship Her daily through the Gāyatrī at the twilights; the second birth is initiation into the Veda.

WORD BY WORD

SANSKRIT	ENGLISH
424 तत्त्वासना tattvāsanā
तत्त्व tattva	principle of reality, category of existence tat 'that' + the abstract suffix -tva: lit. 'that-ness', the true nature of a thing

आसना āsanā	seat āsana, with the feminine -ā of the bahuvrīhi

425 तत् tat

तत् tat	that neuter nominative singular of the demonstrative pronoun tad

426 त्वम् tvam

त्वम् tvam	you, thou nominative singular of the second-person pronoun yuṣmad

427 अयी ayī

अयी ayī	O! (a loving or earnest call) an interjection of address; usually written ayi with short i

428 पञ्चकोशान्तरस्थिता pañca-kośāntara-sthitā

पञ्चन् pañcan	five appears as pañca- in the compound
कोश kośa	sheath, covering
अन्तर antara	interior, inside
स्थिता sthitā	abiding, situated √sthā 'to stand', past participle, feminine

429 निःसीममहिमा niḥsīma-mahimā

निस् nis	out of, without prefix
सीमन् sīman	boundary, limit appears as -sīma in the compound

SANSKRIT	ENGLISH
महिमा mahimā	greatness, glory nominative of mahiman (mahat + -iman)

430 नित्ययौवना nitya-yauvanā

नित्य nitya	eternal, everlasting
यौवना yauvanā	youth yauvana (from yuvan 'young'), with the feminine -ā of the bahuvrīhi

431 मदशालिनी mada-śālinī

मद mada	exhilaration, rapture, intoxication
शालिनी śālinī	resplendent, abounding in feminine of śālin, used at the end of compounds

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

तत्त्वमयी = तत् + त्वम् + अयी (tat + tvam + ayī) — no sound change: three names written together (tvam keeps its m before the vowel of ayī). This is Bhāskararāya's division; read as one word, tattvamayī is name 907

Names 425–427 (tat · tvam · ayī) divide the letters tattvamayī into three names and recall the teaching tat tvam asi, 'That thou art'; the single word tattvamayī comes later as name 907. Names 431–433 (into śloka 92) describe Her mada, the rapture of Her bliss.

THE NAMES

424 तत्त्वासना tattvāsanā

She whose seat is the tattvas, the principles of reality

SANDHI तत्त्वासना = तत्त्व + आसना (tattva + āsanā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi. The members are tattva 'principle of reality' and āsana 'seat'; the whole is a bahuvrīhi describing Her: 'She whose seat is the tattvas'. The neuter āsana takes the feminine -ā because the compound qualifies the Goddess.

ANALYSIS तत्त्वानि आसनम् यस्याः सा तत्त्वासना

tattvāni āsanam yasyāḥ sā tattvāsanā

SIGNIFICANCE In Śrīvidyā the tattvas, from earth up to Śiva, are the throne on which She is enthroned and worshipped; She rests on all of manifest reality and is not contained by it.

> UNCERTAIN A second analysis takes āsana as an agent noun from √ās 'to sit': tattveṣu āste 'She who abides in the tattvas'. The bahuvrīhi ('whose seat is the tattvas') is the more natural reading of the compound.

425 तत् tat

She who is 'That', the supreme reality (brahman)

SANDHI तत्त्वमयी = तत् + त्वम् + अयी (tat + tvam + ayī) — No sound changes here. tat and tvam are simply juxtaposed (t + tv), and the final m of tvam stays m before the vowel of ayī (it becomes anusvāra only before a consonant, Pāṇini 8.3.23 mo 'nusvāraḥ). The same letters read as one word give tattvamayī 'consisting of the tattvas', which is name 907; here Bhāskararāya divides them into three names, tat (425), tvam (426) and ayī (427), as the 1,000-name count requires.

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE In the Upaniṣadic teaching tat tvam asi, 'That thou art' (Chāndogya Upaniṣad 6.8.7), tat denotes brahman; the Bhagavad Gītā (17.23) names brahman as oṃ tat sat. With 426 and 427 this name sets the teaching of identity within the hymn.

---

426 त्वम् tvam

She who is 'Thou', the self addressed in the teaching 'That thou art'

SANDHI त्वमयी = त्वम् + अयी (tvam + ayī) — No sound change: the final m of tvam stays m before a vowel (it would become anusvāra only before a consonant, Pāṇini 8.3.23 mo 'nusvāraḥ), so tvam and ayī are written together as tvamayī. On the division of tattvamayī into tat, tvam and ayī see name 425.

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE In tat tvam asi the word tvam denotes the individual self (jīva); its identity with tat (425) is the teaching of Advaita. Name 908, tattvamarthasvarūpiṇī, takes up the same pair: She is the meaning of tat and tvam.

> CORRECTED त्वं → त्वम्. त्वं → त्वम्: a word standing alone ends in m, not anusvāra. (425 tat, 426 tvam, 427 ayī is Bhāskararāya's division of tattvamayī and is kept.)

427 अयी ayī

She who is called upon with the loving cry 'ayī', 'O Mother!'

SANDHI त्वमयी = त्वम् + अयी (tvam + ayī) — No sound change: the m of tvam stays m before the vowel a of ayī (Pāṇini 8.3.23 makes m anusvāra only before a consonant). Bhāskararāya's division of tattvamayī into tat, tvam and ayī: see name 425.

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally ayī is the call of a devotee to the Mother, completing the triad tat, tvam, ayī; some read the three names together as echoing tat tvam asi, 'That thou art'.

> UNCERTAIN The sense of ayī is not settled. The common interjection of address is ayi with a short i; the long ī here is read either as that particle lengthened or as a feminine form, and the commentarial derivation could not be confirmed here. The rendering follows the usual reading as a call of address.

428 पञ्चकोशान्तरस्थिता pañca-kośāntara-sthitā

She who abides within the five sheaths

SANDHI कोशान्तर = कोश + अन्तर (kośa + antara) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND saptamī-tatpuruṣa (over an inner ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa and a dvigu). (1) pañca-kośa 'the five sheaths': a numeral compound, which counts as a dvigu because another member follows (Pāṇini 2.1.51 taddhitārthottarapadasamāhāre ca). (2) ...kośa-antara 'the interior of the five sheaths' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa; antara is a noun, 'inside'). (3) The participle sthitā 'abiding' is the head of the whole and takes that interior in the locative. The n of pañcan drops at the end of a compound member; that is morphology, not sandhi.

ANALYSIS पञ्च कोशाः पञ्चकोशाः; पञ्चकोशानाम् अन्तरम् पञ्चकोशान्तरम्; पञ्चकोशान्तरे स्थिता पञ्चकोशान्तरस्थिता

pañca kośāḥ pañcakośāḥ; pañcakośānām antaram pañcakośāntaram; pañcakośāntare sthitā pañcakośāntarasthitā

SIGNIFICANCE The five sheaths of the Taittirīya Upaniṣad — of food, breath, mind, understanding and bliss — enclose the Self; She is that innermost Self, hidden within all five.

429 निःसीममहिमा niḥsīma-mahimā

She whose glory is limitless

SANDHI निःसीम = निस् + सीम (nis + sīma) — the s of nis becomes visarga before the sibilant (s → ru, Pāṇini 8.2.66; ru → visarga before a voiceless sound, 8.3.15), and the visarga is kept instead of becoming s (optional, 8.3.36 vā śari): niḥsīma, also written nissīma

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (over an inner karmadhāraya and a prādi-compound). (1) niḥ-sīma 'gone beyond limit, boundless': the prefix nis with the sense of nirgata 'gone out of' compounds with sīman 'boundary' (a prādi-compound; sīman loses its final n). (2) niḥsīma qualifies mahiman 'greatness'. (3) The whole is a bahuvrīhi: 'She whose greatness is boundless'. The an-stem mahiman keeps its form, and its nominative mahimā serves as the feminine.

ANALYSIS निर्गतः सीम्नः निःसीमः; निःसीमः महिमा यस्याः सा निःसीममहिमा

nirgataḥ sīmnaḥ niḥsīmaḥ; niḥsīmaḥ mahimā yasyāḥ sā niḥsīmamahimā

SIGNIFICANCE Her greatness has no boundary in space, time or form; the Upaniṣads speak of brahman as resting in its own greatness.

---

430 नित्ययौवना nitya-yauvanā

She who is ever youthful

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi. nitya 'everlasting' qualifies yauvana 'youth'; the whole is a bahuvrīhi: 'She whose youth is everlasting'. The neuter yauvana takes the feminine -ā.

ANALYSIS नित्यम् यौवनम् यस्याः सा नित्ययौवना

nityam yauvanam yasyāḥ sā nityayauvanā

SIGNIFICANCE Untouched by time, She never ages; compare 470, vayo'vasthāvivarjitā, free from the stages of age.

---

431 मदशालिनी mada-śālinī

She who is resplendent with rapture (mada)

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa. śālinī 'resplendent, abounding' is the head; mada 'exhilaration, rapture' stands to it in the instrumental: 'resplendent with rapture'.

ANALYSIS मदेन शालिनी मदशालिनी

madena śālinī madaśālinī

SIGNIFICANCE Names 431–433 describe the mada of the Goddess. Traditionally this is the overflowing joy of Her own bliss (ānanda), not ordinary intoxication; in Kaula ritual it is linked with the offering of wine, understood inwardly.

प्रिया priyā	dear, beloved priya, with the feminine -ā of the bahuvrīhi

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Name 433 ends in the ū-stem bhū, so it ends -bhūḥ, as name 23 does.

THE NAMES

432 मदघूर्णितरक्ताक्षी mada-ghūrṇita-raktākṣī

She whose eyes are red and rolling with rapture

SANDHI रक्ताक्षी = रक्त + अक्षी (rakta + akṣī) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (over an inner tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa and a karmadhāraya). (1) mada-ghūrṇita 'rolling with rapture' (tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa). (2) It and rakta 'red' qualify akṣi 'eye'. (3) The whole is a bahuvrīhi: 'She whose eyes are red and rolling with rapture'. At the end of a bahuvrīhi akṣi takes the suffix ṣac (Pāṇini 5.4.113 bahuvrīhau sakthyakṣṇoḥ svāṅgāt ṣac), giving akṣa, and its feminine is akṣī.

ANALYSIS मदेन घूर्णिते मदघूर्णिते; मदघूर्णिते रक्ते अक्षिणी यस्याः सा मदघूर्णितरक्ताक्षी

madena ghūrṇite madaghūrṇite; madaghūrṇite rakte akṣiṇī yasyāḥ sā madaghūrṇitaraktākṣī

SIGNIFICANCE The reddened, rolling eyes are the classical marks of mada; traditionally they show Her absorption in Her own bliss, turned inward.

433 मदपाटलगण्डभूः mada-pāṭala-gaṇḍa-bhūḥ

She whose cheeks are rosy with rapture

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (over an inner tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa and a ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (1) mada-pāṭala 'rosy with rapture' (tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa). (2) gaṇḍa-bhū 'the expanse of the cheeks' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (3) (1) qualifies (2), and the whole is a bahuvrīhi: 'She whose cheeks are rosy with rapture'. The feminine pāṭalā takes the masculine stem in the bahuvrīhi (puṃvadbhāva); bhū is not shortened, so the name ends -bhūḥ, as in name 23.

ANALYSIS मदेन पाटला मदपाटला; गण्डयोः भूः गण्डभूः; मदपाटला गण्डभूः यस्याः सा मदपाटलगण्डभूः

madena pāṭalā madapāṭalā; gaṇḍayoḥ bhūḥ gaṇḍabhūḥ; madapāṭalā gaṇḍabhūḥ yasyāḥ sā madapāṭalagaṇḍabhūḥ

SIGNIFICANCE The flush of the cheeks completes the picture of 431–432: the outward signs of Her inner bliss.

---

434 चन्दनद्रवदिग्धाङ्गी candana-drava-digdhāṅgī

She whose limbs are anointed with sandalwood paste

SANDHI दिग्धाङ्गी = दिग्ध + अङ्गी (digdha + aṅgī) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (over an inner tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa and a ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (1) candana-drava 'liquid sandalwood, sandal paste' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (2) ...drava-digdha 'anointed with it' (tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa with the past participle). (3) It qualifies aṅga 'limb', and the whole is a bahuvrīhi: 'She whose limbs are anointed with sandal paste'. A body-part word at the end of a bahuvrīhi may take the feminine -ī (Pāṇini 4.1.54, extended to aṅga by a vārttika): -aṅgī.

ANALYSIS चन्दनस्य द्रवः चन्दनद्रवः; चन्दनद्रवेण दिग्धानि चन्दनद्रवदिग्धानि; चन्दनद्रवदिग्धानि अङ्गानि यस्याः सा चन्दनद्रवदिग्धाङ्गी

candanasya dravaḥ candanadravaḥ; candanadraveṇa digdhāni candanadravadigdhāni; candanadravadigdhāni aṅgāni yasyāḥ sā candanadravadigdhāṅgī

SIGNIFICANCE Sandal paste is a cooling unguent and one of the offerings (upacāra) of Her worship; it also links with 458, Her dwelling on the Malaya mountain, home of the sandalwood tree.

---

435 चाम्पेयकुसुमप्रिया cāmpeya-kusuma-priyā

She who loves campaka flowers

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (over an inner ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (1) cāmpeya-kusuma 'campaka flowers' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (2) The whole is a bahuvrīhi with priya 'dear' as the final member: 'She to whom campaka flowers are dear'.

ANALYSIS चाम्पेयस्य कुसुमानि चाम्पेयकुसुमानि; चाम्पेयकुसुमानि प्रियाणि यस्याः सा चाम्पेयकुसुमप्रिया

cāmpeyasya kusumāni cāmpeyakusumāni; cāmpeyakusumāni priyāṇi yasyāḥ sā cāmpeyakusumapriyā

SIGNIFICANCE The fragrant golden campaka is among the flowers offered to Her; name 13 already crowns Her hair with campaka.

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Names 436–441 alliterate on ku-/ko-/kau-. kurukullā (438) is the name of a goddess, not a compound; 439–441 concern kula and the Kaula path.

THE NAMES

436 कुशला kuśalā

She who is skillful

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally She is expert in every act — the creation, maintenance and withdrawal of the worlds — and in guiding devotees to their good (kuśala, welfare).

437 कोमलाकारा komalākārā

She whose form is tender and graceful

SANDHI कोमलाकारा = कोमल + आकारा (komala + ākārā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi. komala 'tender, soft' qualifies ākāra 'form, figure'; the whole is a bahuvrīhi: 'She whose form is tender'.

ANALYSIS कोमलः आकारः यस्याः सा कोमलाकारा

komalaḥ ākāraḥ yasyāḥ sā komalākārā

SIGNIFICANCE The terrible and the gentle are both Her forms; here She is gentle, delicate and lovely.

438 कुरुकुल्ला kurukullā

She who is the goddess Kurukullā

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE Kurukullā, a red goddess of enchantment who, like Lalitā, bears a bow and arrows of flowers, is worshipped in the Tantras (Buddhist as well as Hindu). In Śrīvidyā she belongs to the Goddess's own circle and is traditionally given a place within Her city.

> UNCERTAIN The derivation of the name is obscure, and the place Kurukullā holds in Śrīnagara is described differently in the sources; the old note that she resides in the kuruvinda ruby could not be confirmed.

439 कुलेश्वरी kuleśvarī

She who is the sovereign of kula (the triad of knower, knowing and known)

SANDHI कुलेश्वरी = कुल + ईश्वरी (kula + īśvarī) — guṇa: a + ī → e (Pāṇini 6.1.87 ād guṇaḥ)

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa. īśvarī 'sovereign' is the head; kula stands to it in the genitive: 'the sovereign of kula'.

ANALYSIS कुलस्य ईश्वरी कुलेश्वरी

kulasya īśvarī kuleśvarī

SIGNIFICANCE In Śrīvidyā kula is read as the triad of knower (mātṛ), knowing (māna) and known (meya), and also as the Kaula path and the kuṇḍalinī's course; She rules over all of these. Compare names 90–95 (kulāmṛtaikarasikā … kulayoginī).

---

440 कुलकुण्डालया kula-kuṇḍālayā

She who dwells in the kulakuṇḍa, the hollow at the center of the mūlādhāra

SANDHI कुण्डालया = कुण्ड + आलया (kuṇḍa + ālayā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (over an inner ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (1) kula-kuṇḍa 'the hollow of kula' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa): here kula is the mūlādhāra, and the kuṇḍa the small cavity at its center. (2) The whole is a bahuvrīhi with ālaya 'dwelling' as the final member: 'She whose dwelling is the kulakuṇḍa'.

ANALYSIS कुलस्य कुण्डम् कुलकुण्डम्; कुलकुण्डम् आलयः यस्याः सा कुलकुण्डालया

kulasya kuṇḍam kulakuṇḍam; kulakuṇḍam ālayaḥ yasyāḥ sā kulakuṇḍālayā

SIGNIFICANCE As kuṇḍalinī (name 110) She lies coiled in the kulakuṇḍa at the base of the spine, the starting point of Her ascent through the cakras.

441 कौलमार्गतत्परसेविता kaula-mārga-tatpara-sevitā

She who is worshipped by those devoted to the Kaula path

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa (over an inner saptamī-tatpuruṣa and a karmadhāraya). (1) kaula-mārga 'the Kaula path' (karmadhāraya). (2) …mārga-tatpara 'those devoted to that path' (saptamī-tatpuruṣa). (3) The participle sevitā 'worshipped' is the head of the whole and takes the devotees in the instrumental: 'worshipped by those devoted to the Kaula path'.

ANALYSIS कौलः मार्गः कौलमार्गः; कौलमार्गे तत्पराः कौलमार्गतत्पराः; कौलमार्गतत्परैः सेविता कौलमार्गतत्परसेविता

kaulaḥ mārgaḥ kaulamārgaḥ; kaulamārge tatparāḥ kaulamārgatatparāḥ; kaulamārgatatparaiḥ sevitā kaulamārgatatparasevitā

SIGNIFICANCE In Śrīvidyā the Kaula path centers on kula — the kuṇḍalinī and the union of Śakti with Śiva — and is understood above all as inner worship. Name 98 names Her as devoted to samayācāra; both paths are Hers.

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

पुष्टिर्मतिर्धृतिः = पुष्टिः + मतिः + धृतिः (puṣṭiḥ + matiḥ + dhṛtiḥ) — visarga after i becomes r before a voiced sound (final s → ru, Pāṇini 8.2.66; ru is kept as r, since the change to u applies only after a)

कान्तिर्नन्दिनी = कान्तिः + नन्दिनी (kāntiḥ + nandinī) — visarga after i becomes r before a voiced sound (final s → ru, Pāṇini 8.2.66; ru is kept as r, since the change to u applies only after a)

Name 442 is one name: Kumāra and Gaṇanātha form a dvandva, and She is the mother of both. Names 443–449 are abstract nouns — She is contentment, nourishment, understanding, fortitude, peace, well-being and radiance themselves.

THE NAMES

442 कुमारगणनाथाम्बा kumāra-gaṇanāthāmbā

She who is the mother of Kumāra (Skanda) and Gaṇanātha (Gaṇeśa)

SANDHI गणनाथाम्बा = गणनाथ + अम्बा (gaṇanātha + ambā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa (over an inner itaretara-dvandva and a ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (1) gaṇa-nātha 'lord of the gaṇas', i.e. Gaṇeśa (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (2) kumāra-gaṇanātha 'Kumāra and Gaṇanātha' (itaretara-dvandva). (3) ambā 'mother' is the head, and the pair stands to it in the genitive: 'the mother of both'.

ANALYSIS गणानाम् नाथः गणनाथः; कुमारः च गणनाथः च कुमारगणनाथौ; कुमारगणनाथयोः अम्बा कुमारगणनाथाम्बा

gaṇānām nāthaḥ gaṇanāthaḥ; kumāraḥ ca gaṇanāthaḥ ca kumāragaṇanāthau; kumāragaṇanāthayoḥ ambā kumāragaṇanāthāmbā

SIGNIFICANCE Skanda and Gaṇeśa are the sons of Śiva and the Goddess; Kumāra leads the army of the gods and Gaṇeśa removes obstacles. Compare name 77, where Gaṇeśa is born from Kāmeśvara's glance at Her face.

---

443 तुष्टिः tuṣṭiḥ

She who is contentment itself

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE Names 443–449 name Her as qualities of mind. As the Devīmāhātmya sings, the Goddess dwells in all beings in the form of contentment (tuṣṭirūpeṇa saṃsthitā).

---

444 पुष्टिः puṣṭiḥ

She who is the power of nourishment

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE She nourishes all beings, body and spirit; traditionally the growth of every living thing is Her work.

---

445 मतिः matiḥ

She who manifests as intelligence

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE She is the understanding by which beings know and discern.

446 धृतिः dhṛtiḥ

She who is fortitude

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE She is the steadiness that holds the mind to its purpose.

447 शान्तिः śāntiḥ

She who is tranquility itself

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE She is peace; the Devīmāhātmya praises the Goddess who abides in all beings as peace (śāntirūpeṇa). Compare 131, śāntimatī.

448 स्वस्तिमती svasti-matī

She who is endowed with well-being (svasti)

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally svasti — 'it is well' — is also read as imperishable, true being, which is why the name was once rendered 'the ultimate truth'.

> UNCERTAIN The reading of svasti as 'imperishable being' is traditional; the exact source in the commentaries could not be confirmed here.

449 कान्तिः kāntiḥ

She who is effulgence

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE Her radiance is the light by which all things shine; the Devīmāhātmya praises the Goddess as abiding in all beings as loveliness (kāntirūpeṇa). Compare 465, kāntimatī.

450 नन्दिनी nandinī

She who gives delight

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE She gladdens Her devotees; traditionally the name also recalls Nandinī, the wish-fulfilling cow.

451 विघ्ननाशिनी vighna-nāśinī

She who destroys obstacles

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa. nāśinī 'destroying' is an agent noun from the causative of √naś with the suffix -in (ṇini, of habitual action, Pāṇini 3.2.78 supy ajātau ṇinis tācchīlye); it governs vighna 'obstacle' as its object.

ANALYSIS विघ्नान् नाशयति इति विघ्ननाशिनी

vighnān nāśayati iti vighnanāśinī

SIGNIFICANCE She removes every obstacle on the path, outer and inner; the same power appears in Her son Gaṇeśa (442).

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Name 454 lolākṣīkāmarūpiṇī is one name in the 1,000-name count; do not cut off kāmarūpiṇī, which is name 796.

THE NAMES

452 तेजोवती tejovatī

She who is effulgent

SANDHI तेजोवती = तेजस् + वती (tejas + vatī) — the s of tejas, treated as a word-end before the suffix, becomes ru (Pāṇini 8.2.66), which after a and before a voiced consonant becomes u (6.1.114 haśi ca); a + u then gives o (6.1.87), as in tejomaya

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE She is full of tejas, the radiant power that shines in sun, moon and fire and is the light of consciousness itself.

> UNCERTAIN The usual Pāṇinian derivation keeps the s of tejas before a possessive suffix (Pāṇini 1.4.19 tasau matvarthe), giving tejasvatī; tejovatī, with the s treated as a word-end, is the attested form of the name.

453 त्रिनयना tri-nayanā

She who has three eyes

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi. The numeral tri 'three' qualifies nayana 'eye'; the whole is a bahuvrīhi: 'She who has three eyes'.

ANALYSIS त्रीणि नयनानि यस्याः सा त्रिनयना

trīṇi nayanāni yasyāḥ sā trinayanā

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally Her three eyes are the sun, the moon and fire, which light the three worlds; compare 477, trilocanā.

454 लोलाक्षीकामरूपिणी lolākṣī-kāma-rūpiṇī

She who takes the form of love (kāma) in women, the restless-eyed

SANDHI लोलाक्षी = लोल + अक्षी (lola + akṣī) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa (over an inner bahuvrīhi), with the possessive suffix -in. (1) lola-akṣī 'one with restless eyes', a woman (bahuvrīhi; akṣi with the suffix ṣac, Pāṇini 5.4.113, and the feminine -ī). (2) lolākṣī-kāma 'the desire of women' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa; the first member keeps its feminine form). (3) To lolākṣīkāma + rūpa 'form' is added the possessive suffix -in (Pāṇini 5.2.115 ata iniṭhanau): 'having the desire of women as Her form'. This is one name; the separate name kāmarūpiṇī is 796.

ANALYSIS लोले अक्षिणी यस्याः सा लोलाक्षी; लोलाक्षीणाम् कामः लोलाक्षीकामः; लोलाक्षीकामः रूपम् अस्याः अस्ति इति लोलाक्षीकामरूपिणी

lole akṣiṇī yasyāḥ sā lolākṣī; lolākṣīṇām kāmaḥ lolākṣīkāmaḥ; lolākṣīkāmaḥ rūpam asyāḥ asti iti lolākṣīkāmarūpiṇī

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally She is present as the love and longing in all women; even this desire, through which life continues, is Her form.

> UNCERTAIN lolākṣī can also be taken as an epithet of the Goddess herself ('the restless-eyed one, whose form is Kāma'); the rendering follows the reading of lolākṣī as 'women'.

> CORRECTED लोलाक्षी → लोलाक्षीकामरूपिणी. The name was cut to लोलाक्षी with "separate name कामरूपिणी" in its meaning. In the 1,000-name count (Bhāskararāya) 454 is the single name lolākṣīkāmarūpiṇī; there is no separate kāmarūpiṇī here (that is name 796). The verse reads लोलाक्षीकामरूपिणी.

455 मालिनी mālinī

She who wears garlands

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally also the garland of the letters of the alphabet: in Trika Śaivism Mālinī is the name of the fifty letters arranged in their mixed order.

---

456 हंसिनी haṃsinī

She who is one with the haṃsas, the yogins of the highest attainment

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE Haṃsa, the swan that is said to separate milk from water, is the image of the discerning ascetic (paramahaṃsa) and of the self; traditionally it is also the haṃsa mantra repeated unspoken in every breath. Compare 372, bhaktamānasahaṃsikā.

> UNCERTAIN The possessive suffix allows several senses — 'having the haṃsas (great yogins) as Her own', 'having the haṃsa (swan or breath-mantra)' — and the tradition gives more than one.

457 माता mātā

She who is the Mother

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE She is the Mother of the universe (compare name 1, śrīmātā). Mātṛ can also mean 'the one who measures, the knower', the first member of the kula triad named in 439.

---

458 मलयाचलवासिनी malayācala-vāsinī

She who dwells on the Malaya mountain

SANDHI मलयाचल = मलय + अचल (malaya + acala) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa (over an inner karmadhāraya). (1) malaya-acala 'the mountain Malaya' (karmadhāraya of name and kind). (2) vāsinī 'dwelling' is an agent noun from √vas with the suffix -in (Pāṇini 3.2.78), and takes the mountain in the locative: 'She who dwells on the Malaya mountain'.

ANALYSIS मलयः अचलः मलयाचलः; मलयाचले वसति इति मलयाचलवासिनी

malayaḥ acalaḥ malayācalaḥ; malayācale vasati iti malayācalavāsinī

SIGNIFICANCE The Malaya range is the home of the sandalwood tree (compare 434) and of the cool southern breeze; traditionally it is one of Her abodes on earth.

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Names 459–462 praise Her beauty; 464 (kālakaṇṭhī) and 469 (vāmadevī, śloka 97) name Her as Śiva's consort under two of his names.

THE NAMES

459 सुमुखी su-mukhī

She who has a beautiful face

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (prādi). The prefix su 'well, beautiful' qualifies mukha 'face'; the whole is a bahuvrīhi: 'She whose face is beautiful'. A body-part word at the end of a bahuvrīhi takes the feminine -ī (Pāṇini 4.1.54 svāṅgāc copasarjanād asaṃyogopadhāt): sumukhī.

ANALYSIS शोभनम् मुखम् यस्याः सा सुमुखी

śobhanam mukham yasyāḥ sā sumukhī

SIGNIFICANCE Her face is gracious and benign toward Her devotees; the name also suggests Her favor (sumukha, 'well-disposed').

460 नलिनी nalinī

She who is lotus-like, tender and lovely as the lotus

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally Her hands, feet, eyes and face are all lotus-like, soft and beautiful; the lotus is also the image of purity rising untouched from the water.

> UNCERTAIN nalinī also means a lotus pond, and is the name of one of the streams of the Gaṅgā; which sense is primary is a matter of interpretation.

461 सुभ्रूः su-bhrūḥ

She who has beautiful eyebrows

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (prādi). su 'beautiful' qualifies bhrū 'eyebrow'; the whole is a bahuvrīhi: 'She whose eyebrows are beautiful'. bhrū is a feminine ū-stem and keeps its form, so the nominative is subhrūḥ.

ANALYSIS शोभने भ्रुवौ यस्याः सा सुभ्रूः

śobhane bhruvau yasyāḥ sā subhrūḥ

SIGNIFICANCE Her brows are praised by the poets: Saundaryalaharī 47 likens them to the bow of Kāma.

462 शोभना śobhanā

She who is radiant and beautiful

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE Her beauty is also auspiciousness: śobhana means both 'lovely' and 'auspicious'.

463 सुरनायिका sura-nāyikā

She who is the leader of the gods

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa. nāyikā 'leader' is the head; sura 'god' stands to it in the genitive: 'leader of the gods'.

ANALYSIS सुराणाम् नायिका सुरनायिका

surāṇām nāyikā suranāyikā

SIGNIFICANCE It was the gods who invoked Her from the fire (name 4), and She leads them against Bhaṇḍa.

---

464 कालकण्ठी kāla-kaṇṭhī

She who is the consort of Kālakaṇṭha (Śiva, the dark-throated)

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (kālakaṇṭha, a name of Śiva), with the feminine of relationship. (1) kāla-kaṇṭha 'he whose throat is dark' (bahuvrīhi), Śiva, whose throat was darkened by the poison he swallowed. (2) The feminine -ī names the wife of the one so called (Pāṇini 4.1.48 puṃyogād ākhyāyām): 'the consort of Kālakaṇṭha'.

ANALYSIS कालः कण्ठः यस्य सः कालकण्ठः; कालकण्ठस्य पत्नी कालकण्ठी

kālaḥ kaṇṭhaḥ yasya saḥ kālakaṇṭhaḥ; kālakaṇṭhasya patnī kālakaṇṭhī

SIGNIFICANCE Śiva held the cosmic poison in his throat, which turned dark; Saundaryalaharī 28 attributes his survival to the power of Her earrings (compare name 22).

> UNCERTAIN The name can also be read directly as a bahuvrīhi of Her own ('She whose throat is dark'), or with kālakaṇṭha in the sense 'whose throat is sweet-voiced'; the reading as Śiva's consort is the usual one.

465 कान्तिमती kānti-matī

She who is radiant

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE Possessed of kānti, the loveliness that is Her very self (449).

---

466 क्षोभिणी kṣobhiṇī

She who stirs the stillness into creation

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally kṣobha is the first stirring by which the quiescent becomes creative: She agitates the balance of the guṇas, and so the worlds begin. In the Śrīcakra worship the first of the ten mudrā-śaktis is Sarvasaṃkṣobhiṇī.

> UNCERTAIN What She stirs is not named; the creative agitation of prakṛti is the usual reading, and agitation of the mind of Śiva or of devotees is also given.

467 सूक्ष्मरूपिणी sūkṣma-rūpiṇī

She whose form is subtle, beyond the reach of the senses

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND karmadhāraya, with the possessive suffix -in. (1) sūkṣma-rūpa 'subtle form' (karmadhāraya). (2) The possessive suffix -in (Pāṇini 5.2.115) makes 'having a subtle form'.

ANALYSIS सूक्ष्मम् रूपम् सूक्ष्मरूपम्; सूक्ष्मरूपम् अस्याः अस्ति इति सूक्ष्मरूपिणी

sūkṣmam rūpam sūkṣmarūpam; sūkṣmarūpam asyāḥ asti iti sūkṣmarūpiṇī

SIGNIFICANCE In Śrīvidyā Her forms are counted as gross (the embodied image), subtle (the mantra) and supreme; this name points to the subtle.

विनी vinī	possessing the possessive suffix -vin (Pāṇini 5.2.121), feminine -ī; the s of yaśas stays s before it (1.4.19 tasau matvarthe)

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Name 470: the avagraha in vayo'vasthā marks the a of avasthā absorbed after o (vayas + avasthā). Names 471–473 form a group on siddha.

THE NAMES

468 वज्रेश्वरी vajreśvarī

She who is Vajreśvarī, the sixth of the Nityā goddesses

SANDHI वज्रेश्वरी = वज्र + ईश्वरी (vajra + īśvarī) — guṇa: a + ī → e (Pāṇini 6.1.87 ād guṇaḥ)

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa. īśvarī 'sovereign' is the head; vajra 'thunderbolt, diamond' stands to it in the genitive: 'sovereign of the vajra'.

ANALYSIS वज्रस्य ईश्वरी वज्रेश्वरी

vajrasya īśvarī vajreśvarī

SIGNIFICANCE (Mahā)vajreśvarī is the sixth of the fifteen Nityās who preside over the lunar days, and one of the three goddesses at the corners of the central triangle of the Śrīcakra, with Kāmeśvarī and Bhagamālinī.

469 वामदेवी vāma-devī

She who is the consort of Vāmadeva (Śiva)

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND karmadhāraya (vāmadeva, a name of Śiva), with the feminine of relationship. (1) vāma-deva 'the lovely god' (karmadhāraya), a name of Śiva. (2) The feminine -ī names his consort (Pāṇini 4.1.48 puṃyogād ākhyāyām). Read instead as vāmā devī 'the lovely goddess' (karmadhāraya with puṃvadbhāva) the sense is close.

ANALYSIS वामः देवः वामदेवः; वामदेवस्य पत्नी वामदेवी

vāmaḥ devaḥ vāmadevaḥ; vāmadevasya patnī vāmadevī

SIGNIFICANCE Vāmadeva is one of the five faces of Śiva, with Sadyojāta, Aghora, Tatpuruṣa and Īśāna; vāma also evokes the 'left-hand' path of the Tantras.

> UNCERTAIN Two analyses are current: the consort of Vāmadeva, followed here, and 'the lovely goddess' (vāmā devī).

---

470 वयोऽवस्थाविवर्जिता vayo'vasthā-vivarjitā

She who is free from the changes of age

SANDHI वयोऽवस्था = वयस् + अवस्था (vayas + avasthā) — the s of vayas becomes ru (Pāṇini 8.2.66), which after a and before a becomes u (6.1.113 ato ror aplutād aplute); a + u → o (6.1.87); the o then absorbs the initial a of avasthā (pūrvarūpa, 6.1.109 eṅaḥ padāntād ati), marked by the avagraha ऽ

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa (over an inner ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (1) vayo-avasthā 'the stages of age' — childhood, youth, old age (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (2) The participle vivarjitā 'free from' is the head and takes the stages in the instrumental (an ablative vigraha, vayo'vasthābhyaḥ vivarjitā, gives the same sense).

ANALYSIS वयसः अवस्थाः वयोऽवस्थाः; वयोऽवस्थाभिः विवर्जिता वयोऽवस्थाविवर्जिता

vayasaḥ avasthāḥ vayo'vasthāḥ; vayo'vasthābhiḥ vivarjitā vayo'vasthāvivarjitā

SIGNIFICANCE Birth, growth, change, decline and death touch the body, not Her; compare 430, nityayauvanā.

---

471 सिद्धेश्वरी siddheśvarī

She who is the sovereign of the siddhas, the perfected adepts

SANDHI सिद्धेश्वरी = सिद्ध + ईश्वरी (siddha + īśvarī) — guṇa: a + ī → e (Pāṇini 6.1.87 ād guṇaḥ)

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa. īśvarī 'sovereign' is the head; siddha 'perfected one, adept' stands to it in the genitive: 'sovereign of the siddhas'.

ANALYSIS सिद्धानाम् ईश्वरी सिद्धेश्वरी

siddhānām īśvarī siddheśvarī

SIGNIFICANCE The siddhas are those who have reached perfection; She rules over them, as their goal and the giver of their powers.

CORRECTED सिद्धेश्वरि → सिद्धेश्वरी. सिद्ध्वेश्वरि → सिद्ध्वेश्वरी (nominative -ī; the short form is the vocative).

472 सिद्धविद्या siddha-vidyā

She who is the Siddhavidyā, the accomplished mantra (the fifteen-syllable mantra)

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND karmadhāraya. siddha 'accomplished, perfected' qualifies vidyā 'mantra, knowledge'; the feminine siddhā takes the masculine stem in the karmadhāraya (puṃvadbhāva, Pāṇini 6.3.42).

ANALYSIS सिद्धा विद्या सिद्धविद्या

siddhā vidyā siddhavidyā

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally Siddhavidyā names the fifteen-syllable Śrīvidyā mantra (pañcadaśī), called 'accomplished' because it is held to need none of the preliminary tests by which other mantras are judged suitable for a practitioner.

UNCERTAIN The reason the pañcadaśī is called siddha is given traditionally as above; the exact commentarial source could not be confirmed here.

473 सिद्धमाता siddha-mātā

She who is the mother of the siddhas

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa. mātā 'mother' is the head; siddha 'perfected one' stands to it in the genitive: 'mother of the siddhas'.

ANALYSIS सिद्धानाम् माता सिद्धमाता

siddhānām mātā siddhamātā

SIGNIFICANCE She cares for the perfected ones as a mother for her children; names 471–473 form a group on siddha.

474 यशस्विनी yaśasvinī

She who is renowned, possessed of glory

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE Her glory is sung in all the worlds; She also grants renown to Her devotees.

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

निलयाऽऽरक्तवर्णा = ...निलया + आरक्तवर्णा (...nilayā + āraktavarṇā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: ā + ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ); the double avagraha ऽऽ marks the long ā of ārakta that has merged

The section of the seven yoginīs begins: Ḍākinī in the viśuddhi (475–484), Rākiṇī in the anāhata (485–494), Lākinī in the maṇipūra (495–503), Kākinī in the svādhiṣṭhāna (504–513), Sākinī in the mūlādhāra (514–520), Hākinī in the ājñā (521–527) and Yākinī in the sahasrāra (528–534). Name 476 is āraktavarṇā, not raktavarṇā (that is 499).

THE NAMES

475 विशुद्धिचक्रनिलया viśuddhi-cakra-nilayā

She who resides in the viśuddhi cakra

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (over an inner karmadhāraya). (1) viśuddhi-cakra 'the cakra called viśuddhi' (karmadhāraya of name and kind). (2) The whole is a bahuvrīhi with nilaya 'abode' as the final member: 'She whose abode is the viśuddhi cakra'.

ANALYSIS विशुद्धिः इति चक्रम् विशुद्धिचक्रम्; विशुद्धिचक्रम् निलयः यस्याः सा विशुद्धिचक्रनिलया

viśuddhiḥ iti cakram viśuddhicakram; viśuddhicakram nilayaḥ yasyāḥ sā viśuddhicakranilayā

SIGNIFICANCE Here begins the section of the seven yoginīs (475–534): in each cakra She takes the form of a yoginī with her own color, faces, weapons, bodily tissue, food and attendant śaktis. In the sixteen-petaled viśuddhi at the throat She is Ḍākinī (475–484).

476 आरक्तवर्णा ārakta-varṇā

She who is of slightly red (rosy) complexion

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (over an inner prādi-compound). (1) ā-rakta 'slightly red, rosy': the prefix ā in the sense 'a little' with the participle rakta 'red'. (2) It qualifies varṇa 'color, complexion', and the whole is a bahuvrīhi: 'She whose complexion is rosy'.

ANALYSIS ईषत् रक्तः आरक्तः; आरक्तः वर्णः यस्याः सा आरक्तवर्णा

īṣat raktaḥ āraktaḥ; āraktaḥ varṇaḥ yasyāḥ sā āraktavarṇā

SIGNIFICANCE The complexion of Ḍākinī, the yoginī of the viśuddhi cakra.

> UNCERTAIN ā- can also intensify ('deep red'); the rendering 'rosy, reddish' is the usual one.

---

477 त्रिलोचना tri-locanā

She who has three eyes

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi. The numeral tri 'three' qualifies locana 'eye'; the whole is a bahuvrīhi: 'She who has three eyes'.

ANALYSIS त्रीणि लोचनानि यस्याः सा त्रिलोचना

trīṇi locanāni yasyāḥ sā trilocanā

SIGNIFICANCE Here the three eyes are those of Ḍākinī; compare 453, trinayanā, of the Goddess Herself.

---

478 खट्वाङ्गादिप्रहरणा khaṭvāṅgādi-praharaṇā

She whose weapons are the khaṭvāṅga (skull-topped staff) and others

SANDHI खट्वाङ्ग = खट्वा + अङ्ग (khaṭvā + aṅga) — savarṇa-dīrgha: ā + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ), inside the lexicalised compound khaṭvāṅga; खट्वाङ्गादि = खट्वाङ्ग + आदि (khaṭvāṅga + ādi) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (over an inner bahuvrīhi). (1) khaṭvāṅga-ādi 'those of which the khaṭvāṅga is the first' (bahuvrīhi with ādi). (2) It qualifies praharaṇa 'weapon', and the whole is a bahuvrīhi: 'She whose weapons are the khaṭvāṅga and the rest'.

ANALYSIS खट्वाङ्गम् आदिः येषाम् तानि खट्वाङ्गादीनि; खट्वाङ्गादीनि प्रहरणानि यस्याः सा खट्वाङ्गादिप्रहरणा

khaṭvāṅgam ādiḥ yeṣām tāni khaṭvāṅgādīni; khaṭvāṅgādīni praharaṇāni yasyāḥ sā khaṭvāṅgādipraharaṇā

SIGNIFICANCE The weapons of Ḍākinī; the khaṭvāṅga is the emblem of the ascetic who has passed beyond fear of death.

---

479 वदनैकसमन्विता vadanaika-samanvitā

She who has a single face

SANDHI वदनैक = वदन + एक (vadana + eka) — vṛddhi: a + e → ai (Pāṇini 6.1.88 vṛddhir eci); अन्विता = अनु + इता (anu + itā) — yaṇ: u before an unlike vowel becomes v (Pāṇini 6.1.77 iko yaṇ aci), inside the prefixed participle anvita

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa (over an inner karmadhāraya with the numeral placed second). (1) vadana-eka 'one face', with the numeral placed after the noun, as in vadana-dvaya (487) and vadana-traya (496). (2) The participle samanvitā 'endowed with' is the head and takes it in the instrumental: 'endowed with a single face'.

ANALYSIS एकम् वदनम् वदनैकम्; वदनैकेन समन्विता वदनैकसमन्विता

ekam vadanam vadanaikam; vadanaikena samanvitā vadanaikasamanvitā

SIGNIFICANCE Ḍākinī has one face; the yoginīs that follow have two, three, four, five and six, and Yākinī faces every direction (532, sarvatomukhī).

> UNCERTAIN The order face-one is unusual. It is read here as a karmadhāraya with the numeral placed second (compare 487 and 496, where dvaya and traya are nouns, 'a pair', 'a triad'); the sense is not in doubt.

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Name 482: bhayaṅkarī carries the augment m (bhaya-m-karī), written ṅ before k. Name 484 closes the Ḍākinī group.

THE NAMES

480 पायसान्नप्रिया pāyasānna-priyā

She who loves rice cooked in milk (pāyasa)

SANDHI पायसान्न = पायस + अन्न (pāyasa + anna) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (over an inner karmadhāraya). (1) pāyasa-anna 'food that is pāyasa', rice cooked in milk (karmadhāraya). (2) The whole is a bahuvrīhi with priya 'dear': 'She to whom milk-rice is dear'.

ANALYSIS पायसम् अन्नम् पायसान्नम्; पायसान्नम् प्रियम् यस्याः सा पायसान्नप्रिया

pāyasam annam pāyasānnam; pāyasānnam priyam yasyāḥ sā pāyasānnapriyā

SIGNIFICANCE Each yoginī has her favorite offering: milk-rice for Ḍākinī; then rice with ghee, with jaggery, with curd, with green gram, with turmeric, and all foods for Yākinī.

481 त्वक्स्था tvak-sthā

She who abides in the skin

SANDHI त्वक्स्था = त्वच् + स्था (tvac + sthā) — the final c of tvac becomes k at the end of a member (kutva, Pāṇini 8.2.30 coḥ kuḥ)

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa. sthā 'abiding' is formed from √sthā with the suffix ka after a word in the locative (Pāṇini 3.2.4 supi sthaḥ); the skin is where She abides.

ANALYSIS त्वचि तिष्ठति इति त्वक्स्था

tvaci tiṣṭhati iti tvaksthā

SIGNIFICANCE Each yoginī presides over one of the seven bodily tissues (dhātu): skin for Ḍākinī, then blood, flesh, fat, bone, marrow and semen.

---

482 पशुलोकभयङ्करी paśu-loka-bhayaṅkarī

She who strikes fear into the world of paśus, the bound souls

SANDHI भयङ्करी = भयम् + करी (bhayam + karī) — with the suffix khac (Pāṇini 3.2.43 meghartibhayeṣu kṛñaḥ) bhaya takes the augment m (6.3.67); m becomes anusvāra before a consonant (8.3.23) and then ṅ, homorganic with k (8.4.58 anusvārasya yayi parasavarṇaḥ)

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa (over an inner ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (1) paśu-loka 'the world of paśus', the bound souls (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (2) bhayaṅkarī 'causing fear' is an agent noun from √kṛ with its object bhaya 'fear'; the bound world is the one made to fear.

ANALYSIS पशूनाम् लोकः पशुलोकः; पशुलोकस्य भयम् करोति इति पशुलोकभयङ्करी

paśūnām lokaḥ paśulokaḥ; paśulokasya bhayam karoti iti paśulokabhayaṅkarī

SIGNIFICANCE In Śaiva doctrine the paśu is the soul bound by the fetters (pāśa) of ignorance; to those who live only for the world the fierce yoginī is terrifying.

---

483 अमृतादिमहाशक्तिसंवृता amṛtādi-mahā-śakti-saṃvṛtā

She who is surrounded by Amṛtā and the other great śaktis

SANDHI अमृतादि = अमृता + आदि (amṛtā + ādi) — savarṇa-dīrgha: ā + ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ); संवृता = सम् + वृता (sam + vṛtā) — the final m of the prefix sam becomes anusvāra before a consonant (Pāṇini 8.3.23 mo 'nusvāraḥ)

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa (over an inner karmadhāraya and a bahuvrīhi). (1) amṛtā-ādi 'those of whom Amṛtā is the first' (bahuvrīhi with ādi). (2) mahā-śakti 'great powers' (karmadhāraya; mahatī → mahā-, Pāṇini 6.3.46). (3) (1) qualifies (2) (karmadhāraya). (4) The participle saṃvṛtā 'surrounded' is the head of the whole and takes the śaktis in the instrumental.

ANALYSIS अमृता आदिः यासाम् ताः अमृतादयः; महत्यः शक्तयः महाशक्तयः; अमृतादयः महाशक्तयः अमृतादिमहाशक्तयः; अमृतादिमहाशक्तिभिः संवृता अमृतादिमहाशक्तिसंवृता

amṛtā ādiḥ yāsām tāḥ amṛtādayaḥ; mahatyaḥ śaktayaḥ mahāśaktayaḥ; amṛtādayaḥ mahāśaktayaḥ amṛtādimahāśaktayaḥ; amṛtādimahāśaktibhiḥ saṃvṛtā amṛtādimahāśaktisaṃvṛtā

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally the sixteen śaktis of the viśuddhi, beginning with Amṛtā, stand on its sixteen petals, one for each of the sixteen vowels.

---

484 डाकिनीश्वरी ḍākinīśvarī

She who is Ḍākinī, the sovereign goddess

SANDHI डाकिनीश्वरी = डाकिनी + ईश्वरी (ḍākinī + īśvarī) — savarṇa-dīrgha: ī + ī → ī (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND karmadhāraya. The two members are in apposition: She is Ḍākinī and She is the sovereign goddess. A genitive reading, ḍākinīnām īśvarī 'sovereign of the ḍākinīs' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa), is also possible.

ANALYSIS डाकिनी च असौ ईश्वरी च डाकिनीश्वरी

ḍākinī ca asau īśvarī ca ḍākinīśvarī

SIGNIFICANCE This name closes the description of Ḍākinī (475–484), whose attributes — throat cakra, rosy color, three eyes, khaṭvāṅga, one face, milk-rice, skin, sixteen śaktis — the preceding names list.

> UNCERTAIN Karmadhāraya ('She who is Ḍākinī, the sovereign') and ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa ('sovereign of the ḍākinīs') are both possible; the parallel names 494, 503, 520 and 534 (... ambāsvarūpiṇī) favor the first.

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

दंष्ट्रोज्ज्वलाऽक्षमालादिधरा = दंष्ट्रोज्ज्वला + अक्षमालादिधरा (daṃṣṭrojjvalā + akṣamālādidharā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: ā + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ); the avagraha ऽ marks the a of akṣa that has merged

Names 485–490 describe Rākiṇī of the heart lotus (her group ends at 494). Name 489 begins akṣa- 'bead' (akṣamālā, rosary); the avagraha shows its a.

THE NAMES

485 अनाहताब्जनिलया anāhatābja-nilayā

She who resides in the anāhata lotus in the heart

SANDHI अनाहताब्ज = अनाहत + अब्ज (anāhata + abja) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ); अब्ज = अप् + ज (ap + ja) — jaśtva: a final p becomes b before a voiced sound (Pāṇini 8.2.39 jhalāṃ jaśo 'nte), inside the lexicalised compound abja

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (over an inner karmadhāraya and a nañ-tatpuruṣa). (1) an-āhata 'unstruck' (nañ-tatpuruṣa; the negative na becomes a and takes n before a vowel, Pāṇini 6.3.73–74, a morphological change, not sandhi). (2) anāhata-abja 'the lotus called anāhata' (karmadhāraya). (3) The whole is a bahuvrīhi with nilaya 'abode': 'She whose abode is the anāhata lotus'.

ANALYSIS न आहतम् अनाहतम्; अनाहतम् अब्जम् अनाहताब्जम्; अनाहताब्जम् निलयः यस्याः सा अनाहताब्जनिलया

na āhatam anāhatam; anāhatam abjam anāhatābjam; anāhatābjam nilayaḥ yasyāḥ sā anāhatābjanilayā

SIGNIFICANCE The anāhata, the twelve-petaled heart lotus, is named after the 'unstruck' sound heard there in meditation; here She is the yoginī Rākiṇī (485–494).

486 श्यामाभा śyāmābhā

She whose luster is dark (śyāma)

SANDHI श्यामाभा = श्याम + आभा (śyāma + ābhā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi. śyāma 'dark' qualifies the feminine noun ābhā 'luster'; the whole is a bahuvrīhi: 'She whose luster is dark'. The first member takes the masculine stem śyāma (puṃvadbhāva).

ANALYSIS श्यामा आभा यस्याः सा श्यामाभा

śyāmā ābhā yasyāḥ sā śyāmābhā

SIGNIFICANCE The dark complexion of Rākiṇī, the yoginī of the heart lotus.

---

487 वदनद्वया vadana-dvayā

She who has two faces

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (over an inner ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (1) vadana-dvaya 'a pair of faces' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa; dvaya is a noun, 'a pair'). (2) The whole is a bahuvrīhi: 'She who has a pair of faces'.

ANALYSIS वदनयोः द्वयम् वदनद्वयम्; वदनद्वयम् यस्याः सा वदनद्वया

vadanayoḥ dvayam vadanadvayam; vadanadvayam yasyāḥ sā vadanadvayā

SIGNIFICANCE Rākiṇī has two faces, one more than Ḍākinī (479).

---

488 दंष्ट्रोज्ज्वला daṃṣṭrojjvalā

She who gleams with Her tusks

SANDHI दंष्ट्रोज्ज्वला = दंष्ट्रा + उज्ज्वला (daṃṣṭrā + ujjvalā) — guṇa: ā + u → o (Pāṇini 6.1.87 ād guṇaḥ); उज्ज्वला = उद् + ज्वला (ud + jvalā) — the prefix ud assimilates to the following palatal: d becomes j before j (ścutva, Pāṇini 8.4.40 stoḥ ścunā ścuḥ)

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa. ujjvalā 'blazing, gleaming' is the head and takes daṃṣṭrā 'tusk, fang' in the instrumental: 'gleaming with tusks'.

ANALYSIS दंष्ट्राभिः उज्ज्वला दंष्ट्रोज्ज्वला

daṃṣṭrābhiḥ ujjvalā daṃṣṭrojjvalā

SIGNIFICANCE The tusks mark Rākiṇī as a fierce form, terrible to what is opposed to the devotee.

489 अक्षमालादिधरा akṣamālādi-dharā

She who holds the rosary (akṣamālā) and other emblems

SANDHI अक्षमालादि = अक्षमाला + आदि (akṣamālā + ādi) — savarṇa-dīrgha: ā + ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa (over an inner bahuvrīhi and a ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (1) akṣa-mālā 'a garland of beads', a rosary (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (2) …mālā-ādi 'the rosary and the rest' (bahuvrīhi with ādi). (3) dharā 'holding' (√dhṛ + the agent suffix a) governs them as its object.

ANALYSIS अक्षाणाम् माला अक्षमाला; अक्षमाला आदिः येषाम् तानि अक्षमालादीनि; अक्षमालादीनि धरति इति अक्षमालादिधरा

akṣāṇām mālā akṣamālā; akṣamālā ādiḥ yeṣām tāni akṣamālādīni; akṣamālādīni dharati iti akṣamālādidharā

SIGNIFICANCE The emblems of Rākiṇī. Traditionally the akṣamālā is also the garland of letters from a to kṣa, the whole alphabet.

490 रुधिरसंस्थिता rudhira-saṃsthitā

She who abides in the blood

SANDHI संस्थिता = सम् + स्थिता (sam + sthitā) — the final m of the prefix sam becomes anusvāra before a consonant (Pāṇini 8.3.23 mo 'nusvāraḥ)

COMPOUND saptamī-tatpuruṣa. The participle saṃsthitā 'abiding' is the head and takes rudhira 'blood' in the locative: 'abiding in the blood'.

ANALYSIS रुधिरे संस्थिता रुधिरसंस्थिता

rudhire saṃsthitā rudhirasaṃsthitā

SIGNIFICANCE Blood is the bodily tissue (dhātu) of Rākiṇī, as skin is of Ḍākinī (481).

स्वरूपिणी svarūpiṇī	having as Her own form sva 'own' + rūpa 'form' + the possessive suffix -in, feminine -ī; n becomes ṇ after r (Pāṇini 8.4.2)

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Names 491–494 complete Rākiṇī of the anāhata: her twelve attendant śaktis, her food and her name.

THE NAMES

491 कालरात्र्यादिशक्त्यौघवृता kālarātryādi-śaktyaugha-vṛtā

She who is surrounded by the host of śaktis beginning with Kālarātri

SANDHI कालरात्र्यादि = कालरात्रि + आदि (kālarātri + ādi) — yaṇ: i before an unlike vowel becomes y (Pāṇini 6.1.77 iko yaṇ aci); शक्त्यौघ = शक्ति + औघ (śakti + augha) — yaṇ: i before an unlike vowel becomes y (Pāṇini 6.1.77 iko yaṇ aci)

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa (over an inner ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa, a karmadhāraya and a bahuvrīhi). (1) kālarātri-ādi 'those of whom Kālarātri is the first' (bahuvrīhi with ādi). (2) It qualifies śakti (karmadhāraya). (3) …śakti-augha 'the host of those śaktis' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (4) The participle vṛtā 'surrounded' is the head of the whole and takes the host in the instrumental.

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Lākinī of the maṇipūra (495–503). Name 498 is a phrase, not a compound: ḍāmaryādibhiḥ 'by Ḍāmarī and the rest' keeps its instrumental ending and is joined to āvṛtā by sandhi (-bhir āvṛtā).

495 मणिपूराब्जनिलया maṇipūrābja-nilayā

She who resides in the maṇipūra lotus

SANDHI मणिपूराब्ज = मणिपूर + अब्ज (maṇipūra + abja) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ); अब्ज = अप् + ज (ap + ja) — jaśtva: a final p becomes b before a voiced sound (Pāṇini 8.2.39 jhalāṃ jaśo 'nte), inside the lexicalised compound abja

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (over an inner karmadhāraya). (1) maṇipūra-abja 'the lotus called maṇipūra' (karmadhāraya of name and kind). (2) The whole is a bahuvrīhi with nilaya 'abode': 'She whose abode is the maṇipūra lotus'.

SIGNIFICANCE The ten-petaled lotus at the navel; here She is the yoginī Lākinī (495–503).

496 वदनत्रयसंयुता vadana-traya-saṃyutā

She who has three faces

SANDHI संयुता = सम् + युता (sam + yutā) — the final m of the prefix sam becomes anusvāra before a consonant (Pāṇini 8.3.23 mo 'nusvāraḥ)

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa (over an inner ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (1) vadana-traya 'a triad of faces' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa; traya is a noun, 'a group of three'). (2) The participle saṃyutā 'joined with' is the head and takes it in the instrumental.

ANALYSIS वदनानाम् त्रयम् वदनत्रयम्; वदनत्रयेण संयुता वदनत्रयसंयुता

vadanānām trayam vadanatrayam; vadanatrayeṇa saṃyutā vadanatrayasaṃyutā

SIGNIFICANCE Lākinī has three faces: one more than Rākiṇī (487).

497 वज्रादिकायुधोपेता vajrādikāyudhopetā

She who is armed with the vajra (thunderbolt) and other weapons

SANDHI वज्रादिक = वज्र + आदिक (vajra + ādika) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ); आदिकायुध = आदिक + आयुध (ādika + āyudha) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ); आयुधोपेता = आयुध + उपेता (āyudha + upetā) — guṇa: a + u → o (Pāṇini 6.1.87 ād guṇaḥ); उपेता = उप + इता (upa + itā) — guṇa: a + i → e (Pāṇini 6.1.87 ād guṇaḥ), inside the prefixed participle upeta

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa (over an inner karmadhāraya and a bahuvrīhi). (1) vajra-ādika 'beginning with the vajra' (bahuvrīhi; ādi takes the optional compound-final suffix ka). (2) It qualifies āyudha 'weapon' (karmadhāraya). (3) The participle upetā 'furnished with' is the head and takes the weapons in the instrumental.

498 डामर्यादिभिरावृता ḍāmaryādibhir-āvṛtā

She who is surrounded by Ḍāmarī and the other śaktis

SANDHI डामर्यादि = डामरी + आदि (ḍāmarī + ādi) — yaṇ: ī before an unlike vowel becomes y (Pāṇini 6.1.77 iko yaṇ aci); डामर्यादिभिरावृता = डामर्यादिभिः + आवृता (ḍāmaryādibhiḥ + āvṛtā) — visarga after i becomes r before a vowel (final s → ru, Pāṇini 8.2.66, kept as r): the instrumental ending -bhiḥ joins the next word

COMPOUND a two-word phrase, not one compound: the bahuvrīhi ḍāmaryādi in the instrumental, governed by the participle āvṛtā. (1) ḍāmarī-ādi 'those of whom Ḍāmarī is the first' (bahuvrīhi with ādi). (2) This stands as a separate word in the instrumental plural, ḍāmaryādibhiḥ 'by Ḍāmarī and the rest', and the participle āvṛtā 'surrounded' governs it. The case ending is not dropped, so the name is a phrase joined by sandhi, not a compound.

ANALYSIS डामरी आदिः यासाम् ताः डामर्यादयः; डामर्यादिभिः आवृता

ḍāmarī ādiḥ yāsām tāḥ ḍāmaryādayaḥ; ḍāmaryādibhiḥ āvṛtā

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally the ten śaktis of the maṇipūra, beginning with Ḍāmarī, stand on its ten petals, one for each letter from ḍa to pha.

majjāyām saṃsthā majjāsaṃsthā

SIGNIFICANCE Marrow is the bodily tissue (dhātu) of Hākinī.

525 हंसवतीमुख्यशक्तिसमन्विता haṃsavatī-mukhya-śakti-samanvitā

She who is accompanied by the śaktis headed by Haṃsavatī

SANDHI अन्विता = अनु + इता (anu + itā) — yaṇ: u before an unlike vowel becomes v (Pāṇini 6.1.77 iko yaṇ aci), inside the prefixed participle anvita

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa (over an inner karmadhāraya and a bahuvrīhi). (1) haṃsavatī-mukhya 'those of whom Haṃsavatī is the chief' (bahuvrīhi with mukhya). (2) It qualifies śakti (karmadhāraya). (3) The participle samanvitā 'accompanied by' is the head and takes the śaktis in the instrumental.

ANALYSIS हंसवती मुख्या यासाम् ताः हंसवतीमुख्याः; हंसवतीमुख्याः शक्तयः हंसवतीमुख्यशक्तयः; हंसवतीमुख्यशक्तिभिः समन्विता हंसवतीमुख्यशक्तिसमन्विता

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally the two śaktis of the ājñā, Haṃsavatī and Kṣamāvatī, stand on its two petals, for the letters ha and kṣa.

526 हरिद्रान्नैकरसिका haridrānnaika-rasikā

She whose special delight is rice cooked with turmeric

SANDHI हरिद्रान्न = हरिद्रा + अन्न (haridrā + anna) — savarṇa-dīrgha: ā + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ); अन्नैक = अन्न + एक (anna + eka) — vṛddhi: a + e → ai (Pāṇini 6.1.88 vṛddhir eci)

COMPOUND saptamī-tatpuruṣa (over an inner karmadhāraya). (1) haridrā-anna 'rice with turmeric' (karmadhāraya with the middle word yukta dropped). (2) eka-rasikā 'delighting solely' (eka used adverbially, 'alone, only'). (3) The rice stands to it in the locative: 'delighting solely in turmeric-rice'. Compare name 90, kulāmṛtaikarasikā.

ANALYSIS हरिद्रायुक्तम् अन्नम् हरिद्रान्नम्; एकम् रसिका एकरसिका; हरिद्रान्ने एकरसिका हरिद्रान्नैकरसिका haridrāyuktam annam haridrānnam; ekam rasikā ekarasikā; haridrānne ekarasikā haridrānnaikarasikā

SIGNIFICANCE The favorite offering of Hākinī.

> UNCERTAIN eka-rasikā may also be read as 'having a single taste, absorbed in one relish'; the sense is the same.

527 हाकिनीरूपधारिणी hākinī-rūpa-dhāriṇī

She who bears the form of Hākinī

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa (over an inner ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (1) hākinī-rūpa 'the form of Hākinī' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (2) dhāriṇī 'bearing' (causative of √dhṛ + -in) takes the form as its object.

ANALYSIS हाकिन्याः रूपम् हाकिनीरूपम्; हाकिनीरूपम् धारयति इति हाकिनीरूपधारिणी

hākinyāḥ rūpam hākinīrūpam; hākinīrūpam dhārayati iti hākinīrūpadhāriṇī

SIGNIFICANCE This name closes the Hākinī group (521–527): white (522), six-faced (523), abiding in the marrow (524), fond of turmeric-rice (526).

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Yākinī of the sahasrāra (528–534), who gathers the attributes of all the others: all colors, all weapons, faces in every direction.

THE NAMES

---

528 सहस्रदलपद्मस्था sahasra-dala-padma-sthā

She who resides in the thousand-petaled lotus

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa (over an inner karmadhāraya and a bahuvrīhi). (1) sahasra-dala 'thousand-petaled' (bahuvrīhi). (2) It qualifies padma 'lotus' (karmadhāraya). (3) sthā 'abiding' (√sthā + ka after a word in the locative, Pāṇini 3.2.4 supi sthaḥ) takes the lotus as its place.

SIGNIFICANCE The sahasrāra at the crown of the head, where She is the yoginī Yākinī (528–534); compare 105, sahasrārāmbujārūḍhā.

529 सर्ववर्णोपशोभिता sarva-varṇopaśobhitā

She who is resplendent with all colors

SANDHI वर्णोपशोभिता = वर्ण + उपशोभिता (varṇa + upaśobhitā) — guṇa: a + u → o (Pāṇini 6.1.87 ād guṇaḥ)

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa (over an inner karmadhāraya). (1) sarva-varṇa 'all colors' (karmadhāraya). (2) The participle upaśobhitā 'adorned, made beautiful' is the head and takes the colors in the instrumental.

ANALYSIS सर्वे वर्णाः सर्ववर्णाः; सर्ववर्णैः उपशोभिता सर्ववर्णोपशोभिता

sarve varṇāḥ sarvavarṇāḥ; sarvavarṇaiḥ upaśobhitā sarvavarṇopaśobhitā

SIGNIFICANCE Yākinī shines with every color. Since varṇa also means 'letter', it is traditionally read too as 'adorned with all the letters', which are said to cover the petals of the thousand-petaled lotus.

530 सर्वायुधधरा sarvāyudha-dharā

She who holds all weapons

SANDHI सर्वायुध = सर्व + आयुध (sarva + āyudha) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa (over an inner karmadhāraya). (1) sarva-āyudha 'all weapons' (karmadhāraya). (2) dharā 'holding' (√dhṛ + the agent suffix a) takes them as its object.

ANALYSIS सर्वाणि आयुधानि सर्वायुधानि; सर्वायुधानि धरति इति सर्वायुधधरा

sarvāṇi āyudhāni sarvāyudhāni; sarvāyudhāni dharati iti sarvāyudhadharā

SIGNIFICANCE Yākinī bears the weapons of all the other yoginīs: every power is hers.

531 शुक्लसंस्थिता śukla-saṃsthitā

She who resides in the semen, the vital essence

SANDHI संस्थिता = सम् + स्थिता (sam + sthitā) — the final m of the prefix sam becomes anusvāra before a consonant (Pāṇini 8.3.23 mo 'nusvāraḥ)

COMPOUND saptamī-tatpuruṣa. The participle saṃsthitā 'abiding' is the head and takes śukla 'semen, vital essence' in the locative.

ANALYSIS शुक्ले संस्थिता शुक्लसंस्थिता

śukle saṃsthitā śuklasaṃsthitā

SIGNIFICANCE Śukla is the seventh and last of the bodily tissues (dhātu), the essence of all the others; it belongs to Yākinī.

532 सर्वतोमुखी sarvato-mukhī

She who has faces turned in all directions

SANDHI सर्वतोमुखी = सर्वतस् + मुखी (sarvatas + mukhī) — visarga sandhi: final s becomes ru (Pāṇini 8.2.66), which after a and before a voiced consonant becomes u (6.1.114 haśi ca); a + u then gives o (6.1.87)

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi. The adverb sarvatas 'on all sides' qualifies mukha 'face'; the whole is a bahuvrīhi: 'She whose faces are on all sides'. mukha takes the feminine -ī (Pāṇini 4.1.54).

ANALYSIS सर्वतः मुखानि यस्याः सा सर्वतोमुखी

sarvataḥ mukhāni yasyāḥ sā sarvatomukhī

SIGNIFICANCE Yākinī faces every direction; so the Bhagavad Gītā describes the Supreme as having eyes, heads and faces everywhere (sarvato'kṣiśiromukham).

541 अनुत्तमा an-uttamā
अन् an	not, there is no the negative na before a vowel
उत्तमा uttamā	highest, best ud + the superlative suffix -tama; uttama with the feminine -ā

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

स्वधाऽमतिर्मेधा = स्वधा + अमतिः + मेधा (svadhā + amatiḥ + medhā) — ā + a → ā (savarṇa-dīrgha, Pāṇini 6.1.101), marked by the avagraha; then the visarga of amatiḥ becomes r before the voiced m (final s → ru, 8.2.66, kept as r after i)

स्मृतिरनुत्तमा = स्मृतिः + अनुत्तमा (smṛtiḥ + anuttamā) — visarga after i becomes r before a voiced sound or a vowel (final s → ru, Pāṇini 8.2.66; ru is kept as r, since the change to u applies only after a)

The yoginī section ends with 534. Name 537 is amatiḥ 'ignorance' (svadhā + amatiḥ; the avagraha shows the a), not matiḥ, which is name 445; 537 and 538 (medhā) pair ignorance and wisdom. 535–536 are the sacrificial calls svāhā and svadhā.

THE NAMES

533 सर्वौदनप्रीतचित्ता sarvaudana-prīta-cittā

She whose mind is pleased by all kinds of rice offerings

SANDHI सर्वौदन = सर्व + ओदन (sarva + odana) — vṛddhi: a + o → au (Pāṇini 6.1.88 vṛddhir eci)

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (over an inner tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa and a karmadhāraya). (1) sarva-odana 'all kinds of rice' (karmadhāraya). (2) ...odana-prīta 'pleased by them' (tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa). (3) It qualifies citta 'mind', and the whole is a bahuvrīhi: 'She whose mind is pleased by all kinds of rice'.

ANALYSIS सर्वे ओदनाः सर्वौदनाः; सर्वौदनैः प्रीतम् सर्वौदनप्रीतम्; सर्वौदनप्रीतम् चित्तम् यस्याः सा सर्वौदनप्रीतचित्ता

SIGNIFICANCE Yākinī accepts every offering, as all the yoginīs are gathered in her.

534 याकिन्यम्बास्वरूपिणी yākinyambā-svarūpiṇī

She who has the form of Mother Yākinī

SANDHI याकिन्यम्बा = याकिनी + अम्बा (yākinī + ambā) — yaṇ: ī before an unlike vowel becomes y (Pāṇini 6.1.77 iko yaṇ aci)

COMPOUND karmadhāraya, with the possessive suffix -in (svarūpa itself a karmadhāraya). (1) yākinī-ambā 'Mother Yākinī' (karmadhāraya of apposition). (2) sva-rūpa 'own form, true nature' (karmadhāraya). (3) The possessive suffix -in (Pāṇini 5.2.115) is added to the whole: 'She whose own form is Mother Yākinī'.

ANALYSIS याकिनी च असौ अम्बा च याकिन्यम्बा; स्वम् रूपम् स्वरूपम्; याकिन्यम्बा स्वरूपम् अस्याः अस्ति इति याकिन्यम्बास्वरूपिणी

yākinī ca asau ambā ca yākinyambā; svam rūpam svarūpam; yākinyambā svarūpam asyāḥ asti iti yākinyambāsvarūpiṇī

SIGNIFICANCE This name closes the Yākinī group (528–534). With her the section of the seven yoginīs (475–534) ends.

535 स्वाहा svāhā

She who is Svāhā, the call with which offerings are made to the gods in the fire

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE Svāhā is personified as the consort of Agni, through whom the gods receive the oblations; She is the power that makes the offering reach them.

536 स्वधा svadhā

She who is Svadhā, the call with which offerings are made to the ancestors

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE Svadhā is the counterpart of svāhā: with it offerings are made to the pitṛs, the ancestors; personified, she too is a form of the Goddess.

537 अमतिः a-matiḥ

She who is in the form of ignorance or nescience

SANDHI स्वधाऽमतिः = स्वधा + अमतिः (svadhā + amatiḥ) — savarṇa-dīrgha: ā + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101), between this name and 536; the avagraha ऽ marks the merged a. Bhāskararāya reads svadhā + amatiḥ here, not svadhā + matiḥ (matiḥ is already name 445).

COMPOUND nañ-tatpuruṣa. The negative na, reduced to a before a consonant (Pāṇini 6.3.73 nalopo nañaḥ), compounds with mati 'understanding': 'non-understanding', ignorance.

ANALYSIS न मतिः अमतिः

na matiḥ amatiḥ

SIGNIFICANCE Ignorance too is Her power: the Devīmāhātmya calls Her both the supreme knowledge that is the cause of liberation and the cause of bondage in saṃsāra. The next name, medhā, gives the other side.

538 मेधा medhā

She who is in the form of wisdom (medhā)

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE Medhā is the intelligence that grasps and retains knowledge, especially of the sacred texts; with 537 She is both ignorance and wisdom.

---

539 श्रुतिः śrutiḥ

She who is in the form of the Vedas

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE Śruti, 'what was heard' by the seers, is the Veda; She is its very substance.

---

540 स्मृतिः smṛtiḥ

She who is smṛti, the remembered tradition that rests on the Vedas

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE Smṛti, the dharma texts and Purāṇas that draw out the meaning of the Veda, follows śruti (539); smṛti is also memory, and the Devīmāhātmya praises the Goddess who abides in all beings as memory (smṛtirūpeṇa).

---

541 अनुत्तमा an-uttamā

She who is the best; She who is not excelled by anyone

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (nañ-bahuvrīhi). The negative na with uttama 'higher, best' makes a bahuvrīhi: 'She than whom there is none higher'. Before a vowel na becomes an- (Pāṇini 6.3.73–74, a morphological change, not sandhi).

ANALYSIS न विद्यते उत्तमः यस्याः सा अनुत्तमा

na vidyate uttamaḥ yasyāḥ sā anuttamā

SIGNIFICANCE None surpasses Her; She is the highest.

बन्धुर bandhura	wavy, curving; also lovely
अलका alakā	locks of hair, curls (especially on the forehead) alaka, with the feminine -ā of the bahuvrīhi

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Name 545: divide pulomajā + arcitā (Śacī + 'worshipped'). Name 547 reads bandhurālakā here; the old name list had barbarālakā (see the name's variants).

THE NAMES

542 पुण्यकीर्तिः puṇya-kīrtiḥ

She whose fame is holy

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (over an inner karmadhāraya). Inner layer: puṇyā kīrtiḥ 'holy fame' (karmadhāraya: the adjective puṇya qualifies kīrti). Outer layer: a bahuvrīhi, 'She whose fame is holy'. The feminine adjective puṇyā returns to its masculine stem puṇya- in the compound (puṃvadbhāva); kīrti, already feminine, is unchanged. The members meet without sound change.

ANALYSIS पुण्या कीर्तिः यस्याः सा पुण्यकीर्तिः

puṇyā kīrtiḥ yasyāḥ sā puṇyakīrtiḥ

SIGNIFICANCE Her renown itself purifies: traditionally, to speak of Her glory is already an act of merit, which the next two names develop.

543 पुण्यलभ्या puṇya-labhyā

She who is attained through merit

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa. puṇya 'merit' stands in the instrumental to the gerundive labhyā 'to be attained': 'attainable by (means of) merit'. labhyā is the head.

ANALYSIS पुण्येन लभ्या पुण्यलभ्या

puṇyena labhyā puṇyalabhyā

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally, devotion to Her and initiation into Her worship are said to come only as the ripened fruit of merit gathered over many lives.

---

544 पुण्यश्रवणकीर्तना puṇya-śravaṇa-kīrtanā

She whom it is meritorious to hear of and to praise

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (over an inner itaretara-dvandva and karmadhāraya). (1) śravaṇa 'hearing' and kīrtana 'singing, praising' form a dvandva, 'hearing and praising'. (2) puṇya qualifies the pair: 'meritorious hearing and praising' (karmadhāraya). (3) The whole is a bahuvrīhi: 'She, the hearing (of whom) and the praising (of whom) are meritorious'; the neuter kīrtana takes the feminine -ā. She is the object of the hearing and singing, not their agent.

ANALYSIS श्रवणम् च कीर्तनम् च श्रवणकीर्तने; पुण्ये श्रवणकीर्तने यस्याः सा पुण्यश्रवणकीर्तना

śravaṇam ca kīrtanam ca śravaṇakīrtane; puṇye śravaṇakīrtane yasyāḥ sā puṇyaśravaṇakīrtanā

SIGNIFICANCE Śravaṇa and kīrtana head the traditional list of the forms of devotion; simply listening to Her names and singing them is said to yield merit.

---

545 पुलोमजार्चिता pulomajārcitā

She who is worshipped by Pulomajā (Śacī, the wife of Indra)

SANDHI पुलोमजार्चिता = पुलोमजा + अर्चिता (pulomajā + arcitā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: ā + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa (with an inner upapada-tatpuruṣa). (1) pulomajā 'she who was born of Puloman', i.e. Śacī: the stem puloman (final n dropped in composition) with -ja 'born' from √jan (upapada-tatpuruṣa, feminine -ā). (2) Pulomajā stands in the instrumental to the participle arcitā 'worshipped', which is the head: 'worshipped by Śacī'.

ANALYSIS पुलोम्नः जाता पुलोमजा; पुलोमजया अर्चिता पुलोमजार्चिता

pulomnaḥ jātā pulomajā; pulomajayā arcitā pulomajārcitā

SIGNIFICANCE Even Śacī, queen of the gods, worships Her; traditionally her worship is said to keep Indra's sovereignty secure.

> UNCERTAIN That Śacī's worship secures Indra's rule is a traditional reading; no single source for it was confirmed here.

546 बन्धमोचनी bandha-mocanī

She who releases from bondage

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa. mocanī is an agent noun, 'one who releases'; bandha 'bondage' is its object, expressed in the genitive that goes with an agent noun (kṛd-yoga ṣaṣṭhī). mocanī is the head: 'the releaser from bondage'.

ANALYSIS बन्धस्य मोचनी बन्धमोचनी

bandhasya mocanī bandhamocanī

SIGNIFICANCE The bondage is outward (prison, debt, trouble) and inward: the bonds of karma and ignorance that tie the self to saṃsāra, from which She alone frees.

547 बन्धुरालका bandhurālakā

She whose locks of hair are wavy

SANDHI बन्धुरालका = बन्धुर + अलका (bandhura + alakā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (over an inner karmadhāraya). Inner layer: bandhura 'wavy' qualifies alaka 'lock of hair, curl' (karmadhāraya). Outer layer: a bahuvrīhi, 'She whose locks are wavy'; alaka takes the feminine -ā.

ANALYSIS बन्धुराः अलकाः बन्धुरालकाः; बन्धुराः अलकाः यस्याः सा बन्धुरालका

bandhurāḥ alakāḥ bandhurālakāḥ; bandhurāḥ alakāḥ yasyāḥ sā bandhurālakā

SIGNIFICANCE A return to the description of Her beauty: the gently curling locks framing Her face.

UNCERTAIN The reading itself: this edition follows the verse text (bandhurālakā) where the old name list read barbarālakā; which of the two Bhāskararāya's text adopts could not be confirmed here. The sense is the same either way.

VARIANTS The source's name list reads बर्बरालका barbarālakā (barbara 'curly'); the verse text, followed here, reads बन्धुरालका. Both readings are current in printed editions.

CORRECTED बर्बरालका → बन्धुरालका. Name list read बर्बरालका, verse text बन्धुरालका. The verse reading is adopted (bandhura, wavy; barbara, curly — the sense is the same); barbarālakā is recorded as a variant. Flagged for review.

SANSKRIT	ENGLISH
निवारिणी nivāriṇī	she who wards off, prevents ni + causative of √vṛ 'to cover, restrain', agent suffix -in, feminine -ī; n becomes ṇ after r (ṇatva)

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Name 550 is one compound, viyad-ādi-jagat-prasūḥ, though it was once printed as two words; the d is the voiced t of viyat 'ether'.

THE NAMES

548 विमर्शरूपिणी vimarśa-rūpiṇī

She whose form is vimarśa, the reflective awareness of consciousness

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND karmadhāraya (identification) with the possessive suffix -in. vimarśa-rūpa 'the form that is vimarśa' is a karmadhāraya of identification. The possessive suffix -in (Pāṇini 5.2.115 ata iniṭhanau) and the feminine -ī make rūpiṇī 'having the form of': 'She whose form is vimarśa'.

ANALYSIS विमर्शः एव रूपम् विमर्शरूपम्; विमर्शरूपम् अस्याः अस्ति इति विमर्शरूपिणी

vimarśaḥ eva rūpam vimarśarūpam; vimarśarūpam asyāḥ asti iti vimarśarūpiṇī

SIGNIFICANCE In Śrīvidyā and Kashmir Śaivism, Śiva is prakāśa, the light of consciousness, and Śakti is vimarśa, its power to know itself; without vimarśa the light would be inert. The Goddess is that self-knowing power.

549 विद्या vidyā

She who is in the form of knowledge

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE She is the liberating knowledge that dispels ignorance (avidyā); in Śrīvidyā, vidyā also means the mantra, so She is the mantra as well as the knowledge it gives.

550 वियदादिजगत्प्रसूः viyad-ādi-jagat-prasūḥ

She who is the mother of the world, which begins with ether

SANDHI वियदादि = वियत् + आदि (viyat + ādi) — jaśtva: a final t becomes d at the end of a member, here before a vowel (Pāṇini 8.2.39 jhalāṃ jaśo 'nte)

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa (over an inner bahuvrīhi and karmadhāraya). (1) viyad-ādi 'that which begins with ether (space)': a bahuvrīhi in -ādi, 'having viyat as its first'. (2) It qualifies jagat 'the world' (karmadhāraya): 'the world beginning with ether', i.e. the whole order of the elements from space down to earth. (3) prasū 'mother, she who brings forth' is the head; the world stands to it in the genitive. At jagat-prasū the t stays unvoiced before p.

ANALYSIS वियत् आदिः यस्य तत् वियदादि; वियदादि जगत् वियदादिजगत्; वियदादिजगतः प्रसूः वियदादिजगत्प्रसूः

viyat ādiḥ yasya tat viyadādi; viyadādi jagat viyadādijagat; viyadādijagataḥ prasūḥ viyadādijagatprasūḥ

SIGNIFICANCE The world unfolds from Her as the five elements, ether first, as in the Taittirīya Upaniṣad (2.1): from the Self, space; from space, air; and so on down to earth.

> CORRECTED वियदादि जगत्प्रसूः → वियदादिजगत्प्रसूः. "वियदादि जगत्प्रसूः" → one compound name, written solid.

---

551 सर्वव्याधिप्रशमनी sarva-vyādhi-praśamanī

She who allays all diseases

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa (with an inner karmadhāraya). (1) sarva-vyādhi 'all diseases' (karmadhāraya: sarva qualifies vyādhi). (2) praśamanī 'she who allays' is an agent noun and the head; the diseases are its object in the genitive.

ANALYSIS सर्वे व्याधयः सर्वव्याधयः; सर्वव्याधीनाम् प्रशमनी सर्वव्याधिप्रशमनी

sarve vyādhayaḥ sarvavyādhayaḥ; sarvavyādhīnām praśamanī sarvavyādhipraśamanī

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally both the illnesses of the body and the root disease of saṃsāra (bhava-roga) are meant; recitation of this name is customary for healing.

---

552 सर्वमृत्युनिवारिणी sarva-mṛtyu-nivāriṇī

She who wards off every kind of death

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa (with an inner karmadhāraya). (1) sarva-mṛtyu 'every death', i.e. death in all its forms (karmadhāraya). (2) nivāriṇī 'she who wards off' is the head and takes the deaths as its object in the genitive.

ANALYSIS सर्वे मृत्यवः सर्वमृत्यवः; सर्वमृत्यूनाम् निवारिणी सर्वमृत्युनिवारिणी

sarve mṛtyavaḥ sarvamṛtyavaḥ; sarvamṛtyūnām nivāriṇī sarvamṛtyunivāriṇī

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally untimely death (apamṛtyu) is meant, and beyond it the endless round of dying and being born, which ends in knowledge of Her.

कमल kamala	lotus
अक्ष akṣa	eye akṣi 'eye' as a compound-final -akṣa
निषेविता niṣevitā	served, worshipped, resorted to ni + √sev 'to serve, attend', past participle, feminine

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

अग्रगण्याऽचिन्त्य = अग्रगण्या + अचिन्त्य... (agragaṇyā + acintya...) — savarṇa-dīrgha: ā + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101); the avagraha (ऽ) marks the absorbed initial a of acintya

Divide agragaṇyā + acintyarūpā: the avagraha shows that the next name begins with the negative a- ('inconceivable'), not cintya ('conceivable').

THE NAMES

553 अग्रगण्या agra-gaṇyā

She who is to be counted the foremost

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND saptamī-tatpuruṣa. agra 'the front, the first place' stands in the locative to the gerundive gaṇyā 'to be counted': 'to be counted in the first place', foremost. gaṇyā is the head.

ANALYSIS अग्रे गण्या अग्रगण्या

agre gaṇyā agragaṇyā

SIGNIFICANCE Whenever beings are reckoned up, She is counted first: She precedes the gods themselves.

554 अचिन्त्यरूपा acintya-rūpā

She whose form is beyond the reach of thought

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (over an inner nañ-tatpuruṣa). (1) a-cintya 'not to be thought, inconceivable': a nañ-tatpuruṣa, the negative na appearing as a- before a consonant (a morphological replacement, Pāṇini 6.3.73 nalopo nañaḥ, not sound-sandhi). (2) A bahuvrīhi: 'She whose form is inconceivable'; rūpa takes the feminine -ā.

ANALYSIS न चिन्त्यम् अचिन्त्यम्; अचिन्त्यम् रूपम् यस्याः सा अचिन्त्यरूपा

na cintyam acintyam; acintyam rūpam yasyāḥ sā acintyarūpā

SIGNIFICANCE Her true form cannot be made an object of the mind, which itself arises in Her; the Kena Upaniṣad says of Brahman that it is not what the mind thinks but that by which the mind thinks.

---

555 कलिकल्मषनाशिनी kali-kalmaṣa-nāśinī

She who destroys the sins of the Kali age

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa (with an inner ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (1) kali-kalmaṣa 'the impurities of the Kali age' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (2) nāśinī 'she who destroys' is the head and takes them as object in the genitive.

ANALYSIS कलेः कल्मषाणि कलिकल्मषाणि; कलिकल्मषाणाम् नाशिनी कलिकल्मषनाशिनी

kaleḥ kalmaṣāṇi kalikalmaṣāṇi; kalikalmaṣāṇām nāśinī kalikalmaṣanāśinī

SIGNIFICANCE The faults peculiar to the Kali age (impurity, forgetfulness of dharma, strife) are cleansed by the remembrance of Her names, traditionally the chief means for this age.

---

556 कात्यायनी kātyāyanī

She who is Kātyāyanī, daughter of the sage Kātyāyana of Kata's line

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE In the Purāṇas the Goddess born from the united radiance of the gods to slay Mahiṣa was first worshipped by, or born in the hermitage of, the sage Kātyāyana, and so is called Kātyāyanī; She is the Durgā of the Devī-Māhātmya.

> UNCERTAIN Purāṇic accounts differ on whether She was born in Kātyāyana's hermitage or first worshipped by him; the derivation from Kata is standard grammar.

557 कालहन्त्री kāla-hantrī

She who is the destroyer of time (death)

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa. hantrī 'slayer' is an agent noun (hantṛ, feminine -ī) and the head; kāla is its object in the genitive.

ANALYSIS कालस्य हन्त्री कालहन्त्री

kālasya hantrī kālahantrī

SIGNIFICANCE For Her devotee She ends death; at the great dissolution She withdraws time itself, which devours all else.

---

558 कमलाक्षनिषेविता kamalākṣa-niṣevitā

She who is served and worshipped by lotus-eyed Viṣṇu

SANDHI कमलाक्ष = कमल + अक्ष (kamala + akṣa) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa (with an inner bahuvrīhi). (1) kamalākṣa 'he whose eyes are like lotuses', Viṣṇu: a bahuvrīhi in which akṣi 'eye' becomes akṣa (the compound-final suffix ṣac, Pāṇini 5.4.113 bahuvrīhau sakthyakṣṇoḥ svāṅgāt ṣac). (2) He stands in the instrumental to the participle niṣevitā 'served, resorted to', which is the head.

ANALYSIS कमले इव अक्षिणी यस्य सः कमलाक्षः; कमलाक्षेण निषेविता कमलाक्षनिषेविता

kamale iva akṣiṇī yasya saḥ kamalākṣaḥ; kamalākṣeṇa niṣevitā kamalākṣaniṣevitā

SIGNIFICANCE Viṣṇu Himself attends on Her; traditionally He is counted among Her worshippers, and the power by which He preserves the world is Hers.

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Names 559–561 return briefly to Her physical beauty (betel-filled mouth, pomegranate-red complexion, doe's eyes) amid names of Her power.

THE NAMES

559 ताम्बूलपूरितमुखी tāmbūla-pūrita-mukhī

She whose mouth is filled with betel

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (over an inner tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa). (1) tāmbūla-pūrita 'filled with betel' (tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa: tāmbūla is the instrument of the participle pūrita). (2) A bahuvrīhi with mukha 'mouth': 'She whose mouth is filled with betel'. A bahuvrīhi ending in a body-part word takes the feminine -ī (Pāṇini 4.1.54 svāṅgāc copasarjanād asaṃyogopadhāt), hence mukhī.

ANALYSIS ताम्बूलेन पूरितम् ताम्बूलपूरितम्; ताम्बूलपूरितम् मुखम् यस्याः सा ताम्बूलपूरितमुखी
tāmbūlena pūritam tāmbūlapūritam; tāmbūlapūritam mukham yasyāḥ sā tāmbūlapūritamukhī

SIGNIFICANCE The red betel deepens the crimson of Her lips (name 24), and its camphor fragrance is the theme of name 26; in Her worship tāmbūla is offered among the closing courtly attentions.

560 दाडिमीकुसुमप्रभा dāḍimī-kusuma-prabhā

She who shines like a pomegranate flower

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi of resemblance (over an inner ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (1) dāḍimī-kusuma 'the pomegranate flower' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (2) A bahuvrīhi of resemblance: 'She whose radiance is (like) the radiance of the pomegranate flower'. prabhā is already feminine.

ANALYSIS दाडिम्याः कुसुमम् दाडिमीकुसुमम्; दाडिमीकुसुमस्य प्रभा इव प्रभा यस्याः सा दाडिमीकुसुमप्रभा

dāḍimyāḥ kusumam dāḍimīkusumam; dāḍimīkusumasya prabhā iva prabhā yasyāḥ sā dāḍimīkusumaprabhā

SIGNIFICANCE The pomegranate blossom is a deep scarlet: Her complexion is the rosy red (aruṇa) of the meditation verses, the color of compassion.

---

561 मृगाक्षी mṛgākṣī

She whose eyes are long and beautiful like those of a doe

SANDHI मृगाक्षी = मृग + अक्षी (mṛga + akṣī) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (of comparison). A bahuvrīhi of comparison: 'She whose eyes are like a deer's'. akṣi 'eye' becomes -akṣa at the end of the bahuvrīhi (Pāṇini 5.4.113) and then takes the feminine -ī: mṛgākṣī.

ANALYSIS मृगस्य अक्षिणी इव अक्षिणी यस्याः सा मृगाक्षी

mṛgasya akṣiṇī iva akṣiṇī yasyāḥ sā mṛgākṣī

SIGNIFICANCE The doe's eye is the classical image of eyes that are large, long and gently restless.

---

562 मोहिनी mohinī

She who is enchanting

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE She enchants all by Her beauty and, as Mahāmāyā, casts the spell by which the world forgets itself. Traditionally the Mohinī form Viṣṇu took at the churning of the ocean is regarded as Hers.

---

563 मुख्या mukhyā

She who is the first

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE She stands at the head of all: the first of the gods and the source from which they come.

564 मृडानी mṛḍānī

She who is the wife of Mṛḍa (Śiva)

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE Mṛḍa means 'the gracious one', from √mṛḍ 'to be kind': as His consort She is the grace by which Śiva blesses.

565 मित्ररूपिणी mitra-rūpiṇī

She who has the form of a friend (to all beings)

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND karmadhāraya (identification) with the possessive suffix -in. mitra-rūpa 'the form of a friend' (karmadhāraya of identification), with the possessive -in and feminine -ī: 'She who has the form of a friend'. mitra (neuter) is 'friend'; the masculine Mitra is the sun-god, one of the Ādityas, and the name allows that reading too.

ANALYSIS मित्रम् एव रूपम् मित्ररूपम्; मित्ररूपम् अस्याः अस्ति इति मित्ररूपिणी

mitram eva rūpam mitrarūpam; mitrarūpam asyāḥ asti iti mitrarūpiṇī

SIGNIFICANCE She is the friend of the whole world, wishing good to all without being asked; traditionally the name is also read as Her being the sun (Mitra), one of the twelve Ādityas.

571 महाप्रलयसाक्षिणी mahā-pralaya-sākṣiṇī
महत् mahat	great appears as mahā- (Pāṇini 6.3.46)

SANSKRIT	ENGLISH
प्रलय pralaya	dissolution of the universe pra + √lī 'to dissolve'
साक्षिणी sākṣiṇī	witness, one who sees directly sākṣin (sa + akṣa 'with eyes'), feminine -ī

भक्तनिधिर्नियन्त्री = भक्तनिधिः + नियन्त्री (bhaktanidhiḥ + niyantrī) — visarga becomes r before a voiced sound (Pāṇini 8.2.66 sasajuṣo ruḥ)

Name 570 refers to the four attitudes of Yoga Sūtra 1.33 (friendliness, compassion, gladness, equanimity).

THE NAMES

566 नित्यतृप्ता nitya-tṛptā

She who is eternally contented

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND karmadhāraya (nitya used adverbially). nitya 'always' qualifies the participle tṛptā 'contented', which is the head: 'ever contented'.

ANALYSIS नित्यम् तृप्ता नित्यतृप्ता

nityam tṛptā nityatṛptā

SIGNIFICANCE Lacking nothing, She needs nothing; She accepts offerings for the devotee's sake, not Her own.

567 भक्तनिधिः bhakta-nidhiḥ

She who is the treasure of the devotees

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa. nidhi 'treasure' is the head and the devotees stand to it in the genitive: 'the treasure of the devotees'. nidhi is masculine and keeps its form in a name of the Goddess (in apposition).

ANALYSIS भक्तानाम् निधिः भक्तनिधिः

bhaktānām nidhiḥ bhaktanidhiḥ

SIGNIFICANCE To Her devotees She is the inexhaustible store from which every good, worldly and spiritual, is drawn.

568 नियन्त्री niyantrī

She who controls and governs all beings

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE As the inner controller (antaryāmin) She directs every being from within and keeps it on its course.

569 निखिलेश्वरी nikhileśvarī

She who is the ruler of all

SANDHI निखिलेश्वरी = निखिल + ईश्वरी (nikhila + īśvarī) — guṇa: a + ī → e (Pāṇini 6.1.87 ād guṇaḥ)

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa. īśvarī 'sovereign' is the head and nikhila 'all, the whole' stands to it in the genitive: 'the ruler of all'.

ANALYSIS निखिलस्य ईश्वरी निखिलेश्वरी

nikhilasya īśvarī nikhileśvarī

SIGNIFICANCE Nothing lies outside Her rule: She is sovereign over the whole, without remainder.

570 मैत्र्यादिवासनालभ्या maitryādi-vāsanā-labhyā

She who is attained through friendliness and the other good dispositions

SANDHI मैत्र्यादि = मैत्री + आदि (maitrī + ādi) — yaṇ: ī becomes y before a dissimilar vowel (Pāṇini 6.1.77 iko yaṇ aci)

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa (over an inner bahuvrīhi and karmadhāraya). (1) maitry-ādi 'those beginning with friendliness' (bahuvrīhi in -ādi). (2) These qualify vāsanā 'dispositions, cultivated attitudes' (karmadhāraya). (3) The gerundive labhyā 'attainable' is the head; the dispositions are its instrument: 'attainable through friendliness and the other dispositions'.

ANALYSIS मैत्री आदिः यासाम् ताः मैत्र्यादयः; मैत्र्यादयः वासनाः मैत्र्यादिवासनाः; मैत्र्यादिवासनाभिः लभ्या मैत्र्यादिवासनालभ्या

maitrī ādiḥ yāsām tāḥ maitryādayaḥ; maitryādayaḥ vāsanāḥ maitryādivāsanāḥ; maitryādivāsanābhiḥ labhyā maitryādivāsanālabhyā

SIGNIFICANCE The four are those of Yoga Sūtra 1.33: friendliness toward the happy, compassion toward the suffering, gladness toward the virtuous and equanimity toward the wicked, by which the mind becomes clear; a mind so cleared finds Her.

---

571 महाप्रलयसाक्षिणी mahā-pralaya-sākṣiṇī

She who is witness to the great dissolution

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa (with an inner karmadhāraya). (1) mahā-pralaya 'the great dissolution' (karmadhāraya; mahat becomes mahā- before a co-referential member, Pāṇini 6.3.46). (2) sākṣiṇī 'witness' is the head and takes the dissolution in the genitive.

ANALYSIS महान् प्रलयः महाप्रलयः; महाप्रलयस्य साक्षिणी महाप्रलयसाक्षिणी

mahān pralayaḥ mahāpralayaḥ; mahāpralayasya sākṣiṇī mahāpralayasākṣiṇī

SIGNIFICANCE When all the worlds and even the gods are dissolved, She alone remains, watching; compare name 232, where She witnesses Śiva's great dance at the end of the aeon.

576 मत्ता mattā
577 मातृका-वर्ण-रूपिणी mātṛkā-varṇa-rūpiṇī

TRANSLATION

572 She who is the supreme Power (Parā Śakti); 573 She who is the supreme end, the supreme abidance; 574 She whose form is a solid mass of pure consciousness;

575 She who is languid from drinking honey-wine; 576 She who is intoxicated; 577 She who is in the form of the letters of the alphabet.

WORD BY WORD

SANSKRIT	ENGLISH
572 पराशक्तिः parā-śaktiḥ
परा parā	supreme, highest, beyond all feminine of para, agreeing with śaktiḥ. Not a compound but a phrase of two words: the adjective parā agrees with the noun, and the pair is counted as one name. Had they been compounded as a karmadhāraya, the feminine parā would normally return to the masculine stem (puṃvadbhāva, Pāṇini 6.3.42): para-. The verse text accordingly prints them as two words.
शक्तिः śaktiḥ	power, energy √śak 'to be able'; feminine i-stem, nominative singular
573 परानिष्ठा parā-niṣṭhā
परा parā	supreme, highest feminine of para, agreeing with niṣṭhā; as in name 572 the two words stand in agreement and are not compounded (a karmadhāraya would normally give para-).
निष्ठा niṣṭhā	culmination, final goal; firm ground, steadfast abiding ni + √sthā 'to stand'
574 प्रज्ञानघनरूपिणी prajñāna-ghana-rūpiṇī
प्रज्ञान prajñāna	consciousness, pure knowing pra + √jñā 'to know'
घन ghana	solid mass, compact; nothing but √han; at the end of a compound 'consisting wholly of'
रूपिणी rūpiṇī	having the form of rūpa + possessive -in, feminine -ī

SANSKRIT	ENGLISH
575 माध्वीपानालसा mādhvī-pānālasā
माध्वी mādhvī	mādhvī, a sweet wine made from honey or madhūka flowers from madhu 'honey'
पान pāna	drinking √pā 'to drink'
अलसा alasā	languid, indolent, slow a- 'not' + lasa 'lively', feminine
576 मत्ता mattā
मत्ता mattā	intoxicated, exhilarated, rapt √mad 'to rejoice, be intoxicated', past participle, feminine
577 मातृकावर्णरूपिणी mātṛkā-varṇa-rūpiṇī
मातृका mātṛkā	mātṛkā, the 'little mothers': the letters of the Sanskrit alphabet as the matrix of all speech and mantra
वर्ण varṇa	letter, sound; also color
रूपिणी rūpiṇī	having the form of rūpa + possessive -in, feminine -ī

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Names 572 and 573 are each written as two words, parā śaktiḥ and parā niṣṭhā: adjective and noun in agreement, each pair counted as one name. Name 575: divide pāna + alasā ('languid from drinking').

THE NAMES

572 पराशक्तिः parā-śaktiḥ

She who is the supreme Power (Parā Śakti)

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE The one power inseparable from Śiva, from which the powers of will, knowledge and action (name 658) and every lesser power proceed.

> UNCERTAIN Phrase or compound: the retained feminine parā and the verse's spacing point to two words in agreement (no samāsa); in later usage Parāśakti is also treated as a fixed compound title.

---

573 परानिष्ठा parā-niṣṭhā

She who is the supreme end, the supreme abidance

SANDHI निष्ठा = नि + स्था (ni + sthā) — after a prefix ending in i, the s of sthā becomes ṣ (Pāṇini 8.3.65), and th then becomes ṭh by retroflex assimilation (8.4.41 ṣṭunā ṣṭuḥ), inside the word niṣṭhā

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE She is the culmination in which every path comes to rest: the Gītā (3.3) speaks of two kinds of niṣṭhā, of knowledge and of action, and both end in Her.

> UNCERTAIN Phrase or compound, as with name 572: the feminine parā is kept, so the name is read as two words in agreement.

---

574 प्रज्ञानघनरूपिणी prajñāna-ghana-rūpiṇī

She whose form is a solid mass of pure consciousness

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND karmadhāraya (identification) with the possessive suffix -in (over an inner ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (1) prajñāna-ghana 'a solid mass of consciousness' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa, like saindhava-ghana 'a lump of salt'). (2) It is identified with rūpa 'form' (karmadhāraya). (3) The possessive -in and feminine -ī: 'She whose form is a solid mass of consciousness'.

ANALYSIS प्रज्ञानस्य घनः प्रज्ञानघनः; प्रज्ञानघनः एव रूपम् प्रज्ञानघनरूपम्; प्रज्ञानघनरूपम् अस्याः अस्ति इति प्रज्ञानघनरूपिणी

prajñānasya ghanaḥ prajñānaghanaḥ; prajñānaghanaḥ eva rūpam prajñānaghanarūpam; prajñānaghanarūpam asyāḥ asti iti prajñānaghanarūpiṇī

SIGNIFICANCE The phrase is Upaniṣadic: the Bṛhadāraṇyaka (4.5.13) says that as a lump of salt is salt throughout, so the Self is prajñānaghana, consciousness through and through, with no inside or outside; the Māṇḍūkya (5) uses the same word.

CORRECTED प्रज्ञानघनरुपिणी → प्रज्ञानघनरूपिणी. रुपिणी → रूपिणी.

575 माध्वीपानालसा mādhvī-pānālasā

She who is languid from drinking honey-wine

SANDHI पानालसा = पान + अलसा (pāna + alasā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa (with an inner ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (1) mādhvī-pāna 'the drinking of honey-wine' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (2) alasā 'languid' is the head and the drinking is its cause, in the instrumental: 'languid from drinking honey-wine'.

ANALYSIS माध्व्याः पानम् माध्वीपानम्; माध्वीपानेन अलसा माध्वीपानालसा

mādhvyāḥ pānam mādhvīpānam; mādhvīpānena alasā mādhvīpānālasā

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally read inwardly: the wine is the bliss of the Self, and Her languor is the absence of all striving, since for Her nothing remains to be gained.

576 मत्ता mattā

She who is intoxicated

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally, the intoxication is the bliss of Her own Self, which needs nothing outside it.

577 मातृकावर्णरूपिणी mātṛkā-varṇa-rūpiṇī

She who is in the form of the letters of the alphabet

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND karmadhāraya (identification) with the possessive suffix -in (over an inner karmadhāraya). (1) mātṛkā-varṇa 'the letters that are the mātṛkā' (karmadhāraya; a genitive reading, 'the letters of the mātṛkā', comes to the same). (2) Identified with rūpa 'form'. (3) The possessive -in and feminine -ī: 'She whose form is the letters of the mātṛkā'.

ANALYSIS मातृकाः एव वर्णाः मातृकावर्णाः; मातृकावर्णाः एव रूपम् मातृकावर्णरूपम्; मातृकावर्णरूपम् अस्याः अस्ति इति मातृकावर्णरूपिणी

mātṛkāḥ eva varṇāḥ mātṛkāvarṇāḥ; mātṛkāvarṇāḥ eva rūpam mātṛkāvarṇarūpam; mātṛkāvarṇarūpam asyāḥ asti iti mātṛkāvarṇarūpiṇī

SIGNIFICANCE The mātṛkā are the fifty letters from a to kṣa; in mātṛkā-nyāsa they are placed on the worshipper's body as on Hers, since every mantra and every word is made of them.

578 She who dwells in the great Kailāsa; 579 She whose creeper-like arms are as soft as lotus stalks;

580 She who is worthy of adoration; 581 She who is the personification of compassion; 582 She who possesses the great empire, sovereign over all.

WORD BY WORD

SANSKRIT	ENGLISH
578 महाकैलासनिलया mahā-kailāsa-nilayā
महत् mahat	great appears as mahā- (Pāṇini 6.3.46)
कैलास kailāsa	Kailāsa, the mountain abode of Śiva

SANSKRIT	ENGLISH
निलया nilayā	dwelling, abode nilaya (ni + √lī 'to settle'), with the feminine -ā of the bahuvrīhi

579 मृणालमृदुदोर्लता mṛṇāla-mṛdu-dorlatā

मृणाल mṛṇāla	lotus stalk, the fibrous lotus root
मृदु mṛdu	soft, tender
दोस् dos	arm s-stem; dos becomes dor- before l
लता latā	creeper, slender vine

580 महनीया mahanīyā

महनीया mahanīyā	worthy of worship, to be honored, glorious √mah 'to honor, magnify' + the gerundive suffix -anīya, feminine

581 दयामूर्तिः dayā-mūrtiḥ

दया dayā	compassion, mercy
मूर्तिः mūrtiḥ	form, embodiment √murch 'to take shape'; feminine i-stem, nominative singular

582 महासाम्राज्यशालिनी mahā-sāmrājya-śālinī

महत् mahat	great appears as mahā- (Pāṇini 6.3.46)
साम्राज्य sāmrājya	universal sovereignty, empire from samrāj 'universal ruler'; in sam + rāj the m stays m, not anusvāra (Pāṇini 8.3.25 mo rāji samaḥ kvau)

SANSKRIT	ENGLISH
शालिनी śālinī	possessed of, abounding in, resplendent with √śal/śāl + the suffix -in, feminine -ī

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

दयामूर्तिर्महासाम्राज्य = दयामूर्तिः + महासाम्राज्य... (dayāmūrtiḥ + mahāsāmrājya...) — visarga becomes r before a voiced sound (Pāṇini 8.2.66 sasajuṣo ruḥ)

Name 579: dorlatā is dos 'arm' + latā 'creeper'; the r is the s of dos before l.

THE NAMES

578 महाकैलासनिलया mahā-kailāsa-nilayā

She who dwells in the great Kailāsa

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (over an inner karmadhāraya). (1) mahā-kailāsa 'the great Kailāsa' (karmadhāraya; mahat becomes mahā-, Pāṇini 6.3.46). (2) A bahuvrīhi with nilaya 'dwelling': 'She whose dwelling is the great Kailāsa'; nilaya takes the feminine -ā.

ANALYSIS महान् कैलासः महाकैलासः; महाकैलासः निलयः यस्याः सा महाकैलासनिलया

mahān kailāsaḥ mahākailāsaḥ; mahākailāsaḥ nilayaḥ yasyāḥ sā mahākailāsanilayā

SIGNIFICANCE Mahākailāsa is traditionally the supreme abode of Śiva and Śakti, beyond the earthly mountain; inwardly it is placed at the crown of the head.

579 मृणालमृदुदोर्लता mṛṇāla-mṛdu-dorlatā

She whose creeper-like arms are as soft as lotus stalks

SANDHI दोर्लता = दोस् + लता (dos + latā) — final s becomes r (ru) before a voiced sound (Pāṇini 8.2.66 sasajuṣo ruḥ); the r stays before l

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (over an upamita-karmadhāraya and an upamāna-karmadhāraya). (1) dor-latā 'an arm (slender) as a creeper': the thing compared comes first and the standard second (upamita-karmadhāraya, Pāṇini 2.1.56). (2) mṛṇāla-mṛdu 'soft as a lotus stalk': standard of comparison + shared quality (upamāna-karmadhāraya, Pāṇini 2.1.55). (3) A bahuvrīhi: 'She whose creeper-like arms are soft as lotus stalks'. The feminine mṛdvī appears as the stem mṛdu (puṃvadbhāva); latā is already feminine. The singular stands for the class: She has four arms (name 7).

ANALYSIS दोः लता इव दोर्लता; मृणालम् इव मृदु मृणालमृदु; मृणालमृद्वी दोर्लता यस्याः सा मृणालमृदुदोर्लता

doḥ latā iva dorlatā; mṛṇālam iva mṛdu mṛṇālamṛdu; mṛṇālamṛdvī dorlatā yasyāḥ sā

mṛṇālamṛdudorlatā

SIGNIFICANCE Her four arms are slender and graceful like creepers and tender like the lotus stalk, a stock image of classical poetry.

---

580 महनीया mahanīyā

She who is worthy of adoration

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE Being greatest, She alone is wholly worthy of worship; traditionally all honor offered anywhere is said to reach Her in the end.

---

581 दयामूर्तिः dayā-mūrtiḥ

She who is the personification of compassion

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa (alternatively bahuvrīhi). As a ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa, mūrti 'embodiment' is the head: 'the embodiment of compassion'. As a bahuvrīhi: 'She whose form is compassion'. mūrti is feminine, so the form is the same either way.

ANALYSIS दयायाः मूर्तिः दयामूर्तिः; अथवा दया मूर्तिः यस्याः सा दयामूर्तिः

dayāyāḥ mūrtiḥ dayāmūrtiḥ; athavā dayā mūrtiḥ yasyāḥ sā dayāmūrtiḥ

SIGNIFICANCE She took form at all only out of compassion, appearing from the fire for the gods' sake (names 4–5); compassion is Her very body.

---

582 महासाम्राज्यशालिनी mahā-sāmrājya-śālinī

She who possesses the great empire, sovereign over all

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa (with an inner karmadhāraya). (1) mahā-sāmrājya 'great sovereignty, the great empire' (karmadhāraya; mahat → mahā-, Pāṇini 6.3.46). (2) śālinī 'possessed of, resplendent with' is the head and takes the empire in the instrumental.

ANALYSIS महत् साम्राज्यम् महासाम्राज्यम्; महासाम्राज्येन शालिनी महासाम्राज्यशालिनी

mahat sāmrājyam mahāsāmrājyam; mahāsāmrājyena śālinī mahāsāmrājyaśālinī

SIGNIFICANCE Her empire is the whole of creation: the worlds, their gods and their guardians are within Her rule.

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Names 583–589 are names of the mantra: the Vidyās, the sixteen-syllable Ṣoḍaśī, the three kūṭas of the Pañcadaśī.

THE NAMES

583 आत्मविद्या ātma-vidyā

She who is the knowledge of the Self

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa. vidyā 'knowledge' is the head and ātman 'the Self' stands to it in the genitive: 'knowledge of the Self'. ātman drops its final n in composition.

ANALYSIS आत्मनः विद्या आत्मविद्या

ātmanaḥ vidyā ātmavidyā

SIGNIFICANCE She is the knowledge of the Self taught in the Upaniṣads, which the Gītā (10.32) calls the foremost of all knowledges.

584 महाविद्या mahā-vidyā

She who is the great knowledge

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND karmadhāraya. mahatī 'great' qualifies vidyā; the feminine adjective takes the masculine stem (puṃvadbhāva, Pāṇini 6.3.42) and mahat becomes mahā- (6.3.46), as in name 2.

ANALYSIS महती विद्या महाविद्या

mahatī vidyā mahāvidyā

SIGNIFICANCE In the Tantras mahāvidyā is the great mantra-knowledge, and the name is given to the ten Wisdom Goddesses (daśa mahāvidyā), all regarded as Her forms.

---

585 श्रीविद्या śrī-vidyā

She who is Śrīvidyā, the auspicious knowledge (the Pañcadaśī mantra)

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND karmadhāraya (alternatively ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). As a karmadhāraya, śrī qualifies vidyā: 'the auspicious knowledge'. As a ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa: 'the knowledge (mantra) of Śrī', the Goddess. vidyā is the head either way.

ANALYSIS श्रीः विद्या श्रीविद्या; अथवा श्रियः विद्या श्रीविद्या

śrīḥ vidyā śrīvidyā; athavā śriyaḥ vidyā śrīvidyā

SIGNIFICANCE Śrīvidyā names both Her fifteen-syllable mantra, the Pañcadaśī, and the whole tradition of Her worship; the mantra is Her subtle body (names 85–89).

---

586 कामसेविता kāma-sevitā

She who is worshipped by Kāmadeva

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa. Kāma stands in the instrumental to the participle sevitā 'worshipped', which is the head: 'worshipped by Kāma'.

ANALYSIS कामेन सेविता कामसेविता

kāmena sevitā kāmasevitā

SIGNIFICANCE Kāma, revived by Her after Śiva's eye burned him (name 84), is traditionally counted among the twelve great worshippers of Śrīvidyā, and the kādi form of the Pañcadaśī is called the Kāmarāja-vidyā after him. Compare name 375, kāmapūjitā.

---

587 श्रीषोडशाक्षरीविद्या śrī-ṣoḍaśākṣarī-vidyā

She who is the auspicious sixteen-syllable Vidyā (the Ṣoḍaśī mantra)

SANDHI षोडशाक्षरी = षोडश + अक्षरी (ṣoḍaśa + akṣarī) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND karmadhāraya (over an inner samāhāra-dvigu). (1) ṣoḍaśākṣarī 'the group of sixteen syllables': a collective numeral compound (samāhāra-dvigu); a dvigu ending in -a takes the feminine -ī (Pāṇini 4.1.21 dvigoḥ). (2) It stands in apposition to vidyā 'mantra' (karmadhāraya): 'the sixteen-syllable mantra'. Being a collective noun, not an adjective, it keeps its -ī. (3) śrī qualifies the whole as in names 1–3.

ANALYSIS षोडशानाम् अक्षराणाम् समाहारः षोडशाक्षरी; षोडशाक्षरी विद्या षोडशाक्षरीविद्या; श्रीः षोडशाक्षरीविद्या श्रीषोडशाक्षरीविद्या

ṣoḍaśānām akṣarāṇām samāhāraḥ ṣoḍaśākṣarī; ṣoḍaśākṣarī vidyā ṣoḍaśākṣarīvidyā; śrīḥ ṣoḍaśākṣarīvidyā śrīṣoḍaśākṣarīvidyā

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally the Ṣoḍaśī is the Pañcadaśī completed by a sixteenth seed-syllable (śrīṃ), the highest form of Her mantra, imparted only at the final initiation.

> UNCERTAIN The composition of the Ṣoḍaśī (which syllable completes the Pañcadaśī, and where it is placed) differs between lineages; the significance gives the commonest account.

588 त्रिकूटा tri-kūṭā

She who has three sections (the three kūṭas of the Pañcadaśī mantra)

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi. A bahuvrīhi with a numeral first member: 'She who has three kūṭas'. kūṭa takes the feminine -ā.

ANALYSIS त्रयः कूटाः यस्याः सा त्रिकूटा

trayaḥ kūṭāḥ yasyāḥ sā trikūṭā

SIGNIFICANCE The Pañcadaśī falls into three kūṭas, vāgbhava, kāmarāja and śakti, which are Her face, Her middle body and the body below the waist (names 85–87); traditionally every triad (the three worlds, guṇas, states, deities) is read in them.

---

589 कामकोटिका kāma-koṭikā

She of whom Kāma (Kāmeśvara, Śiva) is but a part

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (with the suffix -ka). A bahuvrīhi, 'She of whom Kāma is a koṭi (a portion)', with the optional bahuvrīhi suffix -ka (kap, Pāṇini 5.4.154 śeṣād vibhāṣā) and the feminine -ā. Kāma here is Kāmeśvara, Śiva as Her lover.

ANALYSIS कामः कोटिः यस्याः सा कामकोटिका

kāmaḥ koṭiḥ yasyāḥ sā kāmakoṭikā

SIGNIFICANCE Even Kāmeśvara, Her consort, is a portion of Her: Śiva and Śakti are one, and the whole is Hers.

> UNCERTAIN koṭi has several senses (portion, extremity, ten million), and the name is also read as 'She who dwells at Kāmakoṭi', the pīṭha at Kāñcī. The meaning follows the reading of Kāma as a part of Her.

इन्द्र indra	Indra, king of the gods

SANSKRIT	ENGLISH
धनुस् dhanus	bow s-stem; indradhanus 'Indra's bow' is the rainbow
प्रभा prabhā	radiance, luster

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

भालस्थेन्द्र = भालस्था + इन्द्र... (bhālasthā + indra...) — guṇa: ā + i → e (Pāṇini 6.1.87 ād guṇaḥ)

Divide bhālasthā + indradhanuḥprabhā. Names 591–597 (into śloka 120) place Her at four points for meditation: in the head like the moon, at the brow like the rainbow, in the heart like the sun, in the triangle as a lamp.

THE NAMES

590 कटाक्षकिङ्करीभूतकमलाकोटिसेविता kaṭākṣa-kiṅkarī-bhūta-kamalā-koṭi-sevitā

She who is attended by millions of Lakṣmīs who have become handmaids of Her side-glance

SANDHI कटाक्ष = कट + अक्ष (kaṭa + akṣa) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ), inside the lexicalised compound kaṭākṣa 'side-glance'

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa (over an inner cvi-compound, ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣas and a karmadhāraya). (1) kiṅkarī-bhūta 'become handmaids' (those who were not handmaids have become so): the cvi construction with √bhū (Pāṇini 5.4.50), whose -ī also replaces a final a (7.4.32 asya cvau), so the surface is the same whether one starts from kiṅkara or the feminine kiṅkarī. (2) kaṭākṣa-kiṅkarībhūta 'become handmaids of (Her) side-glance' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (3) kamalā-koṭi 'millions of Lakṣmīs' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa), qualified by (2) (karmadhāraya). (4) The participle sevitā 'served' is the head of the whole and takes them in the instrumental.

SIGNIFICANCE A single glance from Her brings forth fortune upon fortune: countless Lakṣmīs wait on that glance as servants. Traditionally, a mere glance of Her grace makes the devotee prosperous.

UNCERTAIN kaṭākṣa may be taken in the genitive ('handmaids of Her glance') or the instrumental ('made handmaids by Her glance'); the image is the same.

CORRECTED कटाक्षकिङ्करीभुतकमलाकोटिसेविता → कटाक्षकिङ्करीभूतकमलाकोटिसेविता. भुत → भूत (bhūta: long ū); the IAST was already right.

591 शिरःस्थिता śiraḥ-sthitā

She who resides in the head

SANDHI शिरःस्थिता = शिरस् + स्थिता (śiras + sthitā) — final s becomes visarga (Pāṇini 8.2.66 with 8.3.15), and the visarga stays before a sibilant followed by a hard consonant (8.3.35 śarpare visarjanīyaḥ)

COMPOUND saptamī-tatpuruṣa. The participle sthitā 'abiding' is the head and śiras 'head' stands to it in the locative: 'abiding in the head'.

ANALYSIS शिरसि स्थिता शिरःस्थिता

śirasi sthitā śiraḥsthitā

SIGNIFICANCE Names 591–597 place Her at four points of the body for meditation; here, at the crown of the head, She is meditated on as shining like the moon (name 592).

---

592 चन्द्रनिभा candra-nibhā

She who is resplendent like the moon

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi of resemblance. nibhā 'luster, appearance' (at the end of a compound, 'resembling'): 'She whose luster is like the moon's'. Read with nibha as an adjective, 'like the moon', the sense is the same.

ANALYSIS चन्द्रस्य निभा इव निभा यस्याः सा चन्द्रनिभा

candrasya nibhā iva nibhā yasyāḥ sā candranibhā

SIGNIFICANCE Meditated on in the head (name 591), She is cool and white like the full moon, the nectar-giving light at the crown.

---

593 भालस्था bhāla-sthā

She who resides in the forehead (between the eyebrows)

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa. -stha 'standing, abiding' is formed from √sthā with the suffix ka when a noun precedes (Pāṇini 3.2.4 supi sthaḥ), and takes the feminine -ā; bhāla 'forehead' is its locative complement: 'She who abides in the forehead'.

ANALYSIS भाले तिष्ठति इति भालस्था

bhāle tiṣṭhati iti bhālasthā

SIGNIFICANCE At the brow, the place of the ājñā center, She is meditated on as shining with the colors of the rainbow (name 594).

---

594 इन्द्रधनुःप्रभा indra-dhanuḥ-prabhā

She who is resplendent like the rainbow

SANDHI धनुःप्रभा = धनुस् + प्रभा (dhanus + prabhā) — final s becomes visarga before a hard consonant (Pāṇini 8.2.66 with 8.3.15 kharavasānayor visarjanīyaḥ)

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi of resemblance (over an inner ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (1) indra-dhanus 'Indra's bow', the rainbow (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (2) A bahuvrīhi of resemblance: 'She whose radiance is like the radiance of the rainbow'.

ANALYSIS इन्द्रस्य धनुः इन्द्रधनुः; इन्द्रधनुषः प्रभा इव प्रभा यस्याः सा इन्द्रधनुःप्रभा

indrasya dhanuḥ indradhanuḥ; indradhanuṣaḥ prabhā iva prabhā yasyāḥ sā indradhanuḥprabhā

SIGNIFICANCE The rainbow holds every color at once: so, at the brow (name 593), She is seen in many hues.

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Names 598 and 600 recall the Dakṣa episode: Satī, Dakṣa's daughter, and the destruction of his sacrifice.

THE NAMES

595 हृदयस्था hṛdaya-sthā

She who resides in the heart

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa. As in name 593: -stha from √sthā with ka (Pāṇini 3.2.4), feminine -ā, with hṛdaya 'heart' as its locative complement.

ANALYSIS हृदये तिष्ठति इति हृदयस्था

hṛdaye tiṣṭhati iti hṛdayasthā

SIGNIFICANCE In the heart, the seat of the Self, She is meditated on as shining like the sun (name 596).

596 रविप्रख्या ravi-prakhyā

She who shines like the sun

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi of resemblance. prakhyā 'brightness, appearance' (at the end of a compound, 'like'): 'She whose brightness is like the sun's'.

ANALYSIS रवेः प्रख्या इव प्रख्या यस्याः सा रविप्रख्या

raveḥ prakhyā iva prakhyā yasyāḥ sā raviprakhyā

SIGNIFICANCE In the heart (name 595) She is the inner sun that lights all experience.

---

597 त्रिकोणान्तरदीपिका tri-koṇāntara-dīpikā

She who shines as a light within the triangle

SANDHI कोणान्तर = कोण + अन्तर (koṇa + antara) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND saptamī-tatpuruṣa (over an inner ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa and bahuvrīhi). (1) tri-koṇa 'that which has three angles', the triangle (bahuvrīhi). (2) trikoṇa-antara 'the inside of the triangle' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (3) dīpikā 'lamp' is the head and the interior is its place, in the locative: 'the lamp within the triangle'.

ANALYSIS त्रयः कोणाः यस्य तत् त्रिकोणम्; त्रिकोणस्य अन्तरम् त्रिकोणान्तरम्; त्रिकोणान्तरे दीपिका त्रिकोणान्तरदीपिका

trayaḥ koṇāḥ yasya tat trikoṇam; trikoṇasya antaram trikoṇāntaram; trikoṇāntare dīpikā trikoṇāntaradīpikā

SIGNIFICANCE The triangle is traditionally both the one in the mūlādhāra where kuṇḍalinī rests and the innermost triangle of the Śrīcakra around the bindu; there She burns as a steady flame.

---

598 दाक्षायणी dākṣāyaṇī

She who is Satī, the daughter of Dakṣa Prajāpati

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE As Satī She was born to Dakṣa and gave up that body when he insulted Śiva at his sacrifice (name 600), to be born again as Pārvatī.

---

599 दैत्यहन्त्री daitya-hantrī

She who is the killer of demons

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa. hantrī 'slayer' (agent noun) is the head and the daityas are its object in the genitive.

ANALYSIS दैत्यानाम् हन्त्री दैत्यहन्त्री

daityānām hantrī daityahantrī

SIGNIFICANCE As Durgā and Caṇḍikā, and as Lalitā against Bhaṇḍa, She destroys the powers hostile to the gods; inwardly, the demonic tendencies of the mind.

---

600 दक्षयज्ञविनाशिनी dakṣa-yajña-vināśinī

She who is the destroyer of Dakṣa's sacrifice

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa (with an inner ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (1) dakṣa-yajña 'Dakṣa's sacrifice' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (2) vināśinī 'destroyer' is the head and takes the sacrifice in the genitive.

ANALYSIS दक्षस्य यज्ञः दक्षयज्ञः; दक्षयज्ञस्य विनाशिनी दक्षयज्ञविनाशिनी

dakṣasya yajñaḥ dakṣayajñaḥ; dakṣayajñasya vināśinī dakṣayajñavināśinī

SIGNIFICANCE After Satī gave up her body at Dakṣa's sacrifice, Śiva's wrath, in the form of Vīrabhadra with Bhadrakālī, laid it waste; traditionally the episode warns against ritual performed without devotion to the Lord.

जन्मन् janman	birth appears as janma- (final n dropped in composition)
भूः bhūḥ	earth, ground; place of origin, source feminine ū-stem, nominative singular

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

गुरुमूर्तिर्गुण = गुरुमूर्तिः + गुण... (gurumūrtiḥ + guṇa...) — visarga becomes r before a voiced sound (Pāṇini 8.2.66 sasajuṣo ruḥ)

गुणनिधिर्गोमाता = गुणनिधिः + गोमाता (guṇanidhiḥ + gomātā) — visarga becomes r before a voiced sound (Pāṇini 8.2.66 sasajuṣo ruḥ)

Names 601–602 return to Her eyes and smile, both qualified by dara 'gently'. Name 606 ends in the ū-stem bhū, so its nominative is -bhūḥ.

THE NAMES

601 दरान्दोलितदीर्घाक्षी darāndolita-dīrghākṣī

She whose long eyes are gently tremulous

SANDHI दरान्दोलित = दर + आन्दोलित (dara + āndolita) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ); दीर्घाक्षी = दीर्घ + अक्षी (dīrgha + akṣī) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (over an inner karmadhāraya with an adverbial first member). (1) dara-āndolita 'slightly moving': the indeclinable dara 'a little, gently' qualifies the participle āndolita 'swung, set in motion'. (2) A bahuvrīhi: 'She whose long eyes are gently moving'. akṣi 'eye' becomes -akṣa at the end of the bahuvrīhi (Pāṇini 5.4.113) and takes the feminine -ī.

ANALYSIS दर आन्दोलिते दरान्दोलिते; दरान्दोलिते दीर्घे अक्षिणी यस्याः सा दरान्दोलितदीर्घाक्षी

dara āndolite darāndolite; darāndolite dīrghe akṣiṇī yasyāḥ sā darāndolitadīrghākṣī

SIGNIFICANCE Her long eyes move only slightly as they rest on the devotees; traditionally every movement of Her eyes is an act of grace.

---

602 दरहासोज्ज्वलन्मुखी dara-hāsojjvalan-mukhī

She whose face shines with a gentle smile

SANDHI हासोज्ज्वल = हास + उज्ज्वल (hāsa + ujjvala) — guṇa: a + u → o (Pāṇini 6.1.87 ād guṇaḥ); उज्ज्वल = उद् + ज्वल (ud + jvala) — ścutva: d becomes j before j (Pāṇini 8.4.40 stoḥ ścunā ścuḥ), at the prefix junction ud + jval; उज्ज्वलन्मुखी = उज्ज्वलत् + मुखी (ujjvalat + mukhī) — a stop becomes the nasal of its class before a nasal: t → n before m (Pāṇini 8.4.45 yaro 'nunāsike 'nunāsiko vā)

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (over an inner karmadhāraya and tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa). (1) dara-hāsa 'a slight smile' (dara 'gently' qualifies hāsa). (2) darahāsa-ujjvalat 'shining with that smile' (tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa with the participle ujjvalat). (3) A bahuvrīhi with mukha 'face': 'She whose face shines with a gentle smile'; the body-part word takes the feminine -ī (Pāṇini 4.1.54).

ANALYSIS दर हासः दरहासः; दरहासेन उज्ज्वलत् दरहासोज्ज्वलत्; दरहासोज्ज्वलत् मुखम् यस्याः सा दरहासोज्ज्वलन्मुखी

dara hāsaḥ darahāsaḥ; darahāsena ujjvalat darahāsojjvalat; darahāsojjvalat mukham yasyāḥ sā darahāsojjvalanmukhī

SIGNIFICANCE The gentle smile (darahāsa) is the mark of Her grace and ease; the same smile appears in name 28 (mandasmita).

---

603 गुरुमूर्तिः guru-mūrtiḥ

She who has assumed the form of the guru

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (alternatively karmadhāraya). As a bahuvrīhi: 'She whose form is the guru', i.e. who takes the form of the teacher. As a karmadhāraya, guru is the adjective 'weighty, venerable, awesome' (feminine gurvī, reduced to guru- by puṃvadbhāva): 'the awe-inspiring form'. mūrti is feminine, so the name has the same form either way.

ANALYSIS गुरुः मूर्तिः यस्याः सा गुरुमूर्तिः; अथवा गुर्वी मूर्तिः गुरुमूर्तिः

guruḥ mūrtiḥ yasyāḥ sā gurumūrtiḥ; athavā gurvī mūrtiḥ gurumūrtiḥ

SIGNIFICANCE In Śrīvidyā the guru is not different from the Goddess and Śiva; it is She who teaches through the guru and who is received through him.

UNCERTAIN Two compound analyses: bahuvrīhi ('whose form is the guru') and karmadhāraya ('the weighty, awesome form'). The meaning follows the first.

604 गुणनिधिः guṇa-nidhiḥ

She who is the treasure house of all good qualities

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa. nidhi 'treasure, store' is the head and the qualities stand to it in the genitive. nidhi is masculine and keeps its form in a name of the Goddess, as in name 567.

ANALYSIS गुणानाम् निधिः गुणनिधिः

guṇānām nidhiḥ guṇanidhiḥ

SIGNIFICANCE Every excellence is stored in Her; traditionally the three guṇas from which the world is woven are also held in Her as their source.

605 गोमाता go-mātā

She who is the mother of cows (as Surabhi, the wish-granting cow)

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa. mātā 'mother' is the head and go 'cow' stands to it in the genitive: 'the mother of cows'.

ANALYSIS गवाम् माता गोमाता

gavām mātā gomātā

SIGNIFICANCE As Surabhi, the mother of all cattle and the wish-granting cow, She gives every desire; since go also means earth, speech, rays and the senses, She is mother of all of these.

606 गुहजन्मभूः guha-janma-bhūḥ

She who is the source from which Guha (Skanda) was born

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa (with an inner ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (1) guha-janman 'the birth of Guha' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa; janman drops its final n in composition). (2) bhū 'ground, place of origin' is the head: 'the ground of Guha's birth'. bhū is a feminine ū-stem, so the nominative is bhūḥ.

ANALYSIS गुहस्य जन्म गुहजन्म; गुहजन्मनः भूः गुहजन्मभूः

guhasya janma guhajanma; guhajanmanaḥ bhūḥ guhajanmabhūḥ

SIGNIFICANCE She is the mother of Skanda, the commander of the gods' army; traditionally Guha, 'the hidden one', is also read as the Self hidden in the cave of the heart, which is born of Her.

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Name 609 refers to the dahara-vidyā of the Chāndogya Upaniṣad (8.1.1); name 610 fills the whole second half and names the lunar days from pratipad to the full moon.

THE NAMES

607 देवेशी deveśī

She who is the ruler of the gods

SANDHI देवेशी = देव + ईशी (deva + īśī) — guṇa: a + ī → e (Pāṇini 6.1.87 ād guṇaḥ)

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa. īśī 'ruler, mistress' (feminine of īśa) is the head and the gods stand to it in the genitive.

ANALYSIS देवानाम् ईशी देवेशी

devānām īśī deveśī

SIGNIFICANCE The gods hold their offices under Her; ruling them, She also protects them.

608 दण्डनीतिस्था daṇḍa-nīti-sthā

She who abides in daṇḍanīti, the science of just rule

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa (with an inner ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (1) daṇḍa-nīti 'the conduct of the rod', the science of government and just punishment (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (2) -sthā 'abiding in' from √sthā with ka (Pāṇini 3.2.4 supi sthaḥ), feminine -ā: 'She who abides in daṇḍanīti'.

ANALYSIS दण्डस्य नीतिः दण्डनीतिः; दण्डनीतौ तिष्ठति इति दण्डनीतिस्था

daṇḍasya nītiḥ daṇḍanītiḥ; daṇḍanītau tiṣṭhati iti daṇḍanītisthā

SIGNIFICANCE Daṇḍanīti is counted with philosophy, the Vedas and economics among the four branches of knowledge (Arthaśāstra 1.2); She upholds the order of the world through just restraint, without error.

609 दहराकाशरूपिणी daharākāśa-rūpiṇī

She whose form is the subtle space (daharākāśa) within the heart

SANDHI दहराकाश = दहर + आकाश (dahara + ākāśa) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND karmadhāraya (identification) with the possessive suffix -in (over an inner karmadhāraya). (1) dahara-ākāśa 'the small space' (karmadhāraya: dahara 'small, subtle' qualifies ākāśa). (2) It is identified with rūpa 'form'. (3) The possessive -in and feminine -ī: 'She whose form is the small space (within the heart)'.

ANALYSIS दहरः आकाशः दहराकाशः; दहराकाशः एव रूपम् दहराकाशरूपम्; दहराकाशरूपम् अस्याः अस्ति इति दहराकाशरूपिणी

daharaḥ ākāśaḥ daharākāśaḥ; daharākāśaḥ eva rūpam daharākāśarūpam; daharākāśarūpam asyāḥ asti iti daharākāśarūpiṇī

SIGNIFICANCE The Chāndogya Upaniṣad (8.1.1) teaches meditation on the small space within the lotus of the heart, and the Brahma Sūtra (1.3.14) shows that this 'small' is Brahman itself: She is that inner space.

610 प्रतिपन्मुख्यराकान्ततिथिमण्डलपूजिता

pratipan-mukhya-rākānta-tithi-maṇḍala-pūjitā

She who is worshipped by the circle of lunar days, from the first day to the full moon

SANDHI प्रतिपन्मुख्य = प्रतिपद् + मुख्य (pratipad + mukhya) — a stop becomes the nasal of its class before a nasal: d → n before m (Pāṇini 8.4.45 yaro 'nunāsike 'nunāsiko vā); राकान्त = राका + अन्त (rākā + anta) — savarṇa-dīrgha: ā + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa (over inner bahuvrīhis, a karmadhāraya and a ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (1) pratipan-mukhya 'having the first lunar day (pratipad) at their head' and (2) rākā-anta 'having the full-moon day (rākā) as their end' are bahuvrīhis. (3) Both qualify tithi 'lunar days' (karmadhāraya): 'the lunar days from the first to the full moon'. (4) tithi-maṇḍala 'the circle of those days' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (5) The participle pūjitā 'worshipped' is the head and takes the circle in the instrumental: 'worshipped by the circle of lunar days'.

ANALYSIS प्रतिपत् मुख्या यासाम् ताः प्रतिपन्मुख्याः; राका अन्तः यासाम् ताः राकान्ताः; प्रतिपन्मुख्याः राकान्ताः तिथयः प्रतिपन्मुख्यराकान्ततिथयः; तासाम् मण्डलम् प्रतिपन्मुख्यराकान्ततिथिमण्डलम्; तेन पूजिता प्रतिपन्मुख्यराकान्ततिथिमण्डलपूजिता

pratipat mukhyā yāsām tāḥ pratipanmukhyāḥ; rākā antaḥ yāsām tāḥ rākāntāḥ; pratipanmukhyāḥ

rākāntāḥ tithayaḥ pratipanmukhyarākāntatithayaḥ; tāsām maṇḍalam pratipanmukhyarākāntatithimaṇḍalam; tena pūjitā pratipanmukhyarākāntatithimaṇḍalapūjitā

SIGNIFICANCE The fifteen days of the bright fortnight are presided over by the fifteen Nityā goddesses, Her own forms (name 391); traditionally the days themselves worship Her, and She is worshipped on each in turn.

> UNCERTAIN tithimaṇḍala may be taken as the agent (instrumental, 'by the circle of days', i.e. their deities) or as the time (locative, 'on each of the days'); both readings are current.

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Name 614 fills the second half; its two pairs correspond in order: Ramā (Lakṣmī) on the left, Vāṇī (Sarasvatī) on the right.

THE NAMES

611 कलात्मिका kalātmikā

She whose very self is the kalās

SANDHI कलात्मिका = कला + आत्मिका (kalā + ātmikā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: ā + ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (with the suffix -ka). A bahuvrīhi, 'She whose self (ātman) is the kalās', with the bahuvrīhi suffix -ka (kap): ātman + ka gives ātmaka, and in the feminine the a before -kā becomes i (Pāṇini 7.3.44): -ātmikā.

ANALYSIS कलाः आत्मा यस्याः सा कलात्मिका

kalāḥ ātmā yasyāḥ sā kalātmikā

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally the kalās are the sixteen digits of the moon, the twelve of the sun and the ten of fire, and also the sixty-four arts; all of them are Her parts.

612 कलानाथा kalā-nāthā

She who is the mistress of all the kalās

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa. nāthā 'mistress' (nātha 'lord' with the feminine -ā) is the head and the kalās stand to it in the genitive: 'the mistress of the kalās'.

ANALYSIS कलानाम् नाथा कलानाथा

kalānām nāthā kalānāthā

SIGNIFICANCE She rules every digit and art; since kalānātha, 'lord of the digits', is also a name of the moon, the name is traditionally read as Her being the moon as well.

> UNCERTAIN Read as a ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa ('mistress of the kalās'); the sense 'She who is the moon' (kalānātha) is also current.

613 काव्यालापविनोदिनी kāvyālāpa-vinodinī

She who delights in hearing poetry

SANDHI काव्यालाप = काव्य + आलाप (kāvya + ālāpa) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa (with an inner ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (1) kāvya-ālāpa 'the recitation of poetry' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (2) vinodinī 'she who delights' is the head and the recitation is the means of Her delight, in the instrumental.

ANALYSIS काव्यानाम् आलापः काव्यालापः; काव्यालापेन विनोदिनी काव्यालापविनोदिनी

kāvyānām ālāpaḥ kāvyālāpaḥ; kāvyālāpena vinodinī kāvyālāpavinodinī

SIGNIFICANCE Poetry offered in Her praise pleases Her; traditionally the hymns of devoted poets are counted among Her chief delights.

614 सचामररमावाणीसव्यदक्षिणसेविता sacāmara-ramā-vāṇī-savya-dakṣiṇa-sevitā

She who is attended by Lakṣmī on the left and Sarasvatī on the right, each bearing a chowrie

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa (over a saha-bahuvrīhi, two itaretara-dvandvas, a karmadhāraya and a saptamī-tatpuruṣa). (1) sa-cāmara 'with chowries': a bahuvrīhi with saha 'with', which becomes sa- (Pāṇini 6.3.82). (2) ramā-vāṇī 'Ramā and Vāṇī', i.e. Lakṣmī and Sarasvatī (dvandva), qualified by (1). (3) savya-dakṣiṇa 'left and right' (dvandva), the places where (4) sevitā 'served' takes effect (saptamī-tatpuruṣa). (5) The goddesses are the agents, in the instrumental: 'served on the left and right by Ramā and Vāṇī bearing chowries'. The pairs correspond in order: Ramā on the left, Vāṇī on the right.

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

आदिशक्तिरमेया = आदिशक्तिः + अमेया (ādiśaktiḥ + ameyā) — visarga becomes r before a voiced sound (Pāṇini 8.2.66 sasajuṣo ruḥ)

अमेयाऽऽत्मा = अमेया + आत्मा (ameyā + ātmā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: ā + ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101); the double avagraha (ऽऽ) marks the absorbed long ā of ātmā

The first quarter holds three names: ādiśaktiḥ / ameyā / ātmā. Do not read 'rameyā': the r is the visarga of śaktiḥ before a vowel.

THE NAMES

615 आदिशक्तिः ādi-śaktiḥ

She who is the primordial Power, the first cause of the universe

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND karmadhāraya. ādi 'first, beginning' qualifies śakti 'power', which is the head: 'the first power'.

ANALYSIS आदिः च असौ शक्तिः च आदिशक्तिः

ādiḥ ca asau śaktiḥ ca ādiśaktiḥ

SIGNIFICANCE Before all other powers She is; from Her as Parā Śakti (name 572) everything that exists comes forth.

616 अमेया ameyā

She who is not measurable by any means

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND nañ-tatpuruṣa. The negative na (appearing as a- before a consonant) is compounded with the gerundive meyā 'to be measured': 'not to be measured'.

ANALYSIS न मेया अमेया

na meyā ameyā

SIGNIFICANCE No means of knowledge (pramāṇa), neither perception nor inference nor any other, can measure Her; compare name 413, aprameyā.

---

617 आत्मा ātmā

She who is the self in all

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE She is the Self of every being, the one consciousness in all; the masculine word ātmā is kept as Her name.

---

618 परमा paramā

She who is the supreme

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE Nothing stands above Her; She is the highest, beyond whom there is nothing.

---

619 पावनाकृतिः pāvanākṛtiḥ

She whose form is purifying

SANDHI पावनाकृतिः = पावन + आकृतिः (pāvana + ākṛtiḥ) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi. pāvana 'purifying' qualifies ākṛti 'form'; the feminine pāvanī takes the stem pāvana- (puṃvadbhāva). The whole is a bahuvrīhi, 'She whose form is purifying'; ākṛti is already feminine.

ANALYSIS पावनी आकृतिः यस्याः सा पावनाकृतिः

pāvanī ākṛtiḥ yasyāḥ sā pāvanākṛtiḥ

SIGNIFICANCE To see or meditate on Her form purifies; traditionally Her form is holy because it makes holy.

620 अनेककोटिब्रह्माण्डजननी aneka-koṭi-brahmāṇḍa-jananī

She who is the mother of countless millions of universes

SANDHI ब्रह्माण्ड = ब्रह्म + अण्ड (brahma + aṇḍa) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ), inside the lexicalised compound brahmāṇḍa (brahman drops its final n first, 8.2.7)

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa (over an inner nañ-tatpuruṣa and karmadhārayas). (1) aneka 'not one, many': nañ-tatpuruṣa, the negative appearing as an- before a vowel (Pāṇini 6.3.74, a morphological replacement). (2) aneka-koṭi 'many crores' (karmadhāraya). (3) That number stands in apposition to brahmāṇḍa 'world-eggs, universes' (karmadhāraya). (4) jananī 'mother' is the head and takes the universes in the genitive.

ANALYSIS न एकाः अनेकाः; अनेकाः कोटयः अनेककोटयः; अनेककोटयः ब्रह्माण्डानि अनेककोटिब्रह्माण्डानि; अनेककोटिब्रह्माण्डानाम् जननी अनेककोटिब्रह्माण्डजननी

SIGNIFICANCE Our universe is one of innumerable world-eggs, each with its own Brahmā, Viṣṇu and Śiva; all of them are born of Her.

---

621 दिव्यविग्रहा divya-vigrahā

She who has a divine body

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi. divya 'divine' qualifies vigraha 'body, form'; the whole is a bahuvrīhi, 'She whose body is divine', and vigraha takes the feminine -ā.

ANALYSIS दिव्यः विग्रहः यस्याः सा दिव्यविग्रहा

divyaḥ vigrahaḥ yasyāḥ sā divyavigrahā

SIGNIFICANCE Her body is not made of the elements but of pure consciousness and bliss, taken for the sake of the devotees.

क्लीम् klīm	the seed-syllable klīṃ, the kāmabīja (seed of desire)

SANSKRIT	ENGLISH
कारी kārī	maker; also the -kāra that names a sound √kṛ 'to make' + aṇ, feminine -ī

623 केवला kevalā

केवला kevalā	alone, absolute, unmixed, entire kevala, feminine

624 गुह्या guhyā

गुह्या guhyā	secret, hidden, to be kept hidden from √guh 'to hide', gerundive in -ya, feminine

625 कैवल्यपददायिनी kaivalya-pada-dāyinī

कैवल्य kaivalya	kaivalya, absolute aloneness: final liberation from kevala 'alone'
पद pada	state, station, abode
दायिनी dāyinī	she who gives, bestows √dā 'to give' + the agent suffix -in (with y), feminine -ī

626 त्रिपुरा tripurā

त्रि tri	three
पुरा purā	city, abode (pura, with the feminine -ā); read also as the indeclinable purā 'before, of old'

627 त्रिजगद्वन्द्या tri-jagad-vandyā

त्रि tri	three
जगत् jagat	world

SANSKRIT	ENGLISH
वन्द्या vandyā	to be saluted, worthy of praise √vand 'to salute', gerundive, feminine

628 त्रिमूर्तिः tri-mūrtiḥ

त्रि tri	three
मूर्तिः mūrtiḥ	form, embodiment feminine i-stem, nominative singular

629 त्रिदशेश्वरी tri-daśeśvarī

त्रिदश tridaśa	the gods lit. 'the thirty' (three times ten), a round number for the thirty-three gods; traditionally also explained as those always in the third state of life (youth)
ईश्वरी īśvarī	sovereign, ruling lady

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

त्रिमूर्तिस्त्रिदशेश्वरी = त्रिमूर्तिः + त्रिदशेश्वरी (trimūrtiḥ + tridaśeśvarī) — visarga becomes s before t (Pāṇini 8.3.34 visarjanīyasya saḥ)

Names 626–630 form a run on 'three' (Tripurā, the three worlds, three forms, the thirty gods, three syllables).

THE NAMES

622 क्लीङ्कारी klīṅkārī

She who is the source of the syllable klīṃ

SANDHI क्लीङ्कारी = क्लीम् + कारी (klīm + kārī) — m becomes anusvāra before a consonant (Pāṇini 8.3.23 mo 'nusvāraḥ), which takes the nasal of the following stop's class: ṅ before k (8.4.58 anusvārasya yayi parasavarṇaḥ)

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa. kārī 'maker' is from √kṛ with the suffix aṇ after an object (Pāṇini 3.2.1 karmaṇy aṇ) and the feminine -ī; the seed-syllable klīm is its object: 'She who makes (is the source of) klīṃ'. Alternatively klīṅkāra 'the syllable klīṃ' (kāra names a sound, as in oṅkāra) with the feminine -ī: 'She who is the syllable klīṃ'.

ANALYSIS क्लीम् करोति इति क्लीङ्कारी

klīm karoti iti klīṅkārī

SIGNIFICANCE klīṃ is the kāmabīja, the seed-syllable of desire and attraction; with aiṃ and sauḥ it forms the three-syllable Bālā mantra (compare name 630).

> UNCERTAIN Two analyses: 'maker of klīṃ' (upapada-tatpuruṣa) and 'She who is the syllable klīṃ' (klīṅkāra + feminine -ī); traditionally She is both its source and its form.

623 केवला kevalā

She who is absolute, alone and unconditioned

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE She is complete in Herself, independent of anything else and without qualities; kaivalya, the liberation of name 625, is the state of this 'aloneness'.

---

624 गुह्या guhyā

She who is secret, to be known in secret

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE Her worship and Her mantra are to be kept hidden, revealed only by the guru; traditionally the name is also read from guhā 'cave', as She who dwells in the cave of the heart.

> UNCERTAIN Derived from √guh 'to hide' (gerundive) or from guhā 'cave' ('dwelling in the cave of the heart'); both are traditional.

625 कैवल्यपददायिनी kaivalya-pada-dāyinī

She who bestows the state of kaivalya, final liberation

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa (with an inner karmadhāraya). (1) kaivalya-pada 'the state that is kaivalya' (karmadhāraya of identification). (2) dāyinī 'she who gives' is the head and takes that state in the genitive.

ANALYSIS कैवल्यम् एव पदम् कैवल्यपदम्; कैवल्यपदस्य दायिनी कैवल्यपददायिनी

kaivalyam eva padam kaivalyapadam; kaivalyapadasya dāyinī kaivalyapadadāyinī

SIGNIFICANCE Kaivalya is the Self standing alone, free of all that is not the Self; She grants it, being Herself kevalā (name 623).

---

626 त्रिपुरा tripurā

She who is Tripurā, the Goddess of the three cities, prior to the three gods

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (traditionally also read as tri + purā). Grammatically a bahuvrīhi, 'She who has three cities (abodes)'; pura takes the feminine -ā. The traditional derivation reads the indeclinable purā 'before': 'She who was before the three (gods)'. Both are given by commentators.

ANALYSIS त्रीणि पुराणि यस्याः सा त्रिपुरा; अथवा त्रिभ्यः पुरा त्रिपुरा

trīṇi purāṇi yasyāḥ sā tripurā; athavā tribhyaḥ purā tripurā

SIGNIFICANCE Every triad is in Her: the three worlds, the three bodies, the three states of waking, dream and sleep, the three powers and the three gods; Śrīvidyā names Her Tripurasundarī, the beauty of the three cities.

> UNCERTAIN Two derivations: tri + pura 'three cities' (bahuvrīhi) and tri + purā 'before the three' (the traditional reading). The meaning gives both.

627 त्रिजगद्वन्द्या tri-jagad-vandyā

She who is adored by the inhabitants of all three worlds

SANDHI जगद्वन्द्या = जगत् + वन्द्या (jagat + vandyā) — jaśtva: a final t becomes d before a voiced sound (Pāṇini 8.2.39 jhalāṃ jaśo 'nte)

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa (with an inner samāhāra-dvigu). (1) tri-jagat 'the three worlds' taken together (samāhāra-dvigu). (2) The gerundive vandyā 'to be saluted, praised' is the head and the three worlds are its agent, in the instrumental.

ANALYSIS त्रयाणाम् जगताम् समाहारः त्रिजगत्; त्रिजगता वन्द्या त्रिजगद्वन्द्या

trayāṇām jagatām samāhāraḥ trijagat; trijagatā vandyā trijagadvandyā

SIGNIFICANCE Heaven, earth and the underworld all bow to Her.

---

628 त्रिमूर्तिः tri-mūrtiḥ

She who has three forms (as Brahmā, Viṣṇu and Śiva)

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi. A bahuvrīhi with a numeral first member: 'She who has three forms'. The feminine numeral tisraḥ appears as the stem tri- in the compound; mūrti is already feminine.

ANALYSIS तिस्रः मूर्तयः यस्याः सा त्रिमूर्तिः

tisraḥ mūrtayaḥ yasyāḥ sā trimūrtiḥ

SIGNIFICANCE Creating, sustaining and dissolving, She takes the three forms of the gods (or of their powers Brāhmī, Vaiṣṇavī and Raudrī), being Herself the One behind them.

---

629 त्रिदशेश्वरी tri-daśeśvarī

She who is the ruler of the gods

SANDHI त्रिदशेश्वरी = त्रिदश + ईश्वरी (tridaśa + īśvarī) — guṇa: a + ī → e (Pāṇini 6.1.87 ād guṇaḥ)

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa. īśvarī 'sovereign' is the head and tridaśa 'the gods' stands to it in the genitive: 'the sovereign of the gods'. tridaśa is a fixed word for the gods.

ANALYSIS त्रिदशानाम् ईश्वरी त्रिदशेश्वरी

tridaśānām īśvarī tridaśeśvarī

SIGNIFICANCE Indra and all the gods hold their sovereignty from Her, as name 607 also says.

सेविता sevitā	served, attended √sev, past participle, feminine

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Names 633–635 name Her as Pārvatī: Umā, daughter of the mountain king, Gaurī.

THE NAMES

630 त्र्यक्षरी try-akṣarī

She who is the three-syllabled (mantra)

SANDHI त्र्यक्षरी = त्रि + अक्षरी (tri + akṣarī) — yaṇ: i becomes y before a dissimilar vowel (Pāṇini 6.1.77 iko yaṇ aci)

COMPOUND samāhāra-dvigu. A collective numeral compound, 'the group of three syllables'; a dvigu ending in -a takes the feminine -ī (Pāṇini 4.1.21 dvigoḥ). She is identified with that three-syllable whole.

ANALYSIS त्रयाणाम् अक्षराणाम् समाहारः त्र्यक्षरी

trayāṇām akṣarāṇām samāhāraḥ tryakṣarī

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally the three syllables are read as a, u and m of Oṃ, as the three seed-syllables of the Bālā mantra (aiṃ klīṃ sauḥ, compare name 622), or as the three kūṭas of the Pañcadaśī (name 588).

UNCERTAIN Which three syllables are meant is explained in more than one way (Oṃ, the Bālā mantra, the three kūṭas).

CORRECTED त्र्यक्षरि → त्र्यक्षरी. त्र्यक्षरि → त्र्यक्षरी (nominative -ī).

631 दिव्यगन्धाढ्या divya-gandhāḍhyā

She who is richly endowed with divine fragrance

SANDHI गन्धाढ्या = गन्ध + आढ्या (gandha + āḍhyā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa (with an inner karmadhāraya). (1) divya-gandha 'divine fragrance' (karmadhāraya). (2) āḍhyā 'rich, abounding' is the head and takes the fragrance in the instrumental: 'rich in divine fragrance'.

ANALYSIS दिव्यः गन्धः दिव्यगन्धः; दिव्यगन्धेन आढ्या दिव्यगन्धाढ्या

divyaḥ gandhaḥ divyagandhaḥ; divyagandhena āḍhyā divyagandhāḍhyā

SIGNIFICANCE Her body is naturally fragrant; traditionally the scent of the flowers and unguents offered to Her comes from Her, not to Her (compare name 13).

632 सिन्दूरतिलकाञ्चिता sindūra-tilakāñcitā

She who is adorned with a tilaka of vermilion

SANDHI तिलकाञ्चिता = तिलक + अञ्चिता (tilaka + añcitā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa (with an inner ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (1) sindūra-tilaka 'a tilaka of vermilion' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa of material). (2) The participle añcitā 'adorned' is the head and takes the tilaka in the instrumental.

ANALYSIS सिन्दूरस्य तिलकम् सिन्दूरतिलकम्; सिन्दूरतिलकेन अञ्चिता सिन्दूरतिलकाञ्चिता

sindūrasya tilakam sindūratilakam; sindūratilakena añcitā sindūratilakāñcitā

SIGNIFICANCE The vermilion mark is the sign of the auspicious married woman: it marks Her eternal union with Kāmeśvara.

633 उमा umā

She who is Umā (Pārvatī)

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE Kālidāsa (Kumārasambhava 1.26) derives the name from her mother's cry u mā, 'O, do not!', forbidding her austerities; in the Kena Upaniṣad Umā Haimavatī appears to Indra and teaches him Brahman.

634 शैलेन्द्रतनया śailendra-tanayā

She who is the daughter of Himavat, the king of the mountains

SANDHI शैलेन्द्र = शैल + इन्द्र (śaila + indra) — guṇa: a + i → e (Pāṇini 6.1.87 ād guṇaḥ)

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa (with an inner ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (1) śaila-indra 'the lord of mountains', Himavat (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa; indra at the end of a compound means 'chief, king'). (2) tanayā 'daughter' is the head.

ANALYSIS शैलानाम् इन्द्रः शैलेन्द्रः; शैलेन्द्रस्य तनया शैलेन्द्रतनया

śailānām indraḥ śailendraḥ; śailendrasya tanayā śailendratanayā

SIGNIFICANCE Born again as Pārvatī after giving up Her body as Satī (name 598), She won Śiva by Her austerities.

635 गौरी gaurī

She who has a fair complexion

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE In a Purāṇic story Pārvatī, teased for Her dark skin, performed austerities and became golden-fair, Gaurī; Gaurī is also the name given to the girl worshipped as the Goddess.

636 गन्धर्वसेविता gandharva-sevitā

She who is served by the Gandharvas (such as Viśvāvasu)

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa. The participle sevitā 'served' is the head; the Gandharvas are its agent, in the instrumental.

ANALYSIS गन्धर्वैः सेविता गन्धर्वसेविता

gandharvaiḥ sevitā gandharvasevitā

SIGNIFICANCE The celestial musicians serve Her with song; Viśvāvasu, their chief, is traditionally named among them.

644 ज्ञानविग्रहा jñāna-vigrahā
ज्ञान jñāna	knowledge, consciousness
विग्रहा vigrahā	body, form vigraha, with the feminine -ā of the bahuvrīhi

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

स्वर्णगर्भाऽवरदा = स्वर्णगर्भा + अवरदा (svarṇagarbhā + avaradā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: ā + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101); the avagraha (ऽ) marks the absorbed initial a of the next name

ध्यानगम्याऽपरिच्छेद्या = ध्यानगम्या + अपरिच्छेद्या (dhyānagamyā + aparicchedyā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: ā + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101); the avagraha (ऽ) marks the absorbed initial a of the next name

Both avagrahas mark a name beginning with a-: name 639 is avaradā (not varadā), name 642 is aparicchedyā. Name 640: vāg is the c of vāc voiced before adhīśvarī.

THE NAMES

637 विश्वगर्भा viśva-garbhā

She who contains the whole universe in Her womb

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi. A bahuvrīhi, 'She in whose womb is the universe'; garbha takes the feminine -ā.

ANALYSIS विश्वम् गर्भे यस्याः सा विश्वगर्भा

viśvam garbhe yasyāḥ sā viśvagarbhā

SIGNIFICANCE The universe is held within Her before it is born and after it is withdrawn.

638 स्वर्णगर्भा svarṇa-garbhā

She whose womb is golden, the source of the world (as Hiraṇyagarbha)

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi. A bahuvrīhi, 'She whose womb holds gold' (or 'whose womb is golden'); garbha takes the feminine -ā. The name echoes Hiraṇyagarbha, 'the golden embryo', the first-born source of the world.

ANALYSIS स्वर्णम् गर्भे यस्याः सा स्वर्णगर्भा

svarṇam garbhe yasyāḥ sā svarṇagarbhā

SIGNIFICANCE Hiraṇyagarbha, the golden embryo of Ṛgveda 10.121, is the first manifest form from which the world unfolds; She is that golden source.

> UNCERTAIN The old meaning gave an interpretation ('the cause of the universe'); the literal bahuvrīhi and its echo of Hiraṇyagarbha are given here. Bhāskararāya's own gloss of this name was not confirmed.

639 अवरदा avaradā

She who destroys the base (the demons)

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa. -da 'cutting down' is from √do 'to cut' with the suffix ka (Pāṇini 3.2.3 āto 'nupasarge kaḥ) and the feminine -ā; avara 'the low, the base' is its object: 'She who cuts down the base (the demons)'.

ANALYSIS अवरान् द्यति इति अवरदा

avarān dyati iti avaradā

SIGNIFICANCE She cuts down whatever is low and opposed to the good, outward demons and the base tendencies of the mind.

> UNCERTAIN The derivation from √do 'to cut' is the traditional one; -dā could also be read from √dā 'to give' ('She who gives even to the lowly'). The name is avaradā, not varadā: the avagraha in the verse marks the elided a.

640 वागधीश्वरी vāg-adhīśvarī

She who presides over speech

SANDHI वागधी = वाच् + अधी (vāc + adhī) — c becomes k at the end of a member (Pāṇini 8.2.30 coḥ kuḥ), then voiced to g before a vowel (jaśtva, 8.2.39); अधीश्वरी = अधि + ईश्वरी (adhi + īśvarī) — savarṇa-dīrgha: i + ī → ī (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa. adhīśvarī 'presiding sovereign' is the head and vāc 'speech' stands to it in the genitive: 'the presiding sovereign of speech'.

ANALYSIS वाचः अधीश्वरी वागधीश्वरी

vācaḥ adhīśvarī vāgadhīśvarī

SIGNIFICANCE All speech, from the Veda to ordinary words, arises from Her (compare name 577); She is Sarasvatī and more than Sarasvatī.

---

641 ध्यानगम्या dhyāna-gamyā

She who is to be attained through meditation

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa. The gerundive gamyā 'to be reached' is the head; dhyāna 'meditation' is the means, in the instrumental.

ANALYSIS ध्यानेन गम्या ध्यानगम्या

dhyānena gamyā dhyānagamyā

SIGNIFICANCE She is reached not by argument but by steady meditation; the next names say why She cannot be reached otherwise.

---

642 अपरिच्छेद्या aparicchedyā

She who cannot be delimited

SANDHI परिच्छेद्या = परि + छेद्या (pari + chedyā) — after a short vowel, ch takes the augment t (Pāṇini 6.1.73 che ca), which becomes c before ch (8.4.40 stoḥ ścunā ścuḥ), at the prefix junction pari + chedya

COMPOUND nañ-tatpuruṣa. The negative na (a- before a consonant) is compounded with the gerundive paricchedyā 'to be delimited': 'not to be delimited'.

ANALYSIS न परिच्छेद्या अपरिच्छेद्या

na paricchedyā aparicchedyā

SIGNIFICANCE She is not bounded by space, time or any object; compare name 701, deśakālāparicchinnā.

643 ज्ञानदा jñāna-dā

She who bestows knowledge

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa. -da 'giving' is from √dā with the suffix ka (Pāṇini 3.2.3 āto 'nupasarge kaḥ), feminine -ā, with jñāna as its object.

ANALYSIS ज्ञानम् ददाति इति ज्ञानदा

jñānam dadāti iti jñānadā

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally the knowledge meant is knowledge of the Self, which frees.

644 ज्ञानविग्रहा jñāna-vigrahā

She whose very body is knowledge

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi. A bahuvrīhi, 'She whose body is knowledge'; vigraha takes the feminine -ā.

ANALYSIS ज्ञानम् विग्रहः यस्याः सा ज्ञानविग्रहा

jñānam vigrahaḥ yasyāḥ sā jñānavigrahā

SIGNIFICANCE Her form is not made of matter: it is knowledge itself taking shape.

अर्चिता arcitā	worshipped √arc, past participle, feminine

648 लीलाकॢप्तब्रह्माण्डमण्डला līlā-kḷpta-brahmāṇḍa-maṇḍalā

लीला līlā	play, sport, effortless pastime
कॢप्त kḷpta	fashioned, arranged, made √kḷp 'to be fit, arrange', past participle; spelled with vocalic ḷ
ब्रह्माण्ड brahmāṇḍa	universe (lit. 'Brahmā's egg')
मण्डला maṇḍalā	circle, sphere maṇḍala, with the feminine -ā of the bahuvrīhi

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Name 648 is spelled with vocalic ḷ: कॢप्त (kḷpta), as in name 21.

645 सर्ववेदान्तसंवेद्या sarva-vedānta-saṃvedyā

She who is to be known through all the Upaniṣads

SANDHI वेदान्त = वेद + अन्त (veda + anta) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ), inside the lexicalised compound vedānta; संवेद्या = सम् + वेद्या (sam + vedyā) — m becomes anusvāra before a consonant (Pāṇini 8.3.23 mo 'nusvāraḥ), at the prefix junction sam + vedya

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa (with an inner karmadhāraya). (1) sarva-vedānta 'all the Upaniṣads' (karmadhāraya). (2) The gerundive saṃvedyā 'to be known fully' is the head and takes them as its means, in the instrumental.

ANALYSIS सर्वे वेदान्ताः सर्ववेदान्ताः; सर्ववेदान्तैः संवेद्या सर्ववेदान्तसंवेद्या

sarve vedāntāḥ sarvavedāntāḥ; sarvavedāntaiḥ saṃvedyā sarvavedāntasaṃvedyā

SIGNIFICANCE All the Upaniṣads converge on one meaning (Brahma Sūtra 1.1.4, tat tu samanvayāt), and that meaning is She.

646 सत्यानन्दस्वरूपिणी satyānanda-svarūpiṇī

She whose very nature is truth (being) and bliss

SANDHI सत्यानन्द = सत्य + आनन्द (satya + ānanda) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND karmadhāraya with the possessive suffix -in (over an inner dvandva). (1) satya-ānanda 'truth (being) and bliss' (dvandva; a karmadhāraya 'true bliss' is also possible). (2) sva-rūpa 'own form, essential nature'. (3) The two are identified (karmadhāraya), and the possessive -in with feminine -ī gives 'She whose essential nature is truth and bliss'.

ANALYSIS सत्यम् च आनन्दः च सत्यानन्दौ; स्वम् रूपम् स्वरूपम्; सत्यानन्दौ स्वरूपम् सत्यानन्दस्वरूपम्; सत्यानन्दस्वरूपम् अस्याः अस्ति इति सत्यानन्दस्वरूपिणी

satyam ca ānandaḥ ca satyānandau; svam rūpam svarūpam; satyānandau svarūpam satyānandasvarūpam; satyānandasvarūpam asyāḥ asti iti satyānandasvarūpiṇī

SIGNIFICANCE Sat and ānanda, with cit, are the classic description of Brahman (compare name 700, saccidānandarūpiṇī); She is that being and bliss itself.

647 लोपामुद्रार्चिता lopāmudrārcitā

She who is worshipped by Lopāmudrā (wife of the sage Agastya)

SANDHI लोपामुद्रार्चिता = लोपामुद्रा + अर्चिता (lopāmudrā + arcitā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: ā + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa. The participle arcitā 'worshipped' is the head and Lopāmudrā is its agent, in the instrumental.

ANALYSIS लोपामुद्रया अर्चिता लोपामुद्रार्चिता

lopāmudrayā arcitā lopāmudrārcitā

SIGNIFICANCE Lopāmudrā is counted among the great worshippers of Śrīvidyā, and the hādi form of the Pañcadaśī is named after her; her husband Agastya is the hearer to whom Hayagrīva teaches these thousand names.

---

648 लीलाक्लृप्तब्रह्माण्डमण्डला līlā-klṛpta-brahmāṇḍa-maṇḍalā

She who has fashioned the whole sphere of the universe in play

SANDHI ब्रह्माण्ड = ब्रह्म + अण्ड (brahma + aṇḍa) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ), inside the lexicalised compound brahmāṇḍa (brahman drops its final n first, 8.2.7)

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (over an inner tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa and ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (1) līlā-kḷpta 'fashioned in play' (tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa: līlā is the manner, in the instrumental). (2) brahmāṇḍa-maṇḍala 'the round of the world-eggs', the whole universe (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa), qualified by (1). (3) The whole is a bahuvrīhi: 'She by whom the sphere of the universe is fashioned in play'; maṇḍala takes the feminine -ā.

ANALYSIS लीलया क्लृप्तम् लीलाक्लृप्तम्; ब्रह्माण्डानाम् मण्डलम् ब्रह्माण्डमण्डलम्; लीलाक्लृप्तम् ब्रह्माण्डमण्डलम् यस्याः सा लीलाक्लृप्तब्रह्माण्डमण्डला

līlayā klṛptam līlāklṛptam; brahmāṇḍānām maṇḍalam brahmāṇḍamaṇḍalam; līlāklṛptam brahmāṇḍamaṇḍalam yasyāḥ sā līlāklṛptabrahmāṇḍamaṇḍalā

SIGNIFICANCE Creation costs Her no effort and serves no need: it is līlā, play (compare Brahma Sūtra 2.1.33, lokavat tu līlākaivalyam).

धरा dharā	bearing, upholding √dhṛ 'to hold', feminine -ā

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Names 649–652 pair off: unseen and without anything seen, the knower and without anything to know. Names 653–657 play on yoga (yoginī, yogadā, yogyā, yogānandā) and close with yugandharā.

THE NAMES

649 अदृश्या adṛśyā

She who is invisible, beyond the reach of the senses

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND nañ-tatpuruṣa. The negative na (a- before a consonant) is compounded with the gerundive dṛśyā 'to be seen': 'not to be seen'.

ANALYSIS न दृश्या अदृश्या

na dṛśyā adṛśyā

SIGNIFICANCE The Muṇḍaka Upaniṣad (1.1.6) calls the Imperishable 'that which cannot be seen, cannot be grasped'; She is not an object of the senses.

650 दृश्यरहिता dṛśya-rahitā

She who is free of anything seen, with nothing outside Her to see

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa. The participle rahitā 'free from, without' is the head and dṛśya 'the seen' stands to it in the instrumental: 'free from what is seen'.

ANALYSIS दृश्येन रहिता दृश्यरहिता

dṛśyena rahitā dṛśyarahitā

SIGNIFICANCE Since nothing exists apart from Her, there is no object standing over against Her; She is the seer without a seen.

651 विज्ञात्री vijñātrī

She who is the knower

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE The Bṛhadāraṇyaka Upaniṣad (2.4.14) asks: 'By what should one know the knower?' She is that knower, never the known.

652 वेद्यवर्जिता vedya-varjitā

She who has nothing to be known apart from Herself

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa. The participle varjitā 'devoid of' is the head and vedya 'the knowable' stands to it in the instrumental: 'free from anything to be known'.

ANALYSIS वेद्येन वर्जिता वेद्यवर्जिता

vedyena varjitā vedyavarjitā

SIGNIFICANCE With name 651: She is the knower with no object outside Her, since all that could be known is Herself.

653 योगिनी yoginī

She who possesses the power of yoga, ever united with Paraśiva

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE She is ever in union (yoga) with Śiva; the yoginīs who attend Her in the Śrīcakra and in the bodily centers are Her own powers.

---

654 योगदा yoga-dā

She who bestows the power of yoga

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa. -da 'giving' from √dā with ka (Pāṇini 3.2.3), feminine -ā, with yoga as its object.

ANALYSIS योगम् ददाति इति योगदा

yogam dadāti iti yogadā

SIGNIFICANCE Success in yoga, and the union that is its goal, come by Her grace.

---

655 योग्या yogyā

She who is fit to be reached through yoga

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE She is the proper object of every kind of yoga; traditionally also, She is fit, worthy in every respect.

> UNCERTAIN yogya means both 'fit, worthy' and 'to be attained by yoga'; the meaning follows the second, the significance mentions the first.

---

656 योगानन्दा yogānandā

She who enjoys the bliss of yoga, and is that bliss

SANDHI योगानन्दा = योग + आनन्दा (yoga + ānandā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (over an inner ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (1) yoga-ānanda 'the bliss of yoga' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (2) A bahuvrīhi, 'She whose bliss is the bliss of yoga'; ānanda takes the feminine -ā.

ANALYSIS योगस्य आनन्दः योगानन्दः; योगानन्दः यस्याः सा योगानन्दा

yogasya ānandaḥ yogānandaḥ; yogānandaḥ yasyāḥ sā yogānandā

SIGNIFICANCE The bliss that the yogin finds in union is Hers; She both enjoys it and is it.

657 युगन्धरा yugan-dharā

She who is the bearer of the yugas

SANDHI युगन्धरा = युगम् + धरा (yugam + dharā) — the augment m becomes anusvāra before a consonant (Pāṇini 8.3.23) and then the dental nasal n before dh (8.4.58 anusvārasya yayi parasavarṇaḥ)

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa. dharā 'bearing' is from causative √dhṛ with the suffix khac; before a member so formed, a stem ending in a vowel takes the augment m (Pāṇini 6.3.67 arurdviṣadajantasya mum): yuga-m-dhara, written yugan-dharā. The feminine is -ā.

ANALYSIS युगम् धारयति इति युगन्धरा

yugam dhārayati iti yugandharā

SIGNIFICANCE She upholds the ages of the world in their succession, as a yoke holds the team together.

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Name 658 fills the whole first half: the three powers of will, knowledge and action.

THE NAMES

658 इच्छाशक्तिज्ञानशक्तिक्रियाशक्तिस्वरूपिणी

icchā-śakti-jñāna-śakti-kriyā-śakti-svarūpiṇī

She who is in the form of the powers of will, knowledge and action

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND karmadhāraya with the possessive suffix -in (over an inner itaretara-dvandva of three karmadhārayas). (1) Three karmadhārayas of identification: icchā-śakti 'the power that is will', jñāna-śakti 'the power that is knowledge', kriyā-śakti 'the power that is action'. (2) The three form a dvandva. (3) They are identified with sva-rūpa 'own nature', and the possessive -in with feminine -ī gives 'She whose own nature is the powers of will, knowledge and action'. The members meet without sound change.

SIGNIFICANCE Will, knowledge and action are the three powers of the one consciousness, by which every act of creation proceeds: first the will, then the knowing of what is willed, then the doing. Traditionally they are placed at the three corners of the central triangle of the Śrīcakra.

659 सर्वाधारा sarvādhārā

She who is the support of all

SANDHI सर्वाधारा = सर्व + आधारा (sarva + ādhārā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa. ādhārā 'support' is the head and sarva 'all' stands to it in the genitive: 'the support of all'. ādhāra takes the feminine -ā because it describes Her.

ANALYSIS सर्वस्य आधारा सर्वाधारा

sarvasya ādhārā sarvādhārā

SIGNIFICANCE Everything rests in Her as the pot rests on the ground, while She rests on nothing else.

---

660 सुप्रतिष्ठा su-pratiṣṭhā

She who is firmly established

SANDHI प्रतिष्ठा = प्रति + स्था (prati + sthā) — after a prefix ending in i, the s of sthā becomes ṣ (Pāṇini 8.3.65), and th then becomes ṭh by retroflex assimilation (8.4.41 ṣṭunā ṣṭuḥ)

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (alternatively prādi-tatpuruṣa). As a bahuvrīhi, su 'well, firmly' qualifies pratiṣṭhā 'standing, foundation': 'She whose standing is firm'. As a prādi-tatpuruṣa: 'the excellent foundation' (of the world). pratiṣṭhā is already feminine.

ANALYSIS सुष्ठु प्रतिष्ठा यस्याः सा सुप्रतिष्ठा; अथवा शोभना प्रतिष्ठा सुप्रतिष्ठा

suṣṭhu pratiṣṭhā yasyāḥ sā supratiṣṭhā; athavā śobhanā pratiṣṭhā supratiṣṭhā

SIGNIFICANCE She stands on Herself and on nothing else, and is the firm ground on which all else stands (name 659).

> CORRECTED सुप्रतीष्ठा → सुप्रतिष्ठा. सुप्रतीष्ठा → सुप्रतिष्ठा (prati-ṣṭhā: short i).

---

661 सदसद्रूपधारिणी sad-asad-rūpa-dhāriṇī

She who assumes the forms of both being and non-being

SANDHI सदसद् = सत् + असत् (sat + asat) — jaśtva: the final t of sat becomes d at the end of a member, here before a vowel (Pāṇini 8.2.39 jhalāṃ jaśo 'nte); the t of asat is voiced in the next junction; सदसद्रूप = सदसत् + रूप (sadasat + rūpa) — jaśtva: a final t becomes d before a voiced sound (Pāṇini 8.2.39 jhalāṃ jaśo 'nte)

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa (over an inner dvandva and karmadhāraya). (1) sad-asat 'being and non-being' (dvandva). (2) They are identified with rūpa 'form' (karmadhāraya): 'the forms that are being and non-being'. (3) dhāriṇī 'she who bears, assumes' is an agent noun and the head, with the forms as its object in the genitive.

ANALYSIS सत् च असत् च सदसती; सदसती एव रूपे सदसद्रूपे; सदसद्रूपयोः धारिणी सदसद्रूपधारिणी

sat ca asat ca sadasatī; sadasatī eva rūpe sadasadrūpe; sadasadrūpayoḥ dhāriṇī sadasadrūpadhāriṇī

SIGNIFICANCE In the Gītā (9.19) the Lord says 'I am being and non-being'; She holds both the manifest and the unmanifest, the real and the apparent.

668 द्वैतवर्जिता dvaita-varjitā

द्वैत dvaita	duality
वर्जिता varjitā	devoid of, free from, excluded from causative of √vṛj 'to turn away', past participle, feminine

अष्टमूर्तिरजाजैत्री = अष्टमूर्तिः + अजाजैत्री (aṣṭamūrtiḥ + ajājaitrī) — visarga becomes r before a vowel or voiced sound (Pāṇini 8.2.66 sasajuṣo ruḥ)

The r in -mūrtir- is the visarga of aṣṭamūrtiḥ (662); name 663 begins ajā-, not rajā-.

THE NAMES

662 अष्टमूर्तिः aṣṭa-mūrtiḥ

She who has eight forms

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi. aṣṭan 'eight' qualifies mūrti 'form, embodiment', and the whole points outside itself to the Goddess: 'She who has eight forms'. The numeral's final n is dropped at the end of a compound member (aṣṭan → aṣṭa-), a morphological change, not sandhi; mūrti keeps its i-stem and the nominative is aṣṭamūrtiḥ.

ANALYSIS अष्टौ मूर्तयः यस्याः सा अष्टमूर्तिः

aṣṭau mūrtayaḥ yasyāḥ sā aṣṭamūrtiḥ

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally the eight forms (aṣṭamūrti) of Śiva — earth, water, fire, air, space, sun, moon and the sacrificer — which She, as His power, also is. The eightfold nature (prakṛti) of Bhagavad Gītā 7.4 is another octad read here.

663 अजाजैत्री ajā-jaitrī

She who conquers Ajā, the unborn Māyā of ignorance

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa (objective genitive). jaitrī 'victorious, conqueror' is the head; ajā 'the unborn (she)' stands to it as the one conquered: 'the conqueror of Ajā'. Ajā is the feminine of aja 'unborn' and, after Śvetāśvatara Upaniṣad 4.5 (ajām ekāṃ lohitaśuklakṛṣṇām, 'the one unborn [she] of red, white and black'), names beginningless Māyā or ignorance. The two members meet with no sound change.

ANALYSIS अजायाः जैत्री अजाजैत्री

ajāyāḥ jaitrī ajājaitrī

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally Ajā is avidyā, without beginning but not without end: She who is Knowledge overcomes it in the devotee.

> VARIANTS The site's earlier text read अजाजेत्री (ajājetrī, feminine of jetṛ 'conqueror'), with the same sense; the verse reads jaitrī (see the correction log).

> CORRECTED अजाजेत्री → अजाजैत्री. अजाजेत्री → अजाजैत्री (jaitrī, victorious: vṛddhi ai); the verse reads अजाजैत्री.

664 लोकयात्राविधायिनी loka-yātrā-vidhāyinī

She who directs the course of the worlds

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa (with an inner ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (1) loka-yātrā 'the course, the going-on of the world' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa, yātrā the head). (2) vidhāyinī 'one who arranges, ordains' is an agent noun in -in from vi + √dhā, with the y inserted after a root in ā; it governs lokayātrā as its object (upapada-tatpuruṣa): 'She who ordains the course of the world'.

ANALYSIS लोकस्य यात्रा लोकयात्रा; लोकयात्राम् विदधाति इति लोकयात्राविधायिनी

lokasya yātrā lokayātrā; lokayātrām vidadhāti iti lokayātrāvidhāyinī

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally the ongoing life of the worlds — creation, sustenance and the working-out of each being's karma — runs by Her ordinance.

> CORRECTED लोकयात्रविधायिनी → लोकयात्राविधायिनी. लोकयात्र → लोकयात्रा (yātrā: long final ā); the verse reads लोकयात्राविधायिनी.

665 एकाकिनी ekākinī

She who is the lone One

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE Before creation there is nothing beside Her; the Bṛhadāraṇyaka Upaniṣad (1.4.3) says the Self, being alone (ekākī), did not delight and wished for a second. She is the One without a second (ekam evādvitīyam, Chāndogya Upaniṣad 6.2.1).

---

666 भूमरूपा bhūma-rūpā

She whose form is the Bhūman, the boundless Plenitude

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi. rūpa 'form, nature' is qualified by bhūman 'plenitude' in apposition, and the whole points to the Goddess: 'She whose form is the Plenitude'. bhūman is an n-stem; its n is dropped at the end of a compound member (bhūma-), a morphological change, not sandhi.

ANALYSIS भूमा रूपम् यस्याः सा भूमरूपा

bhūmā rūpam yasyāḥ sā bhūmarūpā

SIGNIFICANCE The Chāndogya Upaniṣad (7.23–24) teaches that 'the Plenitude (bhūmā) alone is happiness': where one sees nothing else, hears nothing else, knows nothing else, that is the Bhūman. Taking bhūman as 'manyness', the name also means that She is the sum of all that exists.

> UNCERTAIN bhūman can mean 'the Infinite' (Chāndogya 7.23–24) or 'manyness, the aggregate'; both are current for this name.

667 निर्द्वैता nir-dvaitā

She who is without duality

SANDHI निर्द्वैता = निस् + द्वैता (nis + dvaitā) — the final s of nis becomes r before a voiced sound (Pāṇini 8.2.66 sasajuṣo ruḥ)

COMPOUND prādi-bahuvrīhi. nis 'out, away' stands for nirgata 'gone away', and the whole points to the Goddess: 'She from whom duality has gone', i.e. in whom there is no duality. dvaita takes the feminine -ā of the bahuvrīhi.

ANALYSIS निर्गतम् द्वैतम् यस्याः सा निर्द्वैता

nirgatam dvaitam yasyāḥ sā nirdvaitā

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally: nothing exists beside Her to make a second, so duality has no place in Her nature.

668 द्वैतवर्जिता dvaita-varjitā

She who is beyond duality

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa. The participle varjitā 'devoid, left out' is the head; dvaita 'duality' stands to it in the instrumental: 'devoid of duality'. The members meet with no sound change.

ANALYSIS द्वैतेन वर्जिता द्वैतवर्जिता

dvaitena varjitā dvaitavarjitā

SIGNIFICANCE With name 667 it states non-duality twice: no second exists in Her, and She remains untouched by the dualities of the world She manifests.

677 बलिप्रिया bali-priyā
बलि bali	offering, oblation, tribute
प्रिया priyā	dear, beloved; fond of priya, with the feminine -ā of the bahuvrīhi

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Names 673–676 play on one root (√bṛh, whence brahman): bṛhatī, brāhmaṇī, brāhmī, brahmānandā.

THE NAMES

669 अन्नदा anna-dā

She who is the giver of food to all living things

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa. -da 'giving' from √dā (suffix ka after a root in ā preceded by its object, Pāṇini 3.2.3 āto 'nupasarge kaḥ), feminine -dā; anna is its object: 'giver of food'.

ANALYSIS अन्नम् ददाति इति अन्नदा

annam dadāti iti annadā

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally She is Annapūrṇā, the nourisher of all; the Taittirīya Upaniṣad (3.2) teaches 'food is Brahman', the first step of Bhṛgu's inquiry.

670 वसुदा vasu-dā

She who is the giver of wealth

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa. As in name 669: -dā 'giving' from √dā is the head and vasu 'wealth' its object.

ANALYSIS वसु ददाति इति वसुदा

vasu dadāti iti vasudā

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally wealth of every kind — material prosperity and the inner riches of virtue and knowledge — flows from Her.

671 वृद्धा vṛddhā

She who is ancient

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE She is older than all that exists, the first before creation; the Śvetāśvatara Upaniṣad (4.3) addresses the One as the old man who totters with a staff, as well as the youth and the maiden.

672 ब्रह्मात्मैक्यस्वरूपिणी brahmātmaikya-svarūpiṇī

She whose very nature is the oneness of Brahman and the Self (Ātman)

SANDHI ब्रह्मात्म = ब्रह्म + आत्म (brahma + ātma) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ); आत्मैक्य = आत्म + ऐक्य (ātma + aikya) — vṛddhi: a + ai → ai (Pāṇini 6.1.88 vṛddhir eci)

COMPOUND karmadhāraya with the possessive suffix -in (over an inner ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa and dvandva). (1) brahman and ātman, the absolute and the Self, are joined as a dvandva (both stems lose their final n, a morphological change). (2) aikya 'oneness' takes them in the genitive: 'the oneness of Brahman and the Self' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (3) That oneness is identified with svarūpa 'own nature' (karmadhāraya). (4) The possessive suffix -in (Pāṇini 5.2.115 ata iniṭhanau) makes 'she who has this as her own nature'.

ANALYSIS ब्रह्म च आत्मा च ब्रह्मात्मानौ; ब्रह्मात्मनोः ऐक्यम् ब्रह्मात्मैक्यम्; ब्रह्मात्मैक्यम् एव स्वरूपम् ब्रह्मात्मैक्यस्वरूपम्; तत् अस्याः अस्ति इति ब्रह्मात्मैक्यस्वरूपिणी

brahma ca ātmā ca brahmātmānau; brahmātmanoḥ aikyam brahmātmaikyam; brahmātmaikyam eva svarūpam brahmātmaikyasvarūpam; tat asyāḥ asti iti brahmātmaikyasvarūpiṇī

SIGNIFICANCE The central teaching of the Upaniṣads (tat tvam asi, ahaṃ brahmāsmi): the Self and Brahman are not two. She is that identity itself, not a union of two things.

---

673 बृहती bṛhatī

She who is immense

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE She is Brahman, the word itself coming from the same root √bṛh 'to grow great'. Bṛhatī is also the name of a Vedic metre.

---

674 ब्राह्मणी brāhmaṇī

She who is Brāhmaṇī, belonging to Brahman

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally the brāhmaṇa is the type of sattva, the quality of clarity and calm, and so the name is read as 'She in whom sattva predominates'. Brāhmaṇī is also a name of the Śakti of Brahmā.

> UNCERTAIN Several readings are current: 'of the nature of Brahman', 'predominantly sāttvic' (the brāhmaṇa as sattva), and the Śakti of Brahmā; the source of the sāttvic gloss could not be confirmed.

675 ब्राह्मी brāhmī

She who is Brāhmī, the power of speech

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE Brāhmī is a classical name of speech and of Sarasvatī; She is also the Śakti of Brahmā, first of the Mothers (Mātṛkās).

---

676 ब्रह्मानन्दा brahmānandā

She whose being is the bliss of Brahman

SANDHI ब्रह्मानन्दा = ब्रह्म + आनन्दा (brahma + ānandā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (over an inner ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (1) brahma-ānanda 'the bliss of Brahman' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa; brahman loses its n). (2) As a bahuvrīhi with the feminine -ā: 'She whose (very being) is the bliss of Brahman'. A karmadhāraya reading, 'She who is the bliss that is Brahman', gives the same sense.

ANALYSIS ब्रह्मणः आनन्दः ब्रह्मानन्दः; ब्रह्मानन्दः यस्याः सा ब्रह्मानन्दा

brahmaṇaḥ ānandaḥ brahmānandaḥ; brahmānandaḥ yasyāḥ sā brahmānandā

SIGNIFICANCE The Taittirīya Upaniṣad (2.4, 2.9) speaks of 'the bliss of Brahman' (ānandaṃ brahmaṇo vidvān), knowing which one fears nothing; She is that bliss.

---

677 बलिप्रिया bali-priyā

She who is fond of offerings (bali)

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi. priya 'dear' and bali 'offering' are joined as a bahuvrīhi with priya placed second (as in guḍapriya 'fond of molasses'): 'She to whom offerings are dear'. If bali is taken from balin 'the strong' (n dropped in the compound), the vigraha is balinaḥ priyāḥ yasyāḥ sā, 'She to whom the strong are dear'.

ANALYSIS बलिः प्रियः यस्याः सा बलिप्रिया

baliḥ priyaḥ yasyāḥ sā balipriyā

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally the true offering is the self — the devotee's ego offered into Her; worship (pūjā) closes with bali to Her attendant powers.

> UNCERTAIN bali may also be read from balin 'the strong': 'She who loves the strong' (those strong in devotion and self-mastery).

भाव bhāva	being, existence from √bhū 'to be'
अभाव abhāva	non-being, non-existence a- 'not' + bhāva
विवर्जिता vivarjitā	wholly devoid of, free from vi + causative of √vṛj 'to turn away', past participle, feminine
681 सुखाराध्या sukhārādhyā
सुख sukha	ease; happiness
आराध्या ārādhyā	to be worshipped, propitiated ā + √rādh 'to succeed, propitiate', gerundive, feminine
682 शुभकरी śubha-karī
शुभ śubha	good, auspicious
करी karī	making, doing, bringing about √kṛ 'to do, make' + -a, feminine -ī
683 शोभनासुलभागतिः śobhanā-sulabhā-gatiḥ
शोभना śobhanā	beautiful, bright, auspicious from √śubh 'to shine'; nominative feminine

SANSKRIT	ENGLISH
सुलभा sulabhā	easily attained su 'well, easily' + labha 'obtaining' (√labh); nominative feminine
गतिः gatiḥ	goal, refuge; path, way from √gam 'to go'

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

The second half holds three names, not five: 681, 682 and 683 śobhanā sulabhā gatiḥ, which Bhāskararāya counts as one name (śobhanā alone would repeat name 462).

THE NAMES

678 भाषारूपा bhāṣā-rūpā

She who is in the form of language

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi. rūpa 'form' is identified with bhāṣā 'speech, language', and the whole points to the Goddess: 'She whose form is language'.

ANALYSIS भाषा रूपम् यस्याः सा भाषारूपा

bhāṣā rūpam yasyāḥ sā bhāṣārūpā

SIGNIFICANCE Every language, sacred or common, is a form of Her as Vāk (speech); all words are Her body, as the alphabet (mātṛkā) is in Śrīvidyā.

679 बृहत्सेना bṛhat-senā

She who has a vast army

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi. bṛhat 'vast' qualifies senā 'army', and the whole points to the Goddess: 'She whose army is vast'. The feminine bṛhatī takes its masculine stem bṛhat before another member of a bahuvrīhi (puṃvadbhāva). t and s meet with no change.

ANALYSIS बृहती सेना यस्याः सा बृहत्सेना

bṛhatī senā yasyāḥ sā bṛhatsenā

SIGNIFICANCE In the Lalitopākhyāna Her hosts of śaktis, led by Mantriṇī and Daṇḍanāthā, march against Bhaṇḍāsura; inwardly they are Her countless powers.

680 भावाभावविवर्जिता bhāvābhāva-vivarjitā

She who is beyond being and non-being

SANDHI भावाभाव = भाव + अभाव (bhāva + abhāva) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa (over an inner dvandva and nañ-tatpuruṣa). (1) a-bhāva 'non-being' (nañ-tatpuruṣa). (2) bhāva-abhāva 'being and non-being' (itaretara-dvandva). (3) The participle vivarjitā 'wholly devoid' is the head and takes the pair in the instrumental: 'devoid of being and non-being'.

ANALYSIS न भावः अभावः; भावः च अभावः च भावाभावौ; भावाभावाभ्याम् विवर्जिता भावाभावविवर्जिता na bhāvaḥ abhāvaḥ; bhāvaḥ ca abhāvaḥ ca bhāvābhāvau; bhāvābhāvābhyām vivarjitā bhāvābhāvavivarjitā

SIGNIFICANCE She cannot be called existent or non-existent in the ordinary sense: 'then there was neither non-being nor being' (Ṛgveda 10.129.1); 'it is called neither being nor non-being' (Bhagavad Gītā 13.12).

681 सुखाराध्या sukhārādhyā

She who is easily worshipped

SANDHI सुखाराध्या = सुख + आराध्या (sukha + ārādhyā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa. The gerundive ārādhyā 'to be worshipped' is the head; sukha 'ease' stands to it in the instrumental of manner: 'to be worshipped with ease'. A reading with sukha as 'joy' — 'to be worshipped joyfully' — is also possible.

ANALYSIS सुखेन आराध्या सुखाराध्या

sukhena ārādhyā sukhārādhyā

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally Her worship needs no harsh austerity: devotion, Her name and simple offerings please Her, and the worship is itself a joy.

682 शुभकरी śubha-karī

She who brings about what is auspicious

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa. -kara 'making, doing' from √kṛ (suffix ṭa, which takes the feminine -ī: karī) is the head; śubha 'good, auspicious' is its object: 'maker of the auspicious'.

ANALYSIS शुभम् करोति इति शुभकरी

śubham karoti iti śubhakarī

SIGNIFICANCE She works good for Her devotees — prosperity here and liberation hereafter.

---

683 शोभनासुलभागतिः śobhanā-sulabhā-gatiḥ

She who is the auspicious goal, easily reached

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE Bhāskararāya counts the three words śobhanā sulabhā gatiḥ as one name, since śobhanā alone would repeat name 462. She is the goal (gati) of all, and for those who love Her that goal is near.

> UNCERTAIN Not a compound: the adjectives keep their feminine -ā, which they would lose inside a karmadhāraya (śobhana-sulabha-gati); the name is three nominatives in apposition, counted as one name. gati can be 'goal' or 'path'.

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Names 684–692 are a run of royal names (rāja-, rājya-, sāmrājya-).

THE NAMES

684 राजराजेश्वरी rāja-rājeśvarī

She who is the sovereign of the kings of kings

SANDHI राजराजेश्वरी = राजराज + ईश्वरी (rājarāja + īśvarī) — guṇa: a + ī → e (Pāṇini 6.1.87 ād guṇaḥ)

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa (over an inner ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (1) rāja-rāja 'king of kings' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa); rājan as the last member of a tatpuruṣa ends in -a (samāsānta ṭac, Pāṇini 5.4.91 rājāhaḥsakhibhyaṣ ṭac), and as first member loses its n. (2) īśvarī 'sovereign' is the head: 'sovereign of the kings of kings'. Rājarāja is also a title of Kubera, giving 'the sovereign of Kubera'.

ANALYSIS राज्ञाम् राजा राजराजः; राजराजानाम् ईश्वरी राजराजेश्वरी

rājñām rājā rājarājaḥ; rājarājānām īśvarī rājarājeśvarī

SIGNIFICANCE Rājarājeśvarī is one of the principal names of the Śrīvidyā Goddess: She rules over every ruler, the guardians of the world and the lord of wealth alike.

> UNCERTAIN rājarāja may be 'kings of kings' (emperors) or Kubera, the king of the yakṣas; both readings are current.

685 राज्यदायिनी rājya-dāyinī

She who gives dominion

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa. dāyinī 'giving' is an agent noun in -in from √dā (with y inserted after a root in ā), feminine; it governs rājya 'kingdom, dominion' as its object.

ANALYSIS राज्यम् ददाति इति राज्यदायिनी

rājyam dadāti iti rājyadāyinī

SIGNIFICANCE She grants outward rule, and inwardly the sovereignty of the Self (svārājya), mastery over one's own mind and senses.

686 राज्यवल्लभा rājya-vallabhā

She to whom sovereignty is dear

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi. vallabha 'dear, beloved' and rājya 'kingdom, sovereignty' are joined as a bahuvrīhi: 'She to whom sovereignty is dear'. Read as a ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa (rājyasya vallabhā) it means 'the beloved of the kingdom'.

ANALYSIS राज्यम् वल्लभम् यस्याः सा राज्यवल्लभा

rājyam vallabham yasyāḥ sā rājyavallabhā

SIGNIFICANCE With names 684–685 it shows Her as the sovereign who delights in rule, cherishes the realm, and gives dominion to Her devotees.

> UNCERTAIN vallabha also means 'lord, overseer' in some lexicons, which would support 'protector of kingdoms'; the bahuvrīhi 'to whom sovereignty is dear' and the tatpuruṣa 'beloved of the realm' are the plain readings.

687 राजत्कृपा rājat-kṛpā

She whose compassion shines forth

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi. The participle rājat 'shining' qualifies kṛpā 'compassion', and the whole points to the Goddess: 'She whose compassion shines'. The feminine rājantī takes its masculine stem rājat inside the bahuvrīhi (puṃvadbhāva); t and k meet with no change.

ANALYSIS राजन्ती कृपा यस्याः सा राजत्कृपा

rājantī kṛpā yasyāḥ sā rājatkṛpā

SIGNIFICANCE Her grace is not hidden: it shines, like a ruler's splendor, on all who turn to Her. The participle also echoes rājan 'king', continuing the royal names around it.

688 राजपीठनिवेशितनिजाश्रिता rāja-pīṭha-niveśita-nijāśritā

She who seats on royal thrones those who take refuge in Her

SANDHI निजाश्रिता = निज + आश्रिता (nija + āśritā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (over inner ṣaṣṭhī-, saptamī-tatpuruṣa and karmadhāraya). (1) rāja-pīṭha 'royal seat, throne' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa; rājan loses its n). (2) rājapīṭha-niveśita 'placed on the throne' (saptamī-tatpuruṣa with the causative participle). (3) nija-āśrita 'Her own dependents, those who take refuge in Her' (karmadhāraya). (4) The whole is a bahuvrīhi with the instrumental yayā: 'She by whom Her own dependents are seated on royal thrones'. The participle stands first, as is usual in a bahuvrīhi.

ANALYSIS राज्ञः पीठम् राजपीठम्; राजपीठे निवेशिताः राजपीठनिवेशिताः; निजाः आश्रिताः निजाश्रिताः; राजपीठनिवेशिताः निजाश्रिताः यया सा राजपीठनिवेशितनिजाश्रिता

rājñaḥ pīṭham rājapīṭham; rājapīṭhe niveśitāḥ rājapīṭhaniveśitāḥ; nijāḥ āśritāḥ nijāśritāḥ; rājapīṭhaniveśitāḥ nijāśritāḥ yayā sā rājapīṭhaniveśitanijāśritā

SIGNIFICANCE She raises Her devotees to sovereignty — worldly, and inwardly to the throne of the Self.

सागर sāgara	ocean
मेखला mekhalā	girdle, belt

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

rājyalakṣmīḥ (689) keeps its visarga before kośanāthā: lakṣmī is not a derived feminine in -ī and takes -ḥ in the nominative (compare 210).

THE NAMES

689 राज्यलक्ष्मीः rājya-lakṣmīḥ

She who is the Fortune (Lakṣmī) of the kingdom

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa. lakṣmī 'fortune, prosperity, the goddess Lakṣmī' is the head and rājya 'kingdom' stands to it in the genitive: 'the fortune of the kingdom'. lakṣmī keeps the nominative -ḥ (it is not a derived feminine in -ī; compare name 210).

ANALYSIS राज्यस्य लक्ष्मीः राज्यलक्ष्मीः

rājyasya lakṣmīḥ rājyalakṣmīḥ

SIGNIFICANCE Rājyalakṣmī is the goddess of a realm's prosperity and royal splendor; where She dwells, the kingdom flourishes.

> CORRECTED राज्यलक्ष्मी → राज्यलक्ष्मीः. As 210: nominative lakṣmīḥ; the verse reads राज्यलक्ष्मीः कोशनाथा.

690 कोशनाथा kośa-nāthā

She who is the mistress of the treasury

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa. nāthā 'mistress, protector' is the head; kośa 'treasury' (or 'sheath') stands to it in the genitive.

ANALYSIS कोशस्य नाथा कोशनाथा

kośasya nāthā kośanāthā

SIGNIFICANCE As queen She owns the treasury of the realm. Kośa also means 'sheath', so the name is read inwardly as 'Lord of the five sheaths (kośas)' that cover the Self.

---

691 चतुरङ्गबलेश्वरी caturaṅga-baleśvarī

She who is sovereign of the fourfold army

SANDHI बलेश्वरी = बल + ईश्वरी (bala + īśvarī) — guṇa: a + ī → e (Pāṇini 6.1.87 ād guṇaḥ)

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa (over an inner karmadhāraya and bahuvrīhi). (1) catur-aṅga 'having four limbs' (bahuvrīhi): the army's four arms — elephants, chariots, cavalry and infantry. (2) caturaṅga-bala 'the fourfold army' (karmadhāraya). (3) īśvarī 'sovereign' is the head: 'sovereign of the fourfold army'. catur's final r simply joins aṅga.

ANALYSIS चत्वारि अङ्गानि यस्य तत् चतुरङ्गम्; चतुरङ्गम् बलम् चतुरङ्गबलम्; चतुरङ्गबलस्य ईश्वरी चतुरङ्गबलेश्वरी

catvāri aṅgāni yasya tat caturaṅgam; caturaṅgam balam caturaṅgabalam; caturaṅgabalasya īśvarī caturaṅgabaleśvarī

SIGNIFICANCE The classical Indian army had four arms; in the Lalitopākhyāna Her own hosts — elephant, horse and chariot corps and foot-soldiers — fight under Her command.

---

692 साम्राज्यदायिनी sāmrājya-dāyinī

She who is the bestower of imperial dominion

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa. As in name 685: dāyinī 'giving' (agent noun in -in from √dā) is the head and sāmrājya 'empire' its object.

ANALYSIS साम्राज्यम् ददाति इति साम्राज्यदायिनी

sāmrājyam dadāti iti sāmrājyadāyinī

SIGNIFICANCE Beyond a kingdom (685) She grants empire; traditionally the highest empire is liberation, sovereignty over all.

---

693 सत्यसन्धा satya-sandhā

She who is true to Her word

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi. satya 'true' qualifies sandhā 'promise, compact', and the whole points to the Goddess: 'She whose promise is true'. The feminine satyā takes its masculine stem satya inside the bahuvrīhi (puṃvadbhāva).

ANALYSIS सत्या सन्धा यस्याः सा सत्यसन्धा

satyā sandhā yasyāḥ sā satyasandhā

SIGNIFICANCE Her promise of protection to those who take refuge in Her never fails.

---

694 सागरमेखला sāgara-mekhalā

She who is girdled by the oceans

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi. mekhalā 'girdle' is identified with sāgara 'the ocean(s)', and the whole points to the Goddess: 'She whose girdle is the ocean'.

ANALYSIS सागराः मेखला यस्याः सा सागरमेखला

sāgarāḥ mekhalā yasyāḥ sā sāgaramekhalā

SIGNIFICANCE 'Ocean-girdled' is a classical epithet of the Earth; She is the Earth, with the encircling seas as Her waistband.

रूपिणी rūpiṇī	having the form, whose nature is rūpa + the possessive suffix -in, feminine

THE NAMES

695 दीक्षिता dīkṣitā

She who is consecrated (dīkṣitā)

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally read both ways: She is the consecrated sacrificer of the cosmic rite, and She is the one in whom initiation (dīkṣā) resides and who gives it to the devotee, removing bondage.

> UNCERTAIN The participle is passive ('consecrated'), but the name is commonly explained as 'She who initiates', taking dīkṣitā as 'possessed of dīkṣā'; both are current.

696 दैत्यशमनी daitya-śamanī

She who subdues the demons

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa (with an agent noun). śamanī 'one who quells' is an agent noun in -ana from the causative of √śam 'to be calm', feminine; daitya 'demon' stands to it as the object, in the genitive.

ANALYSIS दैत्यानाम् शमनी दैत्यशमनी

daityānām śamanī daityaśamanī

SIGNIFICANCE Outwardly She destroys the demon hosts of the Purāṇas; inwardly She quells the demonic tendencies in the heart.

---

697 सर्वलोकवशङ्करी sarva-loka-vaśaṅkarī

She who keeps all the worlds under Her control

SANDHI वशङ्करी = वशम् + करी (vaśam + karī) — the m (an augment inserted after the object, as in priyaṅkara) becomes anusvāra before a consonant (Pāṇini 8.3.23 mo 'nusvāraḥ) and then the nasal of the following k's class, ṅ (8.4.58 anusvārasya yayi parasavarṇaḥ)

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa (over an inner karmadhāraya). (1) sarva-loka 'all the worlds' (karmadhāraya). (2) vaśaṅ-karī 'one who brings under control' (vaśa 'control' + kara from √kṛ, with the augment m after vaśa and the feminine -ī). (3) The worlds are the object of that action: 'She who brings all the worlds under Her sway'.

ANALYSIS सर्वे लोकाः सर्वलोकाः; सर्वलोकान् वशम् करोति इति सर्वलोकवशङ्करी

sarve lokāḥ sarvalokāḥ; sarvalokān vaśam karoti iti sarvalokavaśaṅkarī

SIGNIFICANCE All beings move by Her will; in worship She is invoked to draw all to Her (vaśīkaraṇa), and the true subjugation is of one's own mind.

---

698 सर्वार्थदात्री sarvārtha-dātrī

She who grants all desires

SANDHI सर्वार्थ = सर्व + अर्थ (sarva + artha) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa (over an inner karmadhāraya). (1) sarva-artha 'all aims, all things sought' (karmadhāraya). (2) dātrī 'giver' (agent noun in -tṛ from √dā, feminine) is the head and takes them as its object in the genitive.

ANALYSIS सर्वे अर्थाः सर्वार्थाः; सर्वार्थानाम् दात्री सर्वार्थदात्री

sarve arthāḥ sarvārthāḥ; sarvārthānām dātrī sarvārthadātrī

SIGNIFICANCE Artha is all that is sought; traditionally the name covers all four aims of life — dharma, artha, kāma and mokṣa.

---

699 सावित्री sāvitrī

She who is Sāvitrī, the impelling power of the Sun that brings the worlds forth

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE Sāvitrī is the Ṛgvedic verse to Savitṛ (the Gāyatrī) and its goddess; from the root √sū 'to bring forth' the name is read as the creative power that impels the universe.

---

700 सच्चिदानन्दरूपिणी sac-cid-ānanda-rūpiṇī

She who is of the nature of existence, consciousness and bliss

SANDHI सच्चित् = सत् + चित् (sat + cit) — ścutva: t becomes c before c (Pāṇini 8.4.40 stoḥ ścunā ścuḥ); चिदानन्द = चित् + आनन्द (cit + ānanda) — jaśtva: a final t becomes d before a voiced sound (Pāṇini 8.2.39 jhalāṃ jaśo 'nte)

COMPOUND karmadhāraya with the possessive suffix -in (Pāṇini 5.2.115 ata iniṭhanau) (over an inner samāhāra-dvandva). (1) sat-cit-ānanda 'being, consciousness and bliss' taken together as one whole (samāhāra-dvandva). (2) That whole is identified with rūpa 'form, nature' (karmadhāraya). (3) The possessive suffix -in makes 'She whose form is being-consciousness-bliss'.

ANALYSIS सत् च चित् च आनन्दः च सच्चिदानन्दम्; सच्चिदानन्दम् एव रूपम् सच्चिदानन्दरूपम्; तत् अस्याः अस्ति इति सच्चिदानन्दरूपिणी

sat ca cit ca ānandaḥ ca saccidānandam; saccidānandam eva rūpam saccidānandarūpam; tat asyāḥ asti iti saccidānandarūpiṇī

SIGNIFICANCE Saccidānanda is the Vedāntic description of Brahman — not three qualities but one reality seen three ways — and She is that reality.

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

In deśakālāparicchinnā (701) the negative a- of aparicchinnā is hidden in the long ā of kālā-: the name says 'not limited' by space and time.

THE NAMES

701 देशकालापरिच्छिन्ना deśa-kālāparicchinnā

She who is not limited by space and time

SANDHI कालापरिच्छिन्ना = काल + अपरिच्छिन्ना (kāla + aparicchinnā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ); परिच्छिन्ना = परि + छिन्ना (pari + chinnā) — a short vowel before ch takes the augment t (Pāṇini 6.1.73 che ca), which becomes c by ścutva (8.4.40): pari + chinnā → paricchinnā

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa (over an inner dvandva and nañ-tatpuruṣa). (1) deśa-kāla 'space and time' (itaretara-dvandva). (2) a-paricchinnā 'not limited, not cut off' (nañ-tatpuruṣa on the participle of pari + √chid). (3) The pair stands in the instrumental of agent: 'not limited by space and time'.

ANALYSIS देशः च कालः च देशकालौ; न परिच्छिन्ना अपरिच्छिन्ना; देशकालाभ्याम् अपरिच्छिन्ना देशकालापरिच्छिन्ना
deśaḥ ca kālaḥ ca deśakālau; na paricchinnā aparicchinnā; deśakālābhyām aparicchinnā deśakālāparicchinnā

SIGNIFICANCE Whatever is in space and time is bounded; She, the ground of space and time, is bounded by neither — present everywhere and at every moment.

702 सर्वगा sarva-gā

She who is all-pervading, present everywhere

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa. -ga 'going' from √gam (suffix ḍa after sarva and similar words, Pāṇini 3.2.48 antātyantādhvadūrapārasarvānanteṣu ḍaḥ), feminine -gā; sarva is its object: 'going to all, reaching everything'.

ANALYSIS सर्वम् गच्छति इति सर्वगा

sarvam gacchati iti sarvagā

SIGNIFICANCE She pervades every world and every being, moving and unmoving, as the one consciousness in all.

---

703 सर्वमोहिनी sarva-mohinī

She who deludes all

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa. mohinī 'deluding, enchanting' is an agent noun in -in from the causative of √muh 'to be bewildered', feminine; it governs sarva 'all' as its object.

ANALYSIS सर्वान् मोहयति इति सर्वमोहिनी

sarvān mohayati iti sarvamohinī

SIGNIFICANCE By Her Māyā even the wise are bewildered; the same power that binds is withdrawn by Her grace.

---

704 सरस्वती sarasvatī

She who is Sarasvatī, the goddess of knowledge and speech

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE Sarasvatī is the river-goddess of the Ṛgveda who became the goddess of speech and learning; She is that flowing knowledge.

---

705 शास्त्रमयी śāstra-mayī

She who consists of the scriptures

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE The scriptures are Her form; traditionally the sciences and sacred texts are described as Her limbs.

706 गुहाम्बा guhāmbā

She who is the mother of Guha (Skanda)

SANDHI गुहाम्बा = गुह + अम्बा (guha + ambā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ); the same surface results from guhā + ambā (ā + a → ā), which gives the second reading

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa (alternatively saptamī-tatpuruṣa). ambā 'mother' is the head. With guha 'Skanda' in the genitive: 'the mother of Guha'. With guhā 'cave' in the locative: 'the mother in the cave (of the heart)'. The fused long ā hides whether the first member is guha or guhā.

ANALYSIS गुहस्य अम्बा गुहाम्बा; अथवा गुहायाम् अम्बा गुहाम्बा

guhasya ambā guhāmbā; athavā guhāyām ambā guhāmbā

SIGNIFICANCE As Pārvatī She is the mother of Skanda; read as guhā, She is the Mother hidden in the cave of the heart, where the Upaniṣads place the Self.

> UNCERTAIN The fused ā allows guha 'Skanda' or guhā 'cave'; both readings are traditional.

707 गुह्यरूपिणी guhya-rūpiṇī

She who has a secret form

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND karmadhāraya with the possessive suffix -in (Pāṇini 5.2.115 ata iniṭhanau). (1) guhya 'secret' qualifies rūpa 'form' (karmadhāraya). (2) The possessive suffix -in makes 'She who has a secret form'.

ANALYSIS गुह्यम् रूपम् गुह्यरूपम्; तत् अस्याः अस्ति इति गुह्यरूपिणी

guhyam rūpam guhyarūpam; tat asyāḥ asti iti guhyarūpiṇī

SIGNIFICANCE Her true form is hidden from the senses and revealed only in the teacher's instruction and within; Her mantra and its inner sense are kept secret in Śrīvidyā.

711 साधु sādhu

साधु sādhu	good, upright, right, excellent √sādh 'to accomplish' + the Uṇādi suffix -u; used here as a name of the Goddess

712 ई ī

ई ī	the long vowel ī; in Śrīvidyā the syllable of kāmakalā

SANSKRIT	ENGLISH

713 गुरुमण्डलरूपिणी guru-maṇḍala-rūpiṇī

गुरु guru	teacher, preceptor
मण्डल maṇḍala	circle, assembly, lineage
रूपिणी rūpiṇī	having the form rūpa + -in, feminine

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

साध्वी = साधु + ई (sādhu + ī) — yaṇ: u becomes v before a dissimilar vowel (Pāṇini 6.1.77 iko yaṇ aci)

साध्वी is two names in Bhāskararāya's division: 711 sādhu and 712 ī, since sādhvī is already name 128.

THE NAMES

708 सर्वोपाधिविनिर्मुक्ता sarvopādhi-vinirmuktā

She who is free of all limiting adjuncts (upādhi)

SANDHI सर्वोपाधि = सर्व + उपाधि (sarva + upādhi) — guṇa: a + u → o (Pāṇini 6.1.87 ād guṇaḥ); निर्मुक्ता = निस् + मुक्ता (nis + muktā) — the final s of nis becomes r before a voiced sound (Pāṇini 8.2.66 sasajuṣo ruḥ)

COMPOUND pañcamī-tatpuruṣa (over an inner karmadhāraya). (1) sarva-upādhi 'all limiting adjuncts' (karmadhāraya). (2) The participle vinirmuktā 'wholly released' is the head and takes them in the ablative: 'released from all limiting adjuncts'.

ANALYSIS सर्वे उपाधयः सर्वोपाधयः; सर्वोपाधिभ्यः विनिर्मुक्ता सर्वोपाधिविनिर्मुक्ता

sarve upādhayaḥ sarvopādhayaḥ; sarvopādhibhyaḥ vinirmuktā sarvopādhivinirmuktā

SIGNIFICANCE In Vedānta body, mind and name are upādhis that seem to limit pure consciousness; She, as that consciousness, is untouched by all of them.

709 सदाशिवपतिव्रता sadāśiva-pativratā

She who is the devoted wife of Sadāśiva

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa (over an inner bahuvrīhi and karmadhāraya). (1) sadā-śiva 'ever auspicious', the name of the fifth Brahma. (2) pati-vratā 'she whose vow is her husband', the faithful wife (bahuvrīhi). (3) Sadāśiva stands to her in the genitive: 'the faithful wife of Sadāśiva'.

ANALYSIS सदा शिवः सदाशिवः; पतिः व्रतम् यस्याः सा पतिव्रता; सदाशिवस्य पतिव्रता सदाशिवपतिव्रता

sadā śivaḥ sadāśivaḥ; patiḥ vratam yasyāḥ sā pativratā; sadāśivasya pativratā sadāśivapativratā

SIGNIFICANCE In Śrīvidyā Sadāśiva is the highest of the five Brahmas, the Lord who grants grace; She is inseparable from Him as His faithful consort and power.

---

710 सम्प्रदायेश्वरी sampradāyeśvarī

She who is the sovereign of the sacred traditions

SANDHI सम्प्रदायेश्वरी = सम्प्रदाय + ईश्वरी (sampradāya + īśvarī) — guṇa: a + ī → e (Pāṇini 6.1.87 ād guṇaḥ)

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa. īśvarī 'sovereign' is the head; sampradāya 'tradition handed down' stands to it in the genitive.

ANALYSIS सम्प्रदायस्य ईश्वरी सम्प्रदायेश्वरी

sampradāyasya īśvarī sampradāyeśvarī

SIGNIFICANCE Sampradāya is teaching passed from teacher to disciple without a break; She presides over it and is its source, so knowledge received in the lineage is received from Her.

---

711 साधु sādhu

She who is sādhu, the good and upright

SANDHI साध्वी = साधु + ई (sādhu + ī) — yaṇ: u becomes v before a dissimilar vowel (Pāṇini 6.1.77 iko yaṇ aci). The surface sādhvī is read by Bhāskararāya as two names, 711 sādhu and 712 ī, because sādhvī as one word would repeat name 128; the junction between them is this sandhi.

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE Bhāskararāya divides the surface sādhvī into two names so that name 128 (sādhvī) is not repeated: 711 sādhu 'the good' and 712 ī. She is goodness itself, straight and even toward all.

> UNCERTAIN Bhāskararāya's own gloss of sādhu could not be checked against a printed Saubhāgyabhāskara; 'equanimity' (the earlier meaning) may reflect it.

VARIANTS Lists that do not follow Bhāskararāya read sādhvī here as one name, repeating name 128.

712 ई ī

She who is the syllable ī (kāmakalā)

SANDHI साध्वी = साधु + ई (sādhu + ī) — yaṇ: u becomes v before a dissimilar vowel (Pāṇini 6.1.77 iko yaṇ aci). The surface sādhvī is read by Bhāskararāya as two names, 711 sādhu and 712 ī, because sādhvī as one word would repeat name 128; the junction between them is this sandhi.

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE In Śrīvidyā the long vowel ī is the letter of kāmakalā, the union of Śiva and Śakti that is the seed of creation (compare name 322, kāmakalārūpā); it stands in Her Pañcadaśī mantra.

UNCERTAIN The kāmakalā reading is the Śrīvidyā one; single-syllable lexicons also give ī as a name of Lakṣmī. Bhāskararāya's exact gloss could not be checked against a printed text.

VARIANTS Lists that do not follow Bhāskararāya read sādhvī (711–712) as one name, repeating name 128, and reach 1,000 by dividing elsewhere.

---

713 गुरुमण्डलरूपिणी guru-maṇḍala-rūpiṇī

She whose form is the circle (lineage) of the gurus

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND karmadhāraya with the possessive suffix -in (Pāṇini 5.2.115 ata iniṭhanau) (over an inner ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (1) guru-maṇḍala 'the circle of gurus' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (2) That circle is identified with rūpa 'form' (karmadhāraya). (3) The possessive -in: 'She whose form is the circle of gurus'.

ANALYSIS गुरूणाम् मण्डलम् गुरुमण्डलम्; गुरुमण्डलम् एव रूपम् गुरुमण्डलरूपम्; तत् अस्याः अस्ति इति गुरुमण्डलरूपिणी

gurūṇām maṇḍalam gurumaṇḍalam; gurumaṇḍalam eva rūpam gurumaṇḍalarūpam; tat asyāḥ asti iti gurumaṇḍalarūpiṇī

SIGNIFICANCE In Śrīvidyā worship the lineage of teachers — the divine, the perfected and the human streams (divyaugha, siddhaugha, mānavaugha) — is worshipped as Her own form.

CORRECTED गुरूमण्डलरूपिणी → गुरुमण्डलरूपिणी. गुरूमण्डल → गुरुमण्डल (guru: short u).

722 गुरुप्रिया guru-priyā
गुरु guru	teacher, preceptor; Śiva as the supreme Guru
प्रिया priyā	beloved, dear

bhagārādhyā (715) and guhyakārādhyā (720) both end in ārādhyā 'to be worshipped', its ā fused with the preceding a.

THE NAMES

714 कुलोत्तीर्णा kulottīrṇā

She who transcends the kula (the senses)

SANDHI कुलोत्तीर्णा = कुल + उत्तीर्णा (kula + uttīrṇā) — guṇa: a + u → o (Pāṇini 6.1.87 ād guṇaḥ); उत्तीर्णा = उद् + तीर्णा (ud + tīrṇā) — the d of ud becomes voiceless t before t (cartva, Pāṇini 8.4.55 khari ca)

COMPOUND dvitīyā-tatpuruṣa. The participle uttīrṇā 'having crossed over' is the head; kula stands to it as the thing crossed, in the accusative: 'She who has crossed beyond the kula'.

ANALYSIS कुलम् उत्तीर्णा कुलोत्तीर्णा

kulam uttīrṇā kulottīrṇā

SIGNIFICANCE Kula is a word of many senses in Śrīvidyā; taken as the group of the senses, She is beyond their reach. Taken as the Kaula path, She is also beyond every particular path of worship.

UNCERTAIN kula has several traditional senses here — the senses, the Kaula path, the family of the knower–knowing–known; the reading as 'the senses' follows the earlier meaning.

715 भगाराध्या bhagārādhyā

She who is worshipped in the sun's disc

SANDHI भगाराध्या = भग + आराध्या (bhaga + ārādhyā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND saptamī-tatpuruṣa. The gerundive ārādhyā 'to be worshipped' is the head; bhaga stands to it in the locative, as the place of worship: 'to be worshipped in the bhaga'.

ANALYSIS भगे आराध्या भगाराध्या

bhage ārādhyā bhagārādhyā

SIGNIFICANCE Bhaga is also a name of the Sun (one of the Ādityas), and She is meditated on within the solar orb; in Śrīcakra worship bhaga is also the central triangle, Her seat.

UNCERTAIN bhaga can be taken as the sun's disc or as the trikoṇa of Śrīcakra; the meaning follows the first.

716 माया māyā

She who is Māyā, the power of illusion

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE 'Know Prakṛti to be Māyā, and the great Lord the wielder of Māyā' (Śvetāśvatara Upaniṣad 4.10). Her Māyā veils and projects the world, and by Her grace it is removed.

---

717 मधुमती madhumatī

She who is full of sweetness

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE Her nature is sweet as honey to the devotee; madhumatī is also the name of an advanced stage of yoga in the commentary on the Yoga Sūtras, and is traditionally read here too.

718 महीं mahī

She who is the Earth

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE She is the great Earth that bears and nourishes all beings, as in name 694.

719 गणाम्बा gaṇāmbā

She who is the mother of the Gaṇas, Śiva's attendants

SANDHI गणाम्बा = गण + अम्बा (gaṇa + ambā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa. ambā 'mother' is the head; gaṇa 'the troops (of Śiva)' stands to it in the genitive.

ANALYSIS गणानाम् अम्बा गणाम्बा

gaṇānām ambā gaṇāmbā

SIGNIFICANCE As Pārvatī She is mother to Śiva's hosts and to Gaṇeśa, their lord.

720 गुह्यकाराध्या guhyakārādhyā

She who is worshipped by the Guhyakas

SANDHI गुह्यकाराध्या = गुह्यक + आराध्या (guhyaka + ārādhyā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa. The gerundive ārādhyā is the head; the Guhyakas stand to it in the instrumental of agent: 'to be worshipped by the Guhyakas'.

ANALYSIS गुह्यकैः आराध्या गुह्यकाराध्या

guhyakaiḥ ārādhyā guhyakārādhyā

SIGNIFICANCE The Guhyakas, 'hidden ones', are the attendants of Kubera, guardians of hidden treasure; even such beings worship Her.

721 कोमलाङ्गी komalāṅgī

She whose limbs are soft and tender

SANDHI कोमलाङ्गी = कोमल + अङ्गी (komala + aṅgī) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi. komala 'soft, tender' qualifies aṅga 'limb', and the whole points to the Goddess: 'She whose limbs are soft'. A bahuvrīhi ending in a word for a body part forms its feminine in -ī.

ANALYSIS कोमलानि अङ्गानि यस्याः सा कोमलाङ्गी

komalāni aṅgāni yasyāḥ sā komalāṅgī

SIGNIFICANCE Her form is gentle and graceful — the gentleness of the Mother toward Her children.

---

722 गुरुप्रिया guru-priyā

She who is beloved of the gurus

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa (alternatively bahuvrīhi). As a ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa, priyā 'beloved' is the head: 'the beloved of the gurus' (or of the supreme Guru, Śiva). As a bahuvrīhi: 'She to whom the gurus are dear'.

ANALYSIS गुरूणाम् प्रिया गुरुप्रिया; अथवा गुरवः प्रियाः यस्याः सा गुरुप्रिया

gurūṇām priyā gurupriyā; athavā guravaḥ priyāḥ yasyāḥ sā gurupriyā

SIGNIFICANCE She is dear to the teachers of the lineage, and the gurus are dear to Her; read with guru as Śiva, She is the beloved of the supreme Teacher.

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Names 725–726 belong together: Dakṣiṇāmūrti and His disciples, Sanaka and the other sages.

---

723 स्वतन्त्रा svatantrā

She who is independent, subject to none

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi. sva 'own' qualifies tantra 'rule, governing principle', and the whole points to the Goddess: 'She whose rule is Her own', i.e. dependent on none.

ANALYSIS स्वम् तन्त्रम् यस्याः सा स्वतन्त्रा

svam tantram yasyāḥ sā svatantrā

SIGNIFICANCE Absolute freedom (svātantrya) is the nature of supreme Consciousness: She depends on nothing, and everything depends on Her.

---

724 सर्वतन्त्रेशी sarva-tantreśī

She who is the goddess of all Tantras

SANDHI तन्त्रेशी = तन्त्र + ईशी (tantra + īśī) — guṇa: a + ī → e (Pāṇini 6.1.87 ād guṇaḥ)

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa (over an inner karmadhāraya). (1) sarva-tantra 'all the Tantras' (karmadhāraya). (2) īśī 'sovereign, mistress' is the head and takes them in the genitive.

ANALYSIS सर्वाणि तन्त्राणि सर्वतन्त्राणि; सर्वतन्त्राणाम् ईशी सर्वतन्त्रेशी sarvāṇi tantrāṇi sarvatantrāṇi; sarvatantrāṇām īśī sarvatantreśī

SIGNIFICANCE All the Tantras teach of Her and are Her word; She is their ruler and their goal.

---

725 दक्षिणामूर्तिरूपिणी dakṣiṇāmūrti-rūpiṇī

She who is in the form of Dakṣiṇāmūrti

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND karmadhāraya with the possessive suffix -in (Pāṇini 5.2.115 ata iniṭhanau). (1) Dakṣiṇāmūrti, the name of Śiva as teacher, is identified with rūpa 'form' (karmadhāraya). (2) The possessive -in: 'She who has the form of Dakṣiṇāmūrti'. Within the proper name, dakṣiṇā is 'southward' (the form faces south), and mūrti 'form'.

ANALYSIS दक्षिणामूर्तिः एव रूपम् दक्षिणामूर्तिरूपम्; तत् अस्याः अस्ति इति दक्षिणामूर्तिरूपिणी dakṣiṇāmūrtiḥ eva rūpam dakṣiṇāmūrtirūpam; tat asyāḥ asti iti dakṣiṇāmūrtirūpiṇī

SIGNIFICANCE Dakṣiṇāmūrti is Śiva as the silent teacher, facing south beneath the banyan tree, who dispels the doubts of the sages by silence; She, inseparable from Śiva, is that teacher.

> UNCERTAIN The sense of dakṣiṇā in the proper name is explained variously ('facing south', 'gracious', 'skilled'); 'facing south' is the usual one.

---

726 सनकादिसमाराध्या sanakādi-samārādhyā

She who is worshipped by Sanaka and the other sages

SANDHI सनकादि = सनक + आदि (sanaka + ādi) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa (over an inner bahuvrīhi). (1) sanaka-ādi 'those of whom Sanaka is the first' (bahuvrīhi): Sanaka, Sanandana, Sanātana and Sanatkumāra. (2) The gerundive samārādhyā 'to be fully worshipped' is the head and takes them in the instrumental of agent.

ANALYSIS सनकः आदिः येषाम् ते सनकादयः; सनकादिभिः समाराध्या सनकादिसमाराध्या sanakaḥ ādiḥ yeṣām te sanakādayaḥ; sanakādibhiḥ samārādhyā sanakādisamārādhyā

SIGNIFICANCE Sanaka and his brothers, the ever-youthful sages, are the disciples of Dakṣiṇāmūrti (name 725); they too worship Her.

---

727 शिवज्ञानप्रदायिनी śiva-jñāna-pradāyinī

She who bestows the knowledge of Śiva

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa (over an inner ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (1) śiva-jñāna 'knowledge of Śiva' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa; also read as a karmadhāraya, 'the auspicious knowledge'). (2) pradāyinī 'bestowing' (agent noun in -in from pra + √dā) is the head and governs that knowledge as its object.

ANALYSIS शिवस्य ज्ञानम् शिवज्ञानम्; शिवज्ञानम् प्रददाति इति शिवज्ञानप्रदायिनी

śivasya jñānam śivajñānam; śivajñānam pradadāti iti śivajñānapradāyinī

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally Śiva is known only through His Śakti, the doorway to Him; She grants the knowledge in which the knower becomes Śiva.

ANALYSIS चितः कला चित्कला; अथवा चित् एव कला चित्कला

citaḥ kalā citkalā; athavā cit eva kalā citkalā

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally the name is read as consciousness present in each being as a ray or digit of the infinite, as the moon's digits are parts of the one moon.

> UNCERTAIN ṣaṣṭhī ('a digit of consciousness') and karmadhāraya ('consciousness as subtle power') readings are both possible.

729 आनन्दकलिका ānanda-kalikā

She who is the bud of bliss

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa. kalikā 'bud' is the head; ānanda 'bliss' stands to it in the genitive: 'the bud of bliss'.

ANALYSIS आनन्दस्य कलिका आनन्दकलिका

ānandasya kalikā ānandakalikā

SIGNIFICANCE As a bud holds the whole flower unopened, She holds bliss that blossoms in the devotee's heart.

730 प्रेमरूपा prema-rūpā

She whose form is love

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi. rūpa 'form' is identified with preman 'love', and the whole points to the Goddess: 'She whose form is love'. preman loses its n in the compound (prema-), a morphological change.

ANALYSIS प्रेम रूपम् यस्याः सा प्रेमरूपा

prema rūpam yasyāḥ sā premarūpā

SIGNIFICANCE Love is not something She has but what She is; pure devotion (prema) toward Her is Her own form reflected in the devotee.

731 प्रियङ्करी priyaṅkarī

She who grants what is dear to Her devotees

SANDHI प्रियङ्करी = प्रियम् + करी (priyam + karī) — the m (an augment, as in vaśaṅkara, name 697) becomes anusvāra before a consonant (Pāṇini 8.3.23 mo 'nusvāraḥ) and then ṅ, the nasal of k's class (8.4.58 anusvārasya yayi parasavarṇaḥ)

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa. -kara 'making, doing' from √kṛ (suffix khac, which brings the augment m after the first member) is the head, with the feminine -ī; priya 'what is dear' is its object.

ANALYSIS प्रियम् करोति इति प्रियङ्करी

priyam karoti iti priyaṅkarī

SIGNIFICANCE She does what is dear to those who love Her — granting their wishes and, above all, the dearest thing, Herself.

732 नामपारायणप्रीता nāma-pārāyaṇa-prītā

She who is pleased by the recitation of Her names

SANDHI पारायण = पार + अयन (pāra + ayana) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ), inside the lexicalised compound pārāyaṇa; the n of ayana becomes retroflex ṇ after the r of pāra (ṇatva)

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa (over an inner ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (1) nāma-pārāyaṇa 'the full recitation of the names' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa; nāman loses its n). (2) The participle prītā 'pleased' is the head and takes that recitation in the instrumental of cause.

ANALYSIS नाम्नाम् पारायणम् नामपारायणम्; नामपारायणेन प्रीता नामपारायणप्रीता

nāmnām pārāyaṇam nāmapārāyaṇam; nāmapārāyaṇena prītā nāmapārāyaṇaprītā

SIGNIFICANCE Recitation of this Thousand Names is itself such a pārāyaṇa; the hymn's closing section (phalaśruti) praises its daily recitation.

733 नन्दिविद्या nandi-vidyā

She who is the Vidyā (mantra) of Nandi

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa. vidyā 'mantra, sacred knowledge' is the head; Nandin (Nandi) stands to it in the genitive: 'the vidyā of Nandi'. nandin loses its n in the compound.

ANALYSIS नन्दिनः विद्या नन्दिविद्या

nandinaḥ vidyā nandividyā

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally the Śrīvidyā mantra has forms associated with its great worshippers; Nandividyā is the form handed down through Nandikeśvara, and She is that mantra.

> UNCERTAIN Which form of the mantra is meant by Nandividyā, and its place among the worshippers' vidyās, could not be confirmed against a printed commentary.

734 नटेश्वरी naṭeśvarī

She who is the consort of Naṭeśvara (Śiva, Lord of the dance)

SANDHI नटेश्वरी = नट + ईश्वरी (naṭa + īśvarī) — guṇa: a + ī → e (Pāṇini 6.1.87 ād guṇaḥ)

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa, with the feminine of relationship. (1) naṭa-īśvara 'the lord of dancers', Śiva as Naṭarāja (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (2) The feminine -ī denotes His wife (Pāṇini

4.1.48 puṃyogād ākhyāyām): 'the consort of the Lord of dancers'. Read directly as naṭānām īśvarī, it is 'the queen of dancers'.

ANALYSIS नटानाम् ईश्वरः नटेश्वरः; नटेश्वरस्य पत्नी नटेश्वरी

naṭānām īśvaraḥ naṭeśvaraḥ; naṭeśvarasya patnī naṭeśvarī

SIGNIFICANCE As Śiva dances the cosmic dance, She is His partner and witness; Her dance is the lāsya of name 738.

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Names 738–740 alliterate on l (lāsyapriyā, layakarī, lajjā).

THE NAMES

735 मिथ्याजगदधिष्ठाना mithyā-jagad-adhiṣṭhānā

She who is the basis of the illusory universe

SANDHI जगदधि = जगत् + अधि (jagat + adhi) — jaśtva: a final t becomes d before a vowel (Pāṇini 8.2.39 jhalāṃ jaśo 'nte); अधिष्ठाना = अधि + स्थाना (adhi + sthānā) — the s of sthā becomes ṣ after the prefix adhi (Pāṇini 8.3.65) and th becomes ṭh next to ṣ (8.4.41 ṣṭunā ṣṭuḥ)

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa (over an inner karmadhāraya), as a feminine epithet. (1) mithyā-jagat 'the unreal world': the indeclinable mithyā 'falsely' qualifies jagat. (2) adhiṣṭhāna 'ground, substratum' is the head, taken in the feminine as an epithet of the Goddess, with the world in the genitive: 'the substratum of the unreal world'.

ANALYSIS मिथ्या जगत् मिथ्याजगत्; मिथ्याजगतः अधिष्ठाना मिथ्याजगदधिष्ठाना

mithyā jagat mithyājagat; mithyājagataḥ adhiṣṭhānā mithyājagadadhiṣṭhānā

SIGNIFICANCE In Advaita the world appears on Brahman as a snake appears on a rope: the appearance is false, the ground is real. She is that ground.

736 मुक्तिदा mukti-dā

She who gives liberation

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa. -dā 'giving' from √dā is the head and mukti 'liberation' its object, as in name 669.

ANALYSIS मुक्तिम् ददाति इति मुक्तिदा

muktim dadāti iti muktidā

SIGNIFICANCE Liberation is Her gift; no effort alone wins it without Her grace.

---

737 मुक्तिरूपिणी mukti-rūpiṇī

She who is in the form of liberation

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND karmadhāraya with the possessive suffix -in (Pāṇini 5.2.115 ata iniṭhanau). (1) mukti 'liberation' is identified with rūpa 'form' (karmadhāraya). (2) The possessive -in: 'She whose form is liberation'.

ANALYSIS मुक्तिः एव रूपम् मुक्तिरूपम्; तत् अस्याः अस्ति इति मुक्तिरूपिणी

muktiḥ eva rūpam muktirūpam; tat asyāḥ asti iti muktirūpiṇī

SIGNIFICANCE She does not only give liberation (736); She is liberation itself — the freedom that is the Self's own nature.

---

738 लास्यप्रिया lāsya-priyā

She who is fond of the lāsya dance

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi. priya 'dear' and lāsya 'graceful dance' form a bahuvrīhi with priya placed second: 'She to whom the lāsya dance is dear'.

ANALYSIS लास्यम् प्रियम् यस्याः सा लास्यप्रिया

lāsyam priyam yasyāḥ sā lāsyapriyā

SIGNIFICANCE Śiva's tāṇḍava and the Goddess's lāsya together are the dance of the universe: vigor and grace, dissolution and creation.

---

739 लयकरी laya-karī

She who causes absorption

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa. -kara 'making' from √kṛ (feminine -ī) is the head and laya 'dissolution, absorption' its object, as in name 682.

ANALYSIS लयम् करोति इति लयकरी

layam karoti iti layakarī

SIGNIFICANCE She brings about the dissolution of the worlds at the end of an age, and in the yogin the absorption of the mind (laya) into its source.

---

740 लज्जा lajjā

She who exists as modesty in living beings

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE 'To the Goddess who abides in all beings in the form of modesty' (yā devī sarvabhūteṣu lajjārūpeṇa saṃsthitā) is one of the salutations of the Devī Māhātmya (ch. 5). The seed-syllable hrīṃ is called the lajjā-bīja.

---

741 रम्भादिवन्दिता rambhādi-vanditā

She who is adored by the celestial damsels such as Rambhā

SANDHI रम्भादि = रम्भा + आदि (rambhā + ādi) — savarṇa-dīrgha: ā + ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa (over an inner bahuvrīhi). (1) rambhā-ādi 'those of whom Rambhā is the first' (bahuvrīhi): the apsarases. (2) The participle vanditā 'saluted, adored' is the head and takes them in the instrumental of agent.

ANALYSIS रम्भा आदिः यासाम् ताः रम्भादयः; रम्भादिभिः वन्दिता रम्भादिवन्दिता

rambhā ādiḥ yāsām tāḥ rambhādayaḥ; rambhādibhiḥ vanditā rambhādivanditā

SIGNIFICANCE The apsarases, famed for their beauty, bow to Her, whose beauty is the source of all beauty.

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Names 742–749 are a run of eight metaphors (rūpaka): each names an evil as fire, forest, cotton, darkness, ocean, mountain or timber, and Her as what quenches, burns, scatters, dispels or cuts it.

THE NAMES

742 भवदावसुधावृष्टिः bhava-dāva-sudhā-vṛṣṭiḥ

She who is the rain of nectar falling on the forest fire of worldly existence

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND saptamī-tatpuruṣa (over an inner rūpaka-karmadhāraya and ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (1) bhava-dāva 'the forest fire that is worldly existence': a karmadhāraya of identification (rūpaka). (2) sudhā-vṛṣṭi 'a rain of nectar' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (3) The rain is the head, falling on that fire (locative): 'a rain of nectar on the forest fire of worldly existence'. vṛṣṭi keeps its own feminine i-stem.

ANALYSIS भवः एव दावः भवदावः; सुधायाः वृष्टिः सुधावृष्टिः; भवदावे सुधावृष्टिः भवदावसुधावृष्टिः
bhavaḥ eva dāvaḥ bhavadāvaḥ; sudhāyāḥ vṛṣṭiḥ sudhāvṛṣṭiḥ; bhavadāve sudhāvṛṣṭiḥ bhavadāvasudhāvṛṣṭiḥ

SIGNIFICANCE Saṃsāra burns like a forest fire; Her grace falls on it like a shower of nectar, quenching it. This begins a run of eight metaphor names (742–749).

743 पापारण्यदवानला pāpāraṇya-davānalā

She who is the forest fire that consumes the forest of sins

SANDHI पापारण्य = पाप + अरण्य (pāpa + araṇya) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ); दवानला = दव + अनला (dava + analā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa (over an inner rūpaka-karmadhāraya and ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (1) pāpa-araṇya 'the forest that is sin' (rūpaka). (2) dava-anala 'forest fire', literally 'the fire of the forest' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (3) The fire is the head, taken in the feminine as Her epithet, with the forest of sin in the genitive: 'the forest fire to the forest of sins'.

ANALYSIS पापम् एव अरण्यम् पापारण्यम्; दवस्य अनलः दवानलः; पापारण्यस्य दवानला पापारण्यदवानला

pāpam eva araṇyam pāpāraṇyam; davasya analaḥ davānalaḥ; pāpāraṇyasya davānalā pāpāraṇyadavānalā

SIGNIFICANCE As a wildfire leaves nothing of a forest, Her grace burns away the accumulated sins of the devotee.

---

744 दौर्भाग्यतूलवातूला daurbhāgya-tūla-vātūlā

She who is the gale that drives away the cotton wisps of misfortune

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa (over an inner rūpaka-karmadhāraya). (1) daurbhāgya-tūla 'the cotton that is misfortune' (rūpaka). (2) vātūlā 'whirlwind, gale' is the head and takes it in the genitive: 'the gale to the cotton of misfortune'.

ANALYSIS दौर्भाग्यम् एव तूलम् दौर्भाग्यतूलम्; दौर्भाग्यतूलस्य वातूला दौर्भाग्यतूलवातूला daurbhāgyam eva tūlam daurbhāgyatūlam; daurbhāgyatūlasya vātūlā daurbhāgyatūlavātūlā

SIGNIFICANCE Misfortune, however heaped up, is as light as cotton before the wind of Her grace.

---

745 जराध्वान्तरविप्रभा jarādhvānta-ravi-prabhā

She who is the sunlight that dispels the darkness of old age

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa (over an inner rūpaka-karmadhāraya and ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (1) jarā-dhvānta 'the darkness that is old age' (rūpaka). (2) ravi-prabhā 'the light of the sun' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (3) The sunlight is the head and the darkness stands to it in the genitive: 'the sunlight to the darkness of old age'.

ANALYSIS जरा एव ध्वान्तम् जराध्वान्तम्; रवेः प्रभा रविप्रभा; जराध्वान्तस्य रविप्रभा जराध्वान्तरविप्रभा

jarā eva dhvāntam jarādhvāntam; raveḥ prabhā raviprabhā; jarādhvāntasya raviprabhā jarādhvāntaraviprabhā

SIGNIFICANCE Old age and decay vanish before Her as darkness before the sun; traditionally She grants lasting vigor, and the inner youth of the Self that never ages.

निषूदिनी niṣūdinī	slayer, destroyer ni + √sūd 'to destroy' + -in, feminine

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Names 750–753 all begin with mahā-; 753 is mahā + aśanā 'whose eating is great', not mahā + śanā. Names 751 and 755–756 recall the Devī Māhātmya.

THE NAMES

750 महेश्वरी maheśvarī

She who is the great Sovereign (Maheśvarī)

SANDHI महेश्वरी = महा + ईश्वरी (mahā + īśvarī) — guṇa: ā + ī → e (Pāṇini 6.1.87 ād guṇaḥ)

COMPOUND karmadhāraya. mahatī 'great' qualifies īśvarī 'sovereign', the head. The feminine adjective takes its masculine stem (puṃvadbhāva) and mahat becomes mahā- (a morphological replacement); mahā + īśvarī then fuse by guṇa. The name is also the feminine of Maheśvara, 'the consort of the Great Lord'.

ANALYSIS महती ईश्वरी महेश्वरी

mahatī īśvarī maheśvarī

SIGNIFICANCE Maheśvarī is the consort and power of Maheśvara (Śiva), and one of the Mothers; She is the supreme ruler of all.

751 महाकाली mahā-kālī

She who is the great Kālī

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND karmadhāraya. mahatī 'great' qualifies kālī; as in name 750 it appears as mahā- (mahat 'great' becomes mahā- before a co-referential member (Pāṇini 6.3.46 ān mahataḥ samānādhikaraṇajātīyayoḥ)). The members meet without sound change.

ANALYSIS महती काली महाकाली

mahatī kālī mahākālī

SIGNIFICANCE Mahākālī is the fierce form who withdraws all into Herself at the end of time; the Devī Māhātmya invokes Her as the first of its three great forms.

752 महाग्रासा mahā-grāsā

She who is the great devourer, swallowing all at the dissolution

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi. mahat 'great' qualifies grāsa 'mouthful, devouring', and the whole points to the Goddess: 'She whose devouring is great'. mahat appears as mahā- before a co-referential member (Pāṇini 6.3.46).

ANALYSIS महान् ग्रासः यस्याः सा महाग्रासा

mahān grāsaḥ yasyāḥ sā mahāgrāsā

SIGNIFICANCE At the end of an age the whole universe is a single mouthful for Her.

753 महाशना mahāśanā

She whose eating is great, who consumes all that is

SANDHI महाशना = महा + अशना (mahā + aśanā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: ā + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi. mahat 'great' qualifies aśana 'eating, food', and the whole points to the Goddess: 'She whose eating is great', i.e. who consumes the universe. mahat becomes mahā- (Pāṇini 6.3.46), and mahā + aśana fuse by savarṇa-dīrgha.

ANALYSIS महत् अशनम् यस्याः सा महाशना

mahat aśanam yasyāḥ sā mahāśanā

SIGNIFICANCE The Kaṭha Upaniṣad (1.2.25) speaks of the One for whom the priest and the warrior are food and death only the sauce; She takes back the whole creation into Herself.

754 अपर्णा aparṇā

She who owes no debt

SANDHI अपर्णा = अप + ऋणा (apa + ṛṇā) — guṇa: a + ṛ → ar (Pāṇini 6.1.87 ād guṇaḥ), on the reading apa + ṛṇa 'free of debt'; on the reading a + parṇa there is no sandhi

COMPOUND prādi-bahuvrīhi (alternatively nañ-bahuvrīhi). Two analyses give the same word. (1) apa 'away' stands for apagata 'gone', with ṛṇa 'debt': 'She whose debt is gone', who owes nothing and frees others from their debts. (2) a- 'not' with parṇa 'leaf': 'She who had not even a leaf (to eat)', Pārvatī in Her penance for Śiva.

ANALYSIS अपगतम् ऋणम् यस्याः सा अपर्णा; अथवा न पर्णम् (भक्ष्यम्) यस्याः सा अपर्णा

apagatam ṛṇam yasyāḥ sā aparṇā; athavā na parṇam (bhakṣyam) yasyāḥ sā aparṇā

SIGNIFICANCE She owes nothing to anyone and releases Her devotees from their debts, the three debts to gods, sages and ancestors among them. Aparṇā is also Pārvatī, who in Her penance gave up even fallen leaves as food (Kālidāsa, Kumārasambhava 5.28).

> UNCERTAIN The name has two analyses: apa + ṛṇa 'free of debt' (the meaning given) and a + parṇa 'without (even) a leaf', the classical name of Pārvatī.

755 चण्डिका caṇḍikā

She who is Caṇḍikā, fierce against the wicked

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE Caṇḍikā is the Goddess of the Devī Māhātmya (Caṇḍī), whose fierceness is turned against the demons for the protection of the worlds.

756 चण्डमुण्डासुरनिषूदिनी caṇḍa-muṇḍāsura-niṣūdinī

She who slew the demons Caṇḍa and Muṇḍa

SANDHI मुण्डासुर = मुण्ड + असुर (muṇḍa + asura) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ); निषूदिनी = नि + सूदिनी (ni + sūdinī) — the s of √sūd becomes retroflex ṣ after the i of the prefix ni (ṣatva)

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa (over an inner karmadhāraya and dvandva). (1) caṇḍa-muṇḍa 'Caṇḍa and Muṇḍa' (itaretara-dvandva). (2) caṇḍamuṇḍa-asura 'the demons Caṇḍa and Muṇḍa' (karmadhāraya, the names in apposition to asura). (3) niṣūdinī 'slayer' (agent noun in -in from ni + √sūd) is the head and takes the pair in the genitive.

ANALYSIS चण्डः च मुण्डः च चण्डमुण्डौ; चण्डमुण्डौ असुरौ चण्डमुण्डासुरौ; चण्डमुण्डासुरयोः निषूदिनी चण्डमुण्डासुरनिषूदिनी

caṇḍaḥ ca muṇḍaḥ ca caṇḍamuṇḍau; caṇḍamuṇḍau asurau caṇḍamuṇḍāsurau; caṇḍamuṇḍāsurayoḥ niṣūdinī caṇḍamuṇḍāsuraniṣūdinī

SIGNIFICANCE In the Devī Māhātmya (ch. 7) Kālī, springing from the Goddess's brow, slays Caṇḍa and Muṇḍa, and is then named Cāmuṇḍā.

763 त्रिगुणात्मिका tri-guṇātmikā
त्रि tri	three
गुण guṇa	guṇa, a quality of nature: sattva, rajas, tamas
आत्मिका ātmikā	having as nature ātman + -ka, feminine -ikā

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

tryambakā (762) is tri + ambaka 'three-eyed', not tri + ambā.

THE NAMES

757 क्षराक्षरात्मिका kṣarākṣarātmikā

She whose nature is both the perishable and the imperishable

SANDHI क्षराक्षर = क्षर + अक्षर (kṣara + akṣara) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ); अक्षरात्मिका = अक्षर + आत्मिका (akṣara + ātmikā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (over an inner dvandva and nañ-tatpuruṣa). (1) a-kṣara 'imperishable' (nañ-tatpuruṣa). (2) kṣara-akṣara 'the perishable and the imperishable' (dvandva). (3) Both are identified with ātman 'self, nature', and the whole points to the Goddess: 'She whose self is both'. ātman with the suffix -ka in a bahuvrīhi gives -ātmikā.

ANALYSIS न क्षरः अक्षरः; क्षरः च अक्षरः च क्षराक्षरौ; क्षराक्षरौ आत्मा यस्याः सा क्षराक्षरात्मिका na kṣaraḥ akṣaraḥ; kṣaraḥ ca akṣaraḥ ca kṣarākṣarau; kṣarākṣarau ātmā yasyāḥ sā kṣarākṣarātmikā

SIGNIFICANCE The Bhagavad Gītā (15.16) names two puruṣas, the perishable (all beings) and the imperishable (the unchanging); She is both. Akṣara also means 'letter', so She is the perishable spoken sound and the imperishable syllable.

---

758 सर्वलोकेशी sarva-lokeśī

She who is the ruler of all worlds

SANDHI लोकेशी = लोक + ईशी (loka + īśī) — guṇa: a + ī → e (Pāṇini 6.1.87 ād guṇaḥ)

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa (over an inner karmadhāraya). (1) sarva-loka 'all the worlds' (karmadhāraya). (2) īśī 'sovereign' is the head and takes them in the genitive.

ANALYSIS सर्वे लोकाः सर्वलोकाः; सर्वलोकानाम् ईशी सर्वलोकेशी

sarve lokāḥ sarvalokāḥ; sarvalokānām īśī sarvalokeśī

SIGNIFICANCE Every world, from the highest heaven to the lowest, is under Her rule.

---

759 विश्वधारिणी viśva-dhāriṇī

She who supports the universe

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa. dhāriṇī 'bearing, supporting' (agent noun in -in from the causative of √dhṛ, feminine) is the head and governs viśva 'the universe' as its object.

ANALYSIS विश्वम् धारयति इति विश्वधारिणी

viśvam dhārayati iti viśvadhāriṇī

SIGNIFICANCE She holds up the universe as its ground and sustains it at every moment.

---

760 त्रिवर्गदात्री tri-varga-dātrī

She who bestows the three goals of life

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa (over an inner dvigu). (1) tri-varga 'the group of three' (a numeral compound, dvigu): dharma, artha and kāma. (2) dātrī 'giver' is the head and takes the triad in the genitive.

ANALYSIS त्रयाणाम् वर्गः त्रिवर्गः; त्रिवर्गस्य दात्री त्रिवर्गदात्री

trayāṇām vargaḥ trivargaḥ; trivargasya dātrī trivargadātrī

SIGNIFICANCE The trivarga is right living (dharma), wealth (artha) and fulfilment of desire (kāma); with liberation (apavarga, name 764) they make the four aims of life.

761 सुभगा subhagā

She who is supremely fortunate and lovely, the seat of all prosperity

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND prādi-bahuvrīhi. su 'well, good' qualifies bhaga 'fortune, excellence, loveliness', and the whole points to the Goddess: 'She whose fortune is excellent'. The members meet without sound change.

ANALYSIS शोभनः भगः यस्याः सा सुभगा

śobhanaḥ bhagaḥ yasyāḥ sā subhagā

SIGNIFICANCE Bhaga traditionally names the six excellences — sovereignty, strength, fame, prosperity, knowledge and dispassion — and She has them all; Subhagā is also a name of the beloved wife. Her worship is called saubhāgya.

762 त्र्यम्बका tryambakā

She who has three eyes

SANDHI त्र्यम्बका = त्रि + अम्बका (tri + ambakā) — yaṇ: i becomes y before a dissimilar vowel (Pāṇini 6.1.77 iko yaṇ aci)

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi. tri 'three' qualifies ambaka 'eye', and the whole points to the Goddess: 'She who has three eyes'.

ANALYSIS त्रीणि अम्बकानि यस्याः सा त्र्यम्बका

trīṇi ambakāni yasyāḥ sā tryambakā

SIGNIFICANCE Her three eyes are traditionally the sun, the moon and fire; Tryambaka is also Śiva, and She is His consort.

763 त्रिगुणात्मिका tri-guṇātmikā

She whose nature is the three guṇas

SANDHI गुणात्मिका = गुण + आत्मिका (guṇa + ātmikā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (over an inner dvigu). (1) tri-guṇa 'the three guṇas' (numeral karmadhāraya, dvigu). (2) They are identified with ātman 'nature', and the whole points to the Goddess: 'She whose nature is the three guṇas'. ātman with -ka gives -ātmikā.

ANALYSIS त्रयः गुणाः त्रिगुणाः; त्रिगुणाः आत्मा यस्याः सा त्रिगुणात्मिका

trayaḥ guṇāḥ triguṇāḥ; triguṇāḥ ātmā yasyāḥ sā triguṇātmikā

SIGNIFICANCE As Prakṛti She is made of sattva, rajas and tamas, appearing as the three goddesses and the three functions; name 789 says that She is also beyond them.

THE NAMES

764 स्वर्गापवर्गदा svargāpavarga-dā

She who bestows heaven and liberation

SANDHI स्वर्गापवर्ग = स्वर्ग + अपवर्ग (svarga + apavarga) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa (over an inner dvandva). (1) svarga-apavarga 'heaven and liberation' (itaretara-dvandva). (2) -dā 'giving' from √dā is the head and governs the pair as its object.

ANALYSIS स्वर्गः च अपवर्गः च स्वर्गापवर्गौ; स्वर्गापवर्गौ ददाति इति स्वर्गापवर्गदा svargaḥ ca apavargaḥ ca svargāpavargau; svargāpavargau dadāti iti svargāpavargadā

SIGNIFICANCE She gives both enjoyment (bhukti) and release (mukti): heaven to those who seek it and liberation to those who seek that.

765 शुद्धा śuddhā

She who is pure

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE No impurity of ignorance or its effects touches Her; She purifies all who approach Her.

---

766 जपापुष्पनिभाकृतिः japā-puṣpa-nibhākṛtiḥ

She whose form is red like the hibiscus flower

SANDHI निभाकृतिः = निभ + आकृतिः (nibha + ākṛtiḥ) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (over an inner tṛtīyā- and ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (1) japā-puṣpa 'the hibiscus flower' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (2) ...-nibha 'resembling' takes the flower as its standard (tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa). (3) This qualifies ākṛti 'form, figure', and the whole points to the Goddess: 'She whose form resembles the hibiscus flower'. Inside the compound nibhā takes its masculine stem nibha (puṃvadbhāva); ākṛti keeps its own feminine i-stem.

ANALYSIS जपायाः पुष्पम् जपापुष्पम्; जपापुष्पेण निभा जपापुष्पनिभा; जपापुष्पनिभा आकृतिः यस्याः सा जपापुष्पनिभाकृतिः

japāyāḥ puṣpam japāpuṣpam; japāpuṣpeṇa nibhā japāpuṣpanibhā; japāpuṣpanibhā ākṛtiḥ yasyāḥ sā japāpuṣpanibhākṛtiḥ

SIGNIFICANCE The meditation verses describe Her as red (aruṇā) like vermilion and the rising sun; the red of compassion and of the creative power.

---

767 ओजोवती ojovatī

She who is full of vitality

SANDHI ओजोवती = ओजस् + वती (ojas + vatī) — -as becomes -o before a voiced consonant: s → r(u) → u, which combines with a to o (Pāṇini 6.1.114 haśi ca)

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE Ojas is the essence of vigor and splendor; She possesses it fully and imparts it to Her devotees.

---

768 द्युतिधरा dyuti-dharā

She who bears radiance, full of light and splendor

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa. -dhara 'bearing, holding' from √dhṛ (feminine -ā) is the head and governs dyuti 'radiance' as its object.

महती mahatī	great feminine of mahat; also the name of Nārada's vīṇā
775 मेरुनिलया meru-nilayā
मेरु meru	Meru, the golden mountain at the center of the world
निलया nilayā	abode, dwelling nilaya, from ni + √lī 'to settle', with the feminine -ā of the bahuvrīhi
776 मन्दारकुसुमप्रिया mandāra-kusuma-priyā
मन्दार mandāra	the mandāra tree, one of the five trees of heaven (coral tree)

SANSKRIT	ENGLISH
कुसुम kusuma	flower
प्रिया priyā	dear; fond of priya, with the feminine -ā

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

durārādhyā (771) answers sukhārādhyā (681): easy to worship for the devoted, hard for the undisciplined.

THE NAMES

771 दुराराध्या dur-ārādhyā

She who is difficult to worship

SANDHI दुराराध्या = दुस् + आराध्या (dus + ārādhyā) — the final s of dus becomes r before a vowel (Pāṇini 8.2.66 sasajuṣo ruḥ)

COMPOUND prādi-tatpuruṣa. The gerundive ārādhyā 'to be worshipped' is the head; the prefix dus 'with difficulty' qualifies it: 'to be worshipped only with difficulty'.

ANALYSIS दुःखेन आराध्या दुराराध्या

duḥkhena ārādhyā durārādhyā

SIGNIFICANCE The counterpart of name 681 (sukhārādhyā): easy for those who love Her, She is hard to reach for those whose senses and mind are unrestrained.

772 दुराधर्षा dur-ādharṣā

She who cannot be assailed or overpowered

SANDHI दुराधर्षा = दुस् + आधर्षा (dus + ādharṣā) — the final s of dus becomes r before a vowel (Pāṇini 8.2.66 sasajuṣo ruḥ)

COMPOUND prādi-tatpuruṣa (with a khal formation). ādharṣa 'being assailed' is formed from ā + √dhṛṣ with the suffix khal, which is used after dus, su and īṣat in the sense 'hard / easy to be done' (Pāṇini 3.3.126 īṣadduḥsuṣu kṛcchrākṛcchrārtheṣu khal); dus is fused with it: 'hard to assail'.

ANALYSIS दुःखेन आधर्ष्यते इति दुराधर्षा

duḥkhena ādharṣyate iti durādharṣā

SIGNIFICANCE No power can attack or overcome Her, and none can overcome those She protects.

---

773 पाटलीकुसुमप्रिया pāṭalī-kusuma-priyā

She who is fond of the pāṭalī flower (the pale red trumpet flower)

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (over an inner ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (1) pāṭalī-kusuma 'the flower of the pāṭalī tree' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (2) A bahuvrīhi with priya 'dear' placed second: 'She to whom the pāṭalī flower is dear'.

ANALYSIS पाटल्याः कुसुमम् पाटलीकुसुमम्; पाटलीकुसुमम् प्रियम् यस्याः सा पाटलीकुसुमप्रिया

pāṭalyāḥ kusumam pāṭalīkusumam; pāṭalīkusumam priyam yasyāḥ sā pāṭalīkusumapriyā

SIGNIFICANCE The fragrant pāṭalī blossom is among the flowers offered in Her worship.

---

774 महती mahatī

She who is great (Mahatī)

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE She is great beyond measure. Mahatī is also the name of the sage Nārada's vīṇā, so the name is read as Her presence in that instrument and in music.

---

775 मेरुनिलया meru-nilayā

She whose abode is Mount Meru

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi. nilaya 'abode' is identified with Meru, and the whole points to the Goddess: 'She whose abode is Meru'.

ANALYSIS मेरुः निलयः यस्याः सा मेरुनिलया

meruḥ nilayaḥ yasyāḥ sā merunilayā

SIGNIFICANCE Her city stands on the central peak of Meru (compare name 55, sumerumadhyaśṛṅgasthā); inwardly Meru is the spinal axis, and the three-dimensional Śrīcakra is called Meru.

776 मन्दारकुसुमप्रिया mandāra-kusuma-priyā

She who is fond of the mandāra flowers

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (over an inner ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). As in name 773: mandāra-kusuma 'the flower of the mandāra tree' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa), then a bahuvrīhi with priya placed second.

ANALYSIS मन्दारस्य कुसुमम् मन्दारकुसुमम्; मन्दारकुसुमम् प्रियम् यस्याः सा मन्दारकुसुमप्रिया

mandārasya kusumam mandārakusumam; mandārakusumam priyam yasyāḥ sā mandārakusumapriyā

SIGNIFICANCE Mandāra is one of the five wish-fulfilling trees of Indra's heaven; its flowers please Her.

781 प्रत्यग्रूपा pratyag-rūpā
प्रत्यञ्च् pratyañc	turned inward, inner; the inner Self prati + √añc 'to turn'; pratyak at the end of a member
रूपा rūpā	having the form rūpa, with the feminine -ā of the bahuvrīhi
782 पराकाशा parākāśā
पर para	supreme, highest
आकाशा ākāśā	space, ether ākāśa, with the feminine -ā of the bahuvrīhi

SANSKRIT	ENGLISH
783 प्राणदा prāṇa-dā
प्राण prāṇa	life-breath, life pra + √an 'to breathe'
दा dā	giving, giver √dā + -a, feminine
784 प्राणरूपिणी prāṇa-rūpiṇī
प्राण prāṇa	life-breath, the vital force
रूपिणी rūpiṇī	having the form rūpa + -in, feminine

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Spelling traps: virāḍrūpā has ḍ for the j of virāj, pratyagrūpā g for the k of pratyak; parākāśā is para + ākāśa 'space', not parā + kāśā.

THE NAMES

777 वीराराध्या vīrārādhyā

She who is worshipped by heroic persons

SANDHI वीराराध्या = वीर + आराध्या (vīra + ārādhyā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa. The gerundive ārādhyā is the head; vīra 'hero' stands to it in the instrumental of agent.

ANALYSIS वीरैः आराध्या वीराराध्या

vīraiḥ ārādhyā vīrārādhyā

SIGNIFICANCE In the Tantras the vīra is the practitioner of the heroic disposition, between the paśu and the divya; traditionally also the one who has conquered the inner enemies.

778 विराड्रूपा virāḍ-rūpā

She whose form is Virāj, the cosmic whole

SANDHI विराड्रूपा = विराज् + रूपा (virāj + rūpā) — the final j of virāj becomes ṣ at the end of a member (Pāṇini 8.2.36, which names rāj) and then the voiced ḍ before r (jaśtva, 8.2.39)

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi. rūpa 'form' is identified with Virāj, the cosmic body, and the whole points to the Goddess: 'She whose form is Virāj'.

ANALYSIS विराट् रूपम् यस्याः सा विराड्रूपा

virāṭ rūpam yasyāḥ sā virāḍrūpā

SIGNIFICANCE In Vedānta Virāj is the Lord as the gross universe taken as one body; all that is seen is Her form.

---

779 विरजा virajā

She who is without rajas (desire and anger)

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND prādi-bahuvrīhi. vi 'away' stands for vigata 'gone', with rajas 'passion; dust': 'She from whom rajas has gone'. rajas is treated as an a-stem (raja) and takes the feminine -ā.

ANALYSIS विगतम् रजः यस्याः सा विरजा

vigatam rajaḥ yasyāḥ sā virajā

SIGNIFICANCE Desire and anger are born of rajas (Bhagavad Gītā 3.37); She is untouched by them and by all impurity. Virajā is also the name of a sacred river and a goddess of a famous shrine.

---

780 विश्वतोमुखी viśvato-mukhī

She who faces all directions

SANDHI विश्वतोमुखी = विश्वतस् + मुखी (viśvatas + mukhī) — -as becomes -o before a voiced consonant (Pāṇini 6.1.114 haśi ca)

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi. The adverb viśvatas 'on all sides' qualifies mukha 'face', and the whole points to the Goddess: 'She whose faces are on every side'. A bahuvrīhi ending in a word for a body part forms its feminine in -ī.

ANALYSIS विश्वतः मुखानि यस्याः सा विश्वतोमुखी

viśvataḥ mukhāni yasyāḥ sā viśvatomukhī

SIGNIFICANCE The Śvetāśvatara Upaniṣad (3.3) praises the One whose eyes and faces are everywhere (viśvataś cakṣur uta viśvatomukhaḥ); She sees and is present in every direction.

781 प्रत्यग्रूपा pratyag-rūpā

She who is the indwelling Self

SANDHI प्रत्यग्रूपा = प्रत्यक् + रूपा (pratyak + rūpā) — jaśtva: a final k becomes g before a voiced sound (Pāṇini 8.2.39 jhalāṃ jaśo 'nte)

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi. pratyak 'turned inward' qualifies rūpa 'form', and the whole points to the Goddess: 'She whose form is inward', the inner Self. The stem pratyañc 'inward' appears as pratyak at the end of a member.

ANALYSIS प्रत्यक् रूपम् यस्याः सा प्रत्यग्रूपा

pratyak rūpam yasyāḥ sā pratyagrūpā

SIGNIFICANCE 'A wise one, seeking immortality, turned the eye inward and saw the inner Self (pratyagātman)' (Kaṭha Upaniṣad 2.1.1). She is that inner Self, found by turning within.

782 पराकाशा parākāśā

She who is the supreme space (ākāśa)

SANDHI पराकाशा = पर + आकाशा (para + ākāśā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (over an inner karmadhāraya). (1) para-ākāśa 'the supreme space' (karmadhāraya). (2) As a bahuvrīhi with the feminine -ā: 'She whose own nature is the supreme space'. ākāśa is masculine or neuter, so the -ā shows the name is an epithet; para then appears in its masculine stem.

ANALYSIS परम् आकाशम् पराकाशम्; पराकाशम् स्वरूपम् यस्याः सा पराकाशा

param ākāśam parākāśam; parākāśam svarūpam yasyāḥ sā parākāśā

SIGNIFICANCE In the Chāndogya Upaniṣad (1.9.1) all beings arise from space (ākāśa) and return into it, and the Brahma Sūtra (1.1.22) reads that ākāśa as Brahman. She is that supreme space of consciousness, the material cause of cosmic and individual bodies.

783 प्राणदा prāṇa-dā

She who is the giver of life

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa. -dā 'giving' from √dā is the head and prāṇa 'life-breath' its object.

ANALYSIS प्राणान् ददाति इति प्राणदा

prāṇān dadāti iti prāṇadā

SIGNIFICANCE Every breath of every creature is Her gift; She also gives the sensory powers, which the Upaniṣads call prāṇas.

---

784 प्राणरूपिणी prāṇa-rūpiṇī

She whose form is prāṇa, the breath of life

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND karmadhāraya with the possessive suffix -in (Pāṇini 5.2.115 ata iniṭhanau). (1) prāṇa 'life-breath' is identified with rūpa 'form' (karmadhāraya). (2) The possessive -in: 'She whose form is prāṇa'.

ANALYSIS प्राणः एव रूपम् प्राणरूपम्; तत् अस्याः अस्ति इति प्राणरूपिणी

prāṇaḥ eva rūpam prāṇarūpam; tat asyāḥ asti iti prāṇarūpiṇī

SIGNIFICANCE After giving life (783) She is life itself; the Brahma Sūtra (1.1.28) shows that the prāṇa praised in the Upaniṣads is Brahman.

TRANSLATION

785 She who is worshipped by Mārtāṇḍa Bhairava; 786 She who has entrusted the burden of Her kingdom to Her minister, Mantriṇī;

787 She who is the sovereign of Tripura (the three cities); 788 She whose army is ever victorious; 789 She who is beyond the three guṇas; 790 She who is both the supreme (parā) and the non-supreme (aparā).

WORD BY WORD

SANSKRIT	ENGLISH
785 मार्ताण्डभैरवाराध्या mārtāṇḍa-bhairavārādhyā
मार्ताण्ड mārtāṇḍa	the Sun
भैरव bhairava	Bhairava, a fierce form of Śiva

SANSKRIT	ENGLISH
आराध्या ārādhyā	to be worshipped ā + √rādh, gerundive, feminine

786 मन्त्रिणीन्यस्तराज्यधूः mantriṇī-nyasta-rājya-dhūḥ

मन्त्रिणी mantriṇī	the woman minister; Mantriṇī (Śyāmalā), Her chief counselor
न्यस्त nyasta	placed, entrusted ni + √as 'to throw, put', past participle
राज्य rājya	kingdom, rule
धूः dhūḥ	yoke, burden, responsibility nominative of dhur; the vowel is lengthened before the final r (Pāṇini 8.2.76 rvor upadhāyā dīrgha ikaḥ)

787 त्रिपुरेशी tripureśī

त्रि tri	three
पुर pura	city, stronghold; body
ईशी īśī	sovereign, mistress feminine of īśa

788 जयत्सेना jayat-senā

जयत् jayat	conquering, victorious √ji 'to conquer', present participle
सेना senā	army

SANSKRIT	ENGLISH
789 निस्त्रैगुण्या nis-traiguṇyā
निस् nis	without, beyond prefix
त्रैगुण्या traiguṇyā	the triad of guṇas traiguṇya, abstract noun from triguṇa with vṛddhi, with the feminine -ā of the bahuvrīhi
790 परापरा parāparā
पर para	supreme, higher, transcendent
अपरा aparā	not supreme, lower, immanent a- 'not' + parā

jayatsenā (788) is jayat + senā, not jaya + tsenā; mantriṇīnyastarājyadhūḥ (786) ends in dhūḥ, the nominative of dhur 'burden'.

THE NAMES

785 मार्ताण्डभैरवाराध्या mārtāṇḍa-bhairavārādhyā

She who is worshipped by Mārtāṇḍa Bhairava

SANDHI भैरवाराध्या = भैरव + आराध्या (bhairava + ārādhyā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa (over an inner karmadhāraya). (1) mārtāṇḍa-bhairava 'Bhairava who is the Sun' (karmadhāraya of apposition). (2) The gerundive ārādhyā is the head and takes him in the instrumental of agent.

ANALYSIS मार्ताण्डः च असौ भैरवः च मार्ताण्डभैरवः; मार्ताण्डभैरवेण आराध्या मार्ताण्डभैरवाराध्या

mārtāṇḍaḥ ca asau bhairavaḥ ca mārtāṇḍabhairavaḥ; mārtāṇḍabhairaveṇa ārādhyā mārtāṇḍabhairavārādhyā

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally Mārtāṇḍa Bhairava, Śiva in the form of the Sun, dwells with his consort in one of the enclosures of Her city and worships Her there.

UNCERTAIN The place of Mārtāṇḍa Bhairava in Her city follows the usual account; the exact enclosure could not be confirmed against a printed text.

786 मन्त्रिणीन्यस्तराज्यधूः mantriṇī-nyasta-rājya-dhūḥ

She who has entrusted the burden of Her kingdom to Her minister, Mantriṇī

SANDHI न्यस्त = नि + अस्त (ni + asta) — yaṇ: i becomes y before a dissimilar vowel (Pāṇini 6.1.77 iko yaṇ aci)

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (over inner ṣaṣṭhī- and saptamī-tatpuruṣas). (1) rājya-dhur 'the yoke of the kingdom' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (2) mantriṇī-nyasta 'placed on the Mantriṇī' (saptamī-tatpuruṣa with the participle; mantriṇī keeps its ī because this is not a karmadhāraya). (3) The whole is a bahuvrīhi with the instrumental yayā: 'She by whom the burden of the kingdom has been placed on the Mantriṇī'. The participle stands first, as is usual in a bahuvrīhi.

ANALYSIS राज्यस्य धूः राज्यधूः; मन्त्रिण्याम् न्यस्ता मन्त्रिणीन्यस्ता; मन्त्रिणीन्यस्ता राज्यधूः यया सा मन्त्रिणीन्यस्तराज्यधूः

rājyasya dhūḥ rājyadhūḥ; mantriṇyām nyastā mantriṇīnyastā; mantriṇīnyastā rājyadhūḥ yayā sā mantriṇīnyastarājyadhūḥ

SIGNIFICANCE In the Lalitopākhyāna Mantriṇī (Śyāmalā, Rājaśyāmalā) is Her prime minister and Daṇḍanāthā (Vārāhī) Her commander; the Empress rules through them. Inwardly, the counsel of the mantra governs the devotee's life.

UNCERTAIN Pāṇini 5.4.74 adds the compound-final -a to a compound ending in dhur (...-dhura); the name keeps the bare dhūḥ, a usage also found in epic and Purāṇic Sanskrit. Noted, not a text concern: the verse and the metre support dhūḥ.

787 त्रिपुरेशी tripureśī

She who is the sovereign of Tripura (the three cities)

SANDHI त्रिपुरेशी = त्रिपुर + ईशी (tripura + īśī) — guṇa: a + ī → e (Pāṇini 6.1.87 ād guṇaḥ)

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa (over an inner dvigu). (1) tri-pura 'the three cities' taken as one whole (samāhāra-dvigu). (2) īśī 'sovereign' is the head and takes it in the genitive.

ANALYSIS त्रयाणाम् पुराणाम् समाहारः त्रिपुरम्; त्रिपुरस्य ईशी त्रिपुरेशी

trayāṇām purāṇām samāhāraḥ tripuram; tripurasya īśī tripureśī

SIGNIFICANCE The three cities are read as every triad — the three bodies, the three states of waking, dream and sleep, the three worlds. In Śrīcakra worship Tripureśī is the presiding goddess of one of the enclosures.

788 जयत्सेना jayat-senā

She whose army is ever victorious

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi. The present participle jayat 'conquering' qualifies senā 'army', and the whole points to the Goddess: 'She whose army is conquering'. The feminine jayantī takes its masculine stem jayat inside the bahuvrīhi (puṃvadbhāva); t and s meet with no change.

ANALYSIS जयन्ती सेना यस्याः सा जयत्सेना

jayantī senā yasyāḥ sā jayatsenā

SIGNIFICANCE Her hosts of śaktis never know defeat; in the Lalitopākhyāna they overthrow Bhaṇḍāsura's armies.

---

789 निस्त्रैगुण्या nis-traiguṇyā

She who is beyond the three guṇas

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND prādi-bahuvrīhi. nis 'out, away' stands for nirgata 'gone', and the whole points to the Goddess: 'She from whom the three guṇas have gone'. The s of nis stays s before the voiceless t.

ANALYSIS निर्गतम् त्रैगुण्यम् यस्याः सा निस्त्रैगुण्या

nirgatam traiguṇyam yasyāḥ sā nistraiguṇyā

SIGNIFICANCE 'The Vedas deal with the three guṇas; be free of the three guṇas (nistraiguṇya), Arjuna' (Bhagavad Gītā 2.45). As Prakṛti She is made of the guṇas (763); as pure consciousness She is beyond them.

---

790 परापरा parāparā

She who is both the supreme (parā) and the non-supreme (aparā)

SANDHI परापरा = पर + अपरा (para + aparā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND karmadhāraya (of two co-referential adjectives). parā 'supreme' and aparā 'not supreme' both describe the one Goddess: 'She who is both the higher and the lower'.

Inside the compound parā takes its masculine stem para (puṃvadbhāva), which fuses with aparā by savarṇa-dīrgha.

ANALYSIS परा च असौ अपरा च परापरा

parā ca asau aparā ca parāparā

SIGNIFICANCE The Muṇḍaka Upaniṣad (1.1.4) speaks of two knowledges, the higher (parā) and the lower (aparā); She is both, the transcendent and the manifest. In the Tantras Parāparā is also the middle of three levels (parā, parāparā, aparā).

> UNCERTAIN Read as 'both supreme and non-supreme' (karmadhāraya) or as 'the intermediate, Parāparā' (the middle of the Tantric triad).

TRANSLATION

[791] She who is truth, knowledge and bliss; [792] She who is wholly intent on sāmarasya, the perfect equipoise of Śiva and Śakti;

[793] She who is the consort of Kapardin, Śiva of the matted locks; [794] She who wears the arts as a garland; [795] She who fulfills all desires; [796] She who assumes any form at will.

WORD BY WORD

SANSKRIT	ENGLISH
791 सत्यज्ञानानन्दरूपा satya-jñānānanda-rūpā
सत्य satya	truth, the real from sat 'being' + -ya
ज्ञान jñāna	knowledge, consciousness √jñā 'to know' + -ana

आनन्द ānanda	bliss
रूपा rūpā	having the form of rūpa 'form', with the feminine -ā of the bahuvrīhi

792 सामरस्यपरायणा sāmarasya-parāyaṇā

सामरस्य sāmarasya	oneness of flavor, perfect equipoise abstract noun from samarasa 'of the same flavor' (sama + rasa), with vṛddhi of the first vowel
पर para	highest, supreme
अयना ayanā	resort, goal (lit. 'going') ayana from √i 'to go'; feminine -ā of the bahuvrīhi; ayana → -āyaṇa in the compound

793 कपर्दिनी kapardinī

कपर्दिनी kapardinī	consort of Kapardin; also, wearing braided locks kaparda 'braided, matted hair' + the possessive suffix -in gives kapardin, an epithet of Śiva; feminine -ī

794 कलामाला kalā-mālā

कला kalā	art, skill; also a digit of the moon, a portion of power
माला mālā	garland, string, series

795 कामधुक् kāma-dhuk

काम kāma	desire, wish

SANSKRIT	ENGLISH
धुक् dhuk	milking out, yielding √duh + zero suffix; at the word's end h becomes gh and then k, and the initial d is aspirated to dh because the aspiration of h is lost (nominative duh → dhuk)

796 कामरूपिणी kāma-rūpiṇī

काम kāma	will, wish; also Kāma (Kāmeśvara, the god of love)
रूपिणी rūpiṇī	having the form of rūpa 'form' + the possessive suffix -in (ṇ by ṇatva after r), feminine -ī

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Name 791 gives the Vedāntic definition sat-cit-ānanda; 792 sāmarasya is the technical term for the 'one flavor' of Śiva and Śakti.

THE NAMES

791 सत्यज्ञानानन्दरूपा satya-jñānānanda-rūpā

She who is truth, knowledge and bliss

SANDHI ज्ञानानन्द = ज्ञान + आनन्द (jñāna + ānanda) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (over an inner dvandva). (1) satya-jñāna-ānanda 'truth, knowledge and bliss' is a dvandva of three equal members. (2) The whole is a bahuvrīhi describing Her: 'She whose form (rūpa) is truth, knowledge and bliss'; rūpa takes the feminine -ā to agree with Her. The three are not three qualities She possesses but Her very nature, which is why rūpa is used.

ANALYSIS सत्यम् च ज्ञानम् च आनन्दः च सत्यज्ञानानन्दाः; सत्यज्ञानानन्दाः रूपम् यस्याः सा सत्यज्ञानानन्दरूपा
satyam ca jñānam ca ānandaḥ ca satyajñānānandāḥ; satyajñānānandāḥ rūpam yasyāḥ sā satyajñānānandarūpā

SIGNIFICANCE The Taittirīya Upaniṣad defines Brahman as satyaṃ jñānam anantam and teaches that bliss (ānanda) is Brahman; the name gives the Goddess the Vedāntic svarūpa-lakṣaṇa, sat-cit-ānanda.

792 सामरस्यपरायणा sāmarasya-parāyaṇā

She who is wholly intent on sāmarasya, the perfect equipoise of Śiva and Śakti

SANDHI परायणा = पर + अयना (para + ayanā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ), inside the lexicalised compound parāyaṇa; the n of ayana then becomes ṇ after the r (ṇatva)

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (over the lexicalised karmadhāraya parāyaṇa). (1) para-ayana 'the highest resort, final goal' (karmadhāraya; as a lexical word, 'wholly devoted to'). (2) The whole is a bahuvrīhi: 'She whose highest resort is sāmarasya', i.e. who is wholly intent on it. Sāmarasya, 'the state of having one flavor', is an abstract noun from sama-rasa 'of equal flavor'.

ANALYSIS परम् अयनम् परायणम्; सामरस्यम् परायणम् यस्याः सा सामरस्यपरायणा

param ayanam parāyaṇam; sāmarasyam parāyaṇam yasyāḥ sā sāmarasyaparāyaṇā

SIGNIFICANCE In Śrīvidyā and Kashmir Śaivism sāmarasya is the 'single flavor' of Śiva and Śakti in union, where consciousness and its power are tasted as one; the Goddess abides in that state and leads the devotee into it.

793 कपर्दिनी kapardinī

She who is the consort of Kapardin, Śiva of the matted locks

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE Śiva is Kapardin, 'the one with the braided coil of hair'; as His inseparable power She bears the same name in the feminine. The feminine can also describe Her own braided hair.

> UNCERTAIN The feminine of kapardin can mean 'wife of Kapardin' (the usual reading) or 'She who herself wears the kaparda braid'.

794 कलामाला kalā-mālā

She who wears the arts as a garland

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa (alternatively bahuvrīhi). As a ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa mālā 'garland' is the head: 'the garland of the arts', She herself being that garland. As a bahuvrīhi: 'She whose garland is the arts', i.e. who wears them. Both readings are current; the second matches the traditional paraphrase.

ANALYSIS कलानाम् माला कलामाला; अथवा कलाः माला यस्याः सा कलामाला

kalānām mālā kalāmālā; athavā kalāḥ mālā yasyāḥ sā kalāmālā

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally the sixty-four arts (catuḥṣaṣṭi kalāḥ) are meant, strung together as Her ornament; kalā can also be read as the digits of the moon or the subtle portions of Her power.

> UNCERTAIN Ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa ('the garland of the arts') and bahuvrīhi ('whose garland is the arts') readings are both current.

795 कामधुक् kāma-dhuk

She who fulfills all desires

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa. The final member dhuk is a root-noun from √duh 'to milk' with the zero suffix kvip, which can stand only at the end of a compound with its object as the upapada: 'one who milks out desires', i.e. yields what is wished for.

ANALYSIS कामान् दोग्धि इति कामधुक्

kāmān dogdhi iti kāmadhuk

SIGNIFICANCE The name calls up Kāmadhenu, the wish-yielding cow; as the cow gives milk freely to her calf, She yields to Her devotees whatever they seek, worldly and spiritual.

---

796 कामरूपिणी kāma-rūpiṇī

She who assumes any form at will

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa, made possessive by the suffix -in (alternatively ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (1) kāma-rūpa 'form (taken) at will' — kāma here means 'free choice', the instrumental relation of a tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa. (2) The possessive suffix -in, feminine -iṇī, makes it 'She who has forms at will', i.e. takes any form She wishes. Read as a ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa, kāmarūpa is 'the form of Kāma (Kāmeśvara or the god of love)', and the name becomes 'She who has the form of Kāma'.

ANALYSIS कामेन रूपम् कामरूपम्; कामरूपम् अस्याः अस्ति इति कामरूपिणी; अथवा कामस्य रूपम् कामरूपम्

kāmena rūpam kāmarūpam; kāmarūpam asyāḥ asti iti kāmarūpiṇī; athavā kāmasya rūpam kāmarūpam

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally also read as the presiding Goddess of Kāmarūpa, the Śakti-pīṭha of Kāmākhyā, and as She whose form is one with Kāmeśvara.

UNCERTAIN Three readings are current: 'taking form at will', 'having the form of Kāma/Kāmeśvara', and 'Goddess of Kāmarūpa'.

पुष्कर puṣkara	lotus
ईक्षणा īkṣaṇā	eye (lit. 'seeing') √īkṣ 'to see' + -ana; feminine -ā of the bahuvrīhi

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Names 801–805 all begin with pu-/pū-; 804 puṣkarā and 805 puṣkarekṣaṇā are separate names.

THE NAMES

797 कलानिधिः kalā-nidhiḥ

She who is the treasure-house of all arts

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa. nidhi 'treasury, store' is the head and kalā stands to it in the genitive: 'the treasury of the arts'. The masculine noun nidhi keeps its own gender as Her name.

ANALYSIS कलानाम् निधिः कलानिधिः

kalānām nidhiḥ kalānidhiḥ

SIGNIFICANCE Kalānidhi is also a name of the moon, the 'store of digits'; traditionally She is the moon that holds all sixteen kalās, and the source of every art.

798 काव्यकला kāvya-kalā

She who is the art of poetry

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND karmadhāraya (alternatively ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). kalā is the head. As a karmadhāraya: 'the art that is poetry'; as a ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa: 'the art of poetry'. The sense is the same.

ANALYSIS काव्यम् एव कला काव्यकला; अथवा काव्यस्य कला काव्यकला

kāvyam eva kalā kāvyakalā; athavā kāvyasya kalā kāvyakalā

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally all poetry and song are Her form, and She grants the gift of poetic speech to Her devotees.

---

799 रसज्ञा rasa-jñā

She who knows all the rasas

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa. jña 'knowing' is formed from √jñā with the suffix -a and stands only at the end of a compound, with its object (rasa) as the upapada: 'one who knows rasa'; feminine -ā.

ANALYSIS रसम् जानाति इति रसज्ञा

rasam jānāti iti rasajñā

SIGNIFICANCE Rasa is both the flavor of things and the aesthetic emotion of poetry and drama; She knows every rasa. Rasajñā is also a word for the tongue, the organ that knows taste.

---

800 रसशेवधिः rasa-śevadhiḥ

She who is the treasure-house of rasa

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa. śevadhi 'treasure' is the head and rasa stands to it in the genitive: 'the treasure of rasa'. The masculine noun keeps its gender as Her name.

ANALYSIS रसस्य शेवधिः रसशेवधिः

rasasya śevadhiḥ rasaśevadhiḥ

SIGNIFICANCE The Taittirīya Upaniṣad says of the Self raso vai saḥ, 'He is rasa; obtaining rasa one becomes blissful'; She is the store of that bliss.

---

801 पुष्टा puṣṭā

She who is full of vigor and abundantly nourished

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally She is the fullness that nourishes every being; Puṣṭi, 'nourishment', is counted among Her powers.

---

802 पुरातना purātanā

She who is ancient

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE She is the primordial one, existing before all that was created.

---

803 पूज्या pūjyā

She who is worthy of worship by all

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE As the gerundive says, worship is Her due; traditionally even the gods worship Her.

---

804 पुष्करा puṣkarā

She who is whole and gives nourishment to all

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally read as She who nourishes all, connecting the name with puṣṭā (801); puṣkara also names the lotus, the sky and the holy lake Puṣkara.

> UNCERTAIN puṣkara has many senses (lotus, water, sky, the tīrtha Puṣkara); the gloss 'nourishing' rests on a traditional etymology from √puṣ rather than on regular grammar.

805 पुष्करेक्षणा puṣkarekṣaṇā

She who has eyes like lotus petals

SANDHI पुष्करेक्षणा = पुष्कर + ईक्षणा (puṣkara + īkṣaṇā) — guṇa: a + ī → e (Pāṇini 6.1.87 ād guṇaḥ)

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (with an upamāna comparison). A comparison folded into a bahuvrīhi: 'She whose eyes (īkṣaṇa) are like lotuses (puṣkara)'. īkṣaṇa takes the feminine -ā to agree with Her.

ANALYSIS पुष्करे इव ईक्षणे यस्याः सा पुष्करेक्षणा

puṣkare iva īkṣaṇe yasyāḥ sā puṣkarekṣaṇā

SIGNIFICANCE Lotus eyes are the classical sign of grace: wide, cool and compassionate, they rest on the devotee as a lotus opens to the sun.

मन्त्र mantra	mantra, spell; also counsel, secret plan
विभेदिनी vibhedinī	breaking apart, shattering vi + √bhid 'to split' + the agent suffix -in, feminine -ī

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Names 806 and 807 are two-word phrases (param jyotiḥ, param dhāma) whose m has become ñ and n before the next consonant; they are not compounds of para.

THE NAMES

806 परञ्ज्योतिः parañ-jyotiḥ

She who is the supreme light

SANDHI परञ्ज्योतिः = परम् + ज्योतिः (param + jyotiḥ) — a word-final m becomes anusvāra before a consonant (Pāṇini 8.3.23 mo 'nusvāraḥ), which here takes the nasal of the following palatal, ñ (optional, 8.4.59 vā padāntasya)

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE The Chāndogya Upaniṣad speaks of the self that, 'reaching the supreme light (paraṃ jyotir upasampadya)', appears in its own form; She is that light, by which sun, moon and fire shine.

807 परन्धाम paran-dhāma

She who is the supreme abode

SANDHI परन्धाम = परम् + धाम (param + dhāma) — a word-final m becomes anusvāra before a consonant (Pāṇini 8.3.23 mo 'nusvāraḥ), which here takes the nasal of the following dental, n (optional, 8.4.59 vā padāntasya)

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE The Bhagavad Gītā (10.12) calls the Lord paraṃ brahma paraṃ dhāma, 'the supreme Brahman, the supreme abode'; She is the final resting place from which there is no return.

808 परमाणुः paramāṇuḥ

She who is the subtlest particle

SANDHI परमाणुः = परम + अणुः (parama + aṇuḥ) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND karmadhāraya. parama 'utmost' qualifies aṇu 'minute particle', the head: 'the utmost-minute one', the subtlest particle. The masculine aṇu keeps its gender as Her name.

ANALYSIS परमः अणुः परमाणुः

paramaḥ aṇuḥ paramāṇuḥ

SIGNIFICANCE The Kaṭha Upaniṣad describes the Self as aṇor aṇīyān, 'subtler than the subtle'; She pervades even the smallest thing and is too fine to be grasped by the senses.

---

809 परात्परा parāt-parā

She who is the most supreme of the supreme ones

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND pañcamī-tatpuruṣa of the aluk kind (the first member keeps its ablative ending). parā 'higher, supreme' is the head; parāt 'than the high' is an ablative of comparison and keeps its case ending inside the compound (aluk): 'higher than the highest'. It can equally be taken as a fixed two-word phrase.

ANALYSIS परात् परा परात्परा

parāt parā parātparā

SIGNIFICANCE Nothing stands beyond Her: She transcends even what is called supreme, such as the deities of creation, preservation and dissolution.

> UNCERTAIN Whether parātparā is an aluk compound or a two-word phrase written together is a matter of analysis; the meaning is the same.

---

810 पाशहस्ता pāśa-hastā

She who holds a noose in Her hand

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (vyadhikaraṇa: the members are in different cases). 'She in whose hand (hasta) is the noose (pāśa)': the noose is nominative, the hand locative, so the bahuvrīhi joins members that do not agree. hasta takes the feminine -ā.

ANALYSIS पाशः हस्ते यस्याः सा पाशहस्ता

pāśaḥ haste yasyāḥ sā pāśahastā

SIGNIFICANCE The noose is one of Her four emblems (name 8 describes it as the power of attachment); holding it She binds, and the next name says She also cuts every bond.

---

811 पाशहन्त्री pāśa-hantrī

She who destroys the bonds

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa. hantrī 'destroyer' (agent noun from √han) is the head and the nooses stand to it in the genitive. Pāṇini restricts such compounds of an object with a -tṛ agent noun (2.2.15), but names of this shape are admitted as compounds of general relation (śeṣa-ṣaṣṭhī).

ANALYSIS पाशानाम् हन्त्री पाशहन्त्री

pāśānām hantrī pāśahantrī

SIGNIFICANCE In Śaiva doctrine the soul in bondage is the paśu, held by the pāśa of impurity, karma and māyā; She who holds the noose (810) is also the one who severs it.

---

812 परमन्त्रविभेदिनी para-mantra-vibhedinī

She who shatters the mantras employed by enemies

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa (over an inner ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (1) para-mantra 'the mantras of others', i.e. of enemies (para here is 'other, hostile', not 'supreme'). (2) vibhedinī 'one who breaks apart' is the head, with those mantras in the genitive.

ANALYSIS परेषाम् मन्त्राः परमन्त्राः; परमन्त्राणाम् विभेदिनी परमन्त्रविभेदिनी

pareṣām mantrāḥ paramantrāḥ; paramantrāṇām vibhedinī paramantravibhedinī

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally She protects the devotee from hostile spells and rites; mantra can also mean an enemy's counsel, which She brings to nothing.

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

मूर्ताऽमूर्ता = मूर्ता + अमूर्ता (mūrtā + amūrtā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: ā + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ); the avagraha (ऽ) marks the absorbed initial a of the next name

अमूर्ताऽनित्यतृप्ता = अमूर्ता + अनित्यतृप्ता (amūrtā + anityatṛptā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: ā + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ); the avagraha (ऽ) marks the absorbed initial a of the next name

Three names hide in mūrtā'mūrtā'nityatṛptā: 813 mūrtā, 814 amūrtā, 815 anityatṛptā. Without the avagrahas the last could be misread as nityatṛptā.

THE NAMES

813 मूर्ता mūrtā

She who has forms

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE The Bṛhadāraṇyaka Upaniṣad (2.3.1) says Brahman has two forms, the formed (mūrta) and the formless (amūrta); names 813 and 814 give Her both.

---

814 अमूर्ता amūrtā

She who has no definite form

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND nañ-tatpuruṣa. The negative particle na appears as a- before a consonant and negates the head mūrtā: 'not having form'.

ANALYSIS न मूर्ता अमूर्ता

na mūrtā amūrtā

SIGNIFICANCE Paired with 813: as the formless She is the unmanifest Brahman beyond the reach of the senses, and the formed and the formless are equally Her.

---

815 अनित्यतृप्ता anitya-tṛptā

She who is satisfied even by our perishable offerings

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa (over an inner nañ-tatpuruṣa). (1) a-nitya 'not lasting, perishable' (nañ-tatpuruṣa). (2) The participle tṛptā 'satisfied' is the head and takes perishable things in the instrumental: 'satisfied with what is perishable'.

ANALYSIS न नित्यम् अनित्यम्; अनित्यैः तृप्ता अनित्यतृप्ता

na nityam anityam; anityaiḥ tṛptā anityatṛptā

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally read as Her grace: the Eternal is pleased with transient offerings such as a flower, a leaf or water given with devotion.

> UNCERTAIN The śloka's continuous text mūrtāmūrtānitya… could also be divided amūrtā + nityatṛptā 'ever satisfied'; the edited text marks the a of anitya with an avagraha, following the traditional division.

816 मुनिमानसहंसिका muni-mānasa-haṃsikā

She who is the swan in the Mānasa lake that is the minds of sages

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND saptamī-tatpuruṣa (over an inner ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (1) muni-mānasa 'the mind of sages' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (2) haṃsikā 'swan' is the head and the mind is its locative: 'the swan in the sages' mind'. mānasa is a double meaning: 'mind' and Lake Mānasa, the swans' home; the sages' mind is that lake.

ANALYSIS मुनीनाम् मानसम् मुनिमानसम्; मुनिमानसे हंसिका मुनिमानसहंसिका

munīnām mānasam munimānasam; munimānase haṃsikā munimānasahaṃsikā

SIGNIFICANCE As swans dwell on Lake Mānasa, She sports in the still minds of sages; the haṃsa is also the breath-mantra haṃsa/so 'ham and the soul's discrimination of the real from the unreal.

---

817 सत्यव्रता satya-vratā

She whose vow is truth, who abides firmly in truth

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi. 'She whose vow (vrata) is truth (satya)': the two members agree and together describe Her; vrata takes the feminine -ā.

ANALYSIS सत्यम् व्रतम् यस्याः सा सत्यव्रता

satyam vratam yasyāḥ sā satyavratā

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally She never departs from Her word, and She is reached by those whose observance is truthfulness.

---

818 सत्यरूपा satya-rūpā

She who is truth itself

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi. 'She whose form (rūpa) is truth': rūpa takes the feminine -ā; She is truth itself, not a possessor of it.

ANALYSIS सत्यम् रूपम् यस्याः सा सत्यरूपा

satyam rūpam yasyāḥ sā satyarūpā

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally connected with the Upaniṣadic satyasya satyam, 'the truth of truth': She is the reality on which all relative truths rest.

---

819 सर्वान्तर्यामिनी sarvāntar-yāminī

She who is the inner ruler dwelling within all

SANDHI सर्वान्तर् = सर्व + अन्तर् (sarva + antar) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa (the final member itself an upapada compound). (1) antar-yāmin 'the one who controls from within' (antar 'within' + √yam 'to restrain, guide' + -in). (2) It is the head of a ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa with sarva 'all': 'the inner controller of all'.

ANALYSIS अन्तः यच्छति इति अन्तर्यामिनी; सर्वेषाम् अन्तर्यामिनी सर्वान्तर्यामिनी

antaḥ yacchati iti antaryāminī; sarveṣām antaryāminī sarvāntaryāminī

SIGNIFICANCE The Bṛhadāraṇyaka Upaniṣad's antaryāmin teaching describes the Self that dwells in every being and rules it from within, unknown to it; She is that inner controller.

---

820 सती satī

She who is Being itself, the Real; She who is Satī

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE As sat She is pure existence, the ground of all that is; She is also Satī, the daughter of Dakṣa who gave up Her body rather than hear Śiva reviled, and from whose limbs the Śakti-pīṭhas arose.

829 प्रतिष्ठा pratiṣṭhā
प्रति prati	toward, upon (prefix)
स्था sthā	to stand √sthā; prati + √sthā gives the feminine noun pratiṣṭhā 'standing firm, foundation'
830 प्रकटाकृतिः prakaṭākṛtiḥ
प्रकट prakaṭa	manifest, evident
आकृतिः ākṛtiḥ	form, shape ā + √kṛ 'to make', feminine noun

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

प्रचण्डाऽऽज्ञा = प्रचण्डा + आज्ञा (pracaṇḍā + ājñā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: ā + ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ); the double avagraha (ऽऽ) marks the absorbed long ā of ājñā

ब्रह्मजननी is two names in Bhāskararāya's count, 822 brahma and 823 jananī, though it is often read as one ('Mother of Brahmā'); pracaṇḍā"jñā is 827 pracaṇḍā + 828 ājñā.

THE NAMES

821 ब्रह्माणी brahmāṇī

She who is Brahmāṇī, the creative power of Brahmā

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE Brahmāṇī is one of the mother-goddesses (Mātṛkās). Traditionally the name is also connected with the Taittirīya Upaniṣad's brahma pucchaṃ pratiṣṭhā, 'Brahman is the tail, the support', which lies behind the older rendering.

UNCERTAIN The traditional interpretation through 'brahma pucchaṃ pratiṣṭhā' rests on a derivation that could not be confirmed; the plain grammatical sense is given as the meaning.

822 ब्रह्म brahma

She who is Brahman

SANDHI ब्रह्मजननी = ब्रह्म + जननी (brahma + jananī) — No sound change: the śloka's ब्रह्मजननी is divided by Bhāskararāya into two names, ब्रह्म (822) and जननी (823). brahma is the neuter nominative singular of brahman (the final n is lost at the end of the word), so the two words simply stand side by side.

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE The Goddess is identified with the Absolute of the Upaniṣads, without attributes and beyond all names; the neuter noun keeps its own gender as Her name.

VARIANTS Read as one word, ब्रह्मजननी would be the single name 'Mother of Brahmā (or of Brahman)', as some popular lists take it; Bhāskararāya's count of a thousand requires two names here.

823 जननी jananī

She who is the Mother

SANDHI ब्रह्मजननी = ब्रह्म + जननी (brahma + jananī) — No sound change: jananī is the second of the two names into which Bhāskararāya divides the śloka's ब्रह्मजननी (see 822).

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE Standing on its own, the name makes Her the mother of all without limit; read with 822, the Absolute itself is the one who gives birth.

VARIANTS See 822: some lists read ब्रह्मजननी as one name.

824 बहुरूपा bahu-rūpā

She who has a multitude of forms

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi. 'She whose forms are many': bahu 'many' and rūpa 'form' agree and together describe Her; rūpa takes the feminine -ā.

ANALYSIS बहूनि रूपाणि यस्याः सा बहुरूपा

bahūni rūpāṇi yasyāḥ sā bahurūpā

SIGNIFICANCE The Kaṭha Upaniṣad speaks of the one who 'makes the one form manifold' (ekaṃ rūpaṃ bahudhā yaḥ karoti); every form in the universe is Hers.

---

825 बुधार्चिता budhārcitā

She who is worshipped by the wise

SANDHI बुधार्चिता = बुध + अर्चिता (budha + arcitā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa. The participle arcitā 'worshipped' is the head and the wise are the agents in the instrumental: 'worshipped by the wise'.

ANALYSIS बुधैः अर्चिता बुधार्चिता

budhaiḥ arcitā budhārcitā

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally the wise are those who know Her true nature; budha can also be the planet Mercury or the gods, all of whom worship Her.

---

826 प्रसवित्री prasavitrī

She who is mother of the universe

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally the name is connected with Savitṛ, the impeller of the Gāyatrī mantra: She is the one who brings the whole universe forth.

---

827 प्रचण्डा pracaṇḍā

She who is full of awe-inspiring wrath

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND prādi-tatpuruṣa. The prefix pra 'forth, exceedingly' intensifies the head caṇḍā 'fierce': 'exceedingly fierce'.

ANALYSIS प्रकर्षेण चण्डा प्रचण्डा

prakarṣeṇa caṇḍā pracaṇḍā

SIGNIFICANCE The Taittirīya Upaniṣad says that from fear of the Absolute the wind blows and the sun rises; Her fierceness is that awe which keeps the cosmic order, and it is turned against the devotee's foes.

828 आज्ञा ājñā

She who is the divine command Herself

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE Her command is the law of the universe, which even the gods obey; ājñā is also the cakra between the eyebrows, the 'command' center, where She is meditated upon.

829 प्रतिष्ठा pratiṣṭhā

She who is the foundation

SANDHI प्रतिष्ठा = प्रति + स्था (prati + sthā) — after the i of the prefix prati the s of sthā becomes ṣ (Pāṇini 8.3.65), and th then becomes ṭh next to ṣ (ṣṭutva, Pāṇini 8.4.41 ṣṭunā ṣṭuḥ)

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE She is the ground on which everything stands (the Taittirīya Upaniṣad's brahma pucchaṃ pratiṣṭhā). Pratiṣṭhā is also the second of the five kalās of Śaiva doctrine, which name 853 brings to its summit.

830 प्रकटाकृतिः prakaṭākṛtiḥ

She whose form is manifest

SANDHI प्रकटाकृतिः = प्रकट + आकृतिः (prakaṭa + ākṛtiḥ) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi. 'She whose form (ākṛti) is manifest (prakaṭā)'. The feminine adjective prakaṭā takes its masculine stem prakaṭa in the compound (puṃvadbhāva, Pāṇini 6.3.34). The final member ākṛti is already feminine and keeps its nominative -iḥ.

ANALYSIS प्रकटा आकृतिः यस्याः सा प्रकटाकृतिः

prakaṭā ākṛtiḥ yasyāḥ sā prakaṭākṛtiḥ

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally She is manifest to everyone as the sense 'I am'. In Śrīvidyā the yoginīs of the outermost enclosure of the Śrīcakra are called prakaṭa 'manifest', and the name is also read as Her having them for Her form.

वियत् viyat	sky, space, ether
प्रसूः prasūḥ	mother, she who brings forth pra + √sū 'to beget', root-noun, nominative

THE NAMES

831 प्राणेश्वरी prāṇeśvarī

She who rules over the prāṇas and the senses

SANDHI प्राणेश्वरी = प्राण + ईश्वरी (prāṇa + īśvarī) — guṇa: a + ī → e (Pāṇini 6.1.87 ād guṇaḥ)

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa. īśvarī 'ruler' is the head and the prāṇas stand to it in the genitive: 'the ruler of the vital breaths'. In the Upaniṣads prāṇāḥ (plural) also means the senses.

ANALYSIS प्राणानाम् ईश्वरी प्राणेश्वरी

prāṇānām īśvarī prāṇeśvarī

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally also 'Queen of life' in the sense of beloved: She is the life-breath of Śiva, and of every living being.

832 प्राणदात्री prāṇa-dātrī

She who is the giver of life

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa. dātrī 'giver' (agent noun from √dā) is the head and the prāṇas stand to it in the genitive: 'the giver of life-breath' (on such compounds with -tṛ see name 811).

ANALYSIS प्राणानाम् दात्री प्राणदात्री

prāṇānām dātrī prāṇadātrī

SIGNIFICANCE She gives breath to every creature; the Kauṣītaki and other Upaniṣads identify prāṇa with consciousness, so She gives both life and awareness.

---

833 पञ्चाशत्पीठरूपिणी pañcāśat-pīṭha-rūpiṇī

She whose form is the fifty sacred seats (pīṭhas)

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND dvigu (numeral karmadhāraya), made possessive by the suffix -in. (1) pañcāśat-pīṭha 'the fifty seats': a numeral qualifying a noun, i.e. a dvigu, allowed because a further member follows. (2) That compound with rūpa 'form' takes the possessive suffix -in (feminine -iṇī): 'She whose form is the fifty seats'. The final t of pañcāśat is unchanged before p.

ANALYSIS पञ्चाशत् पीठानि पञ्चाशत्पीठानि; पञ्चाशत्पीठानि रूपम् अस्याः अस्ति इति पञ्चाशत्पीठरूपिणी

pañcāśat pīṭhāni pañcāśatpīṭhāni; pañcāśatpīṭhāni rūpam asyāḥ asti iti pañcāśatpīṭharūpiṇī

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally the fifty pīṭhas correspond to the fifty letters of the Sanskrit alphabet (the mātṛkās), placed on the body in nyāsa; the sacred places of the land and the sounds of speech are both Her body.

---

834 विशृङ्खला vi-śṛṅkhalā

She who is unfettered, free in every way

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND prādi-bahuvrīhi. The prefix vi stands for vigata 'gone': 'She from whom fetters (śṛṅkhala) are gone', i.e. who is bound by nothing. The final member takes the feminine -ā.

ANALYSIS विगतानि शृङ्खलानि यस्याः सा विशृङ्खला

vigatāni śṛṅkhalāni yasyāḥ sā viśṛṅkhalā

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally She is bound by no rule, karma or injunction, being the source of all laws; She also frees Her devotees from every chain.

> CORRECTED विशृङ्खला → विशृङ्खला. Removed a zero-width joiner inside शृ; the IAST had become "viśaṛṅkhalā".

835 विविक्तस्था vivikta-sthā

She who abides in secluded places

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa. stha 'standing, dwelling' is formed from √sthā with the suffix -a after a word in the locative (Pāṇini 3.2.4 supi sthaḥ): 'one who dwells in a secluded place'; feminine -ā.

ANALYSIS विविक्ते तिष्ठति इति विविक्तस्था

vivikte tiṣṭhati iti viviktasthā

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally She dwells in solitary, pure places and in the discerning mind (viveka) of those who sift the real from the unreal.

836 वीरमाता vīra-mātā

She who is the mother of the valiant

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa. mātā 'mother' is the head and the heroes stand to it in the genitive.

ANALYSIS वीराणाम् माता वीरमाता

vīrāṇām mātā vīramātā

SIGNIFICANCE In Tantra the vīra is the adept of the heroic disposition (vīrabhāva); She is mother to the courageous in battle and in sādhana.

837 वियत्प्रसूः viyat-prasūḥ

She who is the mother of the ether (space)

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa. prasū 'mother, one who brings forth' is the head and the sky stands to it in the genitive: 'mother of space'. prasū is a root-noun (pra + √sū), so its nominative ends in -ūḥ.

ANALYSIS वियतः प्रसूः वियत्प्रसूः

viyataḥ prasūḥ viyatprasūḥ

SIGNIFICANCE The Taittirīya Upaniṣad says that from the Self space (ākāśa) first arose; She is the source of space, the first of the elements, and so of all the rest.

भव bhava	worldly existence
चक्र cakra	wheel
प्रवर्तिनी pravartinī	setting in motion, turning pra + √vṛt 'to turn' + -in, feminine -ī

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Names 842–843 face each other: She destroys the disease of existence and also turns its wheel.

THE NAMES

838 मुकुन्दा mukundā

She who grants liberation; She who is Mukundā, one with Viṣṇu

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE Mukunda is Viṣṇu, and She is His feminine counterpart (the Goddess as Viṣṇu's own power); the traditional etymology 'giver of muku, liberation' gives the older rendering.

> UNCERTAIN The derivation muku 'liberation' + dā 'giving' is a traditional etymology (nirukti), not regular grammar.

839 मुक्तिनिलया mukti-nilayā

She who is the abode of liberation

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa, used adjectivally (alternatively bahuvrīhi). (1) mukti-nilaya 'the dwelling-place of liberation' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa, nilaya the head). The compound is used of Her as an epithet and so takes the feminine -ā; traditionally this is explained by the possessive suffix ac of the arśa-ādi class ('having, being X'). As a bahuvrīhi it reads 'She whose dwelling is liberation'. Either way She and liberation are found in one place.

ANALYSIS मुक्तेः निलयः मुक्तिनिलयः; मुक्तिनिलयः अस्याः अस्ति इति मुक्तिनिलया; अथवा मुक्तिः निलयः यस्याः सा मुक्तिनिलया

mukteḥ nilayaḥ muktinilayaḥ; muktinilayaḥ asyāḥ asti iti muktinilayā; athavā muktiḥ nilayaḥ yasyāḥ sā muktinilayā

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally the four kinds of liberation (sālokya, sāmīpya, sārūpya, sāyujya) reside in Her, and She is reached in the state of liberation itself.

> UNCERTAIN The feminine ending admits two analyses: an adjectival ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa ('the abode of liberation') and a bahuvrīhi ('whose abode is liberation').

840 मूलविग्रहरूपिणी mūla-vigraha-rūpiṇī

She who is the root form of everything

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND karmadhāraya, made possessive by the suffix -in. (1) mūla-vigraha 'the root form' (karmadhāraya: mūla 'root, original' qualifies vigraha 'form, embodiment'). (2) With rūpa and the possessive suffix -in: 'She whose form is the root form'.

ANALYSIS मूलम् विग्रहः मूलविग्रहः; मूलविग्रहः रूपम् अस्याः अस्ति इति मूलविग्रहरूपिणी

mūlam vigrahaḥ mūlavigrahaḥ; mūlavigrahaḥ rūpam asyāḥ asti iti mūlavigraharūpiṇī

SIGNIFICANCE In Śrīvidyā She is the original form from which the other forms of the Goddess, such as Bālā and the attendant powers of the Śrīcakra, issue; mūla also recalls the mūlādhāra and the root mantra (mūla-mantra).

---

841 भावज्ञा bhāva-jñā

She who is the knower of all thoughts and sentiments

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa. jña 'knowing' (√jñā + -a) stands at the end of the compound with its object bhāva as the upapada: 'one who knows (inner) states'; feminine -ā.

ANALYSIS भावम् जानाति इति भावज्ञा

bhāvam jānāti iti bhāvajñā

SIGNIFICANCE She knows the intention behind every act of devotion, and so accepts even an imperfect offering made with a true heart; bhāva also means existence, all of which She knows.

---

842 भवरोगघ्नी bhava-roga-ghnī

She who destroys the disease of worldly existence, the round of birth and death

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa (over an inner karmadhāraya of identification). (1) bhava-roga 'the disease that is worldly existence': a karmadhāraya of identification (rūpaka) — existence itself is the disease. (2) ghnī 'destroying' (from √han) stands at the end with the disease as its object (upapada-tatpuruṣa).

ANALYSIS भवः एव रोगः भवरोगः; भवरोगम् हन्ति इति भवरोगघ्नी

bhavaḥ eva rogaḥ bhavarogaḥ; bhavarogam hanti iti bhavarogaghnī

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally saṃsāra is the disease and knowledge of Her the remedy; She is the physician of the soul.

---

843 भवचक्रप्रवर्तिनी bhava-cakra-pravartinī

She who turns the wheel of the cycle of birth and death

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa (over an inner karmadhāraya of identification). (1) bhava-cakra 'the wheel that is worldly existence' (rūpaka karmadhāraya). (2) pravartinī 'she who sets in motion' is the head, with the wheel in the genitive.

ANALYSIS भवः एव चक्रम् भवचक्रम्; भवचक्रस्य प्रवर्तिनी भवचक्रप्रवर्तिनी

bhavaḥ eva cakram bhavacakram; bhavacakrasya pravartinī bhavacakrapravartinī

SIGNIFICANCE The same Power that frees (842) also keeps the wheel of existence turning, by Her will, for the ripening of every soul's karma.

रूपिणी rūpiṇī	having the form of rūpa 'form' + the possessive suffix -in (ṇ by ṇatva after r), feminine -ī

उदारकीर्तिरुद्दामवैभवा = उदारकीर्तिः + उद्दामवैभवा (udārakīrtiḥ + uddāmavaibhavā) — visarga after a vowel other than a or ā becomes r before a voiced sound, here the vowel u

Divide udārakīrtir uddāmavaibhavā (848, 849): the r belongs to the visarga of kīrtiḥ, not to the next name (not udārakīrti ruddāma).

THE NAMES

844 छन्दःसारा chandaḥ-sārā

She who is the essence of the Vedas

SANDHI छन्दःसारा = छन्दस् + सारा (chandas + sārā) — the final s of chandas becomes visarga at the end of a member and, before s, may stay as visarga instead of s (optional, Pāṇini 8.3.36 vā śari)

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa, used adjectivally. (1) chandaḥ-sāra 'the essence of the Vedas' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa, sāra the head). The compound is used of Her as an epithet and so takes the feminine -ā; traditionally this is explained by the possessive suffix ac of the arśa-ādi class ('having, being X').

ANALYSIS छन्दसाम् सारः छन्दःसारः; छन्दःसारः अस्याः अस्ति इति छन्दःसारा

chandasām sāraḥ chandaḥsāraḥ; chandaḥsāraḥ asyāḥ asti iti chandaḥsārā

SIGNIFICANCE Chandas is the Veda as metrical hymn; traditionally the Gāyatrī, the 'mother of the Vedas', is their essence and is Her form.

845 शास्त्रसारा śāstra-sārā

She who is the essence of all scriptures

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa, used adjectivally. (1) śāstra-sāra 'the essence of the scriptures' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). The compound is used of Her as an epithet and so takes the feminine -ā; traditionally this is explained by the possessive suffix ac of the arśa-ādi class ('having, being X').

ANALYSIS शास्त्राणाम् सारः शास्त्रसारः; शास्त्रसारः अस्याः अस्ति इति शास्त्रसारा

śāstrāṇām sāraḥ śāstrasāraḥ; śāstrasāraḥ asyāḥ asti iti śāstrasārā

SIGNIFICANCE Every śāstra, from the Vedas and Upaniṣads to the Tantras and Purāṇas, has Her as its final import.

846 मन्त्रसारा mantra-sārā

She who is the essence of all mantras

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa, used adjectivally. (1) mantra-sāra 'the essence of mantras' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). The compound is used of Her as an epithet and so takes the feminine -ā; traditionally this is explained by the possessive suffix ac of the arśa-ādi class ('having, being X').

ANALYSIS मन्त्राणाम् सारः मन्त्रसारः; मन्त्रसारः अस्याः अस्ति इति मन्त्रसारा

mantrāṇām sāraḥ mantrasāraḥ; mantrasāraḥ asyāḥ asti iti mantrasārā

SIGNIFICANCE In Śrīvidyā the fifteen-syllabled Pañcadaśī (and its sixteen-syllabled form) is regarded as the crown of all mantras, and it is Her very form.

847 तलोदरी talodarī

She who is slender-waisted

SANDHI तलोदरी = तल + उदरी (tala + udarī) — guṇa: a + u → o (Pāṇini 6.1.87 ād guṇaḥ)

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (with an upamāna comparison). 'She whose belly (udara) is like a flat surface (tala)', i.e. slender-waisted. A bahuvrīhi ending in a word for a body part may take the feminine -ī (Pāṇini 4.1.54).

ANALYSIS तलम् इव उदरम् यस्याः सा तलोदरी

talam iva udaram yasyāḥ sā talodarī

SIGNIFICANCE The slender waist is a classical mark of beauty; traditionally the name is also read as She in whose belly lie the lower worlds (talas), the cosmic form containing all regions.

> UNCERTAIN Two readings are current: 'whose waist is flat (slender)' and 'in whose belly are the talas, the lower worlds'.

---

848 उदारकीर्तिः udāra-kīrtiḥ

She who possesses exalted fame

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi. 'She whose fame (kīrti) is exalted (udārā)'. The feminine adjective takes its masculine stem udāra in the compound (puṃvadbhāva, Pāṇini 6.3.34); kīrti is already feminine and keeps its nominative -iḥ.

ANALYSIS उदारा कीर्तिः यस्याः सा उदारकीर्तिः udārā kīrtiḥ yasyāḥ sā udārakīrtiḥ

SIGNIFICANCE Her glory is sung everywhere and Her fame is generous: it is sung by those whom She has blessed.

---

849 उद्दामवैभवा uddāma-vaibhavā

She whose prowess is unlimited

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (over an inner prādi-bahuvrīhi). (1) ud-dāman 'from which the rope has gone', i.e. unbound, unrestrained (prādi-bahuvrīhi; ud stands for udgata). (2) 'She whose might (vaibhava) is unbounded' (bahuvrīhi); vaibhava takes the feminine -ā. The d of ud meets the d of dāma without change.

ANALYSIS उद्गतम् दाम यस्मात् तत् उद्दाम; उद्दाम वैभवम् यस्याः सा उद्दामवैभवा

udgatam dāma yasmāt tat uddāma; uddāma vaibhavam yasyāḥ sā uddāmavaibhavā

SIGNIFICANCE Her power is bound by nothing; the whole creation is only a fraction of Her glory.

---

850 वर्णरूपिणी varṇa-rūpiṇī

She whose form is the letters of the alphabet

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND karmadhāraya of identification, made possessive by the suffix -in. (1) varṇa-rūpa 'the form that is the letters' (karmadhāraya of identification). (2) The possessive suffix -in (feminine -iṇī) makes it 'She whose form is the letters'.

ANALYSIS वर्णाः एव रूपम् वर्णरूपम्; वर्णरूपम् अस्याः अस्ति इति वर्णरूपिणी

varṇāḥ eva rūpam varṇarūpam; varṇarūpam asyāḥ asti iti varṇarūpiṇī

SIGNIFICANCE The fifty letters (mātṛkā), from a to kṣa, are traditionally Her body; all speech and all mantras are woven from them.

अतीत atīta	gone beyond ati + √i 'to go', past participle
कला kalā	kalā, a phase or power of manifestation
आत्मिका ātmikā	having the nature of ātman + -ka, feminine -ikā

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Name 851 fills the whole first half. Name 853 names the fifth of the five kalās (nivṛtti, pratiṣṭhā, vidyā, śānti, śāntyatītā); pratiṣṭhā (829) is the second.

THE NAMES

851 जन्ममृत्युजरातप्तजनविश्रान्तिदायिनी janma-mṛtyu-jarā-tapta-jana-viśrānti-dāyinī

She who gives peace and repose to those who are afflicted by birth, death and decrepitude

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa (over a dvandva, a tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa, a karmadhāraya and a ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (1) janma-mṛtyu-jarā 'birth, death and old age' (dvandva). (2) ...-tapta 'scorched by them' (tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa). (3) ...tapta-jana 'people so scorched' (karmadhāraya). (4) ...jana-viśrānti 'their rest' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (5) dāyinī 'giver' is the head, with the rest as its object (upapada-tatpuruṣa). janman appears as janma- in composition (loss of final n).

ANALYSIS जन्म च मृत्युः च जरा च जन्ममृत्युजराः; जन्ममृत्युजराभिः तप्ताः जन्ममृत्युजरातप्ताः; जन्ममृत्युजरातप्ताः जनाः जन्ममृत्युजरातप्तजनाः; जन्ममृत्युजरातप्तजनानाम् विश्रान्तिः जन्ममृत्युजरातप्तजनविश्रान्तिः; ताम् ददाति इति जन्ममृत्युजरातप्तजनविश्रान्तिदायिनी

janma ca mṛtyuḥ ca jarā ca janmamṛtyujarāḥ; janmamṛtyujarābhiḥ taptāḥ janmamṛtyujarātaptāḥ; janmamṛtyujarātaptāḥ janāḥ janmamṛtyujarātaptajanāḥ; janmamṛtyujarātaptajanānām viśrāntiḥ janmamṛtyujarātaptajanaviśrāntiḥ; tām dadāti iti janmamṛtyujarātaptajanaviśrāntidāyinī

SIGNIFICANCE Birth, death and old age are the threefold heat of saṃsāra; traditionally She is the shade in which the scorched traveler rests, the final repose of liberation.

852 सर्वोपनिषदुद्घुष्टा sarvopaniṣad-udghuṣṭā

She who is proclaimed by all the Upaniṣads

SANDHI सर्वोपनिषद् = सर्व + उपनिषद् (sarva + upaniṣad) — guṇa: a + u → o (Pāṇini 6.1.87 ād guṇaḥ)

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa (over an inner karmadhāraya). (1) sarva-upaniṣad 'all the Upaniṣads' (karmadhāraya; sarva is the qualifier). (2) The participle udghuṣṭā 'proclaimed aloud' is the head and the Upaniṣads are its agents in the instrumental. The stem-final d of upaniṣad simply stands before the vowel u.

ANALYSIS सर्वाः उपनिषदः सर्वोपनिषदः; सर्वोपनिषद्भिः उद्घुष्टा सर्वोपनिषदुद्घुष्टा

sarvāḥ upaniṣadaḥ sarvopaniṣadaḥ; sarvopaniṣadbhiḥ udghuṣṭā sarvopaniṣadudghuṣṭā

SIGNIFICANCE All the Upaniṣads declare the one Brahman, and in Śrīvidyā that Brahman is the Goddess; their teaching proclaims Her.

---

853 शान्त्यतीतकलात्मिका śāntyatīta-kalātmikā

She whose very nature is the kalā beyond peace (śāntyatītā)

SANDHI शान्त्यतीत = शान्ति + अतीत (śānti + atīta) — yaṇ: i becomes y before a dissimilar vowel (Pāṇini 6.1.77 iko yaṇ aci); कलात्मिका = कला + आत्मिका (kalā + ātmikā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: ā + ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (over an inner karmadhāraya and a dvitīyā-tatpuruṣa). (1) śānti-atītā 'gone beyond śānti' (dvitīyā-tatpuruṣa with atīta, Pāṇini 2.1.24). (2) It qualifies kalā (karmadhāraya); the feminine first member takes its masculine stem (puṃvadbhāva, Pāṇini 6.3.42). (3) The whole is a bahuvrīhi with ātman 'self, nature', which in this position appears as -ātmaka, feminine -ātmikā: 'She whose very nature is the kalā beyond śānti'.

ANALYSIS शान्तिम् अतीता शान्त्यतीता; शान्त्यतीता कला शान्त्यतीतकला; शान्त्यतीतकला आत्मा यस्याः सा शान्त्यतीतकलात्मिका

śāntim atītā śāntyatītā; śāntyatītā kalā śāntyatītakalā; śāntyatītakalā ātmā yasyāḥ sā śāntyatītakalātmikā

SIGNIFICANCE In Śaiva and Śākta doctrine the five kalās (nivṛtti, pratiṣṭhā, vidyā, śānti, śāntyatītā) are the phases through which consciousness descends into the world; the fifth, beyond peace, is the subtlest, and it is Her nature.

अर्ध ardha	half
विग्रहा vigrahā	body, form vigraha with the feminine -ā of the bahuvrīhi

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

काष्ठाऽकान्ता = काष्ठा + अकान्ता (kāṣṭhā + akāntā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: ā + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ); the avagraha (ऽ) marks the absorbed initial a of the next name kāṣṭhā'kāntā is 859 kāṣṭhā + 860 akāntā; the avagraha shows that the second name begins with a.

THE NAMES

854 गम्भीरा gambhīrā

She who is unfathomable

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE Like a deep lake whose bottom cannot be seen, She cannot be measured by the mind or by speech.

855 गगनान्तस्था gaganānta-sthā

She who dwells at the farthest bound of space, and within it

SANDHI गगनान्त = गगन + अन्त (gagana + anta) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa (over an inner ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (1) gagana-anta 'the end (or interior) of the sky' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (2) stha 'dwelling' (√sthā + -a after a locative, Pāṇini 3.2.4) is the head: 'one who dwells there'; feminine -ā. anta can mean both 'limit' and 'inside'.

ANALYSIS गगनस्य अन्तः गगनान्तः; गगनान्ते तिष्ठति इति गगनान्तस्था

gaganasya antaḥ gaganāntaḥ; gaganānte tiṣṭhati iti gaganāntasthā

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally the space meant is also the small space (dahara ākāśa) within the heart, of which the Chāndogya Upaniṣad speaks; She dwells there as pure consciousness.

> UNCERTAIN anta can be read as 'limit' (beyond the sky) or 'interior' (within space); both readings are current.

856 गर्विता garvitā

She who is proud

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally Her pride is the full self-awareness of the sole sovereign of all, who has no equal; it is not the vanity of the limited ego.

---

857 गानलोलुपा gāna-lolupā

She who delights in music

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND saptamī-tatpuruṣa. lolupā 'eager, longing' is the head and music is the object of its longing, in the locative.

ANALYSIS गाने लोलुपा गानलोलुपा

gāne lolupā gānalolupā

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally She is pleased by music offered in devotion; nāda, sound itself, is Her form.

858 कल्पनारहिता kalpanā-rahitā

She who is free from imaginary attributes

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa. The participle rahitā 'free from, devoid of' is the head and takes kalpanā in the instrumental.

ANALYSIS कल्पनया रहिता कल्पनारहिता

kalpanayā rahitā kalpanārahitā

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally kalpanā is the superimposition by which the mind imagines name, form and distinction on the Real; She is free of it, being pure consciousness.

859 काष्ठा kāṣṭhā

She who is the highest goal, beyond which there is nothing

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE The Kaṭha Upaniṣad says of the Puruṣa, 'beyond Him there is nothing; He is the limit (kāṣṭhā), He the highest goal'. Kāṣṭhā is also a direction and a small unit of time, all of which are Her.

860 अकान्ता akāntā

She who ends all sins and sorrows

SANDHI अकान्ता = अक + अन्ता (aka + antā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa (traditional analysis). aka 'pain, sin' is the object and antā 'one who brings to an end' (from anta 'end') is the head: 'She who ends sorrow and sin'.

ANALYSIS अकम् अन्तयति इति अकान्ता

akam antayati iti akāntā

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally read as She who puts an end to the pain and sin of those who turn to Her.

> UNCERTAIN aka 'pain, sin' is a rare word and the analysis aka + antā is the traditional one; the śloka's sandhi kāṣṭhā'kāntā fixes the initial a, so a reading kāntā 'beloved' is not available here.

861 कान्तार्धविग्रहा kāntārdha-vigrahā

She who is half the body of Her husband

SANDHI कान्तार्ध = कान्त + अर्ध (kānta + ardha) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (over an inner ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (1) kānta-ardha 'half of the beloved' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (2) The whole is a bahuvrīhi: 'She whose body (vigraha) is half of the Beloved'; vigraha takes the feminine -ā.

ANALYSIS कान्तस्य अर्धम् कान्तार्धम्; कान्तार्धम् विग्रहः यस्याः सा कान्तार्धविग्रहा

kāntasya ardham kāntārdham; kāntārdham vigrahaḥ yasyāḥ sā kāntārdhavigrahā

SIGNIFICANCE The name evokes Ardhanārīśvara, the Lord who is half woman: Śiva and Śakti share one body, as consciousness and its power are one.

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

kārya in name 862 is 'effect', paired with kāraṇa 'cause'.

862 कार्यकारणनिर्मुक्ता kārya-kāraṇa-nirmuktā

She who is free from the bond of cause and effect

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND pañcamī-tatpuruṣa (over an inner dvandva). (1) kārya-kāraṇa 'effect and cause' (dvandva). (2) The participle nirmuktā 'released, free' is the head and takes the pair in the ablative: 'free from effect and cause'.

ANALYSIS कार्यम् च कारणम् च कार्यकारणे; कार्यकारणाभ्याम् निर्मुक्ता कार्यकारणनिर्मुक्ता

kāryam ca kāraṇam ca kāryakāraṇe; kāryakāraṇābhyām nirmuktā kāryakāraṇanirmuktā

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally She is the Absolute, which is neither an effect of anything nor, in its own nature, a cause; causality belongs to the world She projects, not to Her.

863 कामकेलितरङ्गिता kāma-keli-taraṅgitā

She who surges in waves of joy in Her love-play with Kāmeśvara

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa (over an inner ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (1) kāma-keli 'the love-play of Kāma (Kāmeśvara)' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (2) taraṅgitā 'made to surge in waves' is the head, with that play as its instrument.

ANALYSIS कामस्य केलिः कामकेलिः; कामकेलिभिः तरङ्गिता कामकेलितरङ्गिता

kāmasya keliḥ kāmakeliḥ; kāmakelibhiḥ taraṅgitā kāmakelitaraṅgitā

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally the play of Kāmeśvara and Kāmeśvarī is the bliss of Śiva and Śakti in union, and the waves of that bliss are the worlds that arise from it.

864 कनत्कनकताटङ्का kanat-kanaka-tāṭaṅkā

She who wears glittering gold ear ornaments

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (over an inner karmadhāraya and an inner ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (1) kanaka-tāṭaṅka 'earrings of gold' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa of material). (2) The present participle kanat 'shining' qualifies them (karmadhāraya). (3) The whole is a bahuvrīhi: 'She whose earrings are of shining gold'; tāṭaṅka takes the feminine -ā. The t of kanat is unchanged before k.

ANALYSIS कनकस्य ताटङ्कौ कनकताटङ्कौ; कनन्तौ कनकताटङ्कौ कनत्कनकताटङ्कौ; कनत्कनकताटङ्कौ यस्याः सा कनत्कनकताटङ्का

kanakasya tāṭaṅkau kanakatāṭaṅkau; kanantau kanakatāṭaṅkau kanatkanakatāṭaṅkau; kanatkanakatāṭaṅkau yasyāḥ sā kanatkanakatāṭaṅkā

SIGNIFICANCE Her earrings are a sign of Her auspicious wifehood: the Saundaryalaharī (verse 28) ascribes Śiva's survival of the poison He swallowed to the power of Her tāṭaṅkas.

---

865 लीलाविग्रहधारिणी līlā-vigraha-dhāriṇī

She who takes on forms in play

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa (over an inner tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa). (1) līlā-vigraha 'forms taken in play' (tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa). (2) dhāriṇī 'bearing, assuming' (causative of √dhṛ + -in) is the head, with the forms as its object.

ANALYSIS लीलया विग्रहाः लीलाविग्रहाः; लीलाविग्रहान् धारयति इति लीलाविग्रहधारिणी

līlayā vigrahāḥ līlāvigrahāḥ; līlāvigrahān dhārayati iti līlāvigrahadhāriṇī

SIGNIFICANCE She has no need to take a body; Her incarnations and manifestations are play (līlā), undertaken freely for the good of the worlds.

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Names 870 and 871 form a pair: to be worshipped by those turned within, very hard to reach for those turned outward.

THE NAMES

866 अजा ajā

She who has no birth

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa with the negative particle. The negative a- is joined to ja 'born' (from √jan, which occurs only at the end of a compound): 'not born'; feminine -ā.

ANALYSIS न जायते इति अजा

na jāyate iti ajā

SIGNIFICANCE The Śvetāśvatara Upaniṣad speaks of the one unborn (ajā), red, white and black, who brings forth many offspring like herself: Prakṛti with its three guṇas. Ajā also means 'she-goat', the image that verse plays on.

867 क्षयविनिर्मुक्ता kṣaya-vinirmuktā

She who is free from decay

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND pañcamī-tatpuruṣa. The participle vinirmuktā 'wholly released' is the head and kṣaya 'decay' stands to it in the ablative.

ANALYSIS क्षयात् विनिर्मुक्ता क्षयविनिर्मुक्ता

kṣayāt vinirmuktā kṣayavinirmuktā

SIGNIFICANCE Being unborn (866) She does not decay; time, which wastes all things, has no hold on Her.

---

868 मुग्धा mugdhā

She who is captivating in Her beauty

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE The participle also means 'innocent, artless': Her beauty is that of simplicity, and it bewilders even Śiva.

---

869 क्षिप्रप्रसादिनी kṣipra-prasādinī

She who is quickly pleased

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa. prasādinī is an agent noun in -in of habit (Pāṇini 3.2.78 supy ajātau ṇinis tācchīlye) from pra + √sad 'to become clear, gracious'; the adverb kṣipra 'quickly' is the upapada: 'one who is quickly gracious'.

ANALYSIS क्षिप्रम् प्रसीदति इति क्षिप्रप्रसादिनी

kṣipram prasīdati iti kṣipraprasādinī

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally She is easily and swiftly moved to grace, even by a little devotion.

---

870 अन्तर्मुखसमाराध्या antar-mukha-samārādhyā

She who is to be worshipped by those whose gaze is turned within

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa (over an inner bahuvrīhi). (1) antar-mukha 'those whose face is turned within' (bahuvrīhi). (2) The gerundive samārādhyā 'to be worshipped fully' is the head, with those people as its agents in the instrumental. The r of antar is original.

ANALYSIS अन्तः मुखम् येषाम् ते अन्तर्मुखाः; अन्तर्मुखैः समाराध्या अन्तर्मुखसमाराध्या

antaḥ mukham yeṣām te antarmukhāḥ; antarmukhaiḥ samārādhyā antarmukhasamārādhyā

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally inward worship (antar-yāga), with the mind withdrawn from the senses, is the highest form of Her worship.

871 बहिर्मुखसुदुर्लभा bahir-mukha-su-dur-labhā

She who is difficult to attain by those whose attention is directed outwards

SANDHI बहिर्मुख = बहिस् + मुख (bahis + mukha) — final s becomes ru (Pāṇini 8.2.66 sasajuṣo ruḥ), which stands as r before a voiced consonant

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa (over an inner bahuvrīhi and a prādi compound). (1) bahir-mukha 'those whose face is turned outward' (bahuvrīhi). (2) dur-labha 'hard to obtain' (the suffix -a after dur, Pāṇini 3.3.126), intensified by su 'very' (prādi). (3) The whole: 'very hard to obtain for those turned outward' (instrumental of agent). The counterpart of name 870.

ANALYSIS बहिः मुखम् येषाम् ते बहिर्मुखाः; दुःखेन लभ्यते इति दुर्लभा; सुतराम् दुर्लभा सुदुर्लभा; बहिर्मुखैः सुदुर्लभा बहिर्मुखसुदुर्लभा

bahiḥ mukham yeṣām te bahirmukhāḥ; duḥkhena labhyate iti durlabhā; sutarām durlabhā sudurlabhā; bahirmukhaiḥ sudurlabhā bahirmukhasudurlabhā

SIGNIFICANCE Those whose minds run outward through the senses do not find Her, though She is nearest of all; the Kaṭha Upaniṣad says the Self-born pierced the senses outward, and only the one who turns the gaze within sees the Self.

सुधा sudhā	nectar, ambrosia
सृतिः sṛtiḥ	flow, course, stream √sṛ 'to flow' + -ti

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Names 872–875 each begin with tri-: the three Vedas, the three aims of life, the triads She abides in, and Tripuramālinī of the Śrīcakra. Name 878 is sva + ātma + ārāmā (not svātmā + rāmā); 879 reads sudhāsṛtiḥ (variant sudhāsrutiḥ).

THE NAMES

872 त्रयी trayī

She who is the three Vedas

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE Trayī is the old name for the Ṛg, Yajur and Sāma Vedas together; the name also covers every triad — the three guṇas, three states, three worlds — that She comprises.

---

873 त्रिवर्गनिलया tri-varga-nilayā

She who is the abode of the threefold aims of human life

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa, used adjectivally (over an inner dvigu). (1) tri-varga 'the group of three', i.e. dharma, artha and kāma (a numeral compound, dvigu). (2) ...-nilaya 'abode of that group' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). The compound is used of Her as an epithet and so takes the feminine -ā; traditionally this is explained by the possessive suffix ac of the arśa-ādi class ('having, being X').

ANALYSIS त्रयाणाम् वर्गः त्रिवर्गः; त्रिवर्गस्य निलयः त्रिवर्गनिलयः; त्रिवर्गनिलयः अस्याः अस्ति इति त्रिवर्गनिलया

trayāṇām vargaḥ trivargaḥ; trivargasya nilayaḥ trivarganilayaḥ; trivarganilayaḥ asyāḥ asti iti trivarganilayā

SIGNIFICANCE The trivarga is dharma, artha and kāma, the three aims of life in the world; She is their ground, and beyond them She grants the fourth, mokṣa.

---

874 त्रिस्था tri-sthā

She who abides in the three worlds, the three times and the three states

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa. stha 'abiding' (√sthā + -a after a locative, Pāṇini 3.2.4) with tri 'three' in the locative plural as the upapada: 'abiding in the three'; feminine -ā.

ANALYSIS त्रिषु तिष्ठति इति त्रिस्था

triṣu tiṣṭhati iti tristhā

SIGNIFICANCE The name leaves 'three' open; traditionally it covers the three worlds, the three times (past, present, future), the three states (waking, dream, sleep) and the three deities of creation, preservation and dissolution.

---

875 त्रिपुरमालिनी tripura-mālinī

She who is Tripuramālinī, the presiding Goddess of the inner ten-triangle enclosure (antardaśāra) of the Śrīcakra

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND dvigu (samāhāra), followed by a possessive in -in. (1) tri-pura 'the three cities' (a numeral compound denoting the group, dvigu). (2) mālinī 'garlanded' (mālā + the possessive -in): 'She who has the three cities as Her garland'. As the proper name of a Śrīcakra deity the name is not usually analysed further.

ANALYSIS त्रयाणाम् पुराणाम् समाहारः त्रिपुरम्; त्रिपुरम् माला अस्याः अस्ति इति त्रिपुरमालिनी

trayāṇām purāṇām samāhāraḥ tripuram; tripuram mālā asyāḥ asti iti tripuramālinī

SIGNIFICANCE In the Śrīcakra each enclosure has a presiding Goddess whose name begins with Tripura-; Tripuramālinī rules the sixth, the inner ten triangles.

> UNCERTAIN As a proper name its internal analysis is not fixed; the vigraha given is grammatical, not a traditional gloss.

876 निरामया nir-āmayā

She who is free from diseases of all kinds

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND prādi-bahuvrīhi. The prefix nir stands for nirgata 'gone out': 'She from whom disease (āmaya) is gone'; āmaya takes the feminine -ā.

ANALYSIS निर्गतः आमयः यस्याः सा निरामया

nirgataḥ āmayaḥ yasyāḥ sā nirāmayā

SIGNIFICANCE Free of every affliction of body and mind, She also frees Her devotees from them.

---

877 निरालम्बा nir-ālambā

She who depends on none

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND prādi-bahuvrīhi. 'She from whom support (ālamba) is gone', i.e. who rests on nothing; ālamba takes the feminine -ā.

ANALYSIS निर्गतः आलम्बः यस्याः सा निरालम्बा

nirgataḥ ālambaḥ yasyāḥ sā nirālambā

SIGNIFICANCE She is the support of all and is Herself supported by nothing.

---

878 स्वात्मारामा svātmārāmā

She who rejoices in Her own self

SANDHI स्वात्म = स्व + आत्म (sva + ātma) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ); आत्मारामा = आत्म + आरामा (ātma + ārāmā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (over an inner karmadhāraya and a saptamī-tatpuruṣa). (1) sva-ātman 'one's own self' (karmadhāraya; ātman appears as ātma- with loss of the final n). (2) svātma-ārāma 'delight in one's own self' (saptamī-tatpuruṣa). (3) The whole is a bahuvrīhi: 'She whose delight is in Her own self'.

ANALYSIS स्वः आत्मा स्वात्मा; स्वात्मनि आरामः स्वात्मारामः; स्वात्मारामः यस्याः सा स्वात्मारामा

svaḥ ātmā svātmā; svātmani ārāmaḥ svātmārāmaḥ; svātmārāmaḥ yasyāḥ sā svātmārāmā

SIGNIFICANCE She needs nothing outside Herself for joy; the Upaniṣads call such a one ātmārāma, 'delighting in the Self'.

---

879 सुधासृतिः sudhā-sṛtiḥ

She who is the stream of nectar

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa. sṛti 'flowing, course' is the head and nectar stands to it in the genitive: 'the stream of nectar'. The feminine noun sṛti keeps its nominative -iḥ.

ANALYSIS सुधायाः सृतिः सुधासृतिः

sudhāyāḥ sṛtiḥ sudhāsṛtiḥ

SIGNIFICANCE In the kuṇḍalinī practice nectar flows from the moon in the thousand-petalled lotus once the power reaches it; She is that stream, which drenches the subtle body.

> VARIANTS Some editions read सुधास्रुतिः sudhāsrutiḥ (√sru 'to flow'), with the same sense.

> CORRECTED सुधास्रुतिः / सृतिः → सुधासृतिः. "सुधास्रुतिः / सृतिः" → सुधासृतिः: the verse reads सुधासृतिः; the slash alternative was an editorial note left in the name (sudhāsrutiḥ is a recorded variant).

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Name 880 fills the whole first half; names 881–883 turn to the Vedic sacrifice.

880 संसारपङ्कनिर्मग्नसमुद्धरणपण्डिता

saṃsāra-paṅka-nirmagna-samuddharaṇa-paṇḍitā

She who is skilled in raising those who are immersed in the mire of transmigratory life

SANDHI संसार = सम् + सार (sam + sāra) — the final m of the prefix sam becomes anusvāra before s (Pāṇini 8.3.23 mo 'nusvāraḥ), inside the lexicalised saṃsāra; उद्धरण = उद् + हरण (ud + haraṇa) — after d, h becomes dh, the aspirate of the preceding stop (optional, Pāṇini 8.4.62 jhayo ho 'nyatarasyām)

COMPOUND saptamī-tatpuruṣa (over an inner ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa, a saptamī-tatpuruṣa and a karmadhāraya of identification). (1) saṃsāra-paṅka 'the mire that is saṃsāra' (rūpaka karmadhāraya). (2) ...-nirmagna 'sunk in that mire' (saptamī-tatpuruṣa). (3) ...-samuddharaṇa 'the lifting out of those so sunk' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (4) paṇḍitā 'skilled' is the head, with the rescue as the field of skill in the locative.

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally saṃsāra is a mire in which the soul sinks deeper the more it struggles; She, standing outside it, is expert at lifting the soul out.

881 यज्ञप्रिया yajña-priyā

She who is fond of sacrifices and other rites

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi. 'She to whom sacrifice (yajña) is dear (priya)'; priya takes the feminine -ā.

ANALYSIS यज्ञः प्रियः यस्याः सा यज्ञप्रिया

yajñaḥ priyaḥ yasyāḥ sā yajñapriyā

SIGNIFICANCE Every sacrifice, outer or inner, reaches Her; in Śrīvidyā the inner sacrifice of offering the mind into consciousness is the dearest of all.

882 यज्ञकर्त्री yajña-kartrī

She who is the doer of sacrificial rites

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa. kartrī 'doer, performer' (agent noun from √kṛ) is the head and the sacrifice stands to it in the genitive (on compounds with -tṛ see name 811).

ANALYSIS यज्ञस्य कर्त्री यज्ञकर्त्री

yajñasya kartrī yajñakartrī

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally She is the real agent in every rite; the priest and the patron act by Her power.

883 यजमानस्वरूपिणी yajamāna-svarūpiṇī

She who has the form of the yajamāna, the patron who offers the sacrifice

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND karmadhāraya of identification, made possessive by the suffix -in. (1) yajamāna-svarūpa 'the nature that is the yajamāna' (karmadhāraya of identification). (2) The possessive suffix -in makes it 'She whose own form is the yajamāna'.

ANALYSIS यजमानः एव स्वरूपम् यजमानस्वरूपम्; यजमानस्वरूपम् अस्याः अस्ति इति यजमानस्वरूपिणी

yajamānaḥ eva svarūpam yajamānasvarūpam; yajamānasvarūpam asyāḥ asti iti yajamānasvarūpiṇī

SIGNIFICANCE The yajamāna is one of the eight forms (aṣṭamūrti) of Śiva, with the five elements, the sun and the moon; She bears that form as His power.

THE NAMES

884 धर्माधारा dharmādhārā

She who is the support of dharma

SANDHI धर्माधारा = धर्म + आधारा (dharma + ādhārā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa, used adjectivally. (1) dharma-ādhāra 'the support of dharma' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa, ādhāra the head). The compound is used of Her as an epithet and so takes the feminine -ā; traditionally this is explained by the possessive suffix ac of the arśa-ādi class ('having, being X').

ANALYSIS धर्मस्य आधारः धर्माधारः; धर्माधारः अस्याः अस्ति इति धर्माधारा

dharmasya ādhāraḥ dharmādhāraḥ; dharmādhāraḥ asyāḥ asti iti dharmādhārā

SIGNIFICANCE Dharma upholds the world, and She upholds dharma: She is the ground on which right order stands, as both its source and its protector.

885 धनाध्यक्षा dhanādhyakṣā

She who oversees wealth

SANDHI धनाध्यक्षा = धन + अध्यक्षा (dhana + adhyakṣā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ); अध्यक्षा = अधि + अक्षा (adhi + akṣā) — yaṇ: i becomes y before a dissimilar vowel (Pāṇini 6.1.77 iko yaṇ aci), inside the lexicalised adhyakṣa 'overseer'

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa. adhyakṣā 'overseer, presiding lady' is the head and wealth stands to it in the genitive.

ANALYSIS धनस्य अध्यक्षा धनाध्यक्षा

dhanasya adhyakṣā dhanādhyakṣā

SIGNIFICANCE Dhanādhyakṣa is a title of Kubera, lord of riches; traditionally She is the power behind Kubera and the giver of wealth to those who worship Her.

886 धनधान्यविवर्धिनी dhana-dhānya-vivardhinī

She who increases wealth and harvests

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa (over an inner dvandva). (1) dhana-dhānya 'wealth and grain' (dvandva). (2) vivardhinī 'one who increases' is the head, with the pair in the genitive.

ANALYSIS धनम् च धान्यम् च धनधान्ये; धनधान्ययोः विवर्धिनी धनधान्यविवर्धिनी

dhanam ca dhānyam ca dhanadhānye; dhanadhānyayoḥ vivardhinī dhanadhānyavivardhinī

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally She gives prosperity in money and in food to the householder who worships Her.

887 विप्रप्रिया vipra-priyā

She who is fond of the learned

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi. 'She to whom the learned (vipra) are dear (priya)'; priya takes the feminine -ā.

ANALYSIS विप्राः प्रियाः यस्याः सा विप्रप्रिया

viprāḥ priyāḥ yasyāḥ sā viprapriyā

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally the vipra is one who knows the Veda and Brahman; such knowers are dear to Her.

888 विप्ररूपा vipra-rūpā

She who has the form of the vipra, the knower of the Self

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi. 'She whose form (rūpa) is the vipra'; rūpa takes the feminine -ā.

ANALYSIS विप्रः रूपम् यस्याः सा विप्ररूपा

vipraḥ rūpam yasyāḥ sā viprarūpā

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally She is present in the sage who knows Brahman, and Her worship is completed by honoring such a one.

889 विश्वभ्रमणकारिणी viśva-bhramaṇa-kāriṇī

She who makes the universe go around through Her power of illusion

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa (over an inner ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (1) viśva-bhramaṇa 'the revolving of the universe' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (2) kāriṇī 'one who causes' (√kṛ + -in) is the head, with that revolving as its object.

ANALYSIS विश्वस्य भ्रमणम् विश्वभ्रमणम्; विश्वभ्रमणम् करोति इति विश्वभ्रमणकारिणी

viśvasya bhramaṇam viśvabhramaṇam; viśvabhramaṇam karoti iti viśvabhramaṇakāriṇī

SIGNIFICANCE The Bhagavad Gītā (18.61) says the Lord dwells in the heart of all beings, 'causing them to revolve by māyā as if mounted on a machine'; She turns the worlds and the wandering of souls.

योनिः yoniḥ	source, origin, womb
895 योनिनिलया yoni-nilayā
योनि yoni	source, origin, womb; the central triangle of the Śrīcakra
निलया nilayā	abode nilaya with the feminine -ā

SANSKRIT	ENGLISH
896 कूटस्था kūṭa-sthā
कूट kūṭa	anvil; peak; heap; a group (as the kūṭas of a mantra)
स्था sthā	standing, abiding √sthā + -a, feminine
897 कुलरूपिणी kula-rūpiṇī
कुल kula	family, lineage; in Tantra the Kaula path, and the triad of knower, knowing and known
रूपिणी rūpiṇī	having the form of rūpa 'form' + the possessive suffix -in (ṇ by ṇatva after r), feminine -ī

अयोनिर्योनिनिलया = अयोनिः + योनिनिलया (ayoniḥ + yoninilayā) — visarga after a vowel other than a or ā becomes r before a voiced sound, here y

Divide ayonir yoninilayā (894, 895): the r is the visarga of ayoniḥ. The two names are a deliberate paradox: without source, yet the abode of all sources.

THE NAMES

890 विश्वग्रासा viśva-grāsā

She who devours the universe

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (alternatively upapada-tatpuruṣa). As a bahuvrīhi: 'She whose morsel (grāsa) is the universe'. As an upapada-tatpuruṣa: 'She who swallows the universe' (grāsa from √gras with vṛddhi). The sense is the same.

ANALYSIS विश्वम् ग्रासः यस्याः सा विश्वग्रासा; अथवा विश्वम् ग्रसते इति विश्वग्रासा

viśvam grāsaḥ yasyāḥ sā viśvagrāsā; athavā viśvam grasate iti viśvagrāsā

SIGNIFICANCE At dissolution the whole universe is a mouthful to Her; the Kaṭha Upaniṣad speaks of the one for whom priest and warrior are food and death itself the sauce.

891 विद्रुमाभा vidrumābhā

She who shines like coral (with Her red complexion)

SANDHI विद्रुमाभा = विद्रुम + आभा (vidruma + ābhā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (with an upamāna comparison). 'She whose radiance (ābhā) is like that of coral (vidruma)'. ābhā is already feminine.

ANALYSIS विद्रुमस्य इव आभा यस्याः सा विद्रुमाभा

vidrumasya iva ābhā yasyāḥ sā vidrumābhā

SIGNIFICANCE Her complexion is red like coral, the color of compassion and of the rising sun in which She is meditated.

892 वैष्णवी vaiṣṇavī

She who is the power of Viṣṇu

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE The Devī Māhātmya hails Her as vaiṣṇavī śaktir anantavīryā, 'the power of Viṣṇu, of boundless might, the seed of the universe'; Vaiṣṇavī is also one of the Mātṛkās.

893 विष्णुरूपिणी viṣṇu-rūpiṇī

She who has the form of Viṣṇu, the all-pervading

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND karmadhāraya of identification, made possessive by the suffix -in. (1) viṣṇu-rūpa 'the form that is Viṣṇu'. (2) With the possessive -in: 'She whose form is Viṣṇu'.

ANALYSIS विष्णुः एव रूपम् विष्णुरूपम्; विष्णुरूपम् अस्याः अस्ति इति विष्णुरूपिणी

viṣṇuḥ eva rūpam viṣṇurūpam; viṣṇurūpam asyāḥ asti iti viṣṇurūpiṇī

SIGNIFICANCE The older rendering, 'a form that extends over the whole universe', gives the traditional etymology of Viṣṇu as the pervader; She is that pervading presence.

894 अयोनिः ayoniḥ

She who is without origin

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND nañ-bahuvrīhi. 'She for whom there is no source (yoni)': the negative a- and yoni form a bahuvrīhi. The feminine i-stem keeps its nominative -iḥ.

ANALYSIS न विद्यते योनिः यस्याः सा अयोनिः

na vidyate yoniḥ yasyāḥ sā ayoniḥ

SIGNIFICANCE She is the uncaused source; nothing precedes Her. The next name turns this around: She is the abode of every source.

---

895 योनिनिलया yoni-nilayā

She who is the seat of all origins

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa, used adjectivally. (1) yoni-nilaya 'the abode of the sources' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). The compound is used of Her as an epithet and so takes the feminine -ā; traditionally this is explained by the possessive suffix ac of the arśa-ādi class ('having, being X'). A locative reading, 'She who dwells in the yoni', is also current.

ANALYSIS योनीनाम् निलयः योनिनिलयः; योनिनिलयः अस्याः अस्ति इति योनिनिलया

yonīnām nilayaḥ yoninilayaḥ; yoninilayaḥ asyāḥ asti iti yoninilayā

SIGNIFICANCE In Śrīvidyā the yoni is also the central triangle (trikoṇa) of the Śrīcakra, the womb of the worlds, in which She dwells.

> UNCERTAIN Read as 'the abode of all sources' or as 'She who dwells in the yoni (the central triangle)'.

---

896 कूटस्था kūṭa-sthā

She who remains unchanged like the anvil

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa. stha 'standing' (√sthā + -a after a locative, Pāṇini 3.2.4) with kūṭa as the upapada: 'standing like (on) an anvil', i.e. immovable; feminine -ā.

ANALYSIS कूटे तिष्ठति इति कूटस्था

kūṭe tiṣṭhati iti kūṭasthā

SIGNIFICANCE The Bhagavad Gītā calls the imperishable Self kūṭastha, unchanging like the anvil on which everything is shaped. In Śrīvidyā the name is also read as She who abides in the three kūṭas (sections) of the Pañcadaśī mantra.

897 कुलरूपिणी kula-rūpiṇī

She whose form is kula, the deity of the Kaula path

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND karmadhāraya of identification, made possessive by the suffix -in. (1) kula-rūpa 'the form that is kula'. (2) With the possessive -in: 'She whose form is kula'.

ANALYSIS कुलम् एव रूपम् कुलरूपम्; कुलरूपम् अस्याः अस्ति इति कुलरूपिणी

kulam eva rūpam kularūpam; kularūpam asyāḥ asti iti kularūpiṇī

SIGNIFICANCE In the Kaula tradition kula is Śakti and the whole manifest world, and also the triad of knower, knowing and known; She is all of these and is worshipped as the deity of the Kaula path.

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Name 905 baindavāsanā: the baindava place is the bindu at the center of the Śrīcakra.

THE NAMES

898 वीरगोष्ठीप्रिया vīra-goṣṭhī-priyā

She who is fond of the assembly of warriors

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (over an inner ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (1) vīra-goṣṭhī 'the assembly of heroes' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (2) The whole is a bahuvrīhi: 'She to whom that assembly is dear'.

ANALYSIS वीराणाम् गोष्ठी वीरगोष्ठी; वीरगोष्ठी प्रिया यस्याः सा वीरगोष्ठीप्रिया

vīrāṇām goṣṭhī vīragoṣṭhī; vīragoṣṭhī priyā yasyāḥ sā vīragoṣṭhīpriyā

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally both the gathering of warriors and the circle of Tantric adepts (vīras) who meet for Her worship.

899 वीरा vīrā

She who is heroic

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE Her heroism is shown in the destruction of Bhaṇḍa and the demons; She is also the mother and refuge of heroes (836).

900 नैष्कर्म्या naiṣkarmyā

She who is beyond all action (naiṣkarmya)

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE The Bhagavad Gītā speaks of naiṣkarmya-siddhi, the perfection of freedom from action; though all action flows from Her power, She is untouched by it, being Her own fulfillment.

901 नादरूपिणी nāda-rūpiṇī

She who is in the form of the primal sound

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND karmadhāraya of identification, made possessive by the suffix -in. (1) nāda-rūpa 'the form that is nāda'. (2) With the possessive -in: 'She whose form is nāda'.

ANALYSIS नादः एव रूपम् नादरूपम्; नादरूपम् अस्याः अस्ति इति नादरूपिणी

nādaḥ eva rūpam nādarūpam; nādarūpam asyāḥ asti iti nādarūpiṇī

SIGNIFICANCE In the Tantric account of creation nāda is the first stirring of sound from the bindu, from which the letters and mantras arise; in the mantra it is the subtle resonance after the anusvāra.

902 विज्ञानकलना vijñāna-kalanā

She who is the realization of supreme knowledge (vijñāna)

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa. kalanā 'grasping, realizing' is the head and vijñāna stands to it in the genitive: 'the realizing of (supreme) knowledge'.

ANALYSIS विज्ञानस्य कलना विज्ञानकलना

vijñānasya kalanā vijñānakalanā

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally vijñāna is the direct experience of Brahman as distinct from book-learning; She is that realization itself.

903 कल्या kalyā

She who is able, sound and auspicious

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE Kalya means 'ready, capable' and 'whole, healthy', and also 'auspicious, of the dawn'; She is ever ready to grant what is sought.

> UNCERTAIN kalya has several senses (able, healthy, auspicious; also 'dawn'), and traditional glosses differ; the rendering combines the main ones.

904 विदग्धा vidagdhā

She who is expert in everything

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE She is the accomplished one, skilled in every art and in the conduct of the world.

---

905 बैन्दवासना baindavāsanā

She whose seat is the bindu, the central point of the Śrīcakra

SANDHI बैन्दवासना = बैन्दव + आसना (baindava + āsanā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi. 'She whose seat (āsana) is the baindava', the place of the bindu; āsana takes the feminine -ā.

ANALYSIS बैन्दवम् आसनम् यस्याः सा बैन्दवासना

baindavam āsanam yasyāḥ sā baindavāsanā

SIGNIFICANCE The baindava-sthāna is the innermost point of the Śrīcakra, the sarvānandamaya cakra, where She sits with Kāmeśvara.

सदा sadā	always, ever
शिव śiva	auspicious; Śiva
कुटुम्बिनी kuṭumbinī	mistress of the household, wife kuṭumba 'household' + the possessive suffix -in, feminine -ī

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Name 907 tattvamayī is a single name here (contrast 425–427 tat / tvam / ayī). Name 908 divides tat-tvam-artha ('the meaning of tat and tvam'), not tattva + martha.

THE NAMES

906 तत्त्वाधिका tattvādhikā

She who transcends all cosmic categories

SANDHI तत्त्वाधिका = तत्त्व + अधिका (tattva + adhikā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND pañcamī-tatpuruṣa. adhikā 'exceeding, beyond' is the head and the tattvas stand to it in the ablative of comparison: 'beyond the tattvas'.

ANALYSIS तत्त्वेभ्यः अधिका तत्त्वाधिका tattvebhyaḥ adhikā tattvādhikā

SIGNIFICANCE In Śaiva and Śākta doctrine the world is built of thirty-six tattvas, from earth up to Śiva; She is beyond them all, even the highest.

907 तत्त्वमयी tattva-mayī

She who is Reality itself, consisting of the tattvas

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE Having gone beyond the tattvas (906), She is also made of them: every principle of the world is Her. Traditionally tattva is also read as Śiva, the highest principle, so that the name makes Her one with Him. Here tattvamayī is a single name; earlier in the hymn (425–427) Bhāskararāya divides the same letters into tat, tvam and ayī.

---

908 तत्त्वमर्थस्वरूपिणी tattvam-artha-svarūpiṇī

She whose very nature is the meaning of tat and tvam, That and thou

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa with quoted words as first member, inside a karmadhāraya made possessive by -in. (1) tat-tvam-artha 'the meaning of the words tat and tvam': the two pronouns are quoted from the mahāvākya, so they keep their own form (not the stems tad, yuṣmad), and artha 'meaning' is the head (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (2) That meaning is identified with svarūpa 'own nature'. (3) The possessive -in: 'She whose own nature is the meaning of tat and tvam'. The m of tvam simply stands before the a of artha; no sound changes.

ANALYSIS तत् त्वम् इति पदयोः अर्थः तत्त्वमर्थः; तत्त्वमर्थः एव स्वरूपम् तत्त्वमर्थस्वरूपम्; तत्त्वमर्थस्वरूपम् अस्याः अस्ति इति तत्त्वमर्थस्वरूपिणी

tat tvam iti padayoḥ arthaḥ tattvamarthaḥ; tattvamarthaḥ eva svarūpam tattvamarthasvarūpam; tattvamarthasvarūpam asyāḥ asti iti tattvamarthasvarūpiṇī

SIGNIFICANCE The Chāndogya Upaniṣad's tat tvam asi, 'That thou art', identifies the meaning of tat (Brahman) with the meaning of tvam (the inner Self); She is what both words finally denote, and their identity.

---

909 सामगानप्रिया sāma-gāna-priyā

She who is fond of the chanting of the Sāma Veda

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (over an inner ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (1) sāma-gāna 'the singing of Sāman chants' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa; sāman appears as sāma- with loss of the final n). (2) The whole is a bahuvrīhi: 'She to whom the singing of the Sāmans is dear'.

ANALYSIS साम्नाम् गानम् सामगानम्; सामगानम् प्रियम् यस्याः सा सामगानप्रिया sāmnām gānam sāmagānam; sāmagānam priyam yasyāḥ sā sāmagānapriyā

SIGNIFICANCE The Sāman chants are the Veda set to melody; the Bhagavad Gītā says 'among the Vedas I am the Sāma Veda'. She delights in this music of the Veda.

---

910 सौम्या saumyā

She who is gentle and benign, cool like the moon

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE Saumya is the opposite of fierce: She is mild and pleasing like the moon (soma), though She can also be fierce (827).

---

911 सदाशिवकुटुम्बिनी sadāśiva-kuṭumbinī

She who is the consort of Sadāśiva

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa (over an inner karmadhāraya). (1) sadā-śiva 'ever auspicious', the name of the deity Sadāśiva (the indeclinable sadā qualifies śiva). (2) kuṭumbinī 'mistress of the household, wife' is the head, with Sadāśiva in the genitive.

ANALYSIS सदा शिवः सदाशिवः; सदाशिवस्य कुटुम्बिनी सदाशिवकुटुम्बिनी

sadā śivaḥ sadāśivaḥ; sadāśivasya kuṭumbinī sadāśivakuṭumbinī

SIGNIFICANCE Among the five cosmic functions Sadāśiva presides over grace (anugraha); as His household mistress She is the one who carries out that grace.

917 धीरसमर्चिता dhīra-samarcitā

धीर dhīra	wise, steadfast
समर्चिता samarcitā	fully worshipped sam + √arc 'to worship', past participle, feminine

THE NAMES

912 सव्यापसव्यमार्गस्था savyāpasavya-mārga-sthā

She who occupies (or can be reached by) both the left and right paths of worship

SANDHI सव्यापसव्य = सव्य + अपसव्य (savya + apasavya) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa (over an inner karmadhāraya and a dvandva). (1) savya-apasavya 'left and right' (dvandva). (2) They qualify mārga 'path' (karmadhāraya): 'the left and right paths'. (3) stha 'abiding' (√sthā + -a after a locative, Pāṇini 3.2.4) is the head: 'She who abides in both paths'.

ANALYSIS सव्यम् च अपसव्यम् च सव्यापसव्ये; सव्यापसव्ये मार्गौ सव्यापसव्यमार्गौ; सव्यापसव्यमार्गयोः तिष्ठति इति सव्यापसव्यमार्गस्था

savyam ca apasavyam ca savyāpasavye; savyāpasavye mārgau savyāpasavyamārgau; savyāpasavyamārgayoḥ tiṣṭhati iti savyāpasavyamārgasthā

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally the left (vāma) and right (dakṣiṇa) modes of Tantric worship both lead to Her, and She abides in each.

> UNCERTAIN savya is mostly 'left' but is occasionally used for 'right' in ritual contexts; the name covers both paths either way.

913 सर्वापद्विनिवारिणी sarvāpad-vinivāriṇī

She who removes all dangers

SANDHI सर्वापद् = सर्व + आपद् (sarva + āpad) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa (over an inner karmadhāraya). (1) sarva-āpad 'all calamities' (karmadhāraya). (2) vinivāriṇī 'one who wards off' is the head, with the calamities in the genitive. The final d of āpad is unchanged before v.

ANALYSIS सर्वाः आपदः सर्वापदः; सर्वापदाम् विनिवारिणी सर्वापद्विनिवारिणी

sarvāḥ āpadaḥ sarvāpadaḥ; sarvāpadām vinivāriṇī sarvāpadvinivāriṇī

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally remembering Her name is itself protection in every calamity.

---

914 स्वस्था sva-sthā

She who abides in Herself; She who is free from all afflictions

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa. stha 'abiding' (√sthā + -a after a locative, Pāṇini 3.2.4) with sva 'oneself' as the upapada: 'abiding in Herself'; feminine -ā. As an ordinary adjective svastha also means 'healthy, at ease'.

ANALYSIS स्वे तिष्ठति इति स्वस्था

sve tiṣṭhati iti svasthā

SIGNIFICANCE Resting in Her own nature, She is never disturbed; the everyday sense 'healthy, at ease' gives the second half of the meaning.

---

915 स्वभावमधुरा svabhāva-madhurā

She who is sweet in Her inherent nature

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa (over an inner ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (1) sva-bhāva 'one's own nature' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (2) madhurā 'sweet' is the head, with svabhāva in the instrumental of respect: 'sweet by nature'.

ANALYSIS स्वस्य भावः स्वभावः; स्वभावेन मधुरा स्वभावमधुरा

svasya bhāvaḥ svabhāvaḥ; svabhāvena madhurā svabhāvamadhurā

SIGNIFICANCE Her sweetness is not put on for the devotee: it is Her very nature, the bliss of consciousness.

---

916 धीरा dhīrā

She who is wise; She who gives wisdom

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE Dhīra also means 'steadfast, composed'. The second half of the meaning rests on a traditional etymology, dhiyaṃ rāti, 'She gives wisdom'.

UNCERTAIN The sense 'giver of wisdom' depends on the traditional analysis dhī + √rā; the ordinary meanings are 'wise' and 'steadfast'.

917 धीरसमर्चिता dhīra-samarcitā

She who is worshipped by the wise

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa. The participle samarcitā 'well worshipped' is the head and the wise are its agents in the instrumental.

ANALYSIS धीरैः समर्चिता धीरसमर्चिता

dhīraiḥ samarcitā dhīrasamarcitā

SIGNIFICANCE The Kaṭha Upaniṣad calls the dhīra the one who turns the gaze within and sees the Self; such steadfast sages worship Her.

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Names 918–919 describe inner worship, with consciousness as the arghya and as the flower.

---

918 चैतन्यार्घ्यसमाराध्या caitanyārghya-samārādhyā

She who is to be worshipped with consciousness as the arghya offering

SANDHI चैतन्यार्घ्य = चैतन्य + अर्घ्य (caitanya + arghya) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa (over an inner karmadhāraya of identification). (1) caitanya-arghya 'the arghya that is consciousness' (rūpaka karmadhāraya). (2) The gerundive samārādhyā 'to be worshipped' is the head, with that offering as its instrument.

ANALYSIS चैतन्यम् एव अर्घ्यम् चैतन्यार्घ्यम्; चैतन्यार्घ्येण समाराध्या चैतन्यार्घ्यसमाराध्या

caitanyam eva arghyam caitanyārghyam; caitanyārghyeṇa samārādhyā caitanyārghyasamārādhyā

SIGNIFICANCE In inner worship the arghya is not water but consciousness itself, offered back to its source.

---

919 चैतन्यकुसुमप्रिया caitanya-kusuma-priyā

She who is fond of the flower that is consciousness

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (over an inner karmadhāraya of identification). (1) caitanya-kusuma 'the flower that is consciousness' (rūpaka). (2) The whole is a bahuvrīhi: 'She to whom that flower is dear'.

ANALYSIS चैतन्यम् एव कुसुमम् चैतन्यकुसुमम्; चैतन्यकुसुमम् प्रियम् यस्याः सा चैतन्यकुसुमप्रिया caitanyam eva kusumam caitanyakusumam; caitanyakusumam priyam yasyāḥ sā caitanyakusumapriyā

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally inner virtues such as non-violence, self-control and compassion are the 'flowers' of mental worship; the flower of pure consciousness is the dearest to Her.

---

920 सदोदिता sadoditā

She who is ever risen, ever shining

SANDHI सदोदिता = सदा + उदिता (sadā + uditā) — guṇa: ā + u → o (Pāṇini 6.1.87 ād guṇaḥ)

COMPOUND tatpuruṣa of an indeclinable with a participle (sup-supā samāsa). The indeclinable sadā 'always' qualifies the participle uditā 'risen', the head: 'ever risen'.

ANALYSIS सदा उदिता सदोदिता

sadā uditā sadoditā

SIGNIFICANCE Unlike the sun She never sets: consciousness is always present, in waking, dream and sleep alike.

---

921 सदातुष्टा sadā-tuṣṭā

She who is ever pleased

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND tatpuruṣa of an indeclinable with a participle (sup-supā samāsa). The indeclinable sadā 'always' qualifies the participle tuṣṭā 'pleased', the head.

ANALYSIS सदा तुष्टा सदातुष्टा

sadā tuṣṭā sadātuṣṭā

SIGNIFICANCE Being full in Herself She is always content, and so is easily pleased by Her devotees.

---

922 तरुणादित्यपाटला taruṇāditya-pāṭalā

She who is rosy like the morning sun

SANDHI तरुणादित्य = तरुण + आदित्य (taruṇa + āditya) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND upamāna-karmadhāraya (over an inner karmadhāraya). (1) taruṇa-āditya 'the young (rising) sun' (karmadhāraya). (2) The standard of comparison is compounded with the word for the shared quality, pāṭalā 'rosy' (upamāna-karmadhāraya, Pāṇini 2.1.55): 'rosy as the rising sun'.

ANALYSIS तरुणः आदित्यः तरुणादित्यः; तरुणादित्यः इव पाटला तरुणादित्यपाटला

taruṇaḥ ādityaḥ taruṇādityaḥ; taruṇādityaḥ iva pāṭalā taruṇādityapāṭalā

SIGNIFICANCE Her meditation-form is rosy-red like the rising sun, the color of compassion and of the dawn of knowledge.

926 अनर्घ्यकैवल्यपददायिनी anarghya-kaivalya-pada-dāyinī

अनर्घ्य anarghya	priceless, beyond all valuation nañ (a-, an- before a vowel) + arghya 'to be valued'
कैवल्य kaivalya	kaivalya: final liberation, absolute aloneness abstract noun from kevala 'alone'
पद pada	state, station, abode
दायिनी dāyinī	giver, bestower √dā 'to give' + -in, feminine

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

कौलिनीकेवलाऽनर्घ्या = कौलिनीकेवला + अनर्घ्या... (kaulinīkevalā + anarghya...) — savarṇa-dīrgha: ā + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101); the avagraha marks the absorbed a of anarghya

Name 925 kaulinīkevalā is a single name (some printings write it as two words, which breaks the count); name 926 begins with an-arghya 'priceless', whose initial a is hidden in the long ā (avagraha). In 923 the long ā after the first dakṣiṇa hides the a- of a-dakṣiṇa: right-hand and left-hand worshipers.

---

923 दक्षिणादक्षिणाराध्या dakṣiṇādakṣiṇārādhyā

She who is worshipped by those of the right-hand path and those of the left

SANDHI दक्षिणादक्षिण = दक्षिण + अदक्षिण (dakṣiṇa + adakṣiṇa) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ); दक्षिणादक्षिणाराध्या = दक्षिणादक्षिण + आराध्या (dakṣiṇādakṣiṇa + ārādhyā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa (over an inner itaretara-dvandva, whose second member is a nañ-tatpuruṣa). (1) a-dakṣiṇa 'not of the right' (nañ-tatpuruṣa). (2) dakṣiṇa and adakṣiṇa are joined as a dvandva, 'those of the right and those not of the right'. (3) The gerundive ārādhyā 'to be worshipped' is the head and takes the dvandva in the instrumental of the agent: 'to be worshipped by both'. The long ā after the first dakṣiṇa hides the negative a- of the second member, which is why the name is easily misread as dakṣiṇā + dakṣiṇa.

ANALYSIS न दक्षिणाः अदक्षिणाः; दक्षिणाः च अदक्षिणाः च दक्षिणादक्षिणाः; दक्षिणादक्षिणैः आराध्या दक्षिणादक्षिणाराध्या

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally dakṣiṇa and adakṣiṇa are the right-hand (Vedic, samaya) and left-hand (vāma) modes of worship, and She receives both; the pair is also read as the learned and the unlearned, both of whom reach Her.

> UNCERTAIN Besides right-hand / left-hand ways, the pair is also read as the skillful and the unskillful (learned and unlearned); both readings rest on the same dvandva.

924 दरस्मेरमुखाम्बुजा dara-smera-mukhāmbujā

She whose lotus-face wears a gentle smile

SANDHI मुखाम्बुजा = मुख + अम्बुजा (mukha + ambujā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (over an inner karmadhāraya and an upamita-karmadhāraya). (1) dara-smera 'slightly smiling': the indeclinable dara 'a little' qualifies smera 'smiling'. (2) mukha-ambuja 'the face that is like a lotus': an upamita compound, the face compared to the lotus with the comparison word iva understood. (3) (1) qualifies (2), and the whole is a bahuvrīhi describing Her: 'She whose lotus-face is gently smiling'; ambuja takes the feminine -ā.

ANALYSIS दरम् स्मेरम् दरस्मेरम्; मुखम् अम्बुजम् इव मुखाम्बुजम्; दरस्मेरम् मुखाम्बुजम् यस्याः सा दरस्मेरमुखाम्बुजा

daram smeram darasmeram; mukham ambujam iva mukhāmbujam; darasmeram mukhāmbujam yasyāḥ sā darasmeramukhāmbujā

SIGNIFICANCE The slight smile is traditionally read as the outward sign of Her grace: it reassures the devotee and, in the Purāṇic account, is enough to destroy the demons.

She who, for the followers of the Kaula way, is the Absolute, pure consciousness

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND karmadhāraya (one name made of two co-referential words); a tatpuruṣa reading is also given. Read as one name, kaulinī 'She of the Kula (the Kaula tradition)' and kevalā 'the Absolute, unmixed, alone' stand in apposition: 'the Kaula Goddess who is the Absolute'. A genitive reading, 'the Absolute for the Kaulas', underlies the traditional gloss that the followers of the Kaula way worship Her as pure consciousness. The words meet without sound change.

ANALYSIS कौलिनी च असौ केवला च कौलिनीकेवला; अथवा कौलिनीनाम् केवला कौलिनीकेवला

kaulinī ca asau kevalā ca kaulinīkevalā; athavā kaulinīnām kevalā kaulinīkevalā

SIGNIFICANCE Kula is the whole of manifest reality held together in Śakti; for the Kaula practitioner the Goddess of the Kula is herself kevala, the one consciousness without a second.

UNCERTAIN The internal relation (apposition, or a genitive 'the Absolute for the Kaulas') is not settled; both are traditional and the meaning combines them.

VARIANTS Some printings write कौलिनी केवला as two words; the 1,000-name count requires one name here (see the correction log).

CORRECTED कौलिनी केवला → कौलिनीकेवला. "कौलिनी केवला" → कौलिनीकेवला: counted as one name (925) in the 1,000; written as two words it reads as two names and breaks the count.

926 अनर्घ्यकैवल्यपददायिनी anarghya-kaivalya-pada-dāyinī

She who bestows the priceless state of final liberation (kaivalya)

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa (over an inner karmadhāraya, itself over a nañ-tatpuruṣa and a karmadhāraya). (1) an-arghya 'beyond price' (nañ-tatpuruṣa; na becomes an- before a vowel). (2) kaivalya-pada 'the state that is kaivalya' (karmadhāraya of identity). (3) (1) qualifies (2). (4) dāyinī 'giver' is the head and takes (3) as its object: 'She who gives the priceless state of liberation'.

ANALYSIS न अर्घ्यम् अनर्घ्यम्; कैवल्यम् एव पदम् कैवल्यपदम्; अनर्घ्यम् कैवल्यपदम् अनर्घ्यकैवल्यपदम्; अनर्घ्यकैवल्यपदम् ददाति इति अनर्घ्यकैवल्यपददायिनी

na arghyam anarghyam; kaivalyam eva padam kaivalyapadam; anarghyam kaivalyapadam anarghyakaivalyapadam; anarghyakaivalyapadam dadāti iti anarghyakaivalyapadadāyinī

SIGNIFICANCE Kaivalya, the isolation of the Self from all that is not the Self, is the highest goal; nothing can be paid for it, so it is Her gift alone.

मङ्गल maṅgala	auspicious
आकृतिः ākṛtiḥ	form, shape, appearance ā + √kṛ, feminine noun in -ti

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Name 928 stutimatī is stuti + the possessive suffix -matī ('possessed of praise'), not mati 'mind'; 930 manasvinī and 931 mānavatī are likewise possessive derivatives.

THE NAMES

927 स्तोत्रप्रिया stotra-priyā

She who is fond of hymns in Her praise

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi. stotra 'hymns' and priya 'dear' are co-referential and the compound describes Her: 'She to whom hymns are dear'. priya takes the feminine -ā.

ANALYSIS स्तोत्राणि प्रियाणि यस्याः सा स्तोत्रप्रिया

stotrāṇi priyāṇi yasyāḥ sā stotrapriyā

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally the name assures the reciter that the hymn itself, this Sahasranāma included, is an offering She loves.

928 स्तुतिमती stutimatī

She who is rich in praise, the true object of all praises

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE Every hymn, wherever it is addressed, finally reaches Her; so all praise is Hers.

---

929 श्रुतिसंस्तुतवैभवा śruti-saṃstuta-vaibhavā

She whose glory is extolled by the Śrutis (the Vedas)

SANDHI संस्तुत = सम् + स्तुत (sam + stuta) — the final m of the prefix sam becomes anusvāra before a consonant (Pāṇini 8.3.23 mo 'nusvāraḥ)

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (over an inner tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa). (1) śruti-saṃstuta 'well praised by the Śrutis' (tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa; the participle is the head, the Vedas its agents). (2) This qualifies vaibhava 'glory', and the whole is a bahuvrīhi: 'She whose glory is extolled by the Śrutis'; vaibhava takes the feminine -ā.

ANALYSIS श्रुतिभिः संस्तुतम् श्रुतिसंस्तुतम्; श्रुतिसंस्तुतम् वैभवम् यस्याः सा श्रुतिसंस्तुतवैभवा
śrutibhiḥ saṃstutam śrutisaṃstutam; śrutisaṃstutam vaibhavam yasyāḥ sā śrutisaṃstutavaibhavā

SIGNIFICANCE The Upaniṣads praise Her greatness as the supreme Brahman even where they do not name Her.

---

930 मनस्विनी manasvinī

She who is high-minded, of strong and independent mind

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally: Her mind depends on nothing outside Herself; She is self-determined and steadfast.

---

931 मानवती mānavatī

She who is high-minded, full of dignity and honor

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally māna is also the proud indignation of love, so the name recalls Her loving pride toward Kāmeśvara; She is also the one honored by all.

932 महेशी maheśī

She who is the consort of Maheśa (Śiva), the great sovereign Goddess

SANDHI महेशी = महा + ईशी (mahā + īśī) — guṇa: ā + ī → e (Pāṇini 6.1.87 ād guṇaḥ)

COMPOUND karmadhāraya (maheśa), with the feminine of association; or karmadhāraya on the feminine directly. Two analyses give the same form. (1) mahā-īśa 'the great Lord', Maheśa (Śiva), whose wife is called Maheśī by the feminine of association. (2) mahatī īśī 'the great sovereign Lady' directly, mahatī becoming mahā- in a karmadhāraya (Pāṇini 6.3.42, 6.3.46).

ANALYSIS महान् ईशः महेशः; महेशस्य पत्नी महेशी; अथवा महती ईशी महेशी

mahān īśaḥ maheśaḥ; maheśasya patnī maheśī; athavā mahatī īśī maheśī

SIGNIFICANCE As Maheśī She is Śiva's own power, inseparable from Maheśvara; in Her own right She is the supreme ruler.

933 मङ्गलाकृतिः maṅgalākṛtiḥ

She who is of auspicious form

SANDHI मङ्गलाकृतिः = मङ्गल + आकृतिः (maṅgala + ākṛtiḥ) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi. maṅgala 'auspicious' qualifies ākṛti 'form' and the whole describes Her: 'She whose form is auspicious'. ākṛti is already feminine and keeps its ending; the adjective stands in its basic stem maṅgala.

ANALYSIS मङ्गला आकृतिः यस्याः सा मङ्गलाकृतिः

maṅgalā ākṛtiḥ yasyāḥ sā maṅgalākṛtiḥ

SIGNIFICANCE To see or meditate on Her form is itself auspicious; whatever is auspicious in the world is a reflection of Her.

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Names 939 and 940 play on the same syllables and must be divided differently: param-odārā (parama + udārā) and parām-odā (para + āmodā).

THE NAMES

934 विश्वमाता viśva-mātā

She who is the Mother of the universe

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa. mātā 'mother' is the head; viśva 'the universe' stands to it in the genitive: 'the Mother of the universe'.

ANALYSIS विश्वस्य माता विश्वमाता

viśvasya mātā viśvamātā

SIGNIFICANCE She brings forth the universe and cares for it as a mother cares for her child.

935 जगद्धात्री jagad-dhātrī

She who is the nurse and sustainer of the world

SANDHI जगद्धात्री = जगत् + धात्री (jagat + dhātrī) — jaśtva: a final t becomes d before a voiced sound (Pāṇini 8.2.39 jhalāṃ jaśo 'nte)

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa. dhātrī 'nurse, supporter' is the head; jagat 'the world' stands to it in the genitive: 'the nurse and sustainer of the world'.

ANALYSIS जगतः धात्री जगद्धात्री

jagataḥ dhātrī jagaddhātrī

SIGNIFICANCE After name 934 has called Her Mother, this name calls Her the nurse who feeds and protects what She has brought forth.

---

936 विशालाक्षी viśālākṣī

She who has large eyes

SANDHI विशालाक्षी = विशाल + अक्षी (viśāla + akṣī) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi. viśāla 'wide, large' qualifies akṣi 'eye', and the whole describes Her: 'She whose eyes are large'. At the end of a bahuvrīhi akṣi becomes akṣa (Pāṇini 5.4.113 bahuvrīhau sakthyakṣṇoḥ svāṅgāt ṣac), and the feminine is akṣī.

ANALYSIS विशाले अक्षिणी यस्याः सा विशालाक्षी viśāle akṣiṇī yasyāḥ sā viśālākṣī

SIGNIFICANCE Wide eyes are a classical mark of beauty and also of the all-seeing; Viśālākṣī is the name under which the Goddess is worshipped at Kāśī.

---

937 विरागिणी virāgiṇī

She who is dispassionate

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE Though She enjoys the play of the worlds, nothing in them binds Her; She is the model of the vairāgya the seeker must cultivate.

---

938 प्रगल्भा pragalbhā

She who is skillful and confident

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally: She is accomplished in every art and acts with complete assurance in creating and governing the worlds.

---

939 परमोदारा paramodārā

She who is supremely generous

SANDHI परमोदारा = परम + उदारा (parama + udārā) — guṇa: a + u → o (Pāṇini 6.1.87 ād guṇaḥ)

COMPOUND karmadhāraya. parama 'supreme' qualifies udārā 'generous, noble' (both refer to Her; parama takes its masculine stem by puṃvadbhāva): 'supremely generous'.

ANALYSIS परमा उदारा परमोदारा

paramā udārā paramodārā

SIGNIFICANCE Her generosity has no limit: She gives even Herself to the devotee.

---

940 परामोदा parāmodā

She who is supremely joyful

SANDHI परामोदा = पर + आमोदा (para + āmodā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi. para 'supreme' qualifies āmoda 'joy, delight', and the whole describes Her: 'She whose joy is supreme'; āmoda takes the feminine -ā. The string could also be cut parā + modā (moda 'joy'), with the same sense.

ANALYSIS परः आमोदः यस्याः सा परामोदा

paraḥ āmodaḥ yasyāḥ sā parāmodā

SIGNIFICANCE Her joy is the bliss (ānanda) that is Her very nature, not a joy dependent on anything; āmoda also means fragrance, the 'scent' of that bliss. With 939 it plays on the same syllables: param-odārā, parām-odā.

> UNCERTAIN The usual division is para + āmodā; parā + modā is also possible, with the same sense.

941 मनोमयी manomayī

She who is in the form of the mind

SANDHI मनोमयी = मनस् + मयी (manas + mayī) — the final s of manas becomes u after a and before a voiced consonant, and a + u → o (Pāṇini 6.1.114 haśi ca, with 6.1.87 ād guṇaḥ)

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE In the Taittirīya Upaniṣad the manomaya kośa is the sheath made of mind; She pervades it and is also the power by which the mind thinks.

अधिशायिनी adhiśāyinī	reclining upon adhi + √śī 'to lie' + -in, feminine

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Name 945 recalls the Vāmakeśvara Tantra, a root text of Śrīvidyā. From 946 a run of names begins on pañca 'five' (946–950).

THE NAMES

942 व्योमकेशी vyoma-keśī

She who has the sky as Her hair

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi. vyoman 'sky' is identified with keśa 'hair' (the sky is Her hair), and the whole describes Her; keśa, a body part, takes the feminine -ī (Pāṇini 4.1.54). vyoman drops its final n in the compound.

ANALYSIS व्योम केशाः यस्याः सा व्योमकेशी

vyoma keśāḥ yasyāḥ sā vyomakeśī

SIGNIFICANCE Her cosmic form fills space, its tresses being the sky. Vyomakeśa is also a name of Śiva, so the name is read as well as 'consort of Vyomakeśa'.

943 विमानस्था vimāna-sthā

She who is seated in Her celestial chariot

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa. -sthā 'standing, abiding' (√sthā with the suffix -a, Pāṇini 3.2.4 supi sthaḥ) is the head and takes vimāna in the locative: 'abiding in the celestial car'.

ANALYSIS विमाने तिष्ठति इति विमानस्था

vimāne tiṣṭhati iti vimānasthā

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally She is enthroned in Her aerial car, travelling with the gods; vimāna is also the temple tower over the sanctum, where She dwells as the presiding deity.

---

944 वज्रिणी vajriṇī

She who bears the thunderbolt (vajra)

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally read also as Indrāṇī, the power of Indra the vajra-bearer (vajrin), and as 'She who is adorned with diamonds'.

---

945 वामकेश्वरी vāmakeśvarī

She who is Vāmakeśvarī, the sovereign Goddess of the Vāmakeśvara Tantra

SANDHI वामकेश्वरी = वामक + ईश्वरी (vāmaka + īśvarī) — guṇa: a + ī → e (Pāṇini 6.1.87 ād guṇaḥ)

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa; as a name, the feminine of Vāmakeśvara. Vāmakeśvara, 'the Lord of the vāmaka', is a name of Śiva; Vāmakeśvarī is his consort, or directly 'the Sovereign of the vāmaka'. īśvarī is the head. The name also recalls the Vāmakeśvara Tantra, a root text of Śrīvidyā.

ANALYSIS वामकस्य ईश्वरी वामकेश्वरी; अथवा वामकेश्वरस्य पत्नी वामकेश्वरी

vāmakasya īśvarī vāmakeśvarī; athavā vāmakeśvarasya patnī vāmakeśvarī

SIGNIFICANCE The Vāmakeśvara Tantra (with the Nityāṣoḍaśikārṇava) is a foundational text of Śrīvidyā, and She is its presiding deity, the consort of Vāmakeśvara (Śiva).

> UNCERTAIN The sense of vāmaka (the left-hand way, or 'beauty') is variously explained.

---

946 पञ्चयज्ञप्रिया pañca-yajña-priyā

She who is fond of the five forms of sacrifice

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (over an inner dvigu). (1) pañca-yajña 'the five sacrifices': a numeral compound (dvigu), formed because another member follows (Pāṇini 2.1.51). (2) priyā 'dear' is co-referential, and the whole describes Her: 'She to whom the five sacrifices are dear'.

ANALYSIS पञ्च यज्ञाः पञ्चयज्ञाः; पञ्चयज्ञाः प्रियाः यस्याः सा पञ्चयज्ञप्रिया

pañca yajñāḥ pañcayajñāḥ; pañcayajñāḥ priyāḥ yasyāḥ sā pañcayajñapriyā

SIGNIFICANCE The five are traditionally the śrauta rites agnihotra, darśapūrṇamāsa, cāturmāsya, paśu (animal) and soma sacrifices; they are also read as the five daily mahāyajñas (to the gods, sages, ancestors, beings and humans).

> UNCERTAIN Which five sacrifices are meant (śrauta rites, the five mahāyajñas, or Āgamic five) differs between explanations.

947 पञ्चप्रेतमञ्चाधिशायिनी pañca-preta-mañcādhiśāyinī

She who reclines on a couch made of the five corpses

SANDHI मञ्चाधिशायिनी = मञ्च + अधिशायिनी (mañca + adhiśāyinī) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa (over inner ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa and dvigu). (1) pañca-preta 'the five corpses' (dvigu). (2) pañcapreta-mañca 'the couch of (made of) the five corpses' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (3) adhiśāyinī 'reclining upon' is the head and takes the couch as its object: with adhi, √śī governs the accusative of the place (Pāṇini 1.4.46 adhiśīṅsthāsāṃ karma).

ANALYSIS पञ्च प्रेताः पञ्चप्रेताः; पञ्चप्रेतानाम् मञ्चः पञ्चप्रेतमञ्चः; पञ्चप्रेतमञ्चम् अधिशेते इति पञ्चप्रेतमञ्चाधिशायिनी

pañca pretāḥ pañcapretāḥ; pañcapretānām mañcaḥ pañcapretamañcaḥ; pañcapretamañcam adhiśete iti pañcapretamañcādhiśāyinī

SIGNIFICANCE The five are Brahmā, Viṣṇu, Rudra, Īśvara and Sadāśiva: four form the legs and Sadāśiva the plank. Without Her power even these gods are lifeless (preta); compare name 249, pañcapretāsanāsīnā.

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

The run on 'five' ends with 950 (the five offerings of worship); 951–952 then pair śāśvatī 'eternal' with śāśvataiśvaryā 'whose sovereignty is eternal'.

THE NAMES

948 पञ्चमी pañcamī

She who is the fifth, beyond Brahmā, Viṣṇu, Rudra and Īśvara

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally She is the power of Sadāśiva, the fifth beyond the four gods of creation, maintenance, dissolution and veiling; Pañcamī is also one of the twelve names of Vārāhī, Her commander.

949 पञ्चभूतेशी pañca-bhūteśī

She who is the sovereign of the five elements

SANDHI भूतेशी = भूत + ईशी (bhūta + īśī) — guṇa: a + ī → e (Pāṇini 6.1.87 ād guṇaḥ)

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa (over an inner dvigu). (1) pañca-bhūta 'the five elements' (dvigu). (2) īśī 'sovereign lady' is the head and the elements stand to it in the genitive: 'the sovereign of the five elements'.

ANALYSIS पञ्च भूतानि पञ्चभूतानि; पञ्चभूतानाम् ईशी पञ्चभूतेशी

pañca bhūtāni pañcabhūtāni; pañcabhūtānām īśī pañcabhūteśī

SIGNIFICANCE Earth, water, fire, air and space arise from Her and obey Her; inwardly the five elements are mastered in the five lower cakras, which She rules.

---

950 पञ्चसङ्ख्योपचारिणी pañca-saṅkhyopacāriṇī

She who is worshipped with the fivefold offerings (fragrance, flowers, incense, lamp and food)

SANDHI सङ्ख्या = सम् + ख्या (sam + khyā) — the final m of the prefix sam becomes anusvāra and then the nasal of the following k-row, ṅ (Pāṇini 8.3.23, 8.4.59); सङ्ख्योपचारिणी = सङ्ख्या + उपचारिणी (saṅkhyā + upacāriṇī) — guṇa: ā + u → o (Pāṇini 6.1.87 ād guṇaḥ)

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (over an inner bahuvrīhi), completed by the possessive suffix -in. (1) pañca-saṅkhya 'whose number is five' (bahuvrīhi), qualifying (2) upacāra 'service, offering of worship'. (3) The possessive -in (feminine -iṇī) makes the whole describe Her: 'She who has (receives) the services numbering five'.

ANALYSIS पञ्च सङ्ख्या येषाम् ते पञ्चसङ्ख्याः; पञ्चसङ्ख्याः उपचाराः पञ्चसङ्ख्योपचाराः; पञ्चसङ्ख्योपचाराः अस्याः सन्ति इति पञ्चसङ्ख्योपचारिणी pañca saṅkhyā yeṣām te pañcasaṅkhyāḥ; pañcasaṅkhyāḥ upacārāḥ pañcasaṅkhyopacārāḥ; pañcasaṅkhyopacārāḥ asyāḥ santi iti pañcasaṅkhyopacāriṇī SIGNIFICANCE The pañcopacāra pūjā, the simplest complete worship, offers gandha, puṣpa, dhūpa, dīpa and naivedya; traditionally these also stand for the five elements offered back to Her.

---

951 शाश्वती śāśvatī

She who is eternal

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE Everything with a beginning has an end; She alone has neither.

---

952 शाश्वतैश्वर्या śāśvataiśvaryā

She who holds eternal sovereignty

SANDHI शाश्वतैश्वर्या = शाश्वत + ऐश्वर्या (śāśvata + aiśvaryā) — vṛddhi: a + ai → ai (Pāṇini 6.1.88 vṛddhir eci)

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi. śāśvata 'eternal' qualifies aiśvarya 'sovereignty', and the whole describes Her: 'She whose sovereignty is eternal'; aiśvarya takes the feminine -ā.

ANALYSIS शाश्वतम् ऐश्वर्यम् यस्याः सा शाश्वतैश्वर्या

śāśvatam aiśvaryam yasyāḥ sā śāśvataiśvaryā

SIGNIFICANCE Her rule over the worlds is not acquired and cannot be lost; the powers (aiśvarya) sought by others are Hers by nature.

---

953 शर्मदा śarma-dā

She who is the giver of happiness

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa. -dā 'giving' (√dā with the suffix -a, Pāṇini 3.2.3 āto 'nupasarge kaḥ) is the head and takes śarman as its object: 'giver of happiness'.

ANALYSIS शर्म ददाति इति शर्मदा

śarma dadāti iti śarmadā

SIGNIFICANCE Śarman is both happiness and refuge: She gives the lasting well-being that comes from shelter in Her.

---

954 शम्भुमोहिनी śambhu-mohinī

She who enchants Śambhu (Śiva)

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa. mohinī 'enchantress' (causative of √muh with -in) is the head and takes Śambhu as its object: 'She who enchants Śambhu'.

ANALYSIS शम्भुम् मोहयति इति शम्भुमोहिनी

śambhum mohayati iti śambhumohinī

SIGNIFICANCE Śiva, absorbed in himself, is drawn by Her beauty into union with Her, and from that union creation proceeds.

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

धराधरसुता is divided by Bhāskararāya into two names, dharā 'the Earth' (955) and dharasutā 'daughter of the mountain' (956); there is no sound change at the cut. Read as one word (dharādhara-sutā) it would be a single name and the count of 1,000 would fall short. Names 960–962 form a rising series on atītā 'gone beyond'.

THE NAMES

955 धरा dharā

She who is the Earth, the bearer of all

SANDHI धराधरसुता = धरा + धरसुता (dharā + dharasutā) — no sound change: a name boundary, not a sandhi. Bhāskararāya divides the verse's धराधरसुता into two names, dharā (955) and dharasutā (956); read as one word, dharādhara-sutā, it would be a single name 'daughter of the mountain', and the count of 1,000 needs two

SIGNIFICANCE As the earth bears all beings patiently, She bears the whole universe.

---

956 धरसुता dhara-sutā

She who is the daughter of the mountain (Himavat)

SANDHI धराधरसुता = धरा + धरसुता (dharā + dharasutā) — no sound change: a name boundary, not a sandhi. Bhāskararāya divides the verse's धराधरसुता into two names, dharā (955) and dharasutā (956); read as one word, dharādhara-sutā, it would be a single name 'daughter of the mountain', and the count of 1,000 needs two

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa. sutā 'daughter' is the head; dhara 'the mountain' stands to it in the genitive: 'the daughter of the mountain', Pārvatī, daughter of Himavat.

ANALYSIS धरस्य सुता धरसुता

dharasya sutā dharasutā

SIGNIFICANCE As Pārvatī She is born as the daughter of Himavat, king of mountains, to become Śiva's bride.

---

957 धन्या dhanyā

She who possesses great wealth; She who is supremely blessed

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE Every kind of fortune is Hers, and those who worship Her become blessed (dhanya) too.

---

958 धर्मिणी dharmiṇī

She who is righteous

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE Dharma is Her own nature; She is also the one who upholds it in the world.

---

959 धर्मवर्धिनी dharma-vardhinī

She who promotes righteousness

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa. vardhinī 'increaser' (causative of √vṛdh with -in) is the head and takes dharma as its object: 'She who makes dharma grow'.

ANALYSIS धर्मम् वर्धयति इति धर्मवर्धिनी

dharmam vardhayati iti dharmavardhinī

SIGNIFICANCE She strengthens dharma in the world and in the life of the devotee.

---

960 लोकातीता lokātītā

She who transcends the worlds

SANDHI लोकातीता = लोक + अतीता (loka + atītā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND dvitīyā-tatpuruṣa. The participle atītā 'gone beyond' is the head and takes the first member as its object in the accusative; atīta is one of the words that form such compounds (Pāṇini 2.1.24 dvitīyā śrita-atīta-patita-gata-atyasta-prāpta-āpannaiḥ).

ANALYSIS लोकान् अतीता लोकातीता

lokān atītā lokātītā

SIGNIFICANCE She pervades all the worlds and yet is not contained by them.

---

961 गुणातीता guṇātītā

She who transcends the guṇas

SANDHI गुणातीता = गुण + अतीता (guṇa + atītā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND dvitīyā-tatpuruṣa. The participle atītā 'gone beyond' is the head and takes the first member as its object in the accusative; atīta is one of the words that form such compounds (Pāṇini 2.1.24 dvitīyā śrita-atīta-patita-gata-atyasta-prāpta-āpannaiḥ).

ANALYSIS गुणान् अतीता गुणातीता

guṇān atītā guṇātītā

SIGNIFICANCE As nirguṇa Brahman She stands beyond sattva, rajas and tamas, though She wields them in creation (name 984).

---

962 सर्वातीता sarvātītā

She who transcends everything

SANDHI सर्वातीता = सर्व + अतीता (sarva + atītā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND dvitīyā-tatpuruṣa. The participle atītā 'gone beyond' is the head and takes the first member as its object in the accusative; atīta is one of the words that form such compounds (Pāṇini 2.1.24 dvitīyā śrita-atīta-patita-gata-atyasta-prāpta-āpannaiḥ).

ANALYSIS सर्वम् अतीता सर्वातीता

sarvam atītā sarvātītā

SIGNIFICANCE The three names 960–962 widen step by step: beyond the worlds, beyond the qualities that make them, beyond all that is.

---

963 शमात्मिका śamātmikā

She whose very nature is tranquility

SANDHI शमात्मिका = शम + आत्मिका (śama + ātmikā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi. śama 'tranquility' is identified with ātman 'self, nature', and the whole describes Her: 'She whose very nature is tranquility'. The bahuvrīhi takes the suffix -ka, whose a becomes i before the feminine -ā (ātmikā).

ANALYSIS शमः आत्मा यस्याः सा शमात्मिका

śamaḥ ātmā yasyāḥ sā śamātmikā

SIGNIFICANCE Śama, the stilling of the mind, heads the Vedāntic disciplines; She is that peace itself, and grants it.

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

प्रीताऽऽशोभना = प्रीता + आशोभना (prītā + āśobhanā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: ā + ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101); the doubled avagraha marks the absorbed long ā

Name 972 is āśobhanā (Bhāskararāya's division of prītā + āśobhanā); the sound would be the same with prītā + śobhanā, so the doubled avagraha records the reading. Name 976 Tripurāmbikā is the presiding deity of the eighth enclosure of the Śrīcakra.

THE NAMES

971 सुवासिन्यर्चनप्रीता suvāsiny-arcana-prītā

She who is pleased by the worship of suvāsinīs (auspicious married women)

SANDHI सुवासिन्यर्चन = सुवासिनी + अर्चन (suvāsinī + arcana) — yaṇ: ī → y before an unlike vowel (Pāṇini 6.1.77 iko yaṇ aci)

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa (over an inner ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (1) suvāsinī-arcana 'the worship of suvāsinīs' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa; the genitive is read as objective: the suvāsinīs are honored). (2) prītā 'pleased' is the head and takes (1) in the instrumental of cause: 'pleased by the worship of suvāsinīs'. The genitive could also be subjective, 'worship performed by suvāsinīs'.

ANALYSIS सुवासिनीनाम् अर्चनम् सुवासिन्यर्चनम्; सुवासिन्यर्चनेन प्रीता सुवासिन्यर्चनप्रीता

suvāsinīnām arcanam suvāsinyarcanam; suvāsinyarcanena prītā suvāsinyarcanaprītā

SIGNIFICANCE In Śrīvidyā practice suvāsinī-pūjā honors married women as living forms of the Goddess; She takes that honor as given to Herself.

> UNCERTAIN suvāsinī-arcana may mean worship OF suvāsinīs (the Śrīvidyā rite of suvāsinī-pūjā) or worship BY them; the first is followed.

972 आशोभना āśobhanā

She who is radiant through and through

SANDHI प्रीताऽऽशोभना = प्रीता + आशोभना (prītā + āśobhanā) — savarṇa-dīrgha across the name boundary: ā + ā → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101); the doubled avagraha marks the absorbed long ā. Bhāskararāya reads the name as ā-śobhanā; the sounds would be the same if one cut prītā + śobhanā, so the division is his reading, not a sound change inside the name COMPOUND prādi-tatpuruṣa. The preposition ā 'all around, fully' qualifies śobhanā 'radiant, beautiful': 'radiant on every side, entirely beautiful'. Read without ā (śobhanā), the sense would be simply 'the beautiful one'.

ANALYSIS आ समन्तात् शोभना आशोभना

ā samantāt śobhanā āśobhanā

SIGNIFICANCE Her beauty has no flaw or side that is not radiant; it shines inwardly as purity of mind (name 973) as well as outwardly.

> UNCERTAIN The verse string can be cut prītā + āśobhanā or prītā + śobhanā with identical sound; Bhāskararāya's division (āśobhanā) is followed.

973 शुद्धमानसा śuddha-mānasā

She whose mind is pure; She who purifies the minds of Her worshipers

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi. śuddha 'pure' qualifies mānasa 'mind', and the whole describes Her: 'She whose mind is pure'; mānasa takes the feminine -ā. Read as an instrumental bahuvrīhi (śuddhaṃ mānasaṃ yayā), it means 'She by whom the mind is purified'.

ANALYSIS शुद्धम् मानसम् यस्याः सा शुद्धमानसा

śuddham mānasam yasyāḥ sā śuddhamānasā

SIGNIFICANCE Her own awareness is untouched by any impurity, and meditation on Her purifies the devotee's mind.

974 बिन्दुतर्पणसन्तुष्टा bindu-tarpaṇa-santuṣṭā

She who is pleased by the libations offered at the bindu of the Śrīcakra

SANDHI सन्तुष्टा = सम् + तुष्टा (sam + tuṣṭā) — the final m of the prefix sam becomes anusvāra and then the nasal of the following t-row, n (Pāṇini 8.3.23, 8.4.59)

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa (over an inner saptamī-tatpuruṣa). (1) bindu-tarpaṇa 'the libation offered at the bindu' (saptamī-tatpuruṣa). (2) santuṣṭā 'fully satisfied' is the head and takes (1) in the instrumental: 'satisfied by the libations at the bindu'.

ANALYSIS बिन्दौ तर्पणम् बिन्दुतर्पणम्; बिन्दुतर्पणेन सन्तुष्टा बिन्दुतर्पणसन्तुष्टा

bindau tarpaṇam bindutarpaṇam; bindutarpaṇena santuṣṭā bindutarpaṇasantuṣṭā

SIGNIFICANCE In Śrīcakra worship tarpaṇa is offered to Her at the central bindu; inwardly the bindu is in the sahasrāra, where the nectar of union satisfies Her.

---

975 पूर्वजा pūrva-jā

She who is the first-born, preceding all

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa. -jā 'born' (√jan with the suffix -a) is the head; pūrva 'before, first' qualifies it adverbially: 'born first'.

ANALYSIS पूर्वम् जाता पूर्वजा

pūrvam jātā pūrvajā

SIGNIFICANCE Before the gods and the worlds came to be, She was; She is the primordial power from which all else is born.

---

976 त्रिपुराम्बिका tripurāmbikā

She who is the Mother of the three cities (tripuras)

SANDHI त्रिपुराम्बिका = त्रिपुर + अम्बिका (tripura + ambikā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa (over an inner dvigu); or karmadhāraya. (1) tri-pura 'the three cities' (dvigu). (2) ambikā 'mother' is the head and the cities stand to it in the genitive: 'the Mother of the three cities'. As a karmadhāraya, Tripurā (the Goddess) and Ambikā are one: 'Tripurā the Mother' (then tripurā + ambikā, ā + a → ā).

ANALYSIS त्रयाणाम् पुराणाम् समाहारः त्रिपुरम्; त्रिपुराणाम् अम्बिका त्रिपुराम्बिका; अथवा त्रिपुरा च असौ अम्बिका च त्रिपुराम्बिका

trayāṇām purāṇām samāhāraḥ tripuram; tripurāṇām ambikā tripurāmbikā; athavā tripurā ca asau ambikā ca tripurāmbikā

SIGNIFICANCE Tripurāmbā is the presiding deity (cakreśvarī) of the eighth enclosure of the Śrīcakra, the inner triangle; the three cities are read as every triad: the three worlds, bodies, states and powers.

UNCERTAIN Genitive ('Mother of the three cities') and appositional ('Tripurā the Mother') analyses are both current.

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Names 977–983 concern the ten mudrās of Śrīcakra worship and the deities of its enclosures: 978 Tripurāśrī presides over the fifth enclosure; 982 yonimudrā and 983 trikhaṇḍā (in the next śloka) are the ninth and tenth mudrās. Tripurāśrī is one deity's name: divide tripurāśrī-vaśaṅkarī.

THE NAMES

977 दशमुद्रासमाराध्या daśa-mudrā-samārādhyā

She who is worshipped with the ten mudrās

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa (over an inner dvigu). (1) daśa-mudrā 'the ten mudrās' (dvigu). (2) samārādhyā 'to be worshipped fully' is the head and takes (1) in the instrumental: 'to be worshipped with the ten mudrās'.

ANALYSIS दश मुद्राः दशमुद्राः; दशमुद्राभिः समाराध्या दशमुद्रासमाराध्या

daśa mudrāḥ daśamudrāḥ; daśamudrābhiḥ samārādhyā daśamudrāsamārādhyā

SIGNIFICANCE The ten mudrās of Śrīcakra worship are Sarvasaṅkṣobhiṇī, Sarvavidrāviṇī, Sarvākarṣiṇī, Sarvavaśaṅkarī, Sarvonmādinī, Sarvamahāṅkuśā, Sarvakhecarī, Sarvabījā, Sarvayoni and Sarvatrikhaṇḍā; each is both a gesture and a goddess of an enclosure.

978 त्रिपुराश्रीवशङ्करी tripurāśrī-vaśaṅkarī

She who holds Tripurāśrī under Her sway

SANDHI वशङ्करी = वशम् + करी (vaśam + karī) — the m of vaśam becomes anusvāra and then the nasal of the following k-row, ṅ (Pāṇini 8.3.23, 8.4.59)

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa. vaśaṅkarī 'one who brings under control' (vaśa + √kṛ, with the augment m that keeps vaśam's form, Pāṇini 6.3.67) is the head, and Tripurāśrī is the one brought under Her sway.

ANALYSIS त्रिपुराश्रियम् वशम् करोति इति त्रिपुराश्रीवशङ्करी

tripurāśriyam vaśam karoti iti tripurāśrīvaśaṅkarī

SIGNIFICANCE Tripurāśrī is the cakreśvarī of the fifth enclosure (sarvārthasādhaka cakra); traditionally Tripurāśrī is also read as the fortune (śrī) of the three worlds, which She commands.

> UNCERTAIN Tripurāśrī as the fifth-enclosure deity and as 'the fortune of the three worlds' are both traditional readings.

979 ज्ञानमुद्रा jñāna-mudrā

She who is in the form of the jñāna mudrā

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa. mudrā 'gesture' is the head; jñāna stands to it in the genitive: 'the gesture of knowledge'.

ANALYSIS ज्ञानस्य मुद्रा ज्ञानमुद्रा

jñānasya mudrā jñānamudrā

SIGNIFICANCE In the jñāna (cin) mudrā the index finger, the individual self, bows to join the thumb, the supreme: She is the knowledge that gesture teaches.

980 ज्ञानगम्या jñāna-gamyā

She who is to be reached through knowledge

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa. The gerundive gamyā 'to be reached' is the head and takes jñāna in the instrumental: 'to be reached through knowledge'.

ANALYSIS ज्ञानेन गम्या ज्ञानगम्या

jñānena gamyā jñānagamyā

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally the knowledge is the realization of identity with Her, the path of jñāna.

981 ज्ञानज्ञेयस्वरूपिणी jñāna-jñeya-svarūpiṇī

She who is both knowledge and the known

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND dvandva and karmadhāraya, completed by the possessive suffix -in. (1) jñāna-jñeya 'knowledge and the knowable' (itaretara-dvandva). (2) That pair is identified with svarūpa 'own form, nature'. (3) The possessive -in (feminine -iṇī) makes the whole describe Her: 'She whose own nature is both knowledge and the known'.

ANALYSIS ज्ञानम् च ज्ञेयम् च ज्ञानज्ञेये; ज्ञानज्ञेये एव स्वरूपम् ज्ञानज्ञेयस्वरूपम्; ज्ञानज्ञेयस्वरूपम् अस्याः अस्ति इति ज्ञानज्ञेयस्वरूपिणी

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

त्रिगुणाम्बा = त्रिगुणा + अम्बा (triguṇā + ambā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: ā + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101); Bhāskararāya reads two names here, triguṇā (984) and ambā (985)

अनघाऽद्भुत = अनघा + अद्भुत... (anaghā + adbhuta...) — savarṇa-dīrgha: ā + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101); the avagraha marks the absorbed a of adbhuta

त्रिगुणाम्बा holds two names, triguṇā and ambā; and 988 begins with adbhuta, its initial a hidden after anaghā (avagraha).

982 योनिमुद्रा yoni-mudrā

She who is in the form of the yoni mudrā

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa. mudrā 'gesture' is the head; yoni 'source, womb' stands to it in the genitive: 'the gesture of the yoni'.

ANALYSIS योनेः मुद्रा योनिमुद्रा

yoneḥ mudrā yonimudrā

SIGNIFICANCE The yoni mudrā is the ninth of the ten mudrās of Śrīcakra worship (Sarvayoni); it shows Her as the source of all.

983 त्रिखण्डेशी tri-khaṇḍeśī

She who is the sovereign of the Trikhaṇḍā, the tenth mudrā

SANDHI त्रिखण्डेशी = त्रिखण्डा + ईशी (trikhaṇḍā + īśī) — guṇa: ā + ī → e (Pāṇini 6.1.87 ād guṇaḥ)

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa (over an inner bahuvrīhi). (1) tri-khaṇḍā 'that which has three parts', the name of the tenth mudrā (bahuvrīhi). (2) īśī 'sovereign lady' is the head and the mudrā stands to it in the genitive: 'the sovereign of the Trikhaṇḍā'.

ANALYSIS त्रयः खण्डाः यस्याः सा त्रिखण्डा; त्रिखण्डायाः ईशी त्रिखण्डेशी

trayaḥ khaṇḍāḥ yasyāḥ sā trikhaṇḍā; trikhaṇḍāyāḥ īśī trikhaṇḍeśī

SIGNIFICANCE Trikhaṇḍā (Sarvatrikhaṇḍā) is the tenth mudrā, used in invoking Her; traditionally the three parts are also the three kūṭas (sections) of the Pañcadaśī mantra, so She rules the mantra itself.

> UNCERTAIN Trikhaṇḍā as the tenth mudrā, or the three kūṭas of the Pañcadaśī mantra: both are traditional.

984 त्रिगुणा tri-guṇā

She who is endowed with the three guṇas of sattva, rajas and tamas

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi. tri 'three' qualifies guṇa 'quality', and the whole describes Her: 'She who has the three guṇas'; guṇa takes the feminine -ā.

ANALYSIS त्रयः गुणाः यस्याः सा त्रिगुणा

trayaḥ guṇāḥ yasyāḥ sā triguṇā

SIGNIFICANCE As Prakṛti She wields the three qualities in creating, sustaining and dissolving, though Herself beyond them (name 961). Her final ā absorbs the a of the next name, ambā.

---

985 अम्बा ambā

She who is the Mother of all beings, the Mother of the universe

SANDHI त्रिगुणाम्बा = त्रिगुणा + अम्बा (triguṇā + ambā) — savarṇa-dīrgha across the name boundary: ā + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101). Bhāskararāya reads the verse's त्रिगुणाम्बा as two names, triguṇā (984) and ambā (985); the initial a of ambā is absorbed into the long ā

COMPOUND not a compound

SIGNIFICANCE The simplest of Her names, the child's word for mother; traditionally the triad triguṇā-ambā is read as the Mother who works through the three guṇas.

> UNCERTAIN triguṇāmbā can also be read as one word, 'the Mother of the three guṇas'; the 1,000-name count follows Bhāskararāya's two names.

---

986 त्रिकोणगा tri-koṇa-gā

She who resides in the triangle

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa (over an inner bahuvrīhi). (1) tri-koṇa 'that which has three angles', a triangle (bahuvrīhi). (2) -gā 'going, abiding' (√gam with the suffix -a) is the head and takes the triangle in the locative: 'She who abides in the triangle'.

ANALYSIS त्रयः कोणाः यस्य तत् त्रिकोणम्; त्रिकोणे गच्छति इति त्रिकोणगा

trayaḥ koṇāḥ yasya tat trikoṇam; trikoṇe gacchati iti trikoṇagā

SIGNIFICANCE The inner triangle of the Śrīcakra surrounds the bindu and is Her seat (the eighth enclosure); inwardly it is the triangle in the mūlādhāra and the kāmakalā.

---

987 अनघा anaghā

She who is sinless

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND nañ-bahuvrīhi. nañ 'not' with agha 'sin': 'She in whom there is no sin'. na becomes an- before a vowel; the members meet without further sound change.

ANALYSIS न विद्यते अघम् यस्याः सा अनघा

na vidyate agham yasyāḥ sā anaghā

SIGNIFICANCE No sin or impurity touches Her, and She removes the sins of those who remember Her.

---

988 अद्भुतचारित्रा adbhuta-cāritrā

She whose deeds are marvelous

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi. adbhuta 'wondrous' qualifies cāritra 'conduct, deeds', and the whole describes Her: 'She whose deeds are wondrous'; cāritra takes the feminine -ā.

ANALYSIS अद्भुतम् चारित्रम् यस्याः सा अद्भुतचारित्रा

adbhutam cāritram yasyāḥ sā adbhutacāritrā

SIGNIFICANCE Her deeds, from slaying Bhaṇḍa to granting liberation, surpass anything the mind can measure.

---

989 वाञ्छितार्थप्रदायिनी vāñchitārtha-pradāyinī

She who grants what is desired

SANDHI वाञ्छितार्थ = वाञ्छित + अर्थ (vāñchita + artha) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND upapada-tatpuruṣa (over an inner karmadhāraya). (1) vāñchita-artha 'desired objects' (karmadhāraya). (2) pradāyinī 'giver' is the head and takes (1) as its object: 'She who gives the desired objects'.

ANALYSIS वाञ्छिताः अर्थाः वाञ्छितार्थाः; वाञ्छितार्थान् प्रददाति इति वाञ्छितार्थप्रदायिनी

vāñchitāḥ arthāḥ vāñchitārthāḥ; vāñchitārthān pradadāti iti vāñchitārthapradāyinī

SIGNIFICANCE Traditionally She grants each worshiper what they seek, and in the end leads them to desire only Her.

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

मूर्तिरज्ञान = मूर्तिः + अज्ञान... (mūrtiḥ + ajñāna...) — visarga after a vowel other than a/ā becomes r before a voiced sound (here the vowel a)

The r before ajñāna belongs to name 992 (mūrtiḥ); name 993 begins ajñāna. Name 991's 'six paths' are the six adhvans of the Āgamas.

THE NAMES

990 अभ्यासातिशयज्ञाता abhyāsātiśaya-jñātā

She who is known through intense and sustained spiritual practice

SANDHI अभ्यास = अभि + आस (abhi + āsa) — yaṇ: i → y before an unlike vowel (Pāṇini 6.1.77 iko yaṇ aci), at the prefix junction of abhi + āsa; अभ्यासातिशय = अभ्यास + अतिशय (abhyāsa + atiśaya) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa (over an inner ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (1) abhyāsa-atiśaya 'the intensity (excess) of practice' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa; atiśaya is the head). (2) The participle jñātā 'known' is the head of the whole and takes (1) in the instrumental of means: 'known through intense practice'.

ANALYSIS अभ्यासस्य अतिशयः अभ्यासातिशयः; अभ्यासातिशयेन ज्ञाता अभ्यासातिशयज्ञाता abhyāsasya atiśayaḥ abhyāsātiśayaḥ; abhyāsātiśayena jñātā abhyāsātiśayajñātā

SIGNIFICANCE The Bhagavad Gītā (6.35) teaches that the restless mind is held by practice (abhyāsa) and dispassion; She is realized when that practice becomes wholehearted and continuous.

991 षडध्वातीतरूपिणी ṣaḍadhvātīta-rūpiṇī

She whose form transcends the six paths

SANDHI षडध्व = षष् + अध्व (ṣaṣ + adhva) — jaśtva: the final ṣ of ṣaṣ 'six' becomes the voiced stop ḍ at the word boundary before a vowel (Pāṇini 8.2.39 jhalāṃ jaśo 'nte); षडध्वातीत = षडध्व + अतीत (ṣaḍadhva + atīta) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND possessive in -in over a karmadhāraya, with an inner dvitīyā-tatpuruṣa and dvigu. (1) ṣaḍ-adhvan 'the six paths' (dvigu; adhvan drops its n). (2) ṣaḍadhva-atīta 'gone beyond the six paths' (dvitīyā-tatpuruṣa with atīta, Pāṇini 2.1.24). (3) This qualifies rūpa 'form' (karmadhāraya), and the possessive -in (feminine -iṇī) makes the whole describe Her: 'She whose form transcends the six paths'.

ANALYSIS षट् अध्वानः षडध्वानः; षडध्वनः अतीतम् षडध्वातीतम्; षडध्वातीतम् रूपम् षडध्वातीतरूपम्; तत् अस्याः अस्ति इति षडध्वातीतरूपिणी

SIGNIFICANCE In the Āgamas the six adhvans are the six 'paths' by which the cosmos unfolds: varṇa, pada and mantra on the side of sound, and kalā, tattva and bhuvana on the side of objects. Her true form lies beyond all six.

992 अव्याजकरुणामूर्तिः avyāja-karuṇā-mūrtiḥ

She who is the embodiment of compassion that asks for no reason

SANDHI व्याज = वि + आज (vi + āja) — yaṇ: i → y before an unlike vowel (Pāṇini 6.1.77 iko yaṇ aci), at the prefix junction of vi + āja

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa (over an inner karmadhāraya and a nañ-bahuvrīhi). (1) a-vyāja 'without pretext or motive' (nañ-bahuvrīhi). (2) It qualifies karuṇā 'compassion' (karmadhāraya; puṃvadbhāva gives avyāja-): 'compassion that needs no reason'. (3) mūrti 'embodiment' is the head and the compassion stands to it in the genitive: 'the embodiment of unconditional compassion'. A karmadhāraya reading ('the form that is itself such compassion') gives the same sense.

ANALYSIS न विद्यते व्याजः यस्याः सा अव्याजा; अव्याजा करुणा अव्याजकरुणा; अव्याजकरुणायाः मूर्तिः अव्याजकरुणामूर्तिः

na vidyate vyājaḥ yasyāḥ sā avyājā; avyājā karuṇā avyājakaruṇā; avyājakaruṇāyāḥ mūrtiḥ avyājakaruṇāmūrtiḥ

SIGNIFICANCE Her compassion does not wait for merit or devotion; it is Her nature, as a mother's love precedes the child's deserving.

993 अज्ञानध्वान्तदीपिका ajñāna-dhvānta-dīpikā

She who is the bright lamp that dispels the darkness of ignorance

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa (over an inner rūpaka-karmadhāraya and a nañ-tatpuruṣa). (1) a-jñāna 'ignorance' (nañ-tatpuruṣa). (2) ajñāna-dhvānta 'the darkness that is ignorance' (karmadhāraya of identification, rūpaka). (3) dīpikā 'lamp' is the head and the darkness stands to it in the genitive: 'the lamp for the darkness of ignorance', i.e. the lamp that dispels it.

ANALYSIS न ज्ञानम् अज्ञानम्; अज्ञानम् एव ध्वान्तम् अज्ञानध्वान्तम्; अज्ञानध्वान्तस्य दीपिका अज्ञानध्वान्तदीपिका

SIGNIFICANCE As one lamp ends the darkness of a room at once, knowledge of Her ends ignorance, however long it has lasted.

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

Name 994: gopa is 'cowherd' (not 'beetle'), and ā- is inclusive, 'down to'. Names 996–997 name the Śrīcakra and Tripurasundarī, the yantra and the presiding deity of Śrīvidyā, as the hymn closes; 997 is spelled with tt (śrīmat + tripura).

THE NAMES

994 आबालगोपविदिता ābāla-gopa-viditā

She who is known by all, even by children and cowherds

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND avyayībhāva over an itaretara-dvandva, joined to the participle. (1) bāla-gopa 'children and cowherds' (dvandva). (2) ā 'up to, including' with it forms an avyayībhāva, ābālagopam 'down to children and cowherds' (Pāṇini 2.1.13 āṅ maryādābhividhyoḥ; here inclusive). (3) This qualifies the participle viditā 'known': 'known to all, down to children and cowherds'.

bālāḥ ca gopāḥ ca bālagopāḥ; ā bālagopebhyaḥ ābālagopam; ābālagopam viditā ābālagopaviditā

SIGNIFICANCE No learning is needed to know Her: even children and cowherds know Her as the Mother, present in every heart.

> UNCERTAIN The outer link of the avyayībhāva to the participle viditā is loose; it may also be read as an instrumental, 'known by (all) down to children and cowherds'.

995 सर्वानुल्लङ्घ्यशासना sarvānullaṅghya-śāsanā

She whose command no one can transgress

SANDHI सर्वानुल्लङ्घ्य = सर्व + अनुल्लङ्घ्य (sarva + anullaṅghya) — savarṇa-dīrgha: a + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ); उल्लङ्घ्य = उद् + लङ्घ्य (ud + laṅghya) — the prefix ud assimilates to the following l: d becomes l (Pāṇini 8.4.60 tor li)

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (over an inner tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa and a nañ-tatpuruṣa). (1) an-ullaṅghya 'not to be transgressed' (nañ-tatpuruṣa; na becomes an- before a vowel). (2) sarva-anullaṅghya 'not to be transgressed by anyone' (tṛtīyā-tatpuruṣa, the instrumental of the agent with the gerundive). (3) This qualifies śāsana 'command', and the whole is a bahuvrīhi: 'She whose command no one can transgress'.

ANALYSIS न उल्लङ्घ्यम् अनुल्लङ्घ्यम्; सर्वैः अनुल्लङ्घ्यम् सर्वानुल्लङ्घ्यम्; सर्वानुल्लङ्घ्यम् शासनम् यस्याः सा सर्वानुल्लङ्घ्यशासना

na ullaṅghyam anullaṅghyam; sarvaiḥ anullaṅghyam sarvānullaṅghyam; sarvānullaṅghyam śāsanam yasyāḥ sā sarvānullaṅghyaśāsanā

SIGNIFICANCE Even the gods, the sun, fire and wind act under Her command; the order of the cosmos is Her unbroken law.

996 श्रीचक्रराजनिलया śrī-cakra-rāja-nilayā

She who abides in the Śrīcakra, the king of cakras

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND bahuvrīhi (over an inner karmadhāraya and ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (1) cakra-rāja 'the king of cakras' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa; rājan becomes rāja at the end of a tatpuruṣa, Pāṇini 5.4.91 rājāhaḥsakhibhyaṣ ṭac). (2) śrī qualifies it: 'the glorious king of cakras', the Śrīcakra. (3) nilaya 'abode' is identified with it, and the whole describes Her: 'She whose abode is the Śrīcakra, king of cakras'; nilaya takes the feminine -ā.

cakrāṇām rājā cakrarājaḥ; śrīyuktaḥ cakrarājaḥ śrīcakrarājaḥ; śrīcakrarājaḥ nilayaḥ yasyāḥ sā śrīcakrarājanilayā

SIGNIFICANCE The Śrīcakra is Her own form as yantra and the supreme diagram of Śrīvidyā worship; the hymn now names it as Her dwelling as it draws to a close.

> UNCERTAIN The compound can also be read śrī + cakrarāja, 'the glorious king of cakras'; both name the Śrīcakra.

---

997 श्रीमत्त्रिपुरसुन्दरी śrīmat-tripura-sundarī

She who is the glorious Tripurasundarī

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND karmadhāraya (over an inner saptamī- or ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa and a dvigu). (1) tri-pura 'the three cities, the three worlds' (dvigu). (2) tripura-sundarī 'the beauty of the three worlds', i.e. the most beautiful in them (saptamī-tatpuruṣa; a genitive reading gives the same sense). (3) śrīmatī 'glorious' qualifies her, reduced to śrīmat by puṃvadbhāva in the karmadhāraya: 'the glorious Tripurasundarī'.

trayāṇām purāṇām samāhāraḥ tripuram; tripure sundarī tripurasundarī; śrīmatī tripurasundarī śrīmattripurasundarī

SIGNIFICANCE Tripurasundarī is the presiding name of the Goddess in Śrīvidyā, the most beautiful in the three worlds and beyond the three states of waking, dream and sleep.

998 She who is the auspicious and divine Śivā; 999 She who is the union of Śiva and Śakti in one form; 1000 She who is the divine Mother Lalitā;
Thus the goddesses of speech sang the thousand names of Śrī Lalitā Devī.

WORD BY WORD

SANSKRIT	ENGLISH
998 श्रीशिवा śrī-śivā
श्री śrī	auspicious, glorious; Śrī
शिवा śivā	Śivā: the auspicious one, the consort of Śiva feminine of śiva 'auspicious'

SANSKRIT	ENGLISH
999 शिवशक्त्यैक्यरूपिणी śiva-śakty-aikya-rūpiṇī
शिव śiva	Śiva
शक्ति śakti	Śakti, power
ऐक्य aikya	oneness, union abstract noun from eka 'one'
रूपिणी rūpiṇī	having the form rūpa 'form' + -in, feminine

ललिता lalitā	Lalitā: 'She who plays', the lovely one √lal 'to play, sport', past participle, feminine
अम्बिका ambikā	mother ambā + -ka, feminine

WHERE THE NAMES MEET

The first half holds the last three names, 998–1000, ending on Her own name, Lalitāmbikā. The second half is not a name but the closing line: evaṃ śrīlalitādevyā nāmnāṃ sāhasrakaṃ jaguḥ, 'thus they sang the thousand names of the Goddess Śrī Lalitā'. jaguḥ is the perfect, 3rd plural, of √gai 'to sing'; traditionally the singers are the Vāgdevīs (Vaśinī and the others), who composed the hymn at Her command. Inside the line, devyā is devyāḥ (genitive) with its visarga dropped before the voiced n of nāmnām, and evam, nāmnām and sāhasrakam show m → ṃ before a consonant. text.json prints श्रीललिता देव्या with a space; it is one genitive compound, śrīlalitā-devyāḥ, 'of the Goddess Śrī Lalitā'.

THE NAMES

998 श्रीशिवा śrī-śivā

She who is the auspicious and divine Śivā

SANDHI none inside the name; the parts stand as written

COMPOUND karmadhāraya. śrī 'auspicious, glorious' stands in apposition to śivā 'the auspicious one, Śiva's consort': 'the auspicious Śivā'. The members meet without sound change.

ANALYSIS श्रीः शिवा श्रीशिवा

śrīḥ śivā śrīśivā

SIGNIFICANCE She is Śivā, the power of Śiva and auspiciousness itself; the next name declares Śiva and Śakti to be one.

---

999 शिवशक्त्यैक्यरूपिणी śiva-śakty-aikya-rūpiṇī

She who is the union of Śiva and Śakti in one form

SANDHI शक्त्यैक्य = शक्ति + ऐक्य (śakti + aikya) — yaṇ: i → y before an unlike vowel (Pāṇini 6.1.77 iko yaṇ aci)

COMPOUND possessive in -in over a karmadhāraya, a ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa and an itaretara-dvandva. (1) śiva-śakti 'Śiva and Śakti' (itaretara-dvandva). (2) śivaśakti-aikya 'the oneness of Śiva and Śakti' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa). (3) That oneness is identified with rūpa 'form', and the possessive -in (feminine -iṇī) makes the whole describe Her: 'She whose form is the union of Śiva and Śakti'.

ANALYSIS शिवः च शक्तिः च शिवशक्ती; शिवशक्त्योः ऐक्यम् शिवशक्त्यैक्यम्; शिवशक्त्यैक्यम् एव रूपम् शिवशक्त्यैक्यरूपम्; तत् अस्याः अस्ति इति शिवशक्त्यैक्यरूपिणी

SIGNIFICANCE The whole of Śrīvidyā rests on this non-duality: Śiva without Śakti cannot act, Śakti without Śiva has no ground; Kāmeśvara and Kāmeśvarī are one.

> CORRECTED शिवशक्तैक्यरूपिणी → शिवशक्त्यैक्यरूपिणी. शिवशक्तैक्य → शिवशक्त्यैक्य: śakti + aikya gives śakty-aikya (yaṇ sandhi); the y was missing.

1000 ललिताम्बिका lalitāmbikā

She who is the divine Mother Lalitā

SANDHI ललिताम्बिका = ललिता + अम्बिका (lalitā + ambikā) — savarṇa-dīrgha: ā + a → ā (Pāṇini 6.1.101 akaḥ savarṇe dīrghaḥ)

COMPOUND karmadhāraya. Lalitā and ambikā 'Mother' are co-referential: 'Lalitā, the Mother'. ambikā is the head; the two simply meet in savarṇa-dīrgha.

ANALYSIS ललिता च असौ अम्बिका च ललिताम्बिका

SIGNIFICANCE The thousand names end with Her own name: Lalitā, whose play is the universe, and Ambikā, the Mother to whom every name has been addressed.

A.1 The Sanskrit of the names

NAME	ORIGINAL → CORRECTED	KIND AND REASON
21	कदम्बमञ्जरीक्लृप्तकर्णपूरमनोहरा kadamba-mañjarī-klṛpta-karṇa-pūra-manoharā → कदम्बमञ्जरीक्लृप्तकर्णपूरमनोहरा kadamba-mañjarī-klṛpta-karṇapūra-manoharā	Orthographic. klṛpta → klṛpta: the participle of √klṛp is klṛpta (vocalic ḷ); the verse text already reads क्लृप्त, as does name 648.
40	माणिक्यमकुटाकारजानुद्वयविराजिता māṇikya-makuṭākāra-jānu-dvaya-virājitā → माणिक्यमुकुटाकारजानुद्वयविराजिता māṇikya-mukuṭākāra-jānu-dvaya-virājitā	Variant adopted. Name list read मकुट (makuṭa), the śloka text मुकुट (mukuṭa). Both are recognised spellings of the word for crown; the śloka text's reading is adopted so name and śloka agree.
44	नखदीधितिसंछन्ननमज्जनतमोगुणा nakha-dīdhiti-saṃchanna-namajjana-tamo-guṇā → नखदीधितिसञ्छन्ननमज्जनतमोगुणा nakha-dīdhiti-sañchanna-namaj-jana-tamo-guṇā	Orthographic. संछन्न → सञ्छन्न: anusvāra written as the homorganic nasal before छ, matching the verse text (both spellings are permitted; one form is used throughout).
46	शिञ्जानमणिमञ्जिरमण्डितश्रीपदाम्बुजा śiñjāna-maṇi-mañjira-maṇḍita-śrī-padāmbujā → शिञ्जानमणिमञ्जीरमण्डितश्रीपदाम्बुजा śiñjāna-maṇi-mañjīra-maṇḍita-śrī-padāmbujā	Typographical. मञ्जिर → मञ्जीर (mañjīra, anklet: long ī). The verse text printed सिञ्जान; the name list's शिञ्जान is kept and now used in the verse too (√śiji, Dhātupāṭha "śiji avyakte śabde"). Flagged for review.
55	सुमेरुमध्यशृङ्गस्था sumeru-madhya-śṛṅga-sthā	Encoding. Removed a zero-width joiner inside शृ (rendering workaround) that also corrupted the IAST.

NAME	ORIGINAL → CORRECTED	KIND AND REASON
	→ सुमेरुमध्यशृङ्गस्था sumeru-madhya-śṛṅga-sthā
137	निराकरा nir-ākarā → निराकारा nir-ākārā	Typographical. निराकरा → निराकारा (nir-ākārā, formless): ākāra "form" has a long ā; the verse text reads निराकारा.
210	महालक्ष्मी mahā-lakṣmī → महालक्ष्मीः mahā-lakṣmīḥ	Grammatical. महालक्ष्मी → महालक्ष्मीः: lakṣmī keeps the nominative -ḥ (not a ṅīp stem); the verse shows it as महालक्ष्मीर्मृडप्रिया.
235	चतुष्षष्ट्युपचाराढ्या catuṣ-ṣaṣṭy-upacārāḍhyā → चतुःषष्ट्युपचाराढ्या catuḥ-ṣaṣṭy-upacārāḍhyā	Orthographic. चतुष्षष्टि → चतुःषष्टि: visarga before ṣ may be kept or assimilated (Pāṇini 8.3.36 vā śari); the verse text keeps it, so the names follow.
236	चतुष्षष्टिकलामयी catuṣ-ṣaṣṭi-kalā-mayī → चतुःषष्टिकलामयी catuḥ-ṣaṣṭi-kalā-mayī	Orthographic. As 235.
237	महाचतुष्षष्टिकोटियोगिनीगणसेविता mahā-catuṣṣaṣṭi-koṭi-yoginī-gaṇa-sevitā → महाचतुःषष्टिकोटियोगिनीगणसेविता mahā-catuḥ-ṣaṣṭi-koṭi-yoginī-gaṇa-sevitā	Orthographic. As 235.
250	पञ्चब्रह्मस्वरुपिणी pañca-brahma-svarupiṇī → पञ्चब्रह्मस्वरूपिणी pañca-brahma-svarūpiṇī	Typographical. स्वरुपिणी → स्वरूपिणी (svarūpa: long ū).
256	विश्वरुपा viśva-rupā → विश्वरूपा viśva-rūpā	Typographical. विश्वरुपा → विश्वरूपा (rūpa: long ū).
286	वर्णाश्रमविधायिनि varṇāśrama-vidhāyini → वर्णाश्रमविधायिनी varṇāśrama-vidhāyinī	Typographical. विधायिनि → विधायिनी: the nominative feminine ends in long ī (-inī).

NAME	ORIGINAL → CORRECTED	KIND AND REASON
333	वारुणी मदविव्हला vāruṇī mada-vivhalā → वारुणीमदविह्वला vāruṇī-mada-vihvalā	Typographical. "वारुणी मदविव्हला" → वारुणीमदविह्वला: one compound name, not two words; विव्हला is a misspelling of vihvalā (ह्व).
362	चित् (चितिः) cit (citiḥ) → चितिः citiḥ	Typographical. "चित् (चितिः)" → चितिः: the verse reads चितिस्तत्पदलक्ष्यार्था, so the name is citiḥ; the bracketed alternative was an editorial note left in the name.
376	शृङ्गाररससम्पूर्णा śaṛṅgāra-rasa-sampūrṇā → शृङ्गाररससम्पूर्णा śṛṅgāra-rasa-sampūrṇā	Encoding. Removed a zero-width joiner inside शृ; the IAST had become "śaṛṅgāra".
390	निर्वाण सुखदायिनी nirvāṇa sukha-dāyinī → निर्वाणसुखदायिनी nirvāṇa-sukha-dāyinī	Typographical. "निर्वाण सुखदायिनी" → निर्वाणसुखदायिनी: one compound name; the space split it into what reads as two words.
391	नित्या-षोडशिकारूपा nityā-ṣoḍaśikā-rūpā → नित्याषोडशिकारूपा nityā-ṣoḍaśikā-rūpā	Typographical. A hyphen had been typed into the Devanagari (नित्या-षोडशिका); Devanagari compounds are written solid.
399	व्यक्ताव्यक्तस्वरूपीणि vyaktāvyakta-svarūpīṇi → व्यक्ताव्यक्तस्वरूपिणी vyaktāvyakta-svarūpiṇī	Typographical. स्वरूपीणि → स्वरूपिणी (-iṇī: short i, long final ī).
426	त्वं tvaṃ → त्वम् tvam	Orthographic. त्वं → त्वम्: a word standing alone ends in m, not anusvāra. (425 tat, 426 tvam, 427 ayī is Bhāskararāya's division of tattvamayī and is kept.)

NAME	ORIGINAL → CORRECTED	KIND AND REASON
454	लोलाक्षी lolākṣī → लोलाक्षीकामरूपिणी lolākṣī-kāma-rūpiṇī	Numbering. The name was cut to लोलाक्षी with "separate name कामरूपिणी" in its meaning. In the 1,000-name count (Bhāskararāya) 454 is the single name lolākṣīkāmarūpiṇī; there is no separate kāmarūpiṇī here (that is name 796). The verse reads लोलाक्षीकामरूपिणी.
471	सिद्धेश्वरि siddheśvari → सिद्धेश्वरी siddheśvarī	Typographical. सिद्धेश्वरि → सिद्धेश्वरी (nominative -ī; the short form is the vocative).
547	बर्बरालका barbarālakā → बन्धुरालका bandhurālakā	Variant adopted. Name list read बर्बरालका, verse text बन्धुरालका. The verse reading is adopted (bandhura, wavy; barbara, curly — the sense is the same); barbarālakā is recorded as a variant. Flagged for review.
550	वियदादि जगत्प्रसूः viyadādi jagat-prasūḥ → वियदादिजगत्प्रसूः viyad-ādi-jagat-prasūḥ	Typographical. "वियदादि जगत्प्रसूः" → one compound name, written solid.
574	प्रज्ञानघनरुपिणी prajñāna-ghana-rupiṇī → प्रज्ञानघनरूपिणी prajñāna-ghana-rūpiṇī	Typographical. रुपिणी → रूपिणी.

630	त्र्यक्षरि tryakṣari → त्र्यक्षरी try-akṣarī	Typographical. त्र्यक्षरि → त्र्यक्षरी (nominative -ī).
660	सुप्रतीष्ठा su-pratīṣṭhā	Typographical. सुप्रतीष्ठा → सुप्रतिष्ठा (prati-ṣṭhā: short i).

664	लोकयात्रविधायिनी loka-yātra-vidhāyinī → लोकयात्राविधायिनी loka-yātrā-vidhāyinī	Typographical. लोकयात्र → लोकयात्रा (yātrā: long final ā); the verse reads लोकयात्राविधायिनी.
689	राज्यलक्ष्मी rājya-lakṣmī → राज्यलक्ष्मीः rājya-lakṣmīḥ	Grammatical. As 210: nominative lakṣmīḥ; the verse reads राज्यलक्ष्मीः कोशनाथा.
713	गुरूमण्डलरूपिणी gurū-maṇḍala-rūpiṇī → गुरुमण्डलरूपिणी guru-maṇḍala-rūpiṇī	Typographical. गुरूमण्डल → गुरुमण्डल (guru: short u).
834	विशृङ्खला viśaṛṅkhalā → विशृङ्खला vi-śṛṅkhalā	Encoding. Removed a zero-width joiner inside शृ; the IAST had become "viśaṛṅkhalā".
879	सुधास्रुतिः / सृतिः sudhā-srutiḥ / sṛtiḥ → सुधासृतिः sudhā-sṛtiḥ	Typographical. "सुधास्रुतिः / सृतिः" → सुधासृतिः: the verse reads सुधासृतिः; the slash alternative was an editorial note left in the name (sudhāsrutiḥ is a recorded variant).
925	कौलिनी केवला kaulinī kevalā → कौलिनीकेवला kaulinī-kevalā	Typographical. "कौलिनी केवला" → कौलिनीकेवला: counted as one name (925) in the 1,000; written as two words it reads as two names and breaks the count.
999	शिवशक्तैक्यरूपिणी śiva-śaktaikya-rūpiṇī	Typographical. शिवशक्तैक्य → शिवशक्त्यैक्य: śakti + aikya gives śakty-aikya (yaṇ sandhi); the y was missing.

Ślokas 182–183	Śloka 182 listed names 994–1000; there was no śloka 183, and its second half (evaṃ śrīlalitādevyā nāmnāṃ sāhasrakaṃ jaguḥ) was printed only as a closing line.	Śloka 182: names 994–997. Śloka 183: names 998–1000 (श्रीशिवा शिवशक्त्यैक्यरूपिणी ललिताम्बिका) with its closing half.	Structural	The names fill 182½ ślokas; the half-śloka of names 998–1000 is completed by the closing half. Each half-line of an anuṣṭubh has 16 syllables, and śloka 182 already had its 32.
Śloka 1	oṃ śrī-mātā …	श्रीमाता … (śrīmātā …)	Structural	Oṃ is recited before the hymn but is not part of the first śloka; with it the first half has 17 syllables instead of the anuṣṭubh 16.
Śloka 20 (text)	सिञ्जानमणिमञ्जीर… (siñjāna)	शिञ्जानमणिमञ्जीर… (śiñjāna)	Orthographic	The śloka text and name 46 disagreed. śiñjāna (tinkling) is from √śiji "avyakte śabde"; the name list already read it. siñjāna, common in print, is recorded as a variant.
Half-line translations	64 half-lines whose English did not give one clause per name (e.g. śloka 17, second half: "Has no birth; Heroic", which belongs to no name in that line).	Every half-line translation is now generated from the meanings of exactly the names in that half-line, in order.	Structural	Meanings had drifted between half-lines and ślokas. Generating them removes the drift and keeps them in step with the names.

Word-by-word tables	713 names had a table built from a generic dictionary (e.g. ābāla-gopa glossed "beetle"; stūyamānātma as one unit); 287 names had none.	All 1,000 names have a table written from the grammar: one unit per row in its underlying form, each with its literal meaning. A.3 English meanings rewritten (45)

Meanings that were wrong, belonged to another name, or did not follow the grammar. Meanings that were only tidied (spelling, IAST for ITRANS) are not listed; 574 were tidied and 381 kept as they were.

NAME	PREVIOUS MEANING	NOW	REASON
16	She who wears a musk mark on Her forehead which shines like the spot in the moon	She whose musk tilaka looks like the dark mark on the moon of Her face	The previous text missed the grammar: mukha-candra is the moon that is Her face (rūpaka), and -ābha means 'resembling'; the mark is dark like the moon's spot, it does not 'shine like' it.
32	She whose neck is resplendent with a gem-studded necklace with a locket made of pearl	She who is adorned with a jewelled necklace, a cintāka and swaying pearls	'neck' is not in the name and lola 'swaying' was not translated; the name lists three ornaments joined by anvitā, rather than a necklace with a locket made of pearl.
50	She whose body is worthy of worship	She whose every limb is faultless	anavadya means 'faultless, blameless', not 'worthy of worship'; the previous meaning did not follow from the word.
56	She who is the Mistress of the most auspicious (or prosperous)	She who is the sovereign of the glorious city (Śrīpura)	The previous meaning broke off ('the Mistress of the most auspicious (or prosperous)') and omitted nagara 'city'.
83	She whose many powers are extolled by brahmA, viShNu, shiva and other gods	She whose glory is extolled by Brahmā, Upendra (Viṣṇu), Mahendra (Indra) and the other gods	Mahendra is Indra, not Śiva; the names of the gods are now given as the compound names them, in IAST.
86	She who from Her neck to Her waist is of the form of the	She whose form from below the throat down to the waist is the middle kūṭa (the kāmarāja-kūṭa) of the Pañcadaśī	The previous meaning broke off ('is of the form of the'); it is completed from the compound: the region is the middle kūṭa.

NAME	PREVIOUS MEANING	NOW	REASON
113	She who is unattainable through imagination or thought	She who is attained through contemplation (bhāvanā)	The previous meaning followed the alternative division bhāvanā + agamyā ('unattainable'); the division bhāvanā-gamyā, already used in the old word-split and parallel to bhakti-gamyā (119), is followed here, and the alternative is recorded as uncertain.
126	She who gives happiness	She who is the consort of Śaṅkara (Śiva)	The long ā (vṛddhi) shows that śāṅkarī is derived from Śaṅkara: 'of Śaṅkara, His consort'. 'She who gives happiness' is the etymology of śaṅkara and is kept in the significance.
133	She who stays unattached, bound to nothing	She who is without stain	'stays unattached, bound to nothing' did not follow the compound; añjana is a dark stain, so nirañjanā is 'stainless'.
203	She who pervades every living and non-living thing	She who is everything	-mayī means 'consisting of'; the name says She is made of everything, not that She 'pervades' it.
207	She who is shiva's shakti	She who is Manonmanī, the state in which the mind transcends itself	'Śiva's śakti' is one traditional identification but not what the name says; the name is the yogic state beyond the mind, and the identification is kept under significance.
209	She who has the immeasurable body	She who is the great Goddess	'immeasurable body' is a commentarial gloss on mahā, not the meaning of the name; it is kept under significance.
225	She who is the object of worship even by the greatest of yogis	She who is the sovereign of the great lords of yoga	The name says She is the sovereign (īśvarī) of the great masters of yoga; 'object of worship' is an inference, not the grammar.

NAME	PREVIOUS MEANING	NOW	REASON
226	She who is worshipped by the great Tantras such as kulArnava and jnAnArnava	She who is the great Tantra	'Worshipped by the great Tantras' is not in the name; it describes Her as the great Tantra, parallel to names 227–228. The examples are kept under significance.
241	She who has a beauty that does not wax or wane	She whose form is beautiful	'A beauty that does not wax or wane' is a commentarial gloss drawn from the moon names; the name itself says 'beautiful form'. The gloss is kept under significance.
271	She who protects and rules everything	She who is the Sovereign, Īśvarī	'Protects' is not in the name; īśvarī is 'sovereign', and in this sequence the consort-power of Īśvara, deity of the fourth act (concealment).
279	She who protects those who worship Her	She who is the Blessed One, possessed of all six excellences	'Protects those who worship Her' is not in the name; bhagavatī means 'possessing bhaga', the six excellences (name 277).
363	She who is the embodiment of truth (which is indicated by the word 'tat')	She who is the implied meaning (lakṣyārtha) of the word 'tat' (That)	'the embodiment of truth' missed the technical term: lakṣyārtha is the meaning reached by implication (lakṣaṇā), as opposed to the literal meaning (vācyārtha).
364	She who is of the nature of the pure intelligence. She who is the cause of knowledge	She whose nature is consciousness alone, one undivided essence	'She who is the cause of knowledge' is not in the name, and ekarasa 'one undivided essence' was not translated.
367	She who is of the nature of unmanifested consciousness or of unmanifested brahman	She whose form is inward-turned consciousness	pratyak means 'inward-turned', not 'unmanifested'; the name speaks of consciousness as the inner Self.
418	She who is the mAyA that has transformed	She who is the power that becomes the	The previous gloss ('the māyā that has transformed itself as the power itself as the power of creation	insentient world	of creation') gave commentary as translation; the name says 'the power of the insentient'. The māyā reading moves to significance.

448	She who is the ultimate truth	She who is endowed with well-being (svasti)	'the ultimate truth' is interpretation, not the meaning of the word; svasti-matī is 'possessed of svasti, well-being'. The interpretation is kept under significance.
454	She who has rolling eyes. separate name कामरूपिणी - She who is in the form of love in women	She who takes the form of love (kāma) in women, the restless-eyed	The old meaning cut the name in two ('rolling eyes' + a separate kāmarūpiṇī). In the 1,000-name count it is one name, and the meaning now follows the compound.
466	She who creates upheaval in the mind	She who stirs the stillness into creation	'creates upheaval in the mind' is not the traditional sense; kṣobha here is the creative stirring.
471	She who is the goddess worshipped by spiritual adepts	She who is the sovereign of the siddhas, the perfected adepts	'worshipped by spiritual adepts' changed the relation; the compound says She is the sovereign (īśvarī) of the siddhas.
481	She who is the deity of the organ of touch (skin)	She who abides in the skin	The name places Her in the skin as a bodily tissue (dhātu); 'deity of the organ of touch' turned it into the sense of touch.
552	She who guards Her devotees from all	She who wards off every kind of death	The previous text was truncated ('guards Her devotees from all') and omitted death (mṛtyu), the object of the name.
638	She who is the cause of the universe	She whose womb is golden, the source of the world (as Hiraṇyagarbha)	The old meaning ('the cause of the universe') stated only an interpretation; the name says Her womb is golden, recalling Hiraṇyagarbha.
651	She who knows the truth of the physical	She who is the knower	The old meaning ('knows the truth of the physical universe') added an universe		object the name does not have; vijñātrī is simply 'the knower'.

666	She who is the aggregate of all existing things	She whose form is the Bhūman, the boundless Plenitude	'the aggregate of all existing things' takes bhūman only as 'multitude'; the name's classic source is the Upaniṣadic Bhūman, the Infinite. The aggregate reading is kept in the significance.
674	She who is predominantly sAttvic	She who is Brāhmaṇī, belonging to Brahman	'predominantly sāttvic' is an interpretation, not what the word says; it is kept in the significance and the meaning now gives the word.
686	She who protects all the dominions	She to whom sovereignty is dear	vallabha means 'dear, beloved', not 'protecting'; the name says the realm is dear to Her (or She is its beloved).
687	She who has a compassion that captivates everyone	She whose compassion shines forth	rājat is 'shining, resplendent', not 'captivating'.
689	She who is the embodiment of the prosperity of the world	She who is the Fortune (Lakṣmī) of the kingdom	rājya is 'kingdom, sovereignty', not 'the world'.
712	She who is the symbol 'I' (Other versions show 711/712 as sAdhvI eventhough it is a repetition.)	She who is the syllable ī (kāmakalā)	The old meaning ('the symbol I') mixed in an editorial remark; the name is the vowel ī, and the note on other versions moved to variants.
723	She who is free from all limitations	She who is independent, subject to none	'free from all limitations' belongs rather to name 708; svatantrā is 'self-ruled, independent'.
728	She who is the consciousness in brahman	She who is the digit (kalā) of consciousness	'the consciousness in brahman' did not render kalā; the name is the kalā, digit or subtle power, of consciousness.

NAME	PREVIOUS MEANING	NOW	REASON
756	She who killed chaNDa, muNDa and other asuras	She who slew the demons Caṇḍa and Muṇḍa	'and other asuras' is not in the name, which names exactly two demons; ITRANS spelling replaced.
772	She who is difficult to control	She who cannot be assailed or overpowered	ādharṣa is 'assailing, overpowering'; 'difficult to control' is not its sense.
792	She who is immersed in a state of steady wisdom	She who is wholly intent on sāmarasya, the perfect equipoise of Śiva and Śakti	'Steady wisdom' does not translate sāmarasya, the technical term for the union in one flavor of Śiva and Śakti (or of the individual and the Supreme).
796	She who has a desirable form	She who assumes any form at will	'Desirable form' takes kāma as an adjective; the compound means 'form at will' (or 'the form of Kāma').
821	She who is the tail that is brahman; the support for all	She who is Brahmāṇī, the creative power of Brahmā	The older rendering 'the tail that is Brahman' gives only a commentarial interpretation as though it were the translation; the name itself is the feminine of Brahmā/Brahman.
830	She who is manifested in the form of the universe	She whose form is manifest	'In the form of the universe' is not in the name; the bahuvrīhi says only that Her form is manifest.
853	She who transcends the state of peace	She whose very nature is the kalā beyond peace (śāntyatītā)	The name does not say She transcends peace in general: it names the fifth kalā, śāntyatītā, as Her nature.
905	She who is seated in the baindava (spot between the eyebrows) chakra	She whose seat is the bindu, the central point of the Śrīcakra	The baindava place is the central point (bindu) of the Śrīcakra, not 'the spot between the eyebrows', which is the ājñā.

40	मुकुट (mukuṭa)	मकुट (makuṭa)	Both are recognised spellings of "crown". The source's śloka text read mukuṭa, its name list makuṭa.
46	शिञ्जान (śiñjāna)	सिञ्जान (siñjāna)	Both appear in print; the śloka text of the source read siñjāna, its name list śiñjāna. śiñjāna follows the root (√śiji). Flagged for review against a printed Saubhāgyabhāskara.
107	तडिल्लता (taḍillatā)	तटिल्लता (taṭillatā)	taḍit and taṭit both mean lightning. The source reads taḍit in both its śloka text and its name list; the independent copy reads taṭit in its nāmāvalī.
511	बन्धिन्यादि (bandhinyādi)	बन्दिन्यादि (bandinyādi)	The attendant śaktis of Rākiṇī. The source and the independent copy's stotra read bandhinī; that copy's nāmāvalī reads bandinī. Flagged for review.
547	बन्धुरालका (bandhurālakā)	बर्बरालका (barbarālakā)	The source's śloka text read bandhurālakā (as does the independent copy); its name list read barbarālakā, which many numbered lists print. bandhura "wavy", barbara "curly": the sense is the same. Flagged for review against a printed Saubhāgyabhāskara.
879	सुधासृतिः (sudhāsṛtiḥ)	सुधास्रुतिः (sudhāsrutiḥ)	"Stream of nectar"; the source carried both, separated by a slash. sṛti (flow) is the śloka text's reading.
235	चतुःषष्टि (catuḥṣaṣṭi)	चतुष्षष्टि (catuṣṣaṣṭi)	Also 236, 237. Both spellings are correct (Pāṇini 8.3.36); one is used throughout.
Dhyāna 2	mayūkhaiḥ aham	mayūkhair aham	Sandhi across the pāda boundary is optional; the source does not apply it, many editions do.

Dhyāna 4	japavidhau smared ambikām	japavidhau smarāmy ambikām	"Let one remember" / "I remember": both are current.

B.2 Interpretations marked uncertain (129)

Each is flagged at the name itself. Listed here for scholarly review.

- 1 श्रीमाता — Two compound analyses are current: karmadhāraya ('the auspicious Mother') and ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa ('Mother of Śrī/Lakṣmī'). The meaning follows the first; the second is given in the samāsa note.
- 4 चिदग्निकुण्डसम्भूता — Ablative ('arisen from') and locative ('born in') analyses of the last member are both current.
- 25 शुद्धविद्याङ्कुराकारद्विजपङ्क्तिद्वयोज्ज्वला — The identification of śuddhavidyā with the sixteen-syllabled mantra (and of the 32 teeth with it) is widely reported from the commentarial tradition; its exact source wording was not confirmed here.
- 26 कर्पूरवीटिकामोदसमाकर्षिदिगन्तरा — The relation of samākarṣin to digantara admits two readings: the quarters draw in (are pervaded by) the fragrance, as analysed here, or the fragrance draws the beings of every quarter to Her, the usual paraphrase, which takes digantara by metonymy for those who dwell there.
- 32 रत्नग्रैवेयचिन्ताकलोलमुक्ताफलान्विता — The exact form of the cintāka is not certain: it is taken as a gold collar-necklace or as the pendant (locket) of the jewelled necklace. On the second reading the analysis is 'the jewelled necklace with its pendant, and swaying pearls'.
- 37 अरुणारुणकौसुम्भवस्त्रभास्वत्कटीतटी — aruṇāruṇa may be read as 'red as the dawn' (upamāna, as analysed) or as the color word doubled for emphasis, 'deep red, red upon red'.
- 41 इन्द्रगोपपरिक्षिप्तस्मरतूणाभजङ्घिका — Translators take indragopa here either as the scarlet insects themselves, scattered over the quiver, or as red gems of their color set around it; the comparison of the calves to Kāma's quiver is not in doubt.
- 59 महापद्माटवीसंस्था — mahā may qualify the forest ('the great lotus forest') or the lotuses ('the forest of great lotuses'); both readings are current and the sense is the same.
- 62 कामाक्षी — Several analyses are current: kāma as 'lovely' (the meaning given), as 'love, desire' dwelling in Her eyes, and the traditional kā + mā + akṣī (Sarasvatī and Lakṣmī as Her eyes).

- 68 चक्रराजरथारूढसर्वायुधपरिष्कृता — The compound can also be read with ārūḍha qualifying āyudha, 'equipped with all the weapons placed on the Cakrarāja chariot', parallel to names 69–70 where ārūḍha qualifies the following member. The meaning given follows the usual reading.
- 86 कण्ठाधःकटिपर्यन्तमध्यकूटस्वरूपिणी — The first part, kaṇṭhādhaḥ-kaṭiparyanta, can be analysed adverbially or as a bahuvrīhi qualifying an understood 'part of the body'; the relation to the head is therefore stated in sense (locative) rather than as one fixed samāsa type.
- 90 कुलामृतैकरसिका — eka can be taken with kulāmṛta ('the kula-nectar alone') or with rasikā (eka-rasikā 'having one delight'); the sense is the same.
- 93 कुलान्तस्था — The division kula-anta-sthā 'abiding at the end (or the inner part) of kula' is also possible; the reading antar + sthā is followed here.
- 97 समयान्तस्था — As with name 93, the division samaya-anta-sthā ('abiding at the end of samaya') is also possible.
- 106 सुधासाराभिवर्षिणी — sudhā-sāra 'the essence of nectar' is also a possible division; 'downpour' suits abhivarṣiṇī 'raining down' and is followed here.
- 109 महासक्तिः — The division mahā + sakti 'great attachment' is also possible; maha 'festival' + āsakti 'attachment' is followed here because it explains the festive union of the traditional gloss.
- 113 भावनागम्या — Both divisions are traditional: bhāvanā-gamyā 'attainable through contemplation' and bhāvanā-agamyā 'unattainable through (mere) imagination'. The Devanagari is the same either way.
- 207 मनोन्मनी — The junction mano + unmanī is not regular sandhi and the analysis of this technical term varies (some read manas + unmanī as a karmadhāraya, 'the mind that has become unmanī'); the meaning follows the common yogic sense.
- 237 महाचतुःषष्टिकोटियोगिनीगणसेविता — Whether mahā- qualifies the number, the yoginīs or their hosts is not decided by the grammar; the sense hardly changes.
- 258 स्वपन्ती — By Pāṇini (7.1.80–81) the feminine participle of the class-2 root svap (svapiti) would be svapatī; svapantī follows the thematic inflection (svapati) found in epic usage. The text reads svapantī and the metre is the same either way.
- 264 सृष्टिकर्त्री — Pāṇini 2.2.15 restricts compounding a genitive with an agent noun in -tṛ; compounds like sṛṣṭi-kartṛ are nevertheless standard in usage and are usually explained as a general genitive (śeṣa-ṣaṣṭhī).
- 281 उन्मेषनिमिषोत्पन्नविपन्नभुवनावली — A bahuvrīhi ending in an ī-stem like āvalī would by Pāṇini 5.4.153 normally take the suffix -ka (…āvalīkā); the name keeps -āvalī, which is common in such poetic compounds.

- 303 हृद्या — Two derivations are current: 'dear to the heart' (4.4.95) and 'being in the heart'; the meaning gives both.
- 309 रञ्जनी — The root allows two senses, 'one who colors (reddens)' and 'one who delights'; the meaning gives the second, the significance the first.
- 313 रमा — The earlier rendering added Sarasvatī; that rests on a commentarial derivation I could not confirm, so it is left out.
- 316 रतिप्रिया — Bahuvrīhi ('to whom Rati is dear') and ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa ('dear to Rati') are both possible; rati may also be the common noun 'delight'.
- 320 रमणलम्पटा — ramaṇa can be the beloved (Śiva) or the act of love-play itself ('eager for love-play'); the meaning follows the first.
- 322 कामकलारूपा — kāmakalā is analysed both as 'the digit of Kāma' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa) and as 'Kāma and Kalā' (dvandva).
- 328 कलालापा — The fused ā allows kalā 'art' + ālāpa as well: 'She whose talk is of the arts'. The usual reading takes kala 'sweet'.
- 332 वामनयना — vāma means both 'beautiful' and 'left'; the meaning takes the first.
- 342 क्षेत्रेशी — The name may mean 'ruler of the field' (ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa) or 'wife of Kṣetreśa, Śiva' (puṃyoga feminine); both are current.
- 345 क्षेत्रपालसमर्चिता — The story of the infant Kṣetrapāla is traditionally told on this name; I could not confirm its Purāṇic source, so it is not attributed.
- 351 वामकेशी — Read as a bahuvrīhi ('beautiful-haired') or as the consort of Vāmakeśa, Śiva; the meaning takes the first.
- 367 प्रत्यक्चितीरूपा — The long ī of citī is not the regular form of citi; it is analysed here as a lengthening of citi (some take it as metrical).
- 368 पश्यन्ती — The bodily seat of each level of speech is placed differently in different texts (paśyantī at the svādhiṣṭhāna in some, at the navel in others); the sequence parā–paśyantī–madhyamā–vaikharī itself is undisputed.
- 370 मध्यमा — The bodily seat of each level of speech is placed differently in different texts (paśyantī at the svādhiṣṭhāna in some, at the navel in others); the sequence parā–paśyantī–madhyamā–vaikharī itself is undisputed.
- 374 कृतज्ञा — kṛtajñā means both 'knowing what is done' and 'grateful'; both are given.
- 375 कामपूजिता — The allusion to the Kāmagiri pīṭha (reading 'worshipped at Kāma[giri]') is traditional but not in the grammar of the name.
- 392 श्रीकण्ठार्धशरीरिणी — For an exact half Pāṇini's rule (2.2.2 ardhaṃ napuṃsakam) puts ardha first; here, as often in later usage, it follows in a genitive compound.

- 405 शिवदूती — The bahuvrīhi ('whose messenger is Śiva', as in the Devī Māhātmya story) and the ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa ('messenger of Śiva') are both current.
- 407 शिवमूर्तिः — 'whose form is Śiva' (bahuvrīhi) and 'auspicious form' (karmadhāraya) are both possible.
- 410 शिवपरा — 'devoted to Śiva' (bahuvrīhi) and 'beyond Śiva' (pañcamī-tatpuruṣa) are both current; the meaning follows the first.
- 411 शिष्टेष्टा — iṣṭā may be from √iṣ ('dear to the righteous') or √yaj ('worshipped by the righteous'); a bahuvrīhi 'to whom the righteous are dear' is also given by some.
- 415 मनोवाचामगोचरा — Whether manovācām agocarā is one compound with the genitive retained or two words read as a single name is not settled; the meaning is the same.
- 422 सन्ध्या — The word is derived from sam + √dhyai ('meditation') or from sandhi 'junction' (sam + √dhā); both are traditional.
- 424 तत्त्वासना — A second analysis takes āsana as an agent noun from √ās 'to sit': tattveṣu āste 'She who abides in the tattvas'. The bahuvrīhi ('whose seat is the tattvas') is the more natural reading of the compound.
- 427 अयी — The sense of ayī is not settled. The common interjection of address is ayi with a short i; the long ī here is read either as that particle lengthened or as a feminine form, and the commentarial derivation could not be confirmed here. The rendering follows the usual reading as a call of address.
- 438 कुरुकुल्ला — The derivation of the name is obscure, and the place Kurukullā holds in Śrīnagara is described differently in the sources; the old note that she resides in the kuruvinda ruby could not be confirmed.
- 448 स्वस्तिमती — The reading of svasti as 'imperishable being' is traditional; the exact source in the commentaries could not be confirmed here.
- 452 तेजोवती — The usual Pāṇinian derivation keeps the s of tejas before a possessive suffix (Pāṇini 1.4.19 tasau matvarthe), giving tejasvatī; tejovatī, with the s treated as a word-end, is the attested form of the name.
- 454 लोलाक्षीकामरूपिणी — lolākṣī can also be taken as an epithet of the Goddess herself ('the restless-eyed one, whose form is Kāma'); the rendering follows the reading of lolākṣī as 'women'.
- 456 हंसिनी — The possessive suffix allows several senses — 'having the haṃsas (great yogins) as Her own', 'having the haṃsa (swan or breath-mantra)' — and the tradition gives more than one.
- 460 नलिनी — nalinī also means a lotus pond, and is the name of one of the streams of the Gaṅgā; which sense is primary is a matter of interpretation.

- 464 कालकण्ठी — The name can also be read directly as a bahuvrīhi of Her own ('She whose throat is dark'), or with kālakaṇṭha in the sense 'whose throat is sweet-voiced'; the reading as Śiva's consort is the usual one.
- 466 क्षोभिणी — What She stirs is not named; the creative agitation of prakṛti is the usual reading, and agitation of the mind of Śiva or of devotees is also given.
- 469 वामदेवी — Two analyses are current: the consort of Vāmadeva, followed here, and 'the lovely goddess' (vāmā devī).
- 472 सिद्धविद्या — The reason the pañcadaśī is called siddha is given traditionally as above; the exact commentarial source could not be confirmed here.
- 476 आरक्तवर्णा — ā- can also intensify ('deep red'); the rendering 'rosy, reddish' is the usual one.
- 479 वदनैकसमन्विता — The order face-one is unusual. It is read here as a karmadhāraya with the numeral placed second (compare 487 and 496, where dvaya and traya are nouns, 'a pair', 'a triad'); the sense is not in doubt.
- 484 डाकिनीश्वरी — Karmadhāraya ('She who is Ḍākinī, the sovereign') and ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa ('sovereign of the ḍākinīs') are both possible; the parallel names 494, 503, 520 and 534 (...ambāsvarūpiṇī) favor the first.
- 491 कालरात्र्यादिशक्त्यौघवृता — śaktyaugha requires the member augha, a by-form of ogha 'flood, host' (śakti + ogha would give śaktyogha); the sense is not affected.
- 526 हरिद्रान्नैकरसिका — eka-rasikā may also be read as 'having a single taste, absorbed in one relish'; the sense is the same.
- 545 पुलोमजार्चिता — That Śacī's worship secures Indra's rule is a traditional reading; no single source for it was confirmed here.
- 547 बन्धुरालका — The reading itself: this edition follows the verse text (bandhurālakā) where the old name list read barbarālakā; which of the two Bhāskararāya's text adopts could not be confirmed here. The sense is the same either way.
- 556 कात्यायनी — Purāṇic accounts differ on whether She was born in Kātyāyana's hermitage or first worshipped by him; the derivation from Kata is standard grammar.
- 572 पराशक्तिः — Phrase or compound: the retained feminine parā and the verse's spacing point to two words in agreement (no samāsa); in later usage Parāśakti is also treated as a fixed compound title.
- 573 परानिष्ठा — Phrase or compound, as with name 572: the feminine parā is kept, so the name is read as two words in agreement.
- 587 श्रीषोडशाक्षरीविद्या — The composition of the Ṣoḍaśī (which syllable completes the Pañcadaśī, and where it is placed) differs between lineages; the significance gives the commonest account.

- 589 कामकोटिका — koṭi has several senses (portion, extremity, ten million), and the name is also read as 'She who dwells at Kāmakoṭi', the pīṭha at Kāñcī. The meaning follows the reading of Kāma as a part of Her.
- 590 कटाक्षकिङ्करीभूतकमलाकोटिसेविता — kaṭākṣa may be taken in the genitive ('handmaids of Her glance') or the instrumental ('made handmaids by Her glance'); the image is the same.
- 603 गुरुमूर्तिः — Two compound analyses: bahuvrīhi ('whose form is the guru') and karmadhāraya ('the weighty, awesome form'). The meaning follows the first.
- 610 प्रतिपन्मुख्यराकान्ततिथिमण्डलपूजिता — tithimaṇḍala may be taken as the agent (instrumental, 'by the circle of days', i.e. their deities) or as the time (locative, 'on each of the days'); both readings are current.
- 612 कलानाथा — Read as a ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa ('mistress of the kalās'); the sense 'She who is the moon' (kalānātha) is also current.
- 622 क्लीङ्कारी — Two analyses: 'maker of klīṃ' (upapada-tatpuruṣa) and 'She who is the syllable klīṃ' (klīṅkāra + feminine -ī); traditionally She is both its source and its form.
- 624 गुह्या — Derived from √guh 'to hide' (gerundive) or from guhā 'cave' ('dwelling in the cave of the heart'); both are traditional.
- 626 त्रिपुरा — Two derivations: tri + pura 'three cities' (bahuvrīhi) and tri + purā 'before the three' (the traditional reading). The meaning gives both.
- 630 त्र्यक्षरी — Which three syllables are meant is explained in more than one way (Oṃ, the Bālā mantra, the three kūṭas).
- 638 स्वर्णगर्भा — The old meaning gave an interpretation ('the cause of the universe'); the literal bahuvrīhi and its echo of Hiraṇyagarbha are given here. Bhāskararāya's own gloss of this name was not confirmed.
- 639 अवरदा — The derivation from √do 'to cut' is the traditional one; -dā could also be read from √dā 'to give' ('She who gives even to the lowly'). The name is avaradā, not varadā: the avagraha in the verse marks the elided a.
- 655 योग्या — yogya means both 'fit, worthy' and 'to be attained by yoga'; the meaning follows the second, the significance mentions the first.
- 666 भूमरूपा — bhūman can mean 'the Infinite' (Chāndogya 7.23–24) or 'manyness, the aggregate'; both are current for this name.
- 674 ब्राह्मणी — Several readings are current: 'of the nature of Brahman', 'predominantly sāttvic' (the brāhmaṇa as sattva), and the Śakti of Brahmā; the source of the sāttvic gloss could not be confirmed.

- 677 बलिप्रिया — bali may also be read from balin 'the strong': 'She who loves the strong' (those strong in devotion and self-mastery).
- 683 शोभनासुलभागतिः — Not a compound: the adjectives keep their feminine -ā, which they would lose inside a karmadhāraya (śobhana-sulabha-gati); the name is three nominatives in apposition, counted as one name. gati can be 'goal' or 'path'.
- 684 राजराजेश्वरी — rājarāja may be 'kings of kings' (emperors) or Kubera, the king of the yakṣas; both readings are current.
- 686 राज्यवल्लभा — vallabha also means 'lord, overseer' in some lexicons, which would support 'protector of kingdoms'; the bahuvrīhi 'to whom sovereignty is dear' and the tatpuruṣa 'beloved of the realm' are the plain readings.
- 695 दीक्षिता — The participle is passive ('consecrated'), but the name is commonly explained as 'She who initiates', taking dīkṣitā as 'possessed of dīkṣā'; both are current.
- 706 गुहाम्बा — The fused ā allows guha 'Skanda' or guhā 'cave'; both readings are traditional.
- 711 साधु — Bhāskararāya's own gloss of sādhu could not be checked against a printed Saubhāgyabhāskara; 'equanimity' (the earlier meaning) may reflect it.
- 712 ई — The kāmakalā reading is the Śrīvidyā one; single-syllable lexicons also give ī as a name of Lakṣmī. Bhāskararāya's exact gloss could not be checked against a printed text.
- 714 कुलोत्तीर्णा — kula has several traditional senses here — the senses, the Kaula path, the family of the knower–knowing–known; the reading as 'the senses' follows the earlier meaning.
- 715 भगाराध्या — bhaga can be taken as the sun's disc or as the trikoṇa of Śrīcakra; the meaning follows the first.
- 725 दक्षिणामूर्तिरूपिणी — The sense of dakṣiṇā in the proper name is explained variously ('facing south', 'gracious', 'skilled'); 'facing south' is the usual one.
- 728 चित्कला — ṣaṣṭhī ('a digit of consciousness') and karmadhāraya ('consciousness as subtle power') readings are both possible.
- 733 नन्दिविद्या — Which form of the mantra is meant by Nandividyā, and its place among the worshippers' vidyās, could not be confirmed against a printed commentary.
- 754 अपर्णा — The name has two analyses: apa + ṛṇa 'free of debt' (the meaning given) and a + parṇa 'without (even) a leaf', the classical name of Pārvatī.
- 785 मार्ताण्डभैरवाराध्या — The place of Mārtāṇḍa Bhairava in Her city follows the usual account; the exact enclosure could not be confirmed against a printed text.

- 786 मन्त्रिणीन्यस्तराज्यधूः — Pāṇini 5.4.74 adds the compound-final -a to a compound ending in dhur (...-dhura); the name keeps the bare dhūḥ, a usage also found in epic and Purāṇic Sanskrit. Noted, not a text concern: the verse and the metre support dhūḥ.
- 790 परापरा — Read as 'both supreme and non-supreme' (karmadhāraya) or as 'the intermediate, Parāparā' (the middle of the Tantric triad).
- 793 कपर्दिनी — The feminine of kapardin can mean 'wife of Kapardin' (the usual reading) or 'She who herself wears the kaparda braid'.
- 794 कलामाला — Ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa ('the garland of the arts') and bahuvrīhi ('whose garland is the arts') readings are both current.
- 796 कामरूपिणी — Three readings are current: 'taking form at will', 'having the form of Kāma/Kāmeśvara', and 'Goddess of Kāmarūpa'.
- 804 पुष्करा — puṣkara has many senses (lotus, water, sky, the tīrtha Puṣkara); the gloss 'nourishing' rests on a traditional etymology from √puṣ rather than on regular grammar.
- 809 परात्परा — Whether parātparā is an aluk compound or a two-word phrase written together is a matter of analysis; the meaning is the same.
- 815 अनित्यतृप्ता — The śloka's continuous text mūrtāmūrtānitya... could also be divided amūrtā + nityatṛptā 'ever satisfied'; the edited text marks the a of anitya with an avagraha, following the traditional division.
- 821 ब्रह्माणी — The traditional interpretation through 'brahma pucchaṃ pratiṣṭhā' rests on a derivation that could not be confirmed; the plain grammatical sense is given as the meaning.
- 838 मुकुन्दा — The derivation muku 'liberation' + dā 'giving' is a traditional etymology (nirukti), not regular grammar.
- 839 मुक्तिनिलया — The feminine ending admits two analyses: an adjectival ṣaṣṭhī-tatpuruṣa ('the abode of liberation') and a bahuvrīhi ('whose abode is liberation').
- 847 तलोदरी — Two readings are current: 'whose waist is flat (slender)' and 'in whose belly are the talas, the lower worlds'.
- 855 गगनान्तस्था — anta can be read as 'limit' (beyond the sky) or 'interior' (within space); both readings are current.
- 860 अकान्ता — aka 'pain, sin' is a rare word and the analysis aka + antā is the traditional one; the śloka's sandhi kāṣṭhā'kāntā fixes the initial a, so a reading kāntā 'beloved' is not available here.
- 875 त्रिपुरमालिनी — As a proper name its internal analysis is not fixed; the vigraha given is grammatical, not a traditional gloss.

- 895 योनिनिलया — Read as 'the abode of all sources' or as 'She who dwells in the yoni (the central triangle)'.
- 903 कल्या — kalya has several senses (able, healthy, auspicious; also 'dawn'), and traditional glosses differ; the rendering combines the main ones.
- 912 सव्यापसव्यमार्गस्था — savya is mostly 'left' but is occasionally used for 'right' in ritual contexts; the name covers both paths either way.
- 916 धीरा — The sense 'giver of wisdom' depends on the traditional analysis dhī + √rā; the ordinary meanings are 'wise' and 'steadfast'.
- 923 दक्षिणादक्षिणाराध्या — Besides right-hand / left-hand ways, the pair is also read as the skillful and the unskillful (learned and unlearned); both readings rest on the same dvandva.
- 925 कौलिनीकेवला — The internal relation (apposition, or a genitive 'the Absolute for the Kaulas') is not settled; both are traditional and the meaning combines them.
- 940 परामोदा — The usual division is para + āmodā; parā + modā is also possible, with the same sense.
- 945 वामकेश्वरी — The sense of vāmaka (the left-hand way, or 'beauty') is variously explained.
- 946 पञ्चयज्ञप्रिया — Which five sacrifices are meant (śrauta rites, the five mahāyajñas, or Āgamic five) differs between explanations.
- 971 सुवासिन्यर्चनप्रीता — suvāsinī-arcana may mean worship OF suvāsinīs (the Śrīvidyā rite of suvāsinī-pūjā) or worship BY them; the first is followed.
- 972 आशोभना — The verse string can be cut prītā + āśobhanā or prītā + śobhanā with identical sound; Bhāskararāya's division (āśobhanā) is followed.
- 976 त्रिपुराम्बिका — Genitive ('Mother of the three cities') and appositional ('Tripurā the Mother') analyses are both current.
- 978 त्रिपुराश्रीवशङ्करी — Tripurāśrī as the fifth-enclosure deity and as 'the fortune of the three worlds' are both traditional readings.
- 983 त्रिखण्डेशी — Trikhaṇḍā as the tenth mudrā, or the three kūṭas of the Pañcadaśī mantra: both are traditional.
- 985 अम्बा — triguṇāmbā can also be read as one word, 'the Mother of the three guṇas'; the 1,000-name count follows Bhāskararāya's two names.
- 994 आबालगोपविदिता — The outer link of the avyayībhāva to the participle viditā is loose; it may also be read as an instrumental, 'known by (all) down to children and cowherds'.

- 996 श्रीचक्रराजनिलया — The compound can also be read śrī + cakrarāja, 'the glorious king of cakras'; both name the Śrīcakra.

Appendix C — Batch consistency reports

The analysis was done in batches of ten ślokas. After each, a check proved that the batch lists exactly the names of its ślokas in order, that every IAST string is the exact transliteration of its Devanagari, and that every name has its sandhi, samāsa, word table, meaning and significance.

BATCH	ŚLOKAS	NAMES	REPORT
1	1–10	1–26	Checked all 26 names of ślokas 1–10 against text.json: sandhi at every member junction (and at visible prefix junctions such as ud + jvalā), a layered samāsa analysis with vigraha-vākyas written word by word in pausa form, and the meanings against that analysis. One word boundary was wrong in the old reading form and split (15: vibhrājad-alika, not vibhrāja-dalika) and one member was misidentified (26: āmoda 'fragrance', not moda); name 16's meaning missed the face-as-moon compound and was replaced. No problem was found in the Sanskrit text; no external sandhi joins names in these ślokas.
2	11–20	27–48	Checked all 22 names of ślokas 11–20 against text.json: sandhi at every member junction (including prefix junctions sam + lāpa, ud + neya, sam + channa), a layered samāsa analysis with pausa-form vigraha-vākyas, and the meanings against that analysis. Two members were misidentified in the old split (35: ādhāratā 'being the support', not dhāratā 'stream'; 41: indragopa is one word, a scarlet insect, not Indra + 'beetle') and one member boundary was wrong (32: phala belongs to muktāphala 'pearl'); name 32's meaning was replaced. No error was found in the Sanskrit; name 40's recent correction to mukuṭa is sound, but the earlier makuṭa is a recognized by-form and is recorded as a variant, not a typo. No external sandhi joins names in these ślokas.
3	21–30	49–77	Checked all 29 names of ślokas 21–30 against text.json: sandhi at every member junction (and the prefix junctions sam + sthā, adhi + sthita, puras + kṛtā), a layered samāsa analysis with pausa-form vigraha-vākyas, and the meanings against that analysis. Name 50's meaning was wrong (anavadya is 'faultless', not 'worthy of worship') and 56's was truncated; both were replaced. Several old splits misplaced boundaries (64: stūyamāna | ātma-vaibhava; 71: the goddess-name Jvālāmālinikā cut in two; 67: koṭibhiḥ + āvṛtā is two words, so the name is a phrase, not one compound). No error was found in the Sanskrit; the only external sandhi is sarvāruṇā + anavadyāṅgī in śloka 21.

4	31–40	78–111	Checked all 34 names of ślokas 31–40 against text.json (the end of the Bhaṇḍāsura war, the three kūṭas of the subtle form, and the kula/kuṇḍalinī section): sandhi at every member and visible prefix junction, layered samāsa analysis with pausa vigrahas, and each meaning against that analysis. Several members were misidentified in the old splits: 82 śūnyakā is Bhaṇḍa's city Śūnyaka, not 'void'; 106 is sudhā + āsāra 'downpour', not sāra 'essence'; 109 has dental s (āsakti 'attachment'), not śakti 'power'; 101 cut through maṇipūra. Name 83's meaning (Mahendra glossed as Śiva) was replaced and 86's truncated meaning completed. No problem was found in the Sanskrit; no external sandhi joins names in these ślokas.
5	41–50	112–192	Checked all 81 names of ślokas 41–50 against text.json: Bhavānī and the names of devotion, then the long series of nirguṇa names built on nis 'without' (132–187), whose every prefix form (nir, niṣ, niś, nis, niḥ, nī) is explained as sandhi, followed by the 'without X / destroyer of X' pairs. Main findings: 156 is nī-rāgā (nis + rāga 'passion'), not nīr + āgā 'sin'; 126 śāṅkarī (with vṛddhi) is 'consort of Śaṅkara', not 'giver of happiness'; 113's meaning ('unattainable') contradicted its split ('attainable') — both divisions are traditional, the gamyā reading is followed and the other recorded; 133 nirañjanā is 'stainless'. Two external sandhis join names (116–117, 154–155). No problem was found in the Sanskrit.
6	51–60	193–248	Checked all 56 names of ślokas 51–60 (names 193–248) against text.json: sandhi at every member junction, a layered samāsa analysis with vigraha-vākyas in pausa form, and the meanings against that analysis. One reading form was wrongly cut (229: mahāsanā is mahā + āsanā, not mahā-sanā), and several meanings carried commentary in place of the grammar (207, 209, 225, 226, 241) or misread a suffix (203 -mayī 'consisting of', not 'pervading'); these were replaced. External sandhi joins names only by visarga → r in ślokas 53–55. No problem was found in the Sanskrit text.
7	61–70	249–304	Checked all 56 names of ślokas 61–70 (names 249–304) against text.json: sandhi at every member junction (including prefix junctions such as ut + meṣa and sam + doha), layered samāsa analyses with vigraha-vākyas in pausa form, and the meanings against that analysis. Two meanings were replaced (271 īśvarī, 279 bhagavatī: the old wording was not in the name) and one list of the five cosmic acts was corrected (274). External sandhi joins names in ślokas 64 and 69 (including Bhāskararāya's division of tirodhānakarīśvarī into 270 + 271). No problem was found in the Sanskrit text; svapantī (258) is noted as non-Pāṇinian but attested.

8	71–80	305–365	Checked all 61 names of ślokas 71–80 against text.json: sandhi at every member and visible prefix junction, layered samāsa analyses with pausa-form vigraha-vākyas, and the meanings against that analysis. Most changes are tidying (ITRANS, capitalization, typos) or removing words not in the name; two meanings were replaced (363 tatpadalakṣyārthā, which names the Vedāntic 'implied meaning' of tat, and 364 cidekarasarūpiṇī, whose 'cause of knowledge' is not in the name). Old splits often left fused members as one row (rājārcitā, trayāgni, saṃhṛtāśeṣa, lavībhūta) or gave stems in their sandhi form (vāg, cid). No problem was found in the Sanskrit text; the only external sandhi is citiḥ + tat- in śloka 80.
9	81–90	366–423	Checked all 58 names of ślokas 81–90 against text.json: sandhi at every member and visible prefix junction (including the visarga and anusvāra forms of rahas-, sadyas-, tamas-, śivam-), layered samāsa analyses with pausa-form vigraha-vākyas, and the meanings against that analysis. Most changes are ITRANS and wording tidying; two meanings were replaced (367 pratyakcitīrūpā, where pratyak is 'inward', not 'unmanifested'; 418 jaḍaśaktiḥ, where commentary had been given as translation). One word boundary was wrong in the old split (415: manovācām agocarā, not vācāma gocarā). The Sanskrit wording is sound; one orthographic concern is recorded: the half-line of śloka 87 has a stray hyphen and lacks the avagraha of name 402.
10	91–100	424–490	Checked all 67 names of ślokas 91–100 against text.json, with sandhi at every member junction (and at visible prefix junctions such as ud + jvalā, sam + vṛtā, anu + itā), a layered samāsa analysis with pausa-form vigrahas, and the meanings against that analysis. Bhāskararāya's division tat / tvam / ayī (425–427) is explained (the single word tattvamayī is name 907), and 454 lolākṣīkāmarūpiṇī is analysed as one name. Meanings that were interpretation or belonged to another sense were replaced (448 svastimatī, 454, 466 kṣobhiṇī, 471 siddheśvarī, 481 tvaksthā); the rest were tidied

			(ITRANS, typos, words not in the name). The yoginī section begins at 475. No problem was found in the Sanskrit text.
11	101–110	491–541	Checked all 51 names of ślokas 101–110 against text.json — the yoginī section from Rākiṇī's attendants to Yākinī (491–534), then svāhā … anuttamā — with sandhi at every member junction (including visible prefix junctions such as ni + sthā → niṣṭhā, sam + yutā, anu + itā), layered samāsa analyses with pausa-form vigrahas, and the meanings against that analysis. Most meanings were tidied (ITRANS, words not in the name, compounds whose head was missed, such as 501, 505, 512, 519); none needed replacing. Name 498 is shown to be a two-word phrase (ḍāmaryādibhir āvṛtā), and 537 amatiḥ is explained as Bhāskararāya's reading of svadhā'matiḥ. No problem was found in the Sanskrit text.
12	111–120	542–600	Checked all 59 names of ślokas 111–120 against text.json: sandhi at every member junction and visible prefix junction, a layered samāsa with pausa-form vigrahas, and each meaning against that analysis. Name 552's old meaning was truncated (death was missing) and was replaced; 36 others were tidied (ITRANS to IAST, words not in the name removed, e.g. 'and sorrows' in 551, 'three worlds' in 582), and 575's inner reading was moved to the significance. Names 572–573 are read as adjective-noun phrases (parā śaktiḥ, parā niṣṭhā), not compounds, since the feminine parā is kept; 590's kiṅkarībhūta is a cvi formation. No problem was found in the Sanskrit; the reading of 547 (bandhurālakā, with barbarālakā as a variant) is flagged for review, and external sandhi joins names in ślokas 113, 115, 117 and 119.
13	121–130	601–661	Checked all 61 names of ślokas 121–130 against text.json: sandhi at every member junction and visible prefix junction (including ud + jval, pari + cheda, sam + vedya, the augment m in yugandharā), a layered samāsa with pausa-form vigrahas, and each meaning against that analysis. Two meanings were replaced (638 stated only an interpretation; 651 added an object the name lacks) and 40 were tidied (ITRANS to IAST, typos, words not in the name such as 'daily' in 610 and 'maintained' in 648). Several old splits misdivided members (629 tridaśa + īśvarī, not tri + daśeśvarī; 657 yuga + the augment m) or gave sandhi forms as stems (jagad, vāg, sad/asad, pratipan). No problem was found in the Sanskrit; external sandhi joins names in ślokas 121, 124, 125 and 127, where the avagrahas mark avaradā (639) and apariccheḍyā (642).

BATCH	ŚLOKAS	NAMES	REPORT
14	131–140	662–727	Checked all 66 names of ślokas 131–140 against text.json: sandhi at every member and prefix junction, layered samāsa analyses with pausa-form vigrahas, and each meaning against its analysis. Bhāskararāya's division of sādhvī into 711 sādhu + 712 ī (to avoid repeating name 128) and his single name 683 śobhanā sulabhā gatiḥ (avoiding a repeat of 462) are explained; meanings that misread a word were replaced (666 bhūman, 674, 686 vallabha, 687 rājat, 689 rājya, 712, and 723, which carried 708's meaning). No problem was found in the Sanskrit text.
15	141–150	728–790	Checked all 63 names of ślokas 141–150 against text.json: sandhi at every member and prefix junction (including the external fusion citkalā + ānandakalikā), layered samāsa analyses with pausa-form vigrahas, and each meaning against its analysis. Three word boundaries were wrong in the old splits and are corrected (753 mahā + aśanā, not śanā; 782 para + ākāśa, not parā + kāśā; 788 jayat + senā, not jaya + tsenā). Meanings were replaced for 728 (kalā not rendered), 756 ('and other asuras' is not in the name) and 772 (ādharṣa is 'assailing', not 'control'). No problem was found in the Sanskrit text.
16	151–160	791–861	Checked all 71 names of ślokas 151–160 against text.json, with sandhi at every member junction, a layered samāsa analysis and the meanings tested against it. Bhāskararāya's division of ब्रह्मजननी into 822 brahma and 823 jananī is kept and explained; 806 and 807 are two-word phrases (param jyotiḥ, param dhāma), not compounds. Meanings were replaced where a commentarial gloss or a wrong sense stood in for the name (792 sāmarasya, 796 kāmarūpiṇī, 821 brahmāṇī, 830 prakaṭākṛtiḥ, 853 śāntyatītā kalā); several old splits glossed para as 'supreme' where it means 'enemy' (812) or gave sandhi forms as stems. No problem was found in the Sanskrit text.
17	161–170	862–922	Checked all 61 names of ślokas 161–170 against text.json, with sandhi at every member junction, a layered samāsa analysis and the meanings tested against it. Two old reading forms cut through the words and were re-hyphenated: 878 svātmārāmā (sva + ātma + ārāmā, not svātmā + rāmā) and 908 tattvam-artha-svarūpiṇī (tat + tvam + artha, not tattva + 'martha'). Name 905's meaning was replaced (the baindava place is the bindu of the Śrīcakra, not the spot between the eyebrows); several old glosses were corrected

18	171–180	923–989	Checked all 67 names of ślokas 171–180 against text.json: sandhi at every member and prefix junction, a layered samāsa analysis with vigraha-vākyas in pausa form, and every meaning against that analysis. Bhāskararāya's divisions are explained where they fall (955 dharā / 956 dharasutā with no sound change; 972 āśobhanā and 985 ambā across savarṇa-dīrgha), and two misread members were corrected in the word tables: 923 is dakṣiṇa + a-dakṣiṇa (left-hand worshipers had been dropped) and 978 Tripurāśrī is one deity, not 'three cities' + 'sacred'. No meaning had to be replaced outright; most edits put ITRANS into IAST or removed words not in the name. No problem was found in the Sanskrit text.
19	181–183	990–1000	Checked the last 11 names (990–1000, ślokas 181–183) against text.json, with sandhi at every member and prefix junction, layered vigraha-vākyas in pausa form, and every meaning against the analysis; the closing half-line of śloka 183 is explained in its verse note. Two members were misidentified in the old tables (994 gopa 'beetle' for 'cowherd'; 990 jñātā as 'knower' rather than 'known'), and 992's meaning was sharpened to render avyāja 'without any pretext' and mūrti 'embodiment'. No problem was found in the Sanskrit of the names; the only observation is spacing in the closing line (श्रीललिता देव्या reads as one compound), noted in the verse note.
